Mrs. Roosevelt Reveals Doubt About Wallace

Says Former Vice-President's Past Record Doesn't Tally With Present, Queries Sincerity

NEW YORK (N N P A) — Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of former President Franklin D. Roosevelt, said bluntly here last Wednesday that Henry A. Wallace's past record does not "tally" with his present stand on social and racial equality and that she questions his sincerity when he takes such a stand.

Mrs. Roosevelt made the statement at a press conference before a local branch of the NAACP at Abyssinian Baptist Church. The former First Lady's blunt pronouncements on the former Vice President were made in reply to a reporter who asked her from the Daily Worker, Communist newspaper.

Asked Mrs. Roosevelt whether or not she felt Henry A. Wallace's stand on the race question compared favorably with that of her late husband Franklin Roosevelt, Mrs. Roosevelt frowned, turned almost completely around so as to face the reporter and asked, "Have you ever checked Mr. Wallace's previous record on the race question?"

Doesn't Call Him Communist

Then, carefully pointing out that she does not consider Mr. Wallace a Communist, she emphasized that she felt his views parallel those of the Communists very closely and added that she felt Mr. Wallace often was under the influence of Communists without knowing it.

In her speech to the more than 2,500 persons present, she pointed out that the organization needed money to provide education and enlightened citizenship to its members, adding that "if we expect things to be worse for us in a Democracy they will never be done. We must do them ourselves."

Also speaking on the program, Justice Jane Bolin traced the history of the NAACP from its founder in 1909. She credited the NAACP with the recent executive orders issued by President Truman on treatment of minorities in Government and military service.

Brooklyn Woman Also Wins 2-Party Backing

BROOKLYN—(NNPA) — The Board of Elections of New York City has informed Mrs. Maude B. Richardson, Republican candidate for the State Assembly from the 17th Assembly District, that as a result of write-in votes received by her she has also qualified as a candidate on the Liberal Party ticket and will have the backing of both parties in the November elections.

Lawyer Cincinnati Bar Refused Accepted by National Group

CINCINNATI — William A. McClain, an assistant city solicitor and World War II veteran, who was twice denied membership in the local bar association because of his race, has been admitted to the American Bar Association.

Paul W. Steer, who resigned over a year ago as treasurer of the local association to protest against the refusal to admit Mr. McClain, said his acceptance by the national association "highlights the prejudice of the small, almost-dying in the local association."

Fatal Shooting Ends Argument

Four well-aimed shots snuffed out the life of 32-year-old Gladstone Jones in a South Charles St. restaurant, early Sunday morning, and ended a bitter argument that had attracted scores of persons to the establishment.

Shortly afterward, Southern District police arrested Solomon Kellman, 48, of 751 W. Dover St., and charged him with the fatal shooting.

Suspect Pleads Not Guilty

Kellman entered a plea of not guilty, when arraigned before Magistrate Herbert Franklin in Southern police court, but was held without bail for a preliminary hearing on Sept. 30.

The bullets struck Jones in the stomach and shoulder. He was pronounced dead when removed to South Baltimore General Hospital. Police said he was shot with a .32-calibre automatic pistol.

Lt. James Dickerson and Sgt. George Krank of the Southern District police, investigated the shooting.

Heavy Bond Set for 2 in Sale Theft Case

Two East Baltimore men, charged with the theft of a 1200-pound safe containing $1120 in cash, were held under $10,000 bail, last Saturday, to await grand jury action.

They were arraigned in Central police court as:

John T. Haywood, 36, of 30 S. Caroline St., and Thomas Thomas, 26, of 715 N. Dallas St.

Detectives said the safe had been stolen from a Lombard St. warehouse on Aug. 15 and was found abandoned in a truck on Bowley's Quarter Rd., near Middle River.

Ownership of the truck was traced to a Spring St. man who said he had loaned it to Haywood. The arrests of Haywood and Thomas followed.

Lyrics by Diggs to Be Published

Members of the American Legion Post No. 165 were elated last week when it became known that a group pol lyrics written by the commander of the post are to be published in book form.

The lyrics were written while the commander, Charles E. Diggs, of 613 N. Payton St., was a member of a radio crew in the 92nd Division.

They are among a selection in a book entitled "Outstanding Song Poems of 1942," which in that year won a prize. They have been set to popular arrangements by a Hollywood music company and are to be aired this fall.

Mr. Diggs is a member of the National Guard, several civic organizations and plans to study to become a public certified accountant.

Draftees Will Not Lose Job Rights

The re-employment rights of men enlisting in the service for three years or less are as fully protected as are those of inductees under the draft, Second Army Headquarters has announced.

This announcement has done much to ease the minds of young men without previous service who were contemplating enlisting and wondering what would happen to their civilian jobs.

Both Secretary Forrestal and Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin were quoted as authority for this assurance.

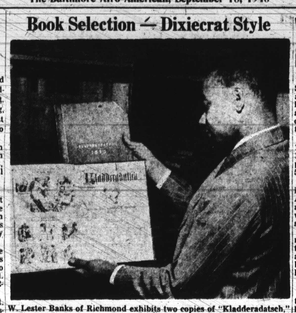
Book Selection — Dixiecrat Style



W. Lester Banks of Richmond exhibits two copies of "Kladderadatsch," a German comic publication, printed in 1873 and 1874, which even American adults would have a hard time trying to read. Yet these are typical of the volumes purchased for a "library" in the colored high school in Gloucester County to "equalize" it with that of the white school. There is no place at the colored high school to keep even these ancient books.

EDUCATIONAL INEQUALITY—

Va. School Trustees Face Contempt Action

RICHMOND, Va. — Basis for contempt citations in Federal Court against school officials of two Virginia counties —King George and Gloucester—was laid last Thursday when those officials refusted to register colored children who sought to enroll in the so-called white schools.

The action in both counties is being sponsored by the NAACP State Conference of Branches along with similar action in a number of other counties in the State.

The pupils in each case were advised by their attorneys not to register for classes in their segregated schools until the refusal of white principals to enroll them in their schools was made a matter of record.

Governor Admits Bias

On the eve of these historic developments, Governor Tuck, in a statement timed to coincide with the opening of schools, assured white Virginians that segregation of the races will continue in the public schools, regardless of Federal or outside influences. He declared:

"We recognize that problems exist in connection with education facilities for both races in Virginia. . . . Facilities are unequal in many instances. The localities will be encouraged to correct these inequalities as rapidly as practicable.

"The advocates of the so-called 'civil rights' program sponsored by President Truman will not force upon the people of Virginia this curse of non-segregation in our schools, which would be offensive to the sensibilities of the better elements of the people of both races.

"Virginians have not been accustomed to the type of colored leadership recently displayed and which has come to the surface under the prodding from Washington and other outside places."

Led by Martin A. Martin of the law firm of Hill, Martin and Robinson, NAACP attorneys, and W. Lester Banks, executive secretary of the NAACP State Conference of Branches, nine colored high and elementary school pupils were refused enrollment at King George County High School (white).

The same day, a group of 26 children was refused registration at Botetourt High School (white) in Gloucester county by H. L. Secord, principal. They were led by Oliver W. Hill, Richmond city councilman, and Spotswood Robinson 3rd, both law partners; and J. Rupert Picott, executive secretary, Virginia Teachers' Association.

Attorney Martin told T. Benton Gayle, King George county principal, that Federal Judge Sterling Hutcheson's order last July calling for "equal educational facilities" for children of both races "takes precedence over any Virginia laws or any oath you may have taken."

Mr. Gayle had asked Mr. Martin: "Do you realize that you are asking me to violate my oath of office and the laws of Virginia by seeking to enroll colored children in this school?"

The principal of the Gloucester county school also cited the State's segregation statutes against enrolling colored pupils in white schools, but, unlike his King George county associate, took the names and addresses of each pupil who sought to register.

Tenants Urged to Report Rent Violation Loopholes

Landlords and tenants were reminded this week that the present rent control law on overcharges covers not only the simple, direct overcharge — such as charging $65 for a dwelling that has a rent ceiling of $50—but also the subterfuges that have been devised to circumvent the law.

"Of these subterfuges," Walter R. Heath, area rent director, said, "the most common is the bonus, which itself takes a number of forms.

"There is, for example, the practice followed in by some landlords of requiring a prospective tenant to purchase, at a high price, or even below list price, a new automobile as a condition of renting an apartment or house.

Bonus in Any Firm Out

"Such a landlord may think he is living within the law by fixing his rent at the ceiling price, but he has in fact—and when he required bonus in any form as a price of renting.

"Another common subterfuge is requiring the prospective tenant to buy furniture he does not want or want as a condition of renting.

"The amount of such a bonus—whether it's an automobile, radio, television set, furniture or anything else—constituted an overcharge.

Methods of Action

If a tenant is required to pay it in order to rent a place in which to live, he can take one of two actions:

"He can report the matter to his local rent office, where he will fill out a form giving the particulars. The rent office will then undertake to get back the overcharge or, if the landlord refuses, go into court under the injunctive powers granted the Agency.

The object of court action would be to enjoin the landlord from engaging in such practice in the future and, of course, in making good the amount of the overcharge to the tenant with the past the bonus.

"Also, the tenant can go into court on his own. In such case he can sue the landlord for three times the amount of the overcharge, plus lawyer's fees and court costs.

"He must be able to prove in court that the landlord willfully violated the Act, which shouldn't be hard in the case of a resort to subterfuge in order to try to get around the law.

"The majority of landlords, of course, are law abiding and do not resort to such tactics to protect them as well as the families who pay rent, these evasive practices must be stopped. They will be stopped if tenants will report or take action on their own whenever they are the victims of such operations."

SEGREGATE THEMSELVES—

Habit Rules Travelers on Dixie-Bound Trains

WASHINGTON (ANP)—Accustomed to segregation and jim crow, colored travelers find it difficult to break old habits as they board trains in the Capital headed South. And the railroads do little to encourage breaking the old custom.

Last Wednesday, when the Atlantic Coast Line's "Everglades" stood in the Union Station lower level here before departure at 4 was being loaded, the colored porter, who has been on the road for years, took his accustomed place at the entrance to the first car.

In former years, before jim-crow interstate travel was ended, anyone, he would prevent colored passengers from entering the wrong car, either by direction or by motion.

Today, he is a symbol—standing in his former post, saying nothing. Travelers, seeing him there, forget the repeal of the jim-crow business and seeing right into the first car, where the old habit formerly herded them:

They are not told they can get in any car, neither are they told to ride in the first car, but the implication is there and the average one dares not go by the face of former practices.

The train butcher sold salty goods, like peanuts and dry crackers—to stimulate thirst, for plain warm sodas. No sandwiches from the diner or any where else were offered the colored passengers, only candy, chewing gum, crackers and that type of food.

Governor Warren Saves Wiley King

OAKLAND, Calif. — Governor Earl Warren has denied an extradition request from the Governor of Mississippi for the return of Wiley King to prison in that State, after King left the prison 14 years ago thinking he had paid his debt to society.

He was operating a small grocery store here when Mississippi officials learned of his whereabouts and demanded his return for violating a parole.

A defense committee composed of members of the Alameda County CIO, the Progressive Party, the NAACP, Civil Rights Congress and others, including his wife, Mrs. Melvina King, organized public sentiment in his behalf and petitioned the Governor to deny the extradition request.

When released, King was jubilant and issued a statement through Manuel Helzatoff, chairman of his defense committee, thanking all who worked in his behalf.

GOP Candidate in Fla. Assailed

MIAMI, Fla. (ANP) — Bert L. Acker of this city, Republican nominee for Governor of Florida, may have his aspirations blighted due to a campaign spearheaded against him by Ernest A. Dougalis, chairman of the Colored Republican Clubs of Dade County.

Dougalis charges that gubernatorial candidate has shown that "only when men belong in political jobs." Acker, is also quoted as having "gone out of his way to insult Negroes."

Acker, when questioned said he "was not misquoted because I never made such a statement." That just isn't my kind of talk. They got me mixed up with somebody else."
