GRAY'S CAPTAIN DENIES PLANS TO RETIRE

6,000 Fans Pay Tribute to Grays' Buck Leonard

Stars in Double Bill as Grays End Home Season; Star Given Fitting Testimonial

WASHINGTON

Walter (Buck) Leonard, veteran first baseman and captain of the Homestead Grays, was honored at and the Grays, inspired by the celebration romped to a double victory, defeating the Indianapolis Clowns, 8-4, and the Kansas City Monarchs, 6-1, before 6,000 fans at Griffith Stadium.

Leonard, climaxing 15 years of stardom with the Grays, responded to the acclamation of the fans with a brilliant performance. The slugging first sacker fielded flawlessly with 22 chances, and banged out four hits, including a double, in seven times at bat, with three for three in the nightcap against the Monarchs. He also tallied three runs.

Received Many Gifts

Between the two games, Leonard was presented a two-unit leather traveling set, gift of Washington fans, by McKinley Byrd, the Grays' No. 1 fan; a swanky sports shirt, donated by the Fields Clothing Store and presented by Lloyd Gentus; a cash contributon; also from the fans, and a book of testimonials from leading sportswriters and baseball officials, presented by Al Sweeney of the Washington AFRO staff.

In accepting the gifts, Leonard squelched reports that he planned to retire at the end of the season, stating, "I want to thank all the fans of Washington for this testimonial, and I want to say that I believe I can give you two or three more years of service."

Chases Andy Porter

In the opener, the Grays whipped the Clowns for the third time this season, chasing Andy Porter, with a three-run uprising in the third frame and sicking his relief, Ted Cathey, for three more tallies in the sixth. Porter also was touched for two in the second.

Evans Checks Clowns

Clarence Evans, product of Washington scholastic ranks, was the winning pitcher, checking the Clowns with nine scattered blows in 7½ innings. Bill Trice replaced Evans with two hands down in the eighth and held the Clowns runless the rest of the way.

Leonard's potent bat sparked the Grays in the evening-ending nightcap while Ted Alexander, recent acquisition of the Grays and former Monarch hurler, checked his old mates with a neat two-hitter. Willard Brown tapped Alexander for a double in the second, stole third and scored on a fielder's choice for the lone Monarch tally.

Grays Stay Three

With two out, Jim Cooper, Kansas City shortstop, singled, after Brown tallied but Curtis Roberts rolled out at first to end the inning. An error by Cooper, who was untouchable, only two other errors getting on the bases and both tallying victims to swift double plays by the Grays.

Lefty Marque went all the way for the Monarchs, giving up eight hits, including five doubles by Marquez, Fields, Leonard, Tom Parker and Clarence Bruce. Leonard's single and doubles by Parker and Bruce netted two markers in the second, and a walk to Bankhead and Leonard's two-bagger added another in the third.

Unbeaten at Home

In the fifth, Joe Howard's error on Marquez's blow to left, Leonard's single and Fields's two-bagger off a passed ball by Earl Taborn accounted for three more runs for the Grays.

The victory closed the Grays' season at Griffith Stadium, and left them unbeaten by NAL teams on the home lot.

The ceremony honoring Buck Leonard was emceed by Harold Jackson and preceded by the clever shadow-ball sideshow of the Clowns, featuring King Tut, professional clown; Reece (Goose) Tatum and Juggling Joe Taylor.

Tribute by Newsmen

The book of testimonials including ones from Sam Lacy, AFRO; Chester Washington and Ric Roberts, Pittsburgh Courier; Art Carter, Al Sweeney and Fred Leigh, also of the AFRO; Alex Pompez of the New York Cubans, and Curtis Leake, secretary of the Negro National League.

Leonard was lauded for his outstanding and "flawless" service for 15 years, his gentlemanly qualities, on and off the field, and his inspirational leadership as captain of the Grays.

The local sportwriters, with Dr. Claude Carmichale, as treasurer, served as the committee on arrangements for the Buck Leonard Day, and contributions for the gifts were donated by fans at the game and a host of businessmen.

JAMES CROW PLAYS DEAD:

Mixed Cage Game Is Played at White Park

RICHMOND

Opening wedge in the drive to banish jim crow from local city-owned parks and playgrounds here was a basketball game, Wednesday, between colored and white youths at Battery Park Playground, the whites defeating the colored team by a score of 40-30, in the "longest game on record."

The game was dubbed the "longest on record" by the few spectators and observers who were on hand to "see what would happen" when the mixed group began to play on the "filly-white" basketball and tennis courts. The tennis matches did not materialize, however.

Well prepared, the boys came to the parked armed with tennis racquets and balls and a basketball. When the attendant refused to hand the tennis nets across the courts for their use, they immediately began playing basketball.

White Boys Want to Play

At first the players, all colored, had fun by juggling the ball around among them and making practice shots at the basket. They had played less than 15 minutes before one of a group of white youths in the park came over and asked if they could play with the colored youths.

When the game ended, the white boys asked the colored ones if they would be on the field the next day and after brief negotations, a date was made for each to have a team on the court at 4 p.m., Thursday. With that, the relieved observers went home.

Await Arrest in Vain

What made the game seem so long was the fact that both observers and spectators were expecting an arrest after the boys, briefed intensely beforehand, refused to leave the court when asked to do so by an attendant first and later by a policeman.

Shortly after the colored lads began playing and before they were jointed by whites, the park keeper asked them to leave the park, pointing out that "Mr. Rotella told me to keep you all from playing down here." After several more requests that the colored boys leave, the park keeper rode away on his bicycle.

The policewoman arrived shortly after the interracial contest began. Professing to see "nothing wrong" personally, she warned the boys that what they were doing was "against the Recreation Department's rules" and urged them to cease and desist. As she left the court, the game was resumed.

A short while later, an official of the Recreation Department drove up in an automobile, glanced at what was going on, but kept on across the park to where the keeper was standing. He conferred with the keeper for a short time, then drove off the field. He said nothing to the players.

No Intervention Thursday

The second day (Thursday) was less exciting than the first. Nobody appeared to molest the players. Asked for a ruling for the tennis court, however, the park keeper explained that both the nets and balls had been removed from the park by officials. Four whites were observed playing without the benefit of nets.

Observers expressed the view at the end of the second day of mixed athletics that officials are playing a waiting game on the assumption that those interested soon will drop the project and abandon their efforts to make use of the facilities in the park.

Information given the AFRO is that on at least three previous occasions this year, similar groups of boys, some of whom are participating in the present project, have been driven out of the park by uniformed police officers.

Guard Unit Wins Softball Trophy

The members of the 231st Transporation Corps Bn, Maryland National Guard, were awarded a trophy, Wednesday evening, for having won a softball championship during their annual field training period at Camp Ritchie, recently.

The team of which TS Charles Diggs is captain, triumphed over the white 121st Engineers, 8 to 2, to win the cup. Much of the credit for the successful season during which seven games were won was due to the pitching of TS Roy Burroughs.

Cited for Camp Work

The unit, commanded by Maj. Vernor Greene, was also highly commended for all-around efficiency shown during the annual encampment from July 31 to Aug. 14.

Brig. Gen. H. C. Rhul of the National Guard, accompanied by Maj. W. C. Dunn, public relations officer, made the award.

Webb Center to Enter Municipal Track Meet

Some 132 athletes have registered for the municipal track and field meet to be held at 2 p.m. Monday, at Druid Hill Park.

Movements will make a try at the hurdle, and the Chick Webb Recreation Center will make a try at the Stanley Beckett of Syracuse Univ. will make a try at the jump for team honors.

Silver loving cups will be awarded for first, second and third places.

Evans Elected Co-Captain

PHILADELPHIA

Bob Evans, ace tackle on the Roman Catholic High School football team, has been elected co-captain of the 1948 eleven, it was announced Friday.

His selection marked the first time that a colored player has been elected captain o fa grid team in the history of the Catholic League. He will serve with Tony Day, backfield star. Evans, who weighs around 200 pounds, was one of the big reasons Roman won the city's scholastic football championship last fall. His outstanding play won him all-league honors and the Cliveden Award. He is also a weight man in track.

LAST OUTDOOR FIGHT IN D.C. MONDAY NIGHT

Charles Shows Good Form for Big Test With Bivins

Trainer Predicts He'll Kayo Opponent Monday Night; Eyes Heavyweight Crown

WASHINGTON

Ezzard Charles, appearing considerably sharper against sparring mates than he did earlier in the week, will taper down to light drills, tomorrow (Saturday), preparatory to his encounter with Jimmy Bivins, Monday night, in Griffith Stadium.

At consensus choice to succeed Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, who has not yet made official his announced retirement after his last fight with Jersey Joe Walcott, Charles spent a leisurely through drills all this week before a crowd of better than 500 fans daily.

Any indications that he might take this fight lightly were unfounded as he brutally pounded his spar mates, Al Smith, Lloyd Gibson and Ellis Crawford. The latter, a local fighter, absorbed such a terrific beating that the match was halted to prevent a knockout.

Spar Mates Pounded

Whatever misgivings fans held toward Charles for his somnalant workout with Smith and Gibson on Saturday evening were forgotten as the slender-legged Cincinnati fighter lived up to his press notices.

A smart ring general who wasted few punches, Charles displayed a power-laden left hook which he followed up rapidly with a piledriving right hand.

Trainer Makes Predictions

George Nicholson, who served as sparring mate to Joe Louis at two trains Charles, predicted that Charles will mount the heavyweight throne by early spring. He said:

"Charles may not have the punch that Louis does now. Give him time, and he will pick up that weight which will give him added punch. Charles will be ready for a class with Louis as a hitter."

Nicholson is a knockout for Charles, Nicholson declared:

"Psych is no way of thinking. is tougher than all the Sakais, and Walcotts, and any other heavyweight as far as that goes. But I think Charles will knock him out."

Coach Favors Bivins

Billy Conn, who fought out in two engagements with Louis, and is a spectator here Monday night, believes that Bivins stands a good chance of licking Charles on the Variety Clubs' outdoor attraction.

He opined: "If Bivins is in shape, he will give Charles a lot of trouble, and is capable of defeating him."

There is some apprehension in the Charles camp that the meeting with Bivins will be more than the first of a series of elimination bouts for a successor to Louis.

There is the opinion that Jake (The Fox) Mints may have outfoxed himself putting his fighter on a charity show when the fight could have packed the fans in, either in New York or Philadelphia.

Arcel Trains Bivins

Meanwhile, Bivins, who has been accused of laziness and not conditioning himself properly for his bouts, has been working with Ray Arcel, famous trainer, and is expected to be in the best condition of his career.

He is scheduled to arrive here this week end for a final workout, and may show before fans tomorrow (Saturday) at 3 p.m. in Turnpike.

Providing he is in top condition, Bivins will have an excellent chance of upsetting the number one contender for the heavyweight championship. He will likely come in at 180 pounds to 175 for Charles.

Odds 8-5 earlier in the week, may shift to 2-1 at ring time.

Coaches Resume Duties; to Press Extra Pay Fight

Conference Games Set to Begin Sept. 24; Practices to Reveal Strength of Teams

WASHINGTON

District scholastic coaches in Divisions 10-13, although still dissatisfied with the Board of Education's ruling that coaching is mandatory, called out their teams immediately after Labor Day for their first practice.

They agreed unanimously to return to their duties following conferences with their principals.

Their fight for extra pay has not been abandoned, and legal action is expected to follow a study of the board's ruling by Henry I. Gilligan, their counsel, it was learned.

Games Start Sept. 24

Conference play opens on Sept. 24 with Dunbar of Baltimore meeting Baltimore Carver tackling Parker-Gray at Baltimore; and Dunbar of Washington opposing Phelps in Washington.

Joining Coach Jesse Chase's Crimson Tide at Dunbar when the gun practice last week were Coaches Sal Hall of Carver and Ted McIntyre of Armstrong. Coach William (Turk) Brown of Phelps will hold his initial drill, today (Friday) at 9 a.m. on the Tuxedo men's athletic field.

Over in nearby Alexandria, Va., Coach Louis Johnson of Parker-Gray executed his opening date last week, and welcomed his first turnout, Tuesday.

Dunbar Plans Aerial Attack

Coach Chase, the lone mentor in Divisions 10-13, who did not side with fellow coaches in the extra pay issue, greeted 55 candidates, five of them returning lettermen, last Wednesday, at Sixth and K Sts., N.E.

Despite a shortage in veteran performers returning, the Dunbar coach is planning a strong aerial offensive from the single wing with an array of newcomers to bolster lettermen such as Chesler Walker, halfback; Cornelius Hill, quarterback; Leander Morgan, end; Angus Hill, guard, and Jack Boyd, center.

While admitting weakness in guards and tackles, Coach Chase is particularly impressed with the work of Melvin Jones, James Hayden and Morgan on the terminals. His best tackle, James Grant, injured recently in an automobile accident, will be lost to the team.

Tapscott and Jackson Standouts

Around Eugene Tapscott and James Jackson, Coach Chase expects to launch his aerial attack. The passing and running of both participants indicate they may develop into definite threats during coaching injuries and scholastic ineligibility.

The Crimson Tide's backfield is expected to be strengthened with Melvin Spencer, 180-pounder from Armstrong; and Bivins Peacock Armstrong, the bull-dozing chores.

Phelps Loses Line

"I'll have to build a new line," bemoaned Coach Brown, who is expecting 45 candidates, 15 of them lettermen, today (Friday). He lost Capt. Norval Carroll and William Young, guards; George Davis and Wilton Gordon, tackles, and Lloyd Laney, end.

My backfield isn't entirely riddled because I have such returning veterans as Raymond Hill, Herbert Grimes, Samuel Milton around, to build my nucleus," he said.

The Tradesmen will be without the services of Elton Salter; Milton Cross and Zebedee English, all backfield performers.

Cardons Still Dangerous

Coach Hall, despite losing four first - team AFRO All-High performers, and several touted players from his 1947 championship team, is expected to field enough understudies and newcomers to continue his domination in the South Atlantic Conference.

He lost Sidney Parker and Alvin Scott, touchdown twins; Bobby Wills, Clarence Washington and Marcellus Bostan among top-flight performers.

The Cardono mentor's greatest problem likely will be in rebuilding a forward wall which will probably hinge around Russell Williams, AFRO All-High performer last season.

Backfield Set

His backfield appears pretty well set with the return of Sig George Winfield and Edward Allen, both 200 pounders in the fullback slot, Steve Ellerbee, Sonny Wells and Charles Rigby.

Ellerbee, a 170-pound fullback last season, will likely be alternated at the bull-dozing slot and at halfback.

Armstrong Wrecked

"My backfield in 1946 season is just wrecked," Coach McIntyre told out. Though pointing out that graduation and accidents have taken their toll, he will find 25 candidates. He said:

"Of 45 candidates including nine lettermen, only two of them returned to the field wall. End Alphonso Garnet and Paul Alexander, second-string center, who broke his leg last year are the only linesmen.

With Adam Scott, a 230-pound fullback lost by graduation, the Armstrong Generals suffered the loss of William Bassett, who was forced to withdraw from school when his father was killed in an accident recently.

The 195-pounder was to be a big cog in Coach McIntyre's plan.

Capt. Walls Lost

The Generals may lose Capt. James Walls, 180-pound tackle who recovered recently from an infected knee, but has been forbidden to play by his guardian lest it hamper his health.

To support a veteran backfield of Aventus Stone, Eugene Smith, Norman Bailey and Francis Henderson, the Mentor may rely on an array of heavy newcomers to provide them with the help they need.

He named Melvin Charity, 180, Ronald Whisonant, 185, Bill Reed, 180, and Donald Robinson, 185, at tackles; William Grinsage, 158, Miles Harrison, 180, Lorenzo Minner, 180, and Thema Smith, 185, guards; Lorenzo White, 165, Deputor Trotter, 145, and Roland Simpson, 158, centers, and Robert Artis, 165, fullback.

Pee Gees Change Strategy

Approximately 38 Parker-Gray candidates, only seven of them returning lettermen, reported to Coach Louis Johnson. Because of a scarcity of veterans, he revealed that he is abandoning his T-formation and may revert to the single wing or the Notre Dame Box.

He had anticipated employing the T-formation with James Jones, 235-pound tackle; Arthur Burnsides, Isaiah Hipps and Fred McClary, but all have been declared ineligible scholastically.

The only lettermen returning are

Elite Giants Hand Post 1st Defeat of Season, 2-0

Md. Legionnaires Chalk Up 33 Wins in 34 Starts; Williams-Ferrell in Hurling Duel

EMORY GROVE, Md.—The Baltimore Elite Giants, near the top in the second half of the Negro National League, pushed across single runs in the third and sixth innings to blank the previously undefeated American Legion Post No. 151, 2-0, here Saturday night in Johnson Park.

The Giants, winners of the NNL's first half race, supported the fourth hurling of James Ferrell to hand the Legionnaires their first defeat in 34 starts this season.

Bill Williams, engaging Ferrell in a hurling duel, allowed seven hits as he went the distance. It was his first setback in 16 starts this season.

Head Fans See Tilt

The Legionnaires, playing before their largest crowd of the season, 1600 fans, were paced by Elbert Israel, who garnered three of his team's four hits. Williams tallied the only other safety.

Right Fielder Bill McCoy, a rookie with the Giants, led the Legionnaires' attack with three hits in four trips to the plate.

In other contests played last week, the Legionnaires topped the Laurel (Md.) Stars, 12-9, Friday night; trounced Georgetown A.C., 17-9, and edged Stewardtown, 4-3, in a three-team twin bill on Labor Day.
