RING GAME DODGE:

Commissioners Adopt New Stalling Tactics

WASHINGTON

New strategy is being employed in an apparent move to forestall the appointment of a tan representative to the District Boxing Commission vacancy.

NAACP officials disclosed this week they have been informed by the District Commissioners that Guy Mason, one of the chief leaders, will not return to his duties officially until Aug. 1.

Mr. Mason, absent from his District Commission post for nearly a year because of illness, was given "permission" recently by his physician to return to work briefly, but not to resume a heavy schedule of duties.

Declines Interview

The Rev. Stephen Spottswood, president of the NAACP, disclosed that in the NAACP's visit to the District Commissioners two weeks ago, Mr. Mason sat in on the meeting, but did not take an active part that day. Whether this is being adhered to in every meeting on Tuesday and Thursday is not known.

All efforts to gain a personal interview with Mr. Mason failed. Mrs. Mr. Spottswood said. He revealed that Mr. Mason himself declined to meet with the group to discuss the District Boxing Commission situation.

This shying away from an interview came as a big blow to local groups who have felt Mr. Mason's return would mean that an appointment to the vacant post on the Boxing Commission would be made. It has been wide open nearly a year since the death of Thomas P. Morgan.

"Wait and See" Strategy

It has been advanced that the latest stall is a "wait and see" strategy to see how the bill introduced by Sen. Olin D. Johnston and Rep. John L. McMillan, both of South Carolina, will fare in the Senate.

The bill passed the House following the return of former Inspector Clarence Talley, now retired, to a vacancy on the boxing board. The bill waivers requirements that to serve on the board, one must be a bona fide residents of the District.

Should the bill get by the Senate, it will seal forever an opportunity for a tan candidate to get a position on the boxing board the trio of leaders, Col. Heinie Miller, Capt. John T. Agnew, who replaced Talley as a representative of the District Police force, and Talley.

Reappointed Easily

It will be simple for them to address the District Commissioners shortly before their terms expire, saying, "We all are available for reappointment for another term."

Grays Add 2 New Hurling Prospects

WASHINGTON

Although continually plagued by foul weather, Washington's Homestead "Grays are plodding along the rocky road to September, meeting the ups and downs of baseball business with a philosophic attitude.

Financially the situation has been rough, with 20 games rained out to date, which adds up to the worst spring the club has experienced in many years.

Competitively, however, the club is doing fine. As of Monday, the Grays had a record of 34 victories against 10 defeats, which is playing at an average of .772. Moreover, the club is displaying great promise for the future with several new players highlighting the future outlook.

Local Stars Shine

In this connection, Sam Jones, former Washington Black Sox hurler, and Conrad Dedeaux, the hottest prospect from Arlington, Va., are making rapid strides toward becoming regular members of the Posey men's pitching staff.

On the current road trip, Jones had two wins and no defeats, while Dedeaux won his only start, giving hurling chance. The Arlington youngster also has shown plenty of stuff in several relief roles. Both are looking forward to showing their wares before the home-town folks when the Grays return to Griffith Stadium on June 18.

Added to the sparkling trend is the good news that Roy Partlow, ace southpaw who left Philadelphia earlier this season for another fling at South American baseball, is slated to join the club within the week.

Partlow to Return

Partlow wired S. H. Posey, business manager, he was ready to rejoin the club early this week and the only barrier to the transaction is an agreement on terms and a definite understanding that he will remain.

If and when Partlow returns, the Grays' hurling staff will include Clarence Trice, Jesse Hill, Sam Jones, Conrad Deskins, Walter Johnson, Carl Johnson, Bill Randolph, Bill Dickerson and Jamie Blair.

Otherwise the lineup shapes up with Buck Leonard and the newcomer, Jim Petrese, first-baseman; Manager Sam Bankhead, second-base; Johnny Richardson, short-stop; Josh Gibson Jr., third-base; Buddy Armour, Charlie Gary and Luther Clifford, outfielders. Clifford also will double as catcher with Nap Napier, with Hill or Napier appearing in the outfield when Clifford handles the back-stop duties.

Unbeaten on Road

In last week's road games, the Grays defeated the Harlem Globe trotters nine, 12-6, at Dayton, Ohio, on Monday, and were rained out in Indianapolis on May 30. On May 31, at St. Joseph, Mich., they whipped the Ausens team, 8-6, in 11 innings, then swept two from Kalida, Ohio, and Kekeionga nine (Ft. Wayne, Ind.), 12-1 and 8-4, on successive days on the latters respective home diamonds.

This week the club is barnstorming with the New York Black Travelers with games listed for Ravenna, Ohio, McKeesport, Pa., and Buffalo, N.Y.

Robinson Beats Villamain to Add New Title to Laurels

By FRANKLIN BROWER

PHILADELPHIA.—Sugar Ray Robinson added the Pennsylvania version of the world's middleweight title to his welterweight laurels by decisively out-pointing Robert Villemain of France in a 15-round bout Monday night at Municipal Stadium.

A crowd of 30,000 saw the lanky New York boxer gain an unanimous decision over his French opponent in a bout which turned into a slugging match after the greater part of it had been devoted to the fine points—of the Hitlic art.

Judge Harry Lasky and Frank Knaresborough each gave Robinson 12 rounds, with three for Villemain. Referee Charlie Dougherty awarded the classy Harlemite ten rounds and gave ive to the foreigner.

Two Knockdowns

There were two knockdowns in the contest—the first of them gave the stubby Frenchman a brief acquaintance with the canvas in the 12th round.

Up at the count of two, Villemain, calling upon ring savvy, survived the round and rallied with such ferre, he was able to deposit Robinson on his own haunches for a one count in the 13th.

Although Robinson unloosed his right crosses with vigor, indicating that he wanted to put an early ending to it all, the first ten rounds were notably lacking in violence, and at one point, a member of spectators were clamoring for more action.

Difficult Style

Fighting out of an unorthodox crouch, Villemain, in the early rounds proved a difficult target for Robinson to tag with his right crosses and uppercuts. As a result, the champion concentrated on the use of his left hooks and jabs. His opponent, in retaliation, scored frequently with his own left hook but was unable to match the long-limbed Robinson in the jabbing department.

The Harlem battler entered the ring at 155 pounds—three more than expected. Villemain scaled 150½.

Pennsylvania was the only state which recognized the fight as title bout. Other states affiliated with the NBA and New York recognize Jake LaMotta as middleweight champ.

Cochrane Denies A's Hope for Doby

Mickey Cochrane, general manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, on Friday, denied a report that the local American League entry was going to obtain Larry Doby in a six-man trade with the Cleveland Indians.

The report indicated that the hard-hitting outfielder, Dale Mitchell, another flyhawk, and Catcher Jim Hegan were coming to the A's in exchange for Centerfielder Sam Chapman, Pitcher Joe Coleman and Catcher Mike Guerra.

Sugar Ray Yarn Draws Praise

The career of Sugar Ray Robinson as a boxing master and business genius makes for interesting reading in a by-lined story appearing in the current edition of a national magazine.

A vivid description is given of the Harlem Sugarboy's unmatched brilliance in the ring, the author ranking him among the all-time greats of the squared circle. The yarn tells of Robinson's climb from an unknown amateur to the world's most accomplished professional, all under the guidance of George Gainford.

In addition, the story paints Sugar Ray as a tireless businessman, builder of large financial interests, and a smart investor.

It also points him up as a haughty individual, proud of his hard-won success and business enterprise, and one who lives by the cold philosophy, "Nobody gives you nothing."

New Training School Urged

building.

2. That the three classes of students now attending Coppin be allowed to continue study in that institution.

Ideas Based on Survey

Dr. Pullen's proposals were based on information obtained in a survey made by two prominent educators in the field of training elementary school teachers—Dr. Forrest Irwin of New Jersey State Teachers College, Jersey City, N.J., and Dr. Walter E. Hager, president of Wilson Teachers College, Washington.

A confidential copy copy of their report was submitted to Governor Lane, and to member of the State Board.

The survey was made to determine the best course of action after the Baltimore City Board of Education decided to discontinue operation of Coppin effective June 30.

The problem was then studied by Governor's Commission on Higher Education, which recommended that students presently enrolled at Coppin be allowed to continue their training there; and that the State institution be turned in Baltimore, from which the majority of students come.

Serious Need Noted

In his report to the Board of Education, Dr. Pullen pointed out:

1. That the number of colored elementary school teachers in Baltimore has more than doubled during the past 20 years, chiefly because of increased enrollment.

2. That the colored elementary school enrollment will increase approximately 7,000 within the next five years, and will probably not reach its peak until 1957.

3. That approximately 230 additional colored elementary school teachers will be needed during the next five years, (exclusive of replacements due to deaths, retirements and resignations), with present Coppin classes being able to furnish between 125 and 150.

Dr. Pullen said if the Baltimore school system continues its present practice of selecting approximately two-thirds of its new teachers from the inexperienced, it will need from 35 to 45 inexperienced teachers each year.

Can't Operate for Small Group

He pointed out that the State Board of Education "cannot operate a teacher training institution for a single political subdivision of the State," and that if it operates a day school only, all students within commuting distance are entitled to enrolled. He surmised that, in the future, 10 or 15 more graduates would be needed annually for the nearby counties, making the total need for graduates from 50 to 60 annually.

He pointed out that an annual need of 50 to 60 graduates would justify a teachers college of approximately 300 students.

Needs for the remainder of the State will approximate annually about 100 teachers, justifying an institution of from 400 to 450 students.

No Salary Cuts

Dr. Pullen also suggested that allowance be made so as not to cause any reduction of faculty members' salaries as the result of the Coppin changeover from city to State administration which is due in September.

If Dr. Pullen's suggestions are approved, there will be two teachers training schools operated by the State for colored citizens. The Bowie College, established in 1911, trains teachers for county schools.

In addition, the State trains white elementary school teachers in institutions at Towson, Salisbury and Frostburg.

family horse, corn by the barrel for her chickens, and chimneys for her oil lamps.

Grandpa got a break. There were no pies, cakes, buns or rolls listed on ANY of the accounts. Of course, he broke up his beloved pipe, chewing tobacco and all those things for the family.

Milk was no milk or coffee was listed, and tea only once. Neighbor of yesteryear explained that in those days Mrs. Housewife bought her milk and cream from the dairy. Mrs. Housewife bought her coffee beans and did her own grinding.

Shame on "Mr. Atomic Man" if career girl, Mrs. A., had to grind her own. Mr. Atomic Man!

Occasionally, ginger snaps and crackers appeared in the lists. Candy, never, and we know there were children.

In 1882, prices fluctuated much the same as they do now. Five cents down on one item, two cents up on three items. So the weekly totals for January and December were much the same.

Note: the following lists are not intended for balanced meals. They show what housewives could buy with five dollars then, and Mrs. A. with five now. Note the difference in quantities.
