KILBOURN & BRAMBLE, - FAIRLEE

THE following editorial in the Cecil Whig of Saturday week is so timely and suggestive that we urge every man, woman and child in the county who can read to read it:

WHO IS A TAX-PAYER?

The word "tax-payer" is so constantly employed in all discussions of public affairs that one does wisely to get well fixed in his mind just who IS a tax-payer. Well, who is? YOU ARE, MY FRIEND. No matter who you are, what you are, or where you are—you are a tax-payer and have got to be one, whether you want to be or not.

Let us try to illustrate this statement, in order to give it ample proof and to make it impressive in every mind. You rent the house you live in. Your landlord pays the taxes. Primarily he does, of course; but in the last analysis YOU pay them. People do not buy houses for fun. They buy them for investment. They expect a proper net income from the investment and are going to get it—or rid themselves of the property. In figuring on that net income they, of course, charge against the rental taxes, as well as other expenses. If taxes are raised, rentals must be raised proportionately to make good the income from the investment. When the rental is thus raised to meet the increased taxation, the renter is paying a higher tax charge, of course.

Precisely the same line of reasoning must be pursued into every phase of life. A merchant must reckon his "expense charges" into all his figuring on his business, if he is going to make certain of his profit. One of those expense charges is the taxes on his stock and real estate. If those taxes are increased, his expense charges are increased and his selling charges must be increased accordingly, or he goes to the wall. When, for this reason, his selling charges are increased, you, the purchaser, whoever you are, are certainly paying more taxes—indirectly to be sure, but you are paying them all the same. And so the thing works into every nook and corner of our living. Of course, the burden of taxation falls more directly and heavily on some than on others. But to some extent, IT FALLS ON ALL. It is a great mistake to think we can divide our social organism up into unrelated sections. In most matters we are one and indivisible. If one member suffereth, all suffer. When your tooth aches, you "hurt all over." There is something of the same unity in the social structure. No one part suffers alone.

It is, therefore, a lamentable fallacy for many folks to comfort themselves with the reflection that they can afford to be indifferent to, unconcerned about, matters of taxation, because they are not "tax-payers." THEY ARE, and the subject is one which vitally, concerns their personal affairs, their household economies, their wage increment, their whole material welfare. There is no escape from being concerned in this matter—except by translation to another world.

DIED.

SCHOFIELD.—Myrtle Crowding Schofield, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schofield, of Still Pond, June 24th.

Suffer the little ones to come unto Me, and forbid them not;
Not now, but in the coming years;
It may be in the better land
We'll read the meaning of these tears,
And there sometime we'll understand.

On account of the inclemency of the weather on Friday night the play was repeated on Monday evening, which was a delight to all, especially to those who could not attend on Friday or Saturday evening. URIE'S TICKET.

The ticket which the Organization Democrats have put up is conceded from one end of the county to the other to be John D. Urie's ticket. Mr. Urie is "the power behind the throne" in Organization Democratic politics. He is dictating every move, as well as selecting every candidate, and it is generally believed that if the Organization ticket is nominated Urie will have as much control of the county offices as any one. You know what that means don't you, Mr. Tax-payer?

AN UNEXPECTED COMPLIMENT FROM AN UNEXPECTED SOURCE.

"The TRANSCRIPT, of Chestertown, Kent county, whose editors are good citizens, one of them at least being a church man, and the other also, so far as we know," . . . taken from the American Issue of June 21, 1913, was given publicity by the Kent News last Saturday. This is an unexpected compliment from an unexpected source, especially as we have been held up to the people of the county and State as a LIAR and a MALICIOUS FALSIFIER week after week by the editorial writer in the Kent News. BE FAIR, boys.

A COSTLY LESSON.

What a fortunate thing it is for the tax-payers of this county that the Anti-Organization forces have control of the County Commissioners office. The Organization Democrats are trying to get more of the tax-payers' money to waste on the roads, and Urie is trying to get more of the tax-payers' money to waste on the schools, BUT THE ANTIS SIMPLY WONT LET THE TAX-PAYERS BE BLED. Mr. Tax-payer, be you Anti or Organization Democrat, if you don't vote the Anti-Organization ticket from top to bottom in the coming primaries after the way they have tried to protect your financial interests, you will certsinly be an unappreciative citizen. The Antis have reduced your tax rate from $1.85 where the other crowd put it by their extravagance, to 94 cents, and they are standing firm against those who are playing politics with the roads and with the public schools, and if after the experience of the past you cast your vote with the Organization Democrats in the coming primaries, you strike a blow at your own financial interests and the highest welfare of your county. We challenge any intelligent man to deny the truth of this statement. It will be suicidal to turn the affairs of this county over to Urie and the Organization Democrats after the bitter experiences of the not far distant past. The people of this county should by this time have learned a costly lesson.
