In Our Churches

By LOUISE K. HINES

Strict adherence to the church law is being demanded by plain-talking Bishop L. H. Hemingway in the conduct of the 132nd session of the Baltimore Annual Conference of the AME Church, which opened on Wednesday at Waters AME Church.

He has announced his intentions of having accurate records of all monies collected, spent, and placed in the treasury.

Special features on Sunday, the final day, will be a Model Sunday School, conducted at 9:30 a.m., by Elmer A. Henderson, conference Sunday School superintendent.

Memorial Service Planned

Bishop Hemingway will preach both the worship service at 11 a.m., and the ordination sermon at 3 p.m., which will be followed by a memorial service.

A Model League in which the youth groups of Port Deposit and Chestertown, Md.; Allen and Waters Churches are to participate, set for 6 p.m., will be conducted by Mrs. Gladys Randolph.

The culminating service at 8 p.m., will close with the reading of appointments.

Women's Day at Metropolitan

Metropolitan Methodist Church will observe its 52nd annual Women's Day services on Sunday. The Rev. Mrs. Agnes Alston will be the morning speaker.

Joint sponsors of the program are the Women's Society of Christian Service and Wesleyan Service Guilds 1 and 2.

The guilds will present their members at 3 p.m. in a discussion on "How Can the Church Woman Better Serve Her Community?" The Youth Choir will sing.

An inspirational song fest is set for 8 p.m., to be conducted by the Rev. Mrs. Alston and the Rev. Mrs. Margaret Allen. Mrs. Maggie Bowser is Woman's Day chairman, while the Rev. Ely L. Lofton is pastor.

Mrs. Bethune Spoke Sunday

Woman's Day speaker last Sunday at the East Hoffman St. Methodist Church, Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune, pointed to service for the masses as a challenge to today's workers.

She is founder and president of the National Council of Negro Women, which has a membership of 800,000, and founder and president emeritus of Bethune-Cookman College in Florida.

Mrs. C. E. Browne, wife of the pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, was the Women's Day speaker last Sunday afternoon at the Mt. Winan's Methodist Church.

St. James Installs Vestrymen

Newly elected vestrymen of St. James PE Church installed on Sunday morning were Oscarew F. Gee Sr., J. Steadman Greig, Paul Henderson and Howard Murphy.

Incumbent members are J. Arnett Frisby, Mahlon Oswell, Ralph W. Palmer and Everett Saunders.

A Lincoln (Pa) University student who was guest preacher here on Sunday was Gaynard Stephen Wilmor, who spoke at Grace Presbyterian Church.

Stewardesses in Memorial

Stewardess Board No. 1 of Allen AME Church paid tribute to eight of its deceased members last Sunday during a 3 p.m. memorial service.

The deceased who were honored were Mesdames Frances Bryant, Catherine Russell, Annie Porter, Ida Frisby, Hattie Green, Louise Hawkins, Alberta Wright and Charlotte Brent.

Mrs. Emma Ford presided. Miss Berta Thornton was program chairman; and the junior choir sang. Soloists were Mesdames Mary L. Boothe, Sadie Tilghman and Mattie Palmer.

White Cleric Speaks Here

The Rev. Edward Dowdy, assistant minister of the white First Baptist Church in Washington, spoke at the Youth Day services of Mt. Carmel Baptist Church last Sunday.

"Should Religion Be Taught in the Public Schools" was the subject of the panel discussion held during the evening.

Participants were Albert Mathews, leader; William Bransford, Eugene Mason, Miss Christine Glover, Mrs. Alberta Matthews and the Rev. Zaccheus Johnson. Directed by the Rev. B. C. Ragsdale, the junior choir sang. Acting pastor is the Rev. W. B. Marsh.

Rev. Crawley Preaches in Va.

During a recent visit to Newport News, Va., the Rev. George A. Crawley preached the fourth anniversary sermon at the Macedonia Baptist Church, where the Rev. M. I. Tynes, former Baltimore minister, is now pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Crawley reports that the Macedonoia pastor has built a new church, increased the membership substantially, and inaugurated a series of religious radio broadcasts.

Formerly, the Rev. Mr. Tynes was pastor of the First Baptist Church in Mt. Winans.

Educator Addresses Clerics

Dr. J. Carey Taylor, assistant superintendent of public schools, addressed the interracial Methodist Ministers Aassociation on Monday at Sharp St. Methodist Church.

He described some of the difficulties in using religious education in the schools.

A program of daily Bible reading, the observance of some Christian festivals and a program of character education and intercultural activities helps develop the pupils morally, Dr. Taylor said.

Dr. Jenkins Gives Advice

Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, president of Morgan State College, spoke on higher education at Enon Baptist Church on Monday before the Baptist Ministers Conference.

He reminded the ministers of their responsibilities as influential leaders to work for improvements in extending the opportunities for higher education in Maryland.

The Rev. Ira C. Reddie will preach on Sunday morning at Union Baptist Church in Sparrows Point, and officiate at the evening communion service.

"Messenger" Editorials Cited

To hard-hitting editorials appeared last week in the Emmanuel CC Church "Messenger."

John E. Hill Jr., editor, reviewed the recent filibuster and urged colored voters to cast their ballots against the "traitors" who snarled and blocked civil rights action.

He questioned the wisdom of a local minister in publicly announcing his refusal to perform the marriage ceremony of a woman member to a man whose employment he considered questionable.

Mrs. Sadie Wilson Given Burial Rites

Fractured Hip in Fall at Wilmington Home

WILMINGTON, N.C. — Funeral services for Mrs. Sadie A. Wilson, widow of Dr. A. J. Wilson, were held at St. Stephen AME Church, here on April 20. A short service was held at the McGuire Funeral Home in Washington on April 21, and Mrs. Wilson was buried in Washington beside her husband.

Mrs. Wilson died at Community Hospital, after suffering a fractured hip when she fell at her home, 308 N. Sixth St. She was a daughter of the late R. B. Fitzgerald of Durham, founder of the Mechanics and Farmers Bank there. Her husband was secretary of the ME Church Extension.

Worked in Schools

During her early residence here, Mrs. Wilson worked as supervisor of the New Hanover County Schools and of the Duplin County Schools. At the time of her death, she was vice president of the Missionary Society, a member of the Pulpit Aid of St. Stephen and the Ministers' Wives' Alliance.

Survivors are two sons, Dr. Richard A. Wilson of Detroit, Dr. Dwight H. Wilson of Fisk University; two brothers, C. T. and S. B. Fitzgerald of Durham; and Mrs. L. A. Dodson, Cleveland, Mrs. Leah W. Hammond, Phoenix, Ariz.; and Mrs. Beatrice Hawkins, Atlantic City, N. J., her sisters.

Lecture Slated by Dr. Alpenfels

"Building Unity Through Understanding," the second of four lectures in the city-wide forum series, will be given at 4 p.m. on Sunday at Sharp St. Methodist Church by Dr. Ethel L. Alpenfels.

Associate professor of education at New York University, Dr. Alpenfels is the author of "Sense and Nonsense in Race," and co-author of "Race Against Time."

Authority in Anthropology

Dr. Alpenfels, who has done research work among the Indians in Mexico, Oregon and British Columbia, has edited all articles on anthropology in the Encyclopedia Brittanica.

Elmer A. Henderson, assistant superintendent of schools, will preside. Music will be offered by a mixed quartet directed by Dr. Alban Dash of the WBAL staff.

Dr. Johnson Next Speaker

Serving as ushers will be the undergraduate chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity.

Dr. Charles E. Johnson, president of Fisk University and noted sociologist, will be the third forum speaker on May 8 at Enon Baptist Church.

To Lecture Here Sunday

Dr. Ethel J. Alpenfels, associate professor of education at New York University, will speak here on Sunday at Sharp Street Methodist Church in the second "One World" lecture series. Her subject will be "Building Unity Through Understanding."

30 Saved in Ga. by Rev. Boddie

Revival services, conducted by the Rev. J. Timothy Boddie at Greener Baptist Church in Atlanta, netted 30 additional members for the church.

The minister spoke at Morehouse College and to the Baptist Ministers Union at Wheat St. Church on Tuesday.

On Wednesday, he addressed groups at Spelman and Morris Brown Colleges. The Baltimore minister will return to his home church, Shiloh Baptist, on Sunday.

AFRO Editorial Quoted to House Banking Unit

WASHINGTON

Edgar G. Brown, director, National Negro Council, appeared before the House Banking and Currency Committee on Tuesday and demanded that the anti-discrimination and anti-segregation amendment voted down by the Senate in the multi-billion dollar national housing legislation be inserted in the bill.

Mr. Brown quoted from an editorial in the Washington AFRO-AMERICAN which condemned the so-called liberal Democrats and Republican Senators of the North who ran out on the civil rights issue, when they had a chance to vote and not talk. They chose to join the Dixiecrat filibusters and enemies of colored citizens in the Federal housing program.

Raps Lily-White Projects

Brown said, "the 1,000,000 colored veterans who lived in foxholes for five years during the war are not happy to have Congress taxpayers for lily-white projects such as Stuyvesant which is marked for "Whites and their Families Only, No colored, Cats or Dogs Allowed," Brown continued, "colored citizens did everything to elect the President and the Democratic majority. If the Dixiecrats had had their way, the Democrats would have been out, not in. "It is time for the Democrats in Congress and the White House to remember their civil rights pledges and to uphold the Constitution and Supreme Court.

Brown declared that Senators Humphrey, Douglas, Taylor, Taft and other Northern Senators who joined to defeat the anti-discrimination and anti-segregation provision in the national housing bill in the Senate last week ran out on their civil rights and promises. Harold Brown spent several days visiting in Brooklyn.

Asbury Rideout is visiting in Florida.

Miss Pauline Fields of New York, has returned after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Granger.

Miss Agnes Mitchell spent the week-end visiting in Washington and Philadelphia. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brown spent several days

Coach Hill's Father Dies in East Orange

EAST ORANGE, N.J.—A. A. Hill, 82, of 18 S. Munn Ave., died at his home here early Friday morning after an illness of several months. He was the father of Talmadge L. Hill, basketball coach of Morgan State College in Baltimore.

A native of Smithfield, Va., he operated a grocery store on the same corner here for 50 years. He was a member of Union Baptist Church, and served as treasurer for 45 years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Eliza A. Hill; his son and two grandchildren, Freddie and Talmadge Jr. of Baltimore.

Mortician's Aide Dies in Hearse

ABERDEEN, Md.—38-year-old handyman was found dead here, Monday morning, in the hearse he frequently cleaned for an undertaking establishment.

Police surmised that James Giles entered the unlocked garage sometime Sunday night, took a seat in the hearse, and turned on the motor and heater to keep warm.

Garage Gas Chamber

The next morning, John Tarring, an executive of the company, found Giles dead on the seat. The garage was filled with carbon monoxide gas. Tarring told police Giles worked around the establishment and did odd jobs for various members of the owners' family. Mrs. John Tarring the executive's wife told the AFRO. Police said Giles had been drinking before his death.

32 Years of "Telling the Editor"

Mrs. Smart Writes Regularly to Editors, Says It Pays Off

Mrs. Maude B. Smart, above, is shown writing a letter to a newspaper on the typewriter she has used to pound out over 2,000 such letters. Mrs. Smart is also a frequent letter to the editor herself.

Mrs. Maude Bell Smart has been writing letters to newspaper editors for 32 years. She has written over 2,000 such letters.

One of Baltimore's most militant civic leaders, Mrs. Smart belongs to that vast army of persons who take advantage of the opportunity to express their views through the press.

This band of amateur writers is now so large that practically every newspaper in America has a special column devoted to letters from its readers.

The practice of writing letters to newspapers is as old as journalism itself. The authors of these missives receive no pay for their efforts and they have to pay for their postage. Yet, they continue to write letters to the editor. Why do they do it?

Mrs. Smart, who is a commanding figure in any crowd, in addition to making herself heard through the press, she often tosses a bombshell into staid public gatherings by bringing up subjects that others consider too "hot" to discuss.

A champion of women's rights, she penned her first letter for publication in 1919. Since then she has written on every phase of the women's rights question. She uses her letters to newspapers, either commending or condemning some action or anticipated action. Most of her epistles have seen the light of print.

She has written letters to the Baltimore Afro-American, the Baltimore Sun, the Evening Sun, the Baltimore News-Post and the Baltimore Evening Sun. She has been writing to the editor.

Interviewed at her Druid Hill Ave. home, Wednesday, the former school teacher, Training School, Mrs. Smart followed up her expose by heading up the Committee for the Establishment of Cheltenham, which proved deep into Maryland's school teachers' irregularities at Cheltenham Training School years.

Advice to Help People

Though approaching an age when most persons are on the verge of retirement, Mrs. Smart leads a vigorous life that would exhaust most younger persons. She is a member of the Board of Directors of the Y.W.C.A., a member of the Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A., and a member of the Board of Directors of the Y.W.C.A.
