Gateway to Gayway

By GEORGE D. TYLER

The "Popular Bartender-Bar-Maid" contest terminated Monday night at the SPHINX Club in a disturbance of glory. Charley Tilghman and his cohorts threw a party for the winners and their fans that wouldn't quit with deluxe hospitality service over the bar by Albert Jones, Tiny Dent and George Hayes.

Doc' Woingust, the zany quick-change character, got the entertainment off to an early start and it did it jumping until "dies out."

This column takes this means to thank all of the gang here for a pleasant evening. Our thanks too, to William Clinton for taking time out at the COMEDY to shoot pictures of the contestants. Very prompt service.

Contributions to Contest

Twenty-five bucks went to Jack Bowder, bar man at Roy Jones' GAYWAY and a like sum to through the courtesy of Johnnette Jackson, of the COZY CORNER for which we thank the following donors: Joe Mazer, Olde Mill, $20; Ike Dixon, Comedy Club, $10; The Frolic, $5; The Bridge, $5, and the Cozy Corner, $10. Carroll Lawson, runner-up, received a half case of whiskey from Theophilus JONES' Tavern and Jenny Gross an album of records from Bobby's radio shop. Mary Burns, florist, presented Miss Gross and Mrs. Sarah A. Lawson with corsages.

Last year's winner, Vickie Clark, now serving at the ORLEANS, was chosen to crown Nannette.

For entertainment there were Earl O'Mara, emcee of the CLUB 13; the Jr. Red Caps, the Magic Tones, a mixed foursome; Vernon Blagmon, tenor; thrush Mary Richardson and Mary Williams, canary and the Mellotones acts appeared

The affair attracted Dr. Bernard Harris Jr., Jenny of the Orleans, Oliver Travers, ex-popular chirper, now doing concert work; John Smith, manager, Jones' Cocktail Lounge; Mary of the Riggs, Bill Boardley, Vince Delaney, both popular 88 artists; Kitty Palmer, "Good Going" Turk, Moe Gisberg, and many, many others.

The 13, after a cancellation of the original opening for its talent hunt, will soon announce the next date. Wilbur Phillips, of the 4 Links, accompanied by his guitarist and bassist, dashed off to NYC to spend a few days with his mates. The band returns to the OLDE MILL Saturday with matinees Sunday and Monday.

Melvin "Mellow Man" Spears and his trio are week end features at LITTLE WILLIE'S, where Gerald Butler welcomes you to a nice place for nice pipple. Eddie Gough and his Aces, featuring George Palby's sensational electric guitar work and crooning, heard Friday and Saturday only at the SOUTHSIDE, our sole Baltimore St. rendez . . . ED'S getting set to introduce music in the quieter, mellow manner without detracting from the present atmosphere.

For good service, either in bar or lounge, the COMEDY can't be beat. The Dixon's are spending plenty of cash to bring you top combos but know that good service is also a major factor, at the musical bar, you get just that from Pye and Kitty. Out front that lovely Granger lass is tops in serving and about the queen of lookers. Get a load of Ernie D. and his 3 G's before they cut out Sunday nite . . . Like to dance? Then visit the low priced nitery off stroll, the KNOTTY PINE, where Sam Taylor and his Be-Boppers keep the moments from getting dull.

It seemed like old times to see Naomi Lewis, of the Aces fame, smacking the ivories at the Sphinx Monday nite . . . Johnny Osborne is behind the "Filters," that new musical rave, now doing week ends at JONES's Lounge. Ring Goldie, ex-bar maid, dropped in. Looks better than ever. Dukie doing bar chores here.

Housewife, Her Mate Snared in Digit Trap

Capt. Alexander Emerson arrested a housewife, her husband and another man, charging them all with operating a lottery, Tuesday. They were held for action of the grand jury, following a hearing in Northwestern police court.

Charged were Mrs. Ernestine Long, 26, and Willie G. Long, 33, both of the 1500 block Smallwood St.; and Norman Holden, 29, of the 2200 block of Ruskin St.

Captain Emerson testified that he found slips and tapes representing 9,117 numbers plays and a $1,675 "take" from some 15 stations, in the Long's home. Holden, who was described as a pick-up man, came to the house shortly after noon, while the raid was being staged, Emerson said.

NAACP Board Grieves Over Chas. Houston

NEW YORK — The profound grief of the NAACP at the untimely death of Charles H. Houston, chairman of the national legal committee, was expressed in the following statement released Tuesday by Dr. Louis T. Wright, chairman of the NAACP board of directors.

"America lost a great citizen in the death of Charles H. Houston. His faith in his fellow man was without limitation. Those of us who knew him intimately and worked with him for so many years were blessed with his keen understanding and warmth of personality.

"Over and above his record as an advocate and a legal technician without peer, he will be remembered as the inspirational genius for all types of legal action based upon the recognition of the principles of the equality of man—that all men are equal before the law.

Believed in Service

"He believed that those with talent and position should use then on behalf of those not so endowed.

"Charles H. Houston, always a champion of minority rights, was responsible for the long line of decisions in the United States Supreme Court and other courts, protecting the civil rights of colored Americans.

"He set up the modern planned legal program of the NAACP at a time when he was the only lawyer on the staff. From that time on, it was his guiding spirit which helped bring about our enviable record of favorable court decisions in the field of civil rights."

AFRO Workers Honor Houston

Members of the editorial department of the AFRO-AMERICAN held brief memorial services in the Baltimore office, Wednesday at 1 p.m. for Charles H. Houston, renowned lawyer and champion of civil rights.

The services were held at the same hour funeral rites were being conducted for Mr. Houston, at Howard University's Rankin Memorial Chapel in Washington.

Carl Murphy, president of the AFRO, reviewed the successful court fights Mr. Houston had made in Maryland and other parts of the country and praised him as the "finest Constitutional lawyer in America."

He pointed also to the tremendous volume of work Mr. Houston did in the case of colored railroad firemen, still in court litigation, for equal rights under the law and that he was a friend of labor and the little man.

Was Outspoken

Mr. Murphy recalled that Mr. Houston could have been a Federal judge or dean of Howard U. Law School or even president of Howard or held any number of other high offices but the reason he did not get such posts was that he was too outspoken.

He remembered that at one time Charlie Houston called General MacArthur a liar when he said there was no jim crow in the Army and at another time he called the President's hand for failure to release a directive ordering the Capital Transit Company to halt segregation.

William I. Gibson, editor of the AFRO, said it was significant that despite his high educational qualifications, Charles Houston was "so human that persons who met him for the first time or visited him in his office, felt free to call him 'Charlie'

"Uncompromising Foe"

"He sacrificed his health and possibly wealth, Mr. Gibson said, "because he was an uncompromising foe of segregation, even if it meant calling General MacArthur a liar or pointing out the shortcomings of a President of the United States—that price was not too great to pay. He gave his life in the interest of his race."

Mr. Gibson expressed the hope that many Marylanders would apply to the University of Maryland for study inasmuch as it was Mr. Houston's legal work which helped opened the schools' doors.

Samuel Haynes, copy reader, suggested that the two best ways those left behind might perpetuate Mr. Houston's ideals are to bombard the University of Maryland with applications and give generously to the scholarship fund, initiated by former law students to educate his six year-old son.

James Reid, promotion manager of the AFRO, suggested that the AFRO take the leadership in making the scholarship fund known to all AFRO readers and serve as a depository for contributions in the name of Charles Houston.

Frontiers to Mark Chas. Houston Day

"Charlie Houston Day" on next Tuesday at the Frontiers Club meeting, will be marked by the appearance of a number of persons who figured in the civil rights cases which the late lawyer won in Maryland Courts.

Among those invited to take part on the program are:

Donald G. Murray, attorney, first University of Maryland Law School graduate;

Walter Mills, Frank Butler and Howard Pindell, who were involved in the Maryland County teachers salary equalization cases.

Henderson Arranges Program

Charles Law, mortician, plaintiff in the Carroll Park golf case, Mrs. Louise Kerr Hines, plaintiff in the Pratt Library training class suits; and Miss Esther McCready, who was granted admission to the University of Maryland School of Nursing by a recent decision of the Court of Appeals.

In charge of arrangements is Paul S. Henderson, the Frontier's program chairman.

Family, Dignitaries Pay Last Respects to Houston

Above William C. Houston father of Dr. Charles Houston and Mrs. Henrietta Houston, widow of the lawyer, are assisted from Rankin Memorial Chapel by attendant from the McGuire Funeral Home which handled the service.

Among those in attendance at the services were left to right: Leon A. Ransome, William C. Hueston, educational director of the Elks, supreme court Justices Hugo Black and Tom Clark and Judge Edgerton of the U.S. court of appeals.

The body of Dr. Charles H. Houston is carried from the Rankin Memorial Chapel at Howard University following rites attended by Cabinet members, Supreme Court Justices and the man in the street.

Lawyers' Guild to Redouble Its Efforts in Tribute to Houston

WASHINGTON

Clifford J. Durr president of the National Lawyers Guild, expressed this week, the sentiments of the guild on the untimely passing of Charles H. Houston, distinguished Washington lawyer, who was a vice-president of the guild. He said in a message to the widow:

"It is a misfortune of our country that it has produced so few leaders in American life endowed with his rare qualities of mind of spirit and of heart.

"He was, above all, a man of high principles, and broad vision. No temptation of honor or pressure of hysteria moved him from his course of service to those principles.

Crusader For Unity

"He saw that though colored people were oppressed by their white brothers, the unity of all Americans must be sought in the fight to win full equality.

"He saw the identity of interest between colored people and all other people; and so his interests went beyond the struggle for to his memory will lie in our re- civil rights for his people into doubled efforts in behalf of the the effort-to maintain and extend righteous cause he served so the civil liberties of all. well."

"We loved and respected him know that our best tribute

10 Baltimoreans Attend Rites for Charles Houston in D.C.

Ten persons were in the Baltimore delegation which attended the funeral of Charles H. Houston, attorney, on Wednesday in Washington.

They were:

Mrs. Lillie M. Jackson, president; the Rev. J. R. Butler, vice president, and Dr. Charles E. Watts, treasurer, all of the Baltimore Branch NAACP; the Revs. Arthur J. Payne and V. K. Stokes, Mrs. Lacy Hayes, Miss Esther McCready, Earl Bundy, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Mitchell.

Five days before Mr. Houston's death, Mrs. Jackson presented him with a bouquet of flowers and a check for $300 in partial payment for his services in the University of Maryland cases. This was on behalf of the Baltimore NAACP.

This action moved Mr. Houston to tears.

the People's Congregational Church, declared that Dr. Houston deplored any type of walls that hemmed him or his race in and was ever fighting to break down those walls.

He asserted that the eminent lawyer had a keen sensitivity of family tradition and always kept the integrities of that tradition, using it to the best advantage in his relationship with his fellow man and to make for a better world and greater opportunities for his people.

The Rev. Mr. Elmes urged minority group people to face the struggles as Dr. Houston did and continue to break down the walls, if we would honor him.

Howard President Speaks

Dr. Mordecai Johnson, told of how Dr. Houston had come to the university as a young lawyer and set out to build a law school second to none in this country.

The Howard University president attributed the establishment of the first accredited law school in the country for colored students to the work of Dr. Houston.

He also gave him credit for the introduction of civil rights courses and opening a greater avenue of getting attention to the cases of colored lawyers in the Supreme Court of the United States and lower courts by thorough preparation.

Dr. Johnson said that the eminent barrister had influenced the increase in an invisible moral power in the Supreme Court that has resulted in its handing down decisions that have been revolutionary in their nature.

Other Participants Name

Dr. William S. Nelson, dean of Howard, read the Scripture; and Dean Daniel C. Hill offered the opening prayer. The Howard University choir, directed by Dean Warner Lawson, sang.

Judge Hastie declared, while reading the obituary of Dr. Houston, "What the law school of Howard University is today, he made it."

Body Lay in State

Frequent references were made throughout the services by all speakers to Dr. Houston's historic court fights such as the Gaines case, the restrictive covenant cases and more recently, the University of Maryland case that permits colored students to enroll in the University of Maryland School of Nursing.

Mr. Houston died on Saturday afternoon at 2:15 p.m. at Freedmen's Hospital, where he had been confined with a heart condition.

The body lay in state at the McGuire Funeral Home from 5 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Tuesday, April 25, and from 9 a.m. to noon at the Rankin Chapel on Wednesday, April 26.

The coffin was draped in an American flag. Interment was in Lincoln memorial cemetery.

Among the honorary pallbearers, and dignitaries attending the funeral were:

Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark, Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black, U.S. Court of Appeals Justice Henry W. Edgerton, City Councilman Earl Brown, Superintendent of District Schools Hobart Cawing, Assistant Superintendent Garnet C. Murray Elected Chairman of Houston Memorial Fund

Donald Gaines Murray, the first University of Maryland Law School graduate, was elected chairman of the Charles Hamilton Houston Memorial Fund Committee to raise funds for the deceased lawyer's 6 year-old son.

Colored law school alumni met on Tuesday at the NAACP office and voted to establish the fund for he education of Charles H. Houston Jr., as "a human and enduring tribute to the ability of his father."

Other Officers Named

Other officers are:

Calvin Douglass, Ernest Perkins, W. Emerson Brown Jr., George P. Rosedom, William D. Taylor, James L. Bundy, George L. Parrish, Harry A. Cole, and Linwood Koger Jr., vice-chairmen; Mrs. Juanita J. Mitchell, secretary; Milton B. Allen, financial secretary; and Robert B. Watts, treasurer.

Present law school students and plaintiffs in the civil rights cases on which Mr. Houston worked will be asked to serve on the executive committee.

Those who have consented are: Mrs. Louise K. Hines, chairman of publicity; Miss Esther McCready, in whose behalf the Court of Appeals decision opened the University of Maryland School of Nursing; William Teadvine, and Wendell G. Freeland.

Fund Drive Launched

These officers and board members will spearhead the fund-raising drive. Appeals will be made to:

County teachers, who are now receiving an estimated 1½ million dollars that they would not have received except for the equalization of salaries in 1936;

Students who have received or are now studying on out-of-state scholarships established in an effort to keep them opening other schools after the law school victory;

The faculty and student body of Morgan State College, which was purchased by the State in 1939 as another move to prevent further inroads by colored students at the University of Maryland;

Mr. Houston figured in all of these cases.

In addition, city school teachers and the general public will be asked to contribute to the fund.

CARSON MODELING SCHOOL MOVES TO NEW QUARTERS

The Carson School of Professional Modeling has moved from 1522 Madison Ave. to the second floor of 1201 McCulloh St., because of the increase in membership and the demand for more hours of training.

Houston Fund Group Wires Condolences

Officials of the newly established Charles Hamilton Houston Memorial Fund sent the following telegram to Mrs. Henrietta Houston, widow of the lawyer, Tuesday, in lieu of a floral tribute.

"We wish to express our deepest sympathy to you and your family in this hour of great bereavement.

"We know that nothing we can say will alleviate the pain which you must feel now. Those of us who have attended the University of Maryland Law School also feel a loss which is inestimable.

For Education of Son

"To express our appreciation of the great service which Charlie gave, not only to and for us, but for the American nation, we met today to establish the Charles Hamilton Houston Memorial Fund for the education of your son, who we feel, will work in the great tradition that Charlie established.

"We wish you to know that we felt that the gift of teaching and living that Charlie imparted to us and those around him, could only be repaid in small measure by something which is not ephemeral but enduring and human.

"The spiritual and human qualities which Charlie possessed can never die.

The message was signed by: The Charles Hamilton Houston Memorial Fund Committee—Donald Murray, chairman; Mrs. Juanita J. Mitchell, secretary; Robert B. Watts, treasurer.
