WASHINGTON

PAULI'S ON BROADWAY NOW Not on the stage, but in a Law Office at 225. The little slip of a girl whose brilliant record at Howard University School of Law was honor after honor including flowers from Mrs. Roosevelt at commencement time, a place on the honor roll of the National Council of Negro Women, scholarships, proudly announces, Pauli Murray, counselor at Law, in association with Carson DeWitt Baker."

COMING AND GOING Mrs. Nellie T. Herbin, Greensboro, N.C., is visiting relatives among them Mrs. Claudia McConnell Bailey of Tea Street, N.W., who is packing for an August trip to a Youth Conference in Ohio.

From Ohio, Sunday, will come Mrs. Marie Marshall of Ruth Avenue, Dayton, to attend the wedding of Gloria Marshall, her niece, and Richard S. Nero.

Off for New Orleans is Miss Rose Shief, sister of Ambrose Shief, attorney of Hopkins Place, N.W. Rose came here hurriedly because her mother, Mrs. Rebecca Shief, was ill.

Mrs. Carrie Elliott, Morgan School teacher, who had such an enjoyable trip to the Coast last year, will spend some of her "lazy days" simply "sitting and thinking" of that Los Angeles jaunt. Speaking of California, Mrs. John Henry Dale is back.

Leaving for the AME Church General Conference in Kansas City, she went on to Vallejo, Pasadena, San Francisco, Los Angeles and stayed two whole months. Married 41 years the past June (she was the former Lucille Patterson, sister of Tuskegee's president, F. D. Patterson), the Dales had never been separated for half that long and John Henry "near had a fit." While in the West, Mrs. Dale said hello to her brother, his wife and their son, Fred Jr., Dr. Patterson being now enrolled in a business administration class at Leland-Stanford University.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Washington, he of the Langston Delicatessen, (she a Canadian lass), left their babes with relatives so's to see Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. James Terry of Chicago, visited kinsmen over the past week end. Mrs. Terry, the former Tannaquil Hubbard, is often in and out of D.C. And after seeing Philadelphia and New York she'll rush back to "Tannaquil's Health Salon" out Oakwood way, Chicago.

Visiting relatives among them Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Grant, is Mrs. Sibylla R. Lee of Los Angeles. Taking a leisurely route to D.C., Mrs. Lee stopped in Grand Rapids, Wheeling and Chicago. She'll see New York too ere she heads West.

LINNIE NEARLY FREEZE No fooling. Miss Linnie Smith, Junior High School teacher, president of the Howard University Alumni Association, along with 200 others selected by the University of Vermont and the State Department to be observers of the Marshall Plan, will visit France, Ingland, Belgium and the Netherlands. The group will study especially the operation of the Plan in Normandy, Brittany, Switzerland and the Ruhr.

JUSTINE PUT HER EARRINGS ON For quite a while now she's been ailing—Mrs. Justine Maloney, retired D.C. teacher. You'd never suspect it though hearing her talk and watching the quick-coming dimples that dance in her cheeks. You really forget you own ills, if any, the minute you go into her house, her manner being just that sunny. So, since she's such a beloved patient, and since she can't go out to play, her friends bring their gamets to her home!

That's why the other night, Justine put her earrings on and got into a party dress when the nadir! worn either for more than 2 years. Mrs. James Robinson of 15th St., D.C. teacher and wearer of gray gowns extraordinary, told Justine that not only was she coming to see her but she was bringing Justine's Bridge Club along, the "Our Club" bunch, mostly D.C. teachers.

Among them were Mesdames Edith Howard, Alice Moore, Carlotta Lingo, Catherine Webb, Bessie Parker, Mary Richardson, Jessie Roy, Hattie Cunningham Robinson, Maude Allen, Mattie Lee, Luvetta Gresham, and Miss Naomi Rushing.

Anita even brought along guests, Mesdames Ruth Brinkley Brown of East St. Louis, Cornelia Williams and Collette Gordon. Justine got a lap full of gifts.

WILSONS IN PRETTY "AT HOME" Attorney J. Franklin Wilson and his bride, the former Mrs. Nellie T. Hopkins, received friends Sunday from 6 to 9.

The O Street home bore evidence everywhere that it had happy newlyweds in it. Tall gladioli gracing a lace-draped table, lilies of the valley white-ribbon tied, tucked here and there on mantel and shelf, the bride's Bible, bound in white and topped with lovely flowers, that she had carried at her wedding in Philadelphia, reposing on a dresser upstairs, and pictures of the couple in bridal attire bringing oh's and ah's from the guests.

Mrs. Wilson was charming indeed in a blue satin gown of the new blue hue, dashingly draped. Elegant earrings and necklace of moonstones set in a softly gleaming mounting, made pretty accents for her gown.

Receiving with the Wilsons were Mrs. Carrie W. Terry, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Nellie Taylor, mother of the bride. The hostesses included Mesdames Rosa Coates, Carrie Shamwell Diggs, Aridell M. English, Shirley Godden, Erma Y. Jackson, Edythe J. Hopkins, Viola Lee, Annette L. Mathews, Mabel Murphison, Eleanor B. Patterson, Willodena Satterfield, Coye Spain, Elizabeth J. Washington;

Misses Marie T. Fields, C. Beatrice Meyers; Messrs. Maurice S. Gaither, Winston H. Luck.

Among those present were:

Messrs. and Mesdames Lourie Adams, Clayton C. Bannister, George W. Beasley, Albert Bethel, John C. Colbert, Harry W. Cornell,

Messrs. and Mesdames Wallace P. Gant, Arthur J. Hill, Ernest W. Hensley, Joseph H. Hawkins, Edward Johnson, Lawrence Johnson, Wilbur Kenney, William I. Lee, Joseph H. Martin, Edward Merritt, Messrs. and Mesdames Jesse Mitchell, Clarence Perry, Samuel M. Powell, Selles Taylor, Emmett Willis, Albert Wheeler, James E. White, David E. Wells.

Doctors and Mesdames Joseph C. Brasier, H. L. Ashley, William O. Claytor, Joseph M. Millender, M. T. Walker, Mervin S. Sumner, Robert B. Pearson; the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Elmes; Doctors Jefferson S. Coage, Claude F. Carmichael, T. Edward Jones, Jesse Keene, F. O. Williston; Major and Mrs. B. Doyle Mitchell;

James M. Collins, H. B. Culver, Brooke B. Coates, William Carey, Samuel Dickerson, Robert H. Harrison, Arthur T. Jackson, Willis Jackson, London King, Rienzi Lemus,

Van Vranken Mathews, Sinkler Penn, William Smith, Frank P. Turner Jr., William J. Thomas, Guy Tinner, Percy D. Williams;

Mesdames Elizabeth Burrell, Clarice E. Bright, Florence P. Clark, Maggie Datcher, D. H. Davis, Evalyn D. Frye, Julia West Hamilton, T. Curtis Hall, Josephine L. Johnson,

Mesdames Mignon Johnson, Sadie Lowrey, Maggie Lacy, John A. Lankford, Velma M. Miller, Lillian S. Payne, Dorothy Doram Penn, Laura Sutherland, Gladys C. Thoms.

Miss Hazel David, a secretary at Carver Center in Trenton, is the daughter of Joshua David, 217 Church St., Trenton. A graduate of Trenton High School, she also attended Rider College, and plans to study business machines. Bicycle riding, rowing and swimming are her pastimes.—Raney Photo.

FENWICK-MARSHALL WEDDING PRETTY AFFAIR One of Sunday's loveliest weddings united Miss Leithia Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E Marshall of Washington and Gorge E. Fenwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Fenwick of St. Mary's County, Maryland.

The ceremony which took place at the Mt. Airy Baptist Church, was performed by the Rev. R. O. Smith.

Mrs. Ida Skate and her daughter Maureen

Music is a part of their family

It's little wonder that everyone who meets Mrs. Ida Skate and her lovely daughter Maureen mistakes them for sisters . . . because Mrs. Skate has such a youthful, vivacious personality and is always so attractively dressed. Miss Maureen Skate is attending the Douglass High School, where she is preparing herself for a secretary career.

Mrs. Ida Skate is a member of the A.M.E. Zion Church where she spends many pleasant hours singing in the chorus. Miss Maureen Skate also loves music . . . at the sound of the first few bars of lilting rhythm Maureen Skate is ready to burst into dance. As a matter of fact, we hear that she would rather dance than eat.

Mrs. Ida Skate and her daughter Maureen have been enjoying HENDIN'S HOLLYWOOD FASHIONS since the first day that HENDIN'S opened their store. They tell us that there isn't a time that they haven't found a host of new, stunning fashions to choose from at HENDIN'S. The Skates say that HENDIN'S summer fashions are really "out of this world!" P.S.—And Hendin's is the coolest place we know of in Baltimore—it is delightfully air-conditioned throughout.

After Ceremony in Baltimore

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Franklin, center, are shown with their best man, William H. Wright, left; and matron of honor, Mrs. Alethea Brooks, following their marriage in Baltimore, recently. Mrs. Franklin is the former Miss Edna Minnis.

Franklin-Minnis Ceremony Held at Centennial Methodist Church

Miss Edna Minnis became the bride of James L. Franklin in a ceremony performed by Rev. S. J. Mack of Centennial Methodist Church, uncle of the bridegroom, recently.

The wedding was held at Fountain Baptist Church of which the Rev. D. Barrow is minister.

A prelude of nuptial music was furnished by Luther C. Mitchell. Soloist was Mrs. Elaine Harrison Alley.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Andrew Minnis. Her gown was of white chiffon with a veil of French lace held by a tiara of seed pearls. Her only jewelry was a rhinestone necklace. The bride's flowers were of white lilies and baby breath.

Sister As Attendant

Mrs. Alethea Brooks, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her gown was of blue chiffon with matching gloves. Mrs. Brooks' flowers were yellow roses and baby breath.

The rest of the bridal party consisted of William H. Wright, best man; Phyllis Brooks, flower girl, who wore blue organdy; and Silas Mack Jr., ring bearer.

The ushers were Paul Mack, uncle of the bridegroom; Isaac Brooks, Johanahan Raynor and Buchanan Robertson.

Reception Held

A reception was held at the parsonage of the church.
