PEOPLE'S COLUMN.

SOME SAMPLES OF ORGANIZATION ARGUMENT.

Ellie Baker, the well-known painter, and a strong Organization man met an old head-strong Anti at the race track recently. Said Baker to the Anti, "Hello! Does your Boss know you are here, did he give you permission to come?" Replied the Anti, "Who do you mean? I've no Boss. Who do you mean?"

Baker replied, "Why Barroll. He is your Boss. Did he give you permission to come here?"

"No he didn't," said the Anti, "Did your Boss give you permission to come?"

Baker replied, "I have no Boss. Who do you mean by my Boss?" The Anti said, "Why John David Urie. Fred Usilton runs you and Urie runs Fred Usilton. I mean the Organization Boss and your Boss." Baker walked away and had nothing more to say.

SCENE: THE PICNIC IN QUAKER NECK RECENTLY.

Harrison W. Vickers walked up to one of his former warm supporters and intimate friends, removed his hat and politely said, "Good evening Mr. M——," Mr. M—— looked cooly at him, from head to foot and then said, "You need not remove your hat to me Mr. Vickers, keep it on your head. One of these days I was just as poor and friendless as you are now. I don't need you to lift your hat." Vickers hung his head, walked away and that ended the argument.

SCENE: RESTAURANT ON HIGH STREET. TIME: SATURDAY NIGHT, AUG. 16, BETWEEN 11 AND 12 O'CLOCK. PRESENT WILLIAM W. BECK, SHAKE BROWN AND FIVE OR SIX OF HIS STRONG ORGANIZATION SUPPORTERS.

A lone Anti was sitting down finishing a little morsel. Said Mr. Beck, "Billy, what would you fellows do anyhow if your Boss died?" Replied Billy, "Who is the Boss? What do you mean by the Boss and who is he?" "Well" said Mr. Beck, "I will put it in a different way. Suppose Mr. Barroll died who would then be your leader?" Billy said, "The People would lead just as they are leading now. You know that! Then turning to Mr. Beck, he shoved this at him. "Mr. Beck, suppose John David Urie and you died, tell me who would be the BOSSES of the Organization then?" Even Mr. Beck's friends could not surpress the smiles which Billy's remark brought to their lips. Each time they get it harder and more of it.

SCENE: BUCHHOLZ SALE WHERE A CROWD GATHERED NEAR ROCK HALL.

Frank D. Lamb, the well-known road worker in the Sixth District, spoke to an Anti who was discussing our roads. "Why Mr. Barroll won't let the Road Engineer have any money. How can Mr. Gibbs fix the roads without any money?" Said the Anti to whom he was talking in a tone loud enough to be heard by the crowd gathered around, "It is a mighty good thing for Kent county that Gibbs can't get any more money than $21,000. If there were a half dozen more worker's like you there would be another shortage of $60,000 and Kent would be once more about bankrupt in the next 3 or 4 years! The whole crowd just roared and Lamb walked away but asked no more questions.

A REPORTER.

OUTSIDE INTERFERENCE.

Recently Judge Albert Constable's brother, Mr. John Constable, of Elkton, was electioneering in Kent for Mr. Howard Turner. He interviewed all the tenants on the Constable farms, urging them to vote the Organization ticket, but met with rather indifferent success, as the free people of Kent resent this kind of "outside interference" on the part of a Cecil county landlord.

This shows in what desperate straits the poor old Organization is navigating.

An amusing incident occurred at Betterton. Mr. Constable loudly resented the opinion expressed by a voter that Mr. Turner wouldn't be nominated because he was a Republican. A leading Quake Neck Republican who was standing near remarked: "Mr. Howard Turner always has been a good Republican, and we always knew that we could depend on him when needed—of course the Democrats shouldn't nominate him." Mr. Constable asked our Republican friend to show his money if he were so sure of Turner losing. The bet made was $10.00 for and against Turner.

It is a cold day for the ring when a Republican can both "put up and shut up" the Turner candidacy—the Organization's one forlorn hope.

A LISTENER.

REPUBLICANS WORKING FOR TURNER.

DEAR SIRS:—We people in Betterton see things that you in Chestertown and the rest of the county know nothing about. If you had been here one night recently you would have seen and heard some strange things. Harry Willis of near Bettertan, one of our staunchest and most reputable Republicans, as well as one of the most influential in this part of the county, together with his brother Charles Willis, a well-known Republican from Queen Anne's county, have been here pleading for and doing everything in their power for Howard Turner. Now if you gentlemen think this strange come down and we will show you something stranger.

BETTERTON BY THE BAY.

ROADS A BIG ISSUE.

DEAR SIRS:—Some Organization candidates came to my house a few days ago and wanted to know why I did not help them. I said: "All you have to do is to drive on the road between my house and Chestertown. Just look at the road between Robert G. Nicholson's house and the Strawboard Mill, and that is simply nothing to some of the roads in this county, absolutely dangerous to life and limb.

"It would take $25,000 this day to put the roads in the condition in which they were before Isaac Gibbs was appointed road engineer. These gentlemen asked me not to believe everything Mr. Barroll was trying to stuff me with. I said he don't have to stuff me. All I have to do is to use my eyes and I see enough to make me an Anti-Organization man from the top to the bottom of the ticket."

THIRD DISTRICT DEMOCRAT.

Improved Order of Red Men.—A tribe of the Improved Order of Red Men will be instituted in Chestertown, Saturday, Sept. 6. At a preliminary meeting held on Monday night the following officers were elected to be installed at the institution exercises; viz: Sachem, Harry B. Nicholson; Senior Sagamor, George T. Latham; Junior Sagamor, R. W. Burris; Chief of Records, T. S. Dewberry; Keeper of Wampum, Bertie Crouch; Collector of Wampum, Neavitt Stafford; Trustees, Harry B. Nicholson, Joseph Duyer and W. A. Burk.

¶The town sprinkler has done valliant service this wfek, and the householders and people generally have appreciated it very much.

Plan to do Your Fall Shopping at Baltimore's Best Store
