Cherry Hill Democratic Leaders Answer Charges

Say They're Bonafied Party Executives; Hit Foes as 'Disgruntled Mahoney Backers'

Cherry Hill precinct executives, this week, answered charges leveled against them recently by a community group seeking to have them removed from office.

In a joint statement, the executives, Evinger Tribble, Thomas Pillmore and Douglase Campbell, insisted they were bonafide Democratic Party representatives in the community and intended to remain so.

The precinct executives said they were appointed by the ward executive, three months ago, on the basis of their "potential ability to get votes and their work in prior elections."

Cite Accomplishments

The executives pointed to formation of the Cherry Hill New's Democratic and Civic Club and said that all male Democrats are eligible for membership. They also cited the establishment of polling places in the area.

Turning to the accusations made by Alexander Brown and a group of Cherry Hill residents, the executives said:

"The disgruntled, led by Mr. Brown, have organized solely for the impending election to support George P. Mahoney and his ticket. It is regrettable that prejudice is being drummed up to attract a following."

No Action Yet Taken

The citizens committee headed by Mr. Brown had charged that the precinct executives had failed to participate in civic projects of the community.

On this ground, the committee asked Judge Wyatt, ward executive, to remove the three men from office. No action along this line has been taken to date.

Meanwhile, the Brown faction has pledged support to Mr. Mahoney who will speak at an open air meeting in Cherry Hill 8 p.m. tonight (Friday).

HARK, HARK, THE DOGS DO BARK:

Court Session Fails to Ensure A. M. Quiet

The "case of the barking dogs" was aired in Central police court, Wednesday; and after a half-hour of testimony by a battery of witnesses the dogs were still barking.

The complainant was made by the Rev. E. B. McDaniel, pastor of Philadelphia Baptist Church against noise made by dogs in the 200 block Colvin St.

The Rev. Mr. McDaniel and members of his congregation charged that the barking, howling and general fuss made by the dogs in the "quiet of the night" interfered with their sleep.

Warning Owners Fruitless

Their contention was supported by Patrolman William McGee, who recently worked the night shift in the area. Officer McGee said the dogs seemed to be making the most noise between 3 and 5 a.m.

The policeman said the dogs continued their outlandish noise, even after he had warned the owners.

One of the three women summoned to explain why their dogs were keeping such ungodly hours, said the noisy animals she kept was not her dog and that she was keeping the pet while her brother, its owner, did a term in jail.

Jurist Fails to Catch Hint

She assured the court that when her brother was released, the dog would remain quiet at night.

The jurist, however, failed to "rise to the woman's bait" and order the release of the imprisoned dog owner in order to give the plagued neighbors surcease from the lonesome wails of the animal.

Magistrate Cadden dismissed the charges and gave all three of the women another chance to keep their dogs quiet at night. The complainants lived on Exeter St. a block west of Colvin.

New Traffic Rule Asked for County

License Suspension Powers Recommended

Judge Joseph M. Wyatt recommended, Thursday, that county magistrates be empowered to suspend drivers' licenses of persons convicted of serious traffic violations.

The chief magistarte of Baltimore's traffic court made the suggestion to city and State officials meeting in the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles office. The proposal will be presented to the Highway Safety Council which is composed of 125 magistrates from throughout the State.

If approved by the council, the proposal will be passed on to the Legislative Council, for eventual passage into law by the State Legislature.

Series of Measures

It is one of a series of steps being taken by the magistrates in an effort to curb Maryland's mounting accident rate. Last week Governor Lane called the magistrates together and recommended "drastic action" to reduce the highway death rate.

In some counties, jail terms are being imposed on convicted speeders, instead of the usual fines.

In Baltimore City traffic courts, magistrates have the authority to suspend drivers' licenses for a period up to 90 days. However, county magistrates do not have this power.
