'Sick Sister' Ruse Fails Youth, 16

A 16-year-old youth used his attractive sister as bait to fleece another man out of almost $100, it was testified in Northwestern police court, Wednesday.

The accused is Joseph Holt of 1020 N. Stockton St., who was faced under $250 bail to face a grand jury hearing on larceny charges.

The focal witness was Policewoman Mrs. Violet H. Whyte. She presented Holt as "an old friend who has been constantly in trouble. He won't work and has often been involved in larceny cases," she added.

Holt, it was said, borrowed money from Louis Durgin, 1551 Argyle Ave., giving as his reason, his attractive sister was sick, or needed money for other obligations.

Durgin always heard about but never saw this sister and, becoming suspicious, appealed to Mrs. Whyte. When the policewoman learned the sister knew nothing of her brother's transactions, Holt was taken in for questioning.

At the hearing he accepted the advice of Magistrate Fitzpatrick and made no statement.

Evidence Weak, Suspect Freed

Declaring that "I know this case is a pickpocket," Judge Herman Moser, Tuesday, was forced by the lack of evidence to acquit Amos Hill on two charges of lifting wallets.

Hill of the 1400 block of Madison Ave., was identified by two men as the person who bumped into them aboard a Pennsylvania Ave., trolley a second before they missed their wallets.

He was arrested a few blocks away from Pennsylvania Ave. and Dolphin St., on June 11 after the first man, Joseph Davis of 1528 Brunt St., said he got off the trolley and enlisted the aid of a civilian and Officer Joseph Kaprann, to chase Hill. No wallet was found on Hill.

The testimony of Mr. Davis, was torn down further by the attorney for the defense because he had not accurately described the alleged thief to police.

The second case, involving theft of Avon Butler's wallet on a Pennsylvania Ave., trolley on May 29 lacked evidence to support his identification of Hill.

Mr. Butler of 1006 Argyle Ave., picked Hill from a police lineup after his arrest in June.

Stating that he was "leaning over backward" to resolve all doubt in Hill's favor, Judge Moser said he was convinced that the man is an affirmed pickpocket.

His feelings in the matter were supported by the report of Anselm Sodaro, assistant State's attorney, who said Hill has been arrested several times on similar charges.

2 Bus Passengers Hurt in Collision

Two passengers were injured, Wednesday morning, when the bus in which they were riding collided with a truck at Charles and 20th Sts.

They were Robert Hicks, 73, 1013 Harlem Ave., who sustained an injured wrist, and Mrs. Olivia Murray, 50, 1624 W. Mosher St., who struck her head against a pole in the bus.

After the collision, both vehicles mounted the sidewalk. The truck hit two white pedestrians who received hospitalization, along with the truck driver. Police cited both drivers for a hearing in traffic court.

Monumental District in Scout Unit Drive

The Monumental Scout District will open a drive for new troop units with a meeting Monday night in the McCulloh Homes assembly room.

Some 18 institutions, not currently sponsoring Scout troops, have been invited to attend the meeting which will feature a movie, lectures and exhibits on cub, boy and senior scouting.

District Meeting Tuesday

G. Albert Wright is chairman of the organization and extension committee; and Theodore Randolph, chairman of the leadership training committee.

On Tuesday night the regular meeting of the Monumental District will be held at McCulloh Homes with George S. Whyte, district chairman, presiding.

Miffed Taxicab Rider Gets Term

Changing the conviction from one of attempted robbery to assault, Judge Herman Moser, Wednesday, imposed a five-year prison term upon Randolph Bailey, 24, who was said to have stuck a knife in the back of a cab driver's neck.

Before Bailey was sentenced, Joseph Rosenthal, his attorney, argued that the man's action with the knife didn't constitute a robbery motive, but rather that Bailey was upset because a number of white cab drivers had refused to pick him up that evening.

The attorney, contended further, that by using the knife, Bailey only wished to be transported.

The cab driver, Morris J. Roth, had testified that Bailey stuck something in the back of his neck after entering the cab near Greenmount Ave. and Preston St. By twisting around in his seat and striking Bailey in the face, Roth broke his own hand.

Stepfather Freed in Attack Case

James Swann, 46, was acquitted, Tuesday, by Judge Herman Moser on charges of an attempted criminal attack upon his 12-year-old stepdaughter.

The child described the incident differently from the mother who said she nearly surprised Swann in the act at their home in the 1200 block Ashland Ave.

Judge Moser reserved doubt in the case in Swann's favor. The man was represented by W. A. C. Hughes, attorney.

City Leaders, Civic Groups Favor Health Buildings Loan

'Yes' Vote Urged on $8,000,000 Bill

Needed to Reduce TB Deaths, Provide Decent Home for Aged

Mayor D'Alesandro topped the list of prominent city and civic leaders, this week, who urged strong voting support of the $8,000,000 health loan, which will appear on the Nov. 2 ballot.

Said the mayor, "I am 100 percent behind that loan; and as badly as those health buildings are needed, every citizen should support them."

He was backed by similar statements from ex-Mayor McKeldin, Thomas J. S. Waxter, director of the City Welfare Department; Deeley K. Nice, chairman of the Republican City Committee; officials of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association; the Baltimore Urban League and Baltimore NAACP.

Triple-Purpose Loan

The proposed health loan, involving $8,000,000 must first be approved by voters. It would provide a 300-bed tuberculosis hospital to replace the dilapidated wing now in use at City Hospitals.

It will also provide a decent home for the old and infirm people of Baltimore, now housed in an inadequate "alms house;" and two new medical buildings for health centers in heavily populated districts.

This loan will represent the first time voters have had the opportunity to correct the frequently cited "fire trap." Conditions at City Hospitals, where the new tuberculosis unit and the home for the aged would be located.

TB Death Rate Alarming

The tuberculosis death rate in Baltimore City is twice as high as the rate in the counties of Maryland. It is also the worst rate of all of the large cities in the United States.

Dr. G. Canby Robinson, executive director of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, has declared that the high death rate from the disease in Maryland represents a reducible loss to the community of many millions of dollars annually.

The new wing for tuberculosis patients at City Hospitals would replace the antiquated Civil War-built structure there and provide an additional 160 beds for patients.

Hospital's Conditions Deplored

Dr. Henry D. Chadwick, national tuberculosis authority, said about the facilities at Baltimore City Hospitals, "The comfort of 40 of our patients depends upon the weather, since there are no heating facilities where they live.

Loan for Health Purposes

When persons ask why the tuberculosis hospital, infirmary and health buildings have been placed under one bond issue, the answer is obvious.

All three are health projects, and the city has been remiss for years in providing care for tuberculosis victims and its aged infirm and to carry out in full the plans for decentralizing the health department by furnishing suitable buildings for district health centers.

Physicians have held repeatedly that it is just as important to decentralize the health department as it is for the fire and police departments to have district stations in the outlying sections and on a neighborhood basis.

Would Build Two Centers

The $8,000,000 health loan includes $1,000,000 for modern district buildings in two of the eight health districts. One would be located in the eastern district and would also serve as a training center for health officers and public nurses.

The second center would be in

Teacher Cuts Seven-Month Marital Tie

Mrs. Rose Cross of 1210 Druid Hill Ave., city school teacher, won a divorce from Joseph Cross of Philadelphia, this week, after testifying that he threatened her life.

The couple, married on June 29 1947, separated seven months later. She told the court on Feb. 15, he came down from Philadelphia to her apartment and threatened to break down the door. She called an officer, she said, and he left.

But later he phoned and threatened to come to the school where she taught and shoot her, she said.

Testimony Corroborated

Her testimony was corroborated by William Johnson of 911 Park Ave., who said that upon several occasions he had been compelled to escort Mrs. Cross home to protect her from injury by her husband.

Calvin Douglass was attorney for Mrs. Cross.

Nelson Orr of 1102 Webb Ct., who charged that Mrs. Mary Orr "put him out" two years ago, was

Honorary Surgeons Group Admits 3 From Provident

Three physicians who are on the staff of Provident Hospital have been accepted for membership in the American College of Surgeons, which is composed of prominent surgeons in the United States and Canada, for the first time from this region.

They are Drs. Robert L. Jackson, chief of staff; I Bradshaw Higgins and Henry Welcome, both of the surgical staff of Provident.

There was one colored surgeon among the charter members of the College of Surgeons when it was founded in 1913. He was Dr. Daniel Hale Williams of Chicago, and until 1934 he was the only one of his race in the group.

Dr. Wright Notable Exception

Dr. Louis Wright of New York was then made a member, but from 1934 until 1945, no other colored surgeons were admitted, even though many qualified.

Between 1945 and 1946, fifteen others were added, but none from this region.

The American College of Surgeons is a service organization for fellows and for the public.

It was founded in 1913 by a group of prominent surgeons of the United States and Canada, who felt the need for an organization that would co-ordinate and increase their professional knowledge and elevate the standards of their profession.

Highly Restrictive Group

Since the public had no way of determining conscientious and competent surgeons, a movement was initiated to unite the outstanding members of the surgical profession in an organization with high admission requirements for

Tenant Shot in Rent Dispute

Self-Defense Plea Saves Landlord From Conviction

Testifies He Was Set Upon by Disgruntled Victim as He Sat in His Car Near House

Tension created by an argument of a rent payment led to the shooting of a Carey St. tenant by his landlord, it was disclosed in police court on Thursday.

The principals were Curtis Cox, tenant of a second-floor apartment at 534 N. Carey St., and his landlord, Jesse Williams of 532 N. Calhoun St.

Cox testified that he was shot in the leg by Mr. Williams as an outgrowth of a dispute between them because he (Cox) refused to sign "some paper."

Landlord's Story Differs

An entirely different version of the incident was offered by Mr. Williams, who said he was forced to shoot in self-defense when Cox attacked him with a knife.

Williams said he had won a judgment over Cox in Peoples Court for payment of back rent, but had granted him a number of extra days grace to make good the arrears.

According to the agent, Cox took over the apartment from another tenant and when he (Williams) asked Cox to sign a standard lease covering legitimate provisions, Cox became abusive and ugly.

Charges Attack by Tenant

In order to avoid trouble, Mr. Williams said he ceased all talk concerning the document and proceeded about his routine business, thinking the matter closed.

On Saturday before Labor Day, it was testified, Mr. Williams was seated in his car at a filling station at Franklin and Carey Sts. when Cox approached and slashed at him.

Mr. Williams produced a torn shirt to support his charge. He explained that when Cox struck at him, he reached into the glove compartment of the car, seized his

The Mechanized Cavalry Rolls Through City on Parade

The 35th Cavalry Reconnaissance Squadron, Mechanized, famed armored unit from Ft. George G. Meade, rolled through Baltimore streets, Tuesday, in the city's annual Columbus Day celebration. The unit, first of its kind to be assigned to the Second Army, was activated early last winter. Its enlisted men are selected through a fine-screening process for the technical work they do in operating their vehicles through the use of radio. On their two appearances in Baltimore, the men drew many favorable comments and much applause in line of march.

Private Rites Held Tuesday Afternoon

Between 700 and 800 persons filed by the pale pink, cloth-covered casket in the Hemsley Funeral Home, Tuesday, to pay last respects to Miss Blythe B. Clarke, 31, teacher at Garnett School No. 104 who was slain by a jealous suitor three days earlier.

From early afternoon, when the body was placed on review, visitors, at least 200 of them young school children, filed before the casket, which nestled among some 18 floral designs.

A steady stream continued until closing time at 1 a.m., and at least 50 persons were loitering around the establishment when the funeral party entered the chapel at 9 a.m.

Private Services Conducted

The services, which were private, were over within 30 minutes. They were conducted by Father Cedric E. Mills, rector of St. James Episcopal Church. The deceased was a member of that church for a number of years and played the piano for the Sunday school.

Among the mourners was Clarence Robert, principal of the school of which Mrs. Clarke was a faculty member. Also present were Mrs. Geraldine B. Powell and Mrs. Mary S. Bevans, representing fellow faculty members.

Expressions of sentiment were received from the school P-TA, headed by Mrs. Vernice Wynn, several parents of pupils of the kindergarten teacher and from the Kindergartener Parents Club.

Elks in Graveside Rites

Only members of the family and a few friends occupying nine cars were permitted into the funeral parlor. Brief rites were held at the grave by seven members of the Catonsville Elks' Temple.

In the funeral party were relatives of L. Emmett Holt, who is confined in a Towson jail awaiting

2 Vets Held as Suspects in Murder of Druggist

WASHINGTON

Lawrence Goodall and Edward Jackson Jr. were held for the action of the grand jury following a coroner's inquest into the slaying of Dr. Nathanial Johnson, druggist of the 600 block Third St., S.W., Thursday.

Developments at the trial were:

Both Goodall and Jackson are World War II veterans and have criminal records. Goodall was dishonorably discharged.

Margaret, the young wife of Jackson, fainted when the verdict was announced.

Jackson's mother, with tears in her eyes, told her son to pray.

Goodall charged the police with using Jackson to incriminate him in hope of leniency.

With the whole Southwest Community joining in a manhunt, two suspects in the wanton slaying of Dr. Nathaniel Johnson, beloved druggist of 600 Third St., S.W., were apprehended Wednesday, less than 24 hours after the attempted holdup.

The men, whom police say have confessed complicity in the holdup murder are Lawrence Goodall, 24, of the 400 block of Oakdale St., N.W., named as the trigger man, and Edward Jackson Jr., 23, of the 300 block Dixon Court, identified as the lookout.

Irate citizens, some of whom expressed the desire to "track down the killer and tear him limb from limb," were assuring every inch of the neighborhood for a clue to the escaped after the shooting by running south on Third St., S.W.

Customer Witnessed Tragedy

At the time of the attempted holdup only one customer was in the store. Mrs. Edna Muse of 630 Third St., who identified Edward Goodall as the alleged slayer.

She told the AFRO that she was

Accused Driver in Highway Disaster Faces Trial Oct. 26

John T. Payne, accused driver of the trailer-truck which ran wild on Pulaski Highway, Aug. 23, and killed three persons, will stand trial Oct. 26 in Towson Circuit Court.

Unable to post the $3,000 bail set during a preliminary hearing, the 26-year-old defendant has been in Towson jail since he surrendered to Baltimore City police the to day after the accident.

Payne's case will be heard before Judge W. Howard Murray with Kenneth C. Proctor, State's attorney, handling the prosecution.

3 Killed, 12 Injured

In addition to the three fatal victims, all members of the William Carter family of 1315 W. Lanvale St., 12 other persons were seriously injured when the truck, heavily laden with lumber, skidded six cars and overturned on the seventh.

The accident was described by

2nd Trial Set in Druid Park Love Slaying

Granted a three-week postponement when he stood in the midst of trial proceedings and made the request himself, John Knowles, charged in the Druid Hill Park slaying of his young sweetheart, will again face Judge Herman Moser on Monday.

Knowles, 26, has been labeled the "love-mad seaman" because of the way in which witnesses said he slashed the body of 21-year-old Ruby Davis in the park on June 13. Her body contained 25 stab wounds.

The State was building up a case for a first-degree murder conviction when Knowles threw off the restraining hand of his counsel three weeks ago, and asked Judge Moser for a postponement.

Eyewitnesses' Story

Three eyewitnesses have testified that they saw Knowles plunging the knife into the young girl's body. Members of her family told the court that they overheard the seaman threatening to kill Miss Davis three days before her death.

A psychiatric report submitted to Judge Moser by Dr. Manfred Guttmacher, medical examiner to the Supreme Bench, concludes that Knowles "is a responsible agent."

State Police Hold 3 in Kidnapping

N.Y. Trio in Suspected 'Hot' Car Nabbed in Md.

Two men and a woman were arrested by Maryland State Police, Wednesday, in connection with a case of kidnapping, robbery and assault, after the officers had received a teletype message from Pennsylvania and New York authorities asking them to be on the lookout for a desperado gang in a stolen car.

The three, held at Waterloo Barracks, were identified as Otis Cain, 23, his wife, Margaret, 20, and Arthur Johnson, 25, all of Buffalo, N.Y.

According to the request for the arrests sent out by teletype, two hitchhikers picked up by James Younger, 21, in Buffalo, trussed him up, drove him to a place near Edinboro, Pa., in the trunk of his own car, robbed him, tied his feet and wrist and stabbed him, leaving him lying in a field.

They then drove away in his

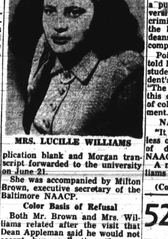
Woman Refused Entrance to Md. U. Graduate School

Ex-Morgan Student Frankly Told by Dean She Could Not Enroll Because of Her Race

Her application for admission to the University of Maryland's Graduate School of Home Economics was refused, Monday, by C. O. Appleman, dean of the graduate school, Mrs. Lucille Williams, June graduate of Morgan State College, charged this week.

Mrs. Williams reported to Dean Appleman on Monday after he sent her a matriculation card, when she complained, by registered mail, of getting no response from her application blank and Morgan transcripts forwarded to the university on June 21.



MRS. LUCILLE WILLIAMS

She was accompanied by Milton Brown, executive secretary of the Baltimore NAACP.

Color Basis of Refusal

Both Mr. Brown and Mrs. Williams related after the visit that Dean Appleman said he would not accept her application "because she is colored."

The application, made in June, according to the dean, had not been received. However, Mrs. Williams had received, along with the matriculation card, a duplicate application blank.

The dean's refusal to register Mrs. Williams on the basis of color was made after Mr. Brown asked why Mrs. Williams's application would not be accepted, the NAACP official stated.

Officials' Wires Ignored

Mr. Appleman told the AFRO on Wednesday that he informed Mrs. Williams to take her application "around to the president's office." He said he could not accept it, because he refers "all cases to the president."

The dean then ended the conversation abruptly, refusing to discuss the case further.

In a later statement, Mr. Brown declared, "Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the university, has made a public statement that the University of Maryland does not discriminate against applicants on the basis of color, and that the deans of the various schools have complete charge of admissions."

Pointing out that Mr. Appleman told him "all admissions of colored students are handled by the president's office," Mr. Brown declared, "The NAACP cannot reconcile the outright refusal on the basis of color in view of Dr. Byrd's statement.

NAACP to Follow Up Case

"It is quite evident that regardless of stated policy, the actuality of discrimination exists. The NAACP will follow up the case."

A native Baltimorean, Mrs. Williams received a bachelor's degree

Tan GI's Tops in Parade on Columbus Day

The 35th Cavalry Recon Squadron, Mechanized, 37 vehicles and more than 100 men strong, was the largest unit in the Columbus Day parade in Druid Hill Park, Tuesday.

A crack motorized armored unit, the squadron was activated early this year and is stationed at Fort George G. Meade, site of the Second Army Headquarters.

Members of the 35th, riding in heavy armored amphibious tanks and in Jeeps, proceeded slowly along the line of march in fourth place.

Mayor Leads Parade

Participants gathered at Druid Lake Dr., and Eutaw Pl., at 1:30 p.m. Thirty minutes later Mayor D'Alesandro drove up and alighted from his automobile, led the procession behind four motorcycle police officers to the Columbus Monument, around the lake.

Next came the 51st Army band, 50 strong, musicians, resplendent in freshly laundered uniforms, set off by white helmets, gloves and leggings.

Picturesque Outfit

Then the 35th rode by. The assisted men, arms folded, wore yellow gloves and matching scarfs. Their vehicles were toughed off with dabs of yellow paint.

The rest of the procession was made up of a color, two drum and bugle corps and a number of American-Italian clubs. A "short" ceremony was held at the base of the Columbus statue to end the

52% of Voters in Capital Think Dewey Will Win

WASHINGTON

Washington's colored citizens, among whom are many government employees, would vote to re-elect Harry S. Truman to the White House if they had a vote.

This preference for Mr. Truman was expressed last week as 52.3% named him their election favorite in a poll conducted by the AFRO-AMERICAN.

Although Mr. Truman had a substantial margin over Gov. Thomas E. Dewey as the preference, almost the same number—52.8%—said Mr. Dewey would be our next President.

Civil Rights Given as Reason

Most Truman supporters listed "civil rights" as their reason for backing him. A small percentage expressed belief that the international situation is so tense that Mr. Truman should be allowed to remain.

There were Dewey backers, however, who pointed to the international crisis as "good reason for a change." Most supporters of Mr. Dewey said that they thought his

FEPC Probers Must Go Deep

WASHINGTON

If the Fair Employment Board named last week by the Civil Service Commission under a recent Presidential executive order is to be effective, it will have to go beyond the surface to ferret out discriminatory practices, according to revelations made by a special labor committee, this week.

It is something of a difficult to find discrimination in some agencies that appear to have their employees operating as one big "happy family," when in reality the very core of their programs is biased, it was shown.

The Fair Employment Board will have to go beyond dealing with cases referred to it from

District 5 High in Chest Drive

District 5 of the Community Chest campaign stood fourth out of a group of 15 reporting at the weekly meeting on Thursday, with 37.6 per cent ($10,164.11) of its quota of $27,000 raised.

At 5 p.m., Tuesday, District 5 members will meet at the YWCA with the Rev. C. Baker Pearie, chairman of the district, presiding.

A special program will be presented by a group of public school children, under the direction of Mrs. Mildred Seabourne, chairman of publicity and interpretation.

At Wednesday's Report Reports from the five divisions of the district will be given and
