Boy in $900 Theft Held Irresponsible

Held not mentally responsible for his actions, 18-year-old Robert Coates was committed Thursday to Crownsville Hospital, after pleading guilty to theft of $900 from a missionary society where he was employed.

The youth admitted using the money to buy clothes for two of his friends who had been raised with him in an orphanage. At an earlier hearing, the friends were acquitted of charges of receiving the stolen money.

In a report to Judge Emory Niles, Dr. Mannfred Guttmacher, court psychiatrist, concluded that Coates belonged in a mental hospital. The youth once ran away from Crownsville, it was revealed.

Ensign Nurse Made Lieutenant

WASHINGTON

Ensign Edith Devoe, 718 12th St., N.E., one of the first four colored women officers in the Navy Nurse Corps, and the first to be commissioned an officer in the regular Navy, scored a third first this week when the Regular Navy promoted her to the rank of lieutenant (junior grade).

Lieutenant Devoe is a native of Washington, a graduate of Howard University and worked at Freedmen's Hospital before going into the Navy. At present she is stationed at the Communications Annex, 3801 Nebraska Ave., N.W.

Commissioned in Jan.

She became the first member of her race to be commissioned an officer in the Regular Navy Nurse Corps on Jan. 6, 1948.

The first colored nurse sworn in on Mar. 8, 1945, was Miss Phyllis Daily. Three others, including Lieutenant Devoe, were sworn in later.

Two of them married while in service and were released, from active duty; one was released on "demobilization points in August, 1946. Lieutenant Devoe was given an extension of duty to June 1948 before which she went into the Regular Navy.

The others originally commissioned are Ensigns Maxine M. Magee and Eila A. Stimley.

First Officer in Navy Nurse Corps

This is Lt. j.g. Edith Devoe, of 718 12th St. N.E., in Washington, who is the only woman of her race commissioned as an officer in the Navy Nurse Corps. A native of Washington and formerly on the staff of Freedmens Hospital, she was the first to become a nurse in the Regular Navy. She is at present stationed at the Communications Annex, 3801 Nebraska Ave., N.W. question. Hill was then placed under arrest and taken to the Northwestern station house garage where, he said, he was severely beaten by several policemen.

Tried in Northwestern police court the following day, Hill was found guilty of assaulting a policeman and of disorderly conduct and was fined a total of $75.

Second Beating Given

The latest arrest occurred on Sept. 15, when the radio repairman passed Patrolman Cortes on Pennsylvania Ave.

Testimony differs as to what happened during this encounter. Hill testified that he spit into the street; but the policeman contended that Hill spit on him.

As the two talked, the defendant asserted, the policeman suddenly began striking him with the night stick. Hill was placed under arrest for "disorderly conduct and assaulting an officer."

Three stitches were required to close the wound inflicted by the policeman's night stick.

Jury Trial Requested

This time the defendant asked for a jury trial. After listening to his story, the jury, under Judge Emory Niles, deliberated only 35 minutes before returning the "not guilty" verdict.

A native of Baltimore, Hill has been operating a radio repair shop at his home, 1411 Laurens St., for six years.

He is married and father of three girls, Marlene, 11; Ann, 9; and Brenda, 8.

Both he and his wife, Mrs. Ann Hill, members of Zion Baptist Church, East Baltimore. An active worker in the local NAACP, Hill is a neighborhood chairman in the current membership campaign. He was defended on Thursday by Joseph Rosenthal.

visiting his ill mother in Newport News, Va.

No Change After Visit

As the hearing opened, Gene Payne, liquor board inspector, testified that when he visited the establishment on July 3rd, there were no towels in either of the rest rooms; no disenfectant being used, and there was no sanitary compartment sink for washing glasses as required by the Health Department.

James H. Edwards, food inspector of the Health Department, reported the same conditions after his visit to the club. Mr. Edwards said he made five trips to the place and was unable to gain entrance.

They said the club failed to heed repeated warnings to comply with health regulations.

Mr. Taylor explained that the club has "about 150" members and that the profits derived from sale of drinks was used for "baseball uniforms and entertainments for club members."

In ordering the suspension the board ruled that if regulations are complied with in less than 30 days, the board will consider lifting the remainder of the suspension.

Social Worker Gets 5 Years in Cases Involving 4 Girls

Sentences totaling five years in the House of Correction were imposed Thursday night upon Daniel P. Atwood, 39, white executive secretary of the Baltimore Interracial Fellowship, who was convicted of making indecent assaults upon four young girls.

Counsel and friends of the accused man pleaded that he is sick and shouldn't be jailed.

Judge Charles E. Moylan of the Juvenile Court declared: "If the judges have one system for Pennsylvania Ave., and another for Roland Park, the courts had better go out of business."

Atwood was originally charged in seven cases involving girls from five to 14, and the immoral acts were alleged to have taken place at Fellowship House, 21 Preston St.

Policewoman Prepared Case

Two of the younger girls, however, failed to qualify as witnesses while the third gave no damaging testimony against the man.

Prepared by Policewoman Violet Hill Whyte, the case consumed four hours.

Eight Character Witnesses

Some eight character witnesses rebutted firm accusatory testimony of the children with their opinions that Atwood is a long-suffering bachelor devoting his whole life to a cause on a salary of $25 a week, plus living quarters in the attic of Fellowship House.

Dr. Philip F. Lerner, who examined Atwood at the request of his lawyer, I. Duke Aynet, concluded that the man is "sick," but can be cured. At the same time, Judge Moylan asked the doctor whether Atwood is a menace to children or to society.

Not a Homosexual

Dr. Lerner held that Atwood is not and that he has no homosexual tendencies. Judge Moylan commented: "Well, if the man isn't a homosexual, I'm led to believe that he did the acts deliberately."

He said that there wasn't the slightest doubt in his mind that Atwood was guilty.

Atwood did not testify in his own defense, except to say that Mrs. Whyte didn't have a warrant for when she arrested him. This objection was overruled.

Termed a Missionary

Among his character witnesses were:

Miss Marjorie Penny, director of Fellowship House in Philadelphia; who likened Atwood to a missionary stationed in darkest Africa; the Rev. Hillary Bowen of Calhoun St. Christian Church, who told how Atwood pioneered in the development of Fellowship Church.

Dr. Samuel A. Talbot, assistant professor of medicine at Johns Hopkins Medical School; Melvin Benjamin of Philadelphia, a former worker at Fellowship House here; Philip Boyer and Mrs. Adah K. Jenkins, co-chairman of the local Fellowship for three years.

Atwood was re-elected executive secretary Wednesday night. He has been in Baltimore 12 years and had been executive secretary for two and a half years.

A native of Wisconsin, he had a brain operation four years ago. Dr. Lerner said further that now Atwood is emotionally immature and falls into a constitutional psycopathic pattern for which he had been treating him.

The sentences include 15 months for each of the four cases to run consecutively.

15-Yr. Term Given in Street Slaying

Sentence of 15 years in the penitentiary was imposed Thursday on Robert Williams, 59, convicted of second-degree murder in the street slaying last May of 21-year-old Major Guntrop.

William, it was said, shot Guntrop down at Druid Hill Ave. and Orchard St. and fired a bullet through the shoulder of Miss Margaret Lippin in a fit of rage over the younger man's attentions to the woman.

William pleaded self-defense. He lives in the 500 block Orchard St.
