They Speak for Women Voters

Mrs. Edward Atkinson, vice president of the Baltimore League of Women Voters (left), interviewed a new member, Mrs. Gilbert L. Banfield, over station WBMD, last week. Mrs. Banfield spoke of the benefits to be derived from League membership.

500-Unit Private Housing Project Set for Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS — Ground will be broken next Spring for a three-million-dollar housing project and shopping center in Camp Parole. The project will be the largest private housing venture ever undertaken in the Annapolis area.

Plans for the development were revealed on Monday night during an NAACP meeting attended by some 200 person in Asbury Methodist Church.

J. Donaldson Parr, representative for the Henry A. Knott Company of Baltimore, which will build the houses, said the "company is going ahead now with the first 25-unit group.

The Annapolis NAACP, which has long been concerned with the acute housing shortage here, expressed approval of the undertaking.

The Rev. David H. Croll, president of the local NAACP chapter said that more than 60 persons have already applied for the new homes.

Governor at Meeting

Attending Monday's meeting were Gov. W. Preston Lane, O. Bwoie Duckett, chairman of the local Citizens Planning and Housing Association and Mrs. D. Elwood Williams Jr., also of the CPHA.

Mr. Duckett said that figures gathered by his association revealed that 889 colored in Annapolis, 691 are substandard. He asserted that 5,0000 colored persons are now crowded into 889 homes.

Mr. Parr disclosed that the houses will sell for $6,000 with a round rent, whichever the buyer chooses. The payments would total about $40 a month, lasting over a period of 30 years, after a $600 downpayment has been made.

"These terms are established by the FHA," Mr. Parr declared, "and are made long to enable persons with low income to buy their own homes. The homes can be paid for more quickly if the purchaser desires."

The project will be built in sections of 25 units. It is expected that between 400 and 500 homes will be constructed in the "garden" playground an recreation facilities.

A shopping center with 50 feet of frontage is allowed for in the plans. Stores and entertainment facilities will be constructed to meet the community's needs.

Two-Bedroom Buildings

The homes will be of cinder block construction, with a living room, two bed rooms, kitchen, dinette and bath. Each house will will be of two stories with built in air flow heating system.

If there is a demand for one or three bedroom houses, the company will build to suit this demand, Mr. Parr said.

LETTER FROM KOREA:

Pfc. Yancey Tells His Brother 'Things Rough'

(Ed. Note: This letter, written by Pfc. Morris Yancey to his brother, Louis, of 524 Bidgely St., won first prize in the AFRO's Letter-from-Korea Contest. Yancey is 23 and has spent three years in the Army having re-enlisted after his first two-year hitch. He was the son of Mrs. Sallie Yancey. Each week a prize will be awarded for the best letter submitted to the AFRO from Korea.)

Hi Louis:

I suppose you guessed that I was in Korea. I didn't want to tell Mama, but things are really rough; hear me when I tell you.

Last night was like the 4th of July. We were strafed and I was caught without a foxhole. I was missed by bullets about six inches or less.

Outfit Wins Badge

The outfit was awarded the Infantry Combat Badge a few days ago. This deal is rough. No one knows a North Korean from a South Korean. We are resting now somewhere along the coast.

When I get home, I'll really have something to celebrate.

Well, that's about all. Hold down everything until I get there.

MORRIS YANCEY.

Women Voters Body Broadcasts

As a new member of the League of Women Voters, Mrs. Gilbert L. Banfield of 722 N. Fulton Ave. was interviewed last week over Radio Station WBMD by Mrs. Edward Atkinson, local vice-president of the league.

In answer to the question: "What does the League offer women?" Mrs. Banfield said it stressed the opportunity for women to learn of the agencies, functions and responsibilities of government from the local to the international levels.

Aids Effective Functioning

This knowledge, she continued, enables and encourages the members to function effectively in political parties.

Mrs. Banfield said the league is completely non-partisan, and urged all women over 21 years of age to join.

MRS. RACHEL BOYER

Funeral service for Mrs. Rachel Boyer, 1134 Chesapeake Ave., Towson, Md., who died Aug. 13, were held at Mount Olive Baptist Church, Wednesday. She is survived by her husband, Edward, her mother, Mrs. Carrie Beamer, one stepson and one brother. Interment was in Pleasant Rest Cemetery.

Clean Blockers Show Their Talent In More Ways Than One

The 800 block of N. Central Ave. which holds a rating of A plus in the 16th annual AFRO Clean Block Campaign. Final judging for the 230 blocks registered in the drive started Tuesday. Over 4600 children are signed up.

Two finalists in the third annual AFRO Clean Block Talent Show were Sherwood Sledge, 11, of the 1200 block N. Eden St., and Miss Elizabeth Payne, 16, of the 1700 block N. Dallas St. Both are singers.

The two finalists on the left are Misses Barbara Coleman, 10, and Nancy Gringe, 11, from the Somerset Project who did a dagger dance in the talent show, one of the features of the weekly clean block meetings at the McCulloh Homes auditorium. At right is modern dancer James King, 15, also from Somerset. The finalists will appear on the clean block closing program Sept. 1 at the Met Theatre.

The 100 block of N. Maderia St. which holds an A rating in the campaign which closes Sept. 1. Below are three singers who were also winners in the talent show. From left to right, are: Roosevelt Bond, 11, 400 block E. Federal St.; Roger Washington, 11, 1000 N. Stricker St., and Windell Hurtt, 14, 1400 E. Eager St.

Another A block is the 200 block of N. Durham St. Some 170 of the 230 blocks registered in the campaign, which opened July 1, will share cash prizes to be awarded at the Met Theatre Sept. 1. Prizes were contributed by Mayor D'Alesandro and the City of Baltimore and interested citizens.

The 900 block of N. Chapel St., in East Baltimore now holds a rating of A minus. Just two weeks are left in the drive for the blocks to raise their ratings.
