One-Way Street Setup Defended

"At present, one-way streets are the most economical means of coping with the city's intricate traffic problem."

This statement was made before the Frontiers Club on Tuesday at the YMCA by Charles J. Murphy, youthful member of the traffic engineering division of the Baltimore Police Department.

He said that findings of an "origin and destination" study of local traffic problems showed that 30 per cent of the vehicles at some time or other are bound for the downtown area.

20% of Streets Overused

Moreover, it was learned that less than 20 per cent of the city streets carry 90 per cent of the traffic and that the greatest need for an outlet for traffic was in the Northwestern area.

The result was the conversion of St. Paul and Calvert Sts., Druid Hill Ave. and McCulloh St. to one-way thoroughfares. Slated for a similar change are Charles and Cathedral, Eutaw and Paca Sts., the engineering official stated.

Citing the difficulties of effecting such changes, Mr. Murphy opined that the "minorities will have to yield all over the city to effect the convenience of the majorities."

Urged Support of Program

He said that his department anticipated a "fight" when one-way streets are begun in South Baltimore, and he urged the Frontiers Club to support such plans when they are designed for the ultimate improvement of a pressing problem.

Present at the meeting for the first time as new members were Stanley Becket, florist; A. Jack Thomas, music school director; Drs. Fred West, pharmacist, and Bruce Alleyne, dentist.

On next Tuesday, the local Frontiers chapter will observe Philadelphia Day, with representatives from that branch in attendance.

Regional Pact Before Senate

Scheme to Continue Jim-Crow Colleges BITTERLY OPPOSED

All Minority Groups in Md. Against Bill

Terming it a brazen attempt to force a Dixiecrat-like program upon the people of the State, civic and political leaders of Greater Baltimore are calling upon Legislators to drop their effort to make Maryland a member of the Southern regional educational pact.

The protests are the result of introduction in the State Senate, late last Thursday, of a bill proposing that the State satify the Southern educational program drawn last December by the Conference of Southern Governors in Savannah, Ga.

The measure, SB No. 432, introduced by Sen. Joseph R. Byrnes, president of the Senate, is believed to have the approval and support of Gov. W. Preston Lane, who formerly was chairman of the Conference of Southern Governors.

Wednesday night it was approved on second reading by the Senate Judiciary Committee and probably will come before the Senate body for a vote today (Friday) or early next week.

Opposed by State NAACP

Spearheading opposition to the bill is the Maryland Conference of NAACP Branches, which is composed of 24 units in 22 counties.

Mrs. Lillie M. Jackson, conference president, requested that a public hearing be held on the

Alliance Blasts Loyalty Probe

Aimed at Minority Group, Official Says

5 ACCUSED HERE

All But One White; Bigots Not Troubled

By RUFUS WELLS

An official of the Baltimore Branch of the National Alliance of Postal Employees charged, this week, that the loyalty probe now under way at the local post office is directed at "liberals, Jews and colored persons."

The accusation was made after four colored workers at the post office and a Gentile clerk regarded as a liberal were charged with having been members of Communist-front organizations.

After the charges were made the five were ordered to show cause why they should not be dismissed from Federal service.

2 Given Suspensions

Two of the men were suspended from duty, and one of them, a family man, is still under suspension.

He has been unemployed since mid-December and cannot be reinstated until the Loyalty Board before which he appeared on Feb. 18, renders a decision.

So far, the Postal Alliance has been unsuccessful in its efforts to hasten a decision in his case.

No Bigots Investigated

The Baltimore Postal Alliance official who assailed the local probe said so far all persons questioned as to loyalty, have been either, "colored persons who have attended social affairs with white, liberal Gentiles, or Jews."

The spokesman asked that his

When the story, as related by Policewoman Cornelia Smith ended, a 19-year-old youth was held without bail for grand jury action on charges of criminally abusing one girl, 13, and another 15.

The youth, Raymond Carter of 247 N. Bruce St. pleaded guilty to the charges and readily admitted having had relations with the girls in a back-room apartment at 1414 Born Ct.

Legislative Group Hears Pleas to Open Univ. of Md., Make Morgan Land Grant

ANNAPOLIS — Colored students seeking graduate and professional education do not want any special privileges that are not given to other citizens.

Thus spoke Howard H. Murphy, chairman of the Maryland Committee for Equal Educational Opportunities, Tuesday, in addressing a closed joint meeting of the State Legislative fiscal commit tees.

He recommended, therefore, that the State meet its obligation to colored students by admitting them to the existing educational facilities at the University of Maryland and by abolishing the out-of-State scholarship program.

Judge Soper Airs Views

The legislative committees at the same time heard Judge Morris A. Soper, president of the Morgan State College board of trustees, who was accompanied by other board members.

Judge Soper told the group that the continued expenditure of large sums at Princess Anne College will impair progress at Morgan, and in so doing, cripple the State's entire program for higher education of colored students.

Dr. Gregg Ouster Case May Fizzle

DOVER, Del.—Charges preferred against Dr. Howard D. Gregg president of Delaware State College, by Gov. Elbert Carvel's board of investigation, may be dropped.

This was hinted Monday at the close of the first session of an open hearing before the school's trustee board.

The State's representatives in the prosecution, according to reliable sources, were seriously considering such a move after failing to draw damaging testimony from a key witness who spent 24½ hours on the stand.

Up until Tuesday, however, the State made no outward indication

Rites for Fire Hero Who Saved Five Brief, Solemn

By STAFF CORRESPONDENT

CHASE, Md.—Brief military funeral rites were held here, Wednesday afternoon, for Allan Johns, Baltimore war veteran who died on Sunday from injuries received while rescuing five relatives from a flaming house in Essex on March 13.

Some 300 persons jammed the white-shingled Sharp St. Methodist Church to hear remarks by three ministers who had known the 32-year-old hero since he was a boy.

After the services they walked slowly behind the flag-draped casket to the church cemetery where the body of the Essex fire hero was interred.

10 in Gil Honor Guard

Ten Second Army soldiers from the 2101st Service Company of Fort Meade formed the military guard of honor. They were under the direction of Cpl. Eddie L. Brittan.

Mrs. Bertha Johns, the grief-stricken wife and one of those saved in the fire, was accompanied by a nurse and Harvey Johns, brother of the deceased.

The Rev. C. C. Nelson, pastor of the Sharp St. Church, officiated at the services. The Rev. William King and the Rev. Olen L. Moloch also made remarks.

Heroic Action Revealed

Johns had led five persons to safety and was going back into the 32-year-old hero since he was a boy.

Lloyal Randolph Jr. Shot to Death in Local Tavern

Lloyal Randolph Jr., 21, of the 1600 block of Edmondson Ave., son of the local Democratic leader, was shot to death early this (Friday) morning in a Westside tavern.

Several hours later, Southwestern District police arrested Raymond Malone, 24, of the 1500 block of N. Calhoun St., at Vincent and Franklin Sts.

He was turned over to Sgt. Wade Poole of the Northwestern District and carried to the station house. After appearing before Magistrate Thomas L. Fitzpatrick, he was ordered held without bail pending a State's Attorney's hearing.

No Reason Given

Officers reported that Malone, apparently drunk and in an ugly mood, fired on Randolph without reason as the pair were in a tavern at Cairo and Vincent Sts.

Answering a call in Radio Car No 53, Patrolmen Daniel Siegert and John Souer found the unconscious body of Randolph lying on the sidewalk on the south side of Cairo St. near Vincent.

They summoned an ambulance which carried him to the Franklin Square Hospital. At approximately 1 a.m., he was pronounced dead on arrival, of a gunshot wound of the chest.

Randolph was removed to the morgue where his body will be claimed by his father.

Two Held as Witnesses

When Malone was arrested several hours after the shooting, he was found with an automatic pistol in his possession. It contained one used cartridge and one bulled. One pellet was found at Vincent

Dr. Brown's Wife Overcome by Gas

Mrs. Eloise Brown, 34-year-old wife of Dr. George F. Brown, was rushed to Johns Hopkins Hospital on Wednesday after she was found unconscious from gas flowing from the kitchen stove in her home in the 2000 block of Harlem Ave.

The attractive young matron's plight was discovered at approximately 3:15 p.m. by 14-year-old Junior Tucker, who came from her home next door to care for the Brown's 18-month-old son.

According to the report of Northwestern District police, Mrs. Brown was found slumped over the kitchen table; and gas flowed from the oven and four unit burners atop the stove.

Wife Treated, Released

The young girl immediately notified her mother, Mrs. Willa Tucker, who summoned an ambulance and notified Dr. Brown. He, in turn, had his wife removed to Johns Hopkins Hospital, where she was treated by Dr. David E. Rogers of the staff.

She was released in the care of the Brownd, who told the hospital officials, according to their report, that his wife had been very depressed lately, due partly to a lack of companionship caused by his long hours of practice and her confining home duties.

Pyramids Collapse in D.C. as Authorities Apply Heat

WASHINGTON

How can you collect on your investment in a Pyramid Club and not run the risk of going to jail?

That is the big question on the minds of thousands this week as the great bonanza which swept the city over the week end seemed to be coming to an untimely end.

Even though Maj. Robert Barrett, superintendent of police, issued a statement this week that there would be no mass arrests of Pyramid Club members, the addicts of the "get-rich-quick" fad seemed to be thinning out.

The Pyramid Club seemed to be no-doing out because of economic factors even though several of the unpaid members attempted to revive the chain after Chief Barsett told his copa that they had more important duties to handle.

Sure-Fire Schemes Thought Up

As the scheme faded off the local scene in the manner of all fads, which brought nostalgic memories of the days of the chain letters, miniature golf courses, Little Audrey jokes, etc., some die-hards had conjured up a sure fire method which would keep the Pyramid going so that everyone would be sure of getting paid off.

Said the inventor:

"The only way to keep a Pyramid going is to build a reserve list of reliable persons who can add new members. Even the top persons on the Pyramid have to aid the new members in locating additional names.

"As for the pay off," the AFRO was told, "a central clearing house could be established, where the top persons on the Pyramid could receive their money, thus getting around cluttering up some person's house and drawing the wrath of the police."

Hearing Not Set in Wife Slaying

No date has been set in Northwestern police court for a State's Attorney's hearing in the case of 38-year old Theodore Turner of the 1200 block of Smithson St., who is charged with the fatal stabbing of his wife on Monday.

Turner gave himself up to police officers within an hour after the tragedy was reported by the victim's sister. He is being held without bail.

Docketed as a State's Witness, but released under $100 bail to appear at the hearing was Herman Scott of 1521 W. Lanvale St.,

Waiting for the Pyramid Pot to Boil

Members of the Washington AFRO's clerical staff, strike the pose that is typical of thousands of Washingtonians this week who are anxiously waiting to have their waste baskets filled with dollars from fellow Pyramid Club members. But, with the District attorney cracking down and the craze on the wane, it looks as though thousands may wind up with empty pots. The diagram above shows how the pyramid setup operates. The young ladies are Misses Ira Young, Frances Cooper and Marguerite Stewart.
