Free Chest X-rays Set for Midtown Baltimore

Residents of midtown Baltimore will have an opportunity to get a chest X-ray during the week of June 5, at School No. 10A, Fayette and Greene Sts. The survey will be open to the public from 4 to 10 p.m. every evening that week.

This area in Baltimore has an alarmingly high number of deaths each year from tuberculosis; and it is the hope of the City Health Department and the Maryland Tuberculosis Association that this survey will help make this section a safer place in which to live.

able to overthrow this separate-but-equal theory.

Others believe that in view of the stand which President Truman has taken on civil rights, the solidarity and forthright stand which the Justice Department has taken with Attorney General J. Howard McGrath and Solicitor General Philip Perlman arguing the cases themselves, putting the administration solidly behind a reversal of the old outmoded discriminatory policy, it might have some favorable bearing on the judges' decision. What will actually happen, nobody knows until Monday.

Postermaster to Head March of Dimes Drive

Neal A. Sibley, Baltimore postmaster, has been named general chairman of the 1951 March of Dimes.

Shotgun Blast Fells 3rd Flaming Cross in County

PARKTON, Md.— A fiery cross appeared suddenly in a farm yard here, shortly before midnight, Tuesday, and blazed brightly until a white neighbor knocked it down with a blast from his shotgun.

It was the third burning cross, long known as the hate symbol of the Ku Klux Klan, to appear in Baltimore County within a year.

The latest cross was discovered at about 11:15 p.m., buring in a planted field near the home of Paul Kelbaugh, white, who lives on Pretty Boy Dam Rd., about a quarter-mile south of the dam.

Cross 5 Feet High

Made of white pine, the cross stood about 5 feet high, and was held together with two large nails. It had a 4-foot crossbeam and appeared to have been hurriedly constructed.

The cross was first seen by George Wike, 19, a boarder at the Kelbaugh home, Mr. Wike said he came in about 11 p.m. and did not see the cross.

Looking out of an upstairs window 45 minutes later, he said, he noticed it burning in a planted field about 15 feet from the house.

Wike said he called to Mr. and Mrs. Kelbaugh who were downstairs watching a television show, then took his shotgun, went outside and shot the cross down.

Mr. Kelbaugh then put the fire out with a bucket of water.

Police "Find No Clues"

County police, working under Sgt. Charles J. Scherer of the Cockeysville station, talked to occupants of neighboring farms but stated they were unable to find any clues.

One neighbor reported hearing an automobile on the Kelbaugh farm about the time the cross was burned, but was unable to give a description of the machine.

No Colored Farm in Area

Sgt. Tom Powers, head of the Pikesville station, said he doubted that racial hatred led to the cross burning. He declared:

"There isn't a colored family living within five miles of where the cross was burned. That's all farming country, and the neighbors seemed puzzled at the incident."

Sergeant Powers was among officers credited with solving the other Baltimore County cross burnings last September.

He traced the culprits through bolts used on the cross and prepared a case that resulted in conviction of four white youths.

Sandy Bottom Episode Recalled

One of the crosses was set afire on a lonely road in Sandy Bottom, just north of Towson, the same day the new Carver High School opened in the area.

Vigorous opposition to construction of the school had been voiced by a segment of whites in the community.

The second cross appeared on York Rd., near the Timonium Fair Grounds, while police were investigating the Sandy Bottom cross-burning.

Youths Involved Beat Rap

The four youths involved were never punished.

The county State Attorney intervened after they were convicted and asked that they be released in custody of their parents. The court granted the request.

Police expressed a belief that the most recent cross was the work of "pranksters." The hate symbol was made of relatively light wood and could have been easily carried by one person.

Accused in Car Theft Man Held on $4,000

Pleading guilty to the theft of a car, and to two other burglaries, Abraham Turpin, 24, of the 800 block N. Carey St., was held for grand jury action in bail totaling $4,000 Monday, following a hearing in Northern police court.

Third Cross in County

Patrolman N. T. Rosier of the Baltimore County Police Force at Cockeysville holds the cross that was discovered burning in a farm yard near Parkton, Md., Tuesday night. Police attribute the hastily-constructed cross to a "prank." The fiery cross was shot down by a neighbor.

Balto. Interracial Fellowship Sponsors Gala Fashion Show

Baltimore's first intercultural fashion show was held Friday eve. at Fulton Baptist Church under sponsorship of the Baltimore Interracial Fellowship. Chuck Richards was master of ceremonies.

The program opened with music, at selections by Miss Sophie Williams, piano, and Alfred Joyner, cello. Both are students at Douglass High School. Music for the showing of morning and sports clothing was provided by Mrs. Hilda Nelson.

Dresses and models for this scene, as well as for the tea scene, were provided by Mrs. Wilhelmina Shipley, representing Carver's Dress Shop, and the Home Economics department of the Douglass School and the Clara Barton Vocational School.

Wedding Finale

Mother-and-daughter ensembles were modeled by Mrs. Milton Dickman, Miss Susan Dickman, Mrs. Beulah Hunt and Miss Babara Hunt. Miss Bettie Green, violinist, and Miss Shirley Kindrick, pianist, students at the Peabody Institute, played the intermission interlude.

Milton Akcom, organist at the Leadenhall Baptist Church, was the musician for the wedding and finale.

The climax of the fashion presentation was the wedding scene with Miss Marian Jenkins, the bride, wearing her own bridal gown, of French imported moussseline de soie. Her maid of honor, Miss Harriet Castleman, wore a gown of shell pink taffeta. Herbert Norrix was the groom, and Bob Kaufman was best man.

The Rev. Cliff Jackson is pastor of the church.

Mrs. Jean Harris was the chief stage manager, and Mrs. Wilhelmina Shipley, Miss Rebecca Shapiro, and Mrs. Elise Hunt had charge of the dressing.

Millinery for the fashion show was provided exclusively by Mrs. Elise Hunt, whose original creations included a French imported sport and afternoon dresses. Mrs. Helen C. Brown was wardrobe and dressing room mistress. Properties for the show were provided by Clarence Roberts. Ushers were Mrs. Anna Nathanson and Miss LaVerna Wainwright.
