Gov. Lane Real Democrat in McCready Case Appeal

Levin Says Governor's Party Won't Repeal JC Law, Appoint Firemen or Open U. of Md.

The Maryland Democratic Party, represented by Gov. W. Preston Lane, is running true to form in relegating colored citizens to second-class citizenship.

This was the opinion expressed by Harry O. Levin, local attorney, at a meeting of the Maryland Federation of Republicans at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, Wednesday.

"Even at this very moment," Mr. Levin charged, "Governor Lane is making the unusual attempt to have the Supreme Court of the United States overrule the action of our own court of Appeals in the McCready case."

This case, Mr. Levin pointed out, "would open the doors of our State schools to colored people, instead of requiring them to leave Maryland and go to other States."

"Opposed to Equal Rights"

In a sweeping indictment of Democrats as Maryland's "reactionary" party, Mr. Levin also rapped the majority party for refusing to appoint colored firemen and refusing to allow colored people to use all of the city facilities of Baltimore.

"They have always been opposed to equal rights for colored people," he insisted, and "they wish to keep them second-class always.

"The Jim crow law is still on the books," he stated, adding, "it took more than 40 years to repeal the Declaration of Intention Laws."

Says Youth Is Fooled

Mr. Levin credited Gov. Harry W. Nice, a Republican, with "opening the way" for the appointment of colored policemen in Baltimore in 1936.

"The main trouble," he said, "is that we Republicans have no newspaper. Young people have been registering Democratic on the false theory that the Democratic Party is a liberal party."

Conceding that the Democratic Party may be the liberal in some States, Mr. Levin cited several areas in which he felt the Democrats had been historically reactionary. Among them were labor, women's suffrage and the so-called race problem.

Dearest Sister:

Just a few lines to let you hear from me. I am not as well as we all hoped I would be.

Yesterday I was shot. Don't worry. It's not too bad. I was only shot in the foot. It could have been worse, so please don't worry.

Well, so long for awhile. Will write again when I feel better.

Dr. Long Invited to Y Dedication

Dr. Howard H. Long, dean of the College of Education and Industrial arts at Wilberforce, will be guest at the dedication program of the Druid Hill YMCA annex on Sept. 10.

The outdoor program will be held at 5 p.m. in front of the half-million dollar annex and will be followed by a public inspection of the new building.

Over Half Million Spent

The cornerstone for the annex considered one of the most modern and fully equipped Y facilities in the United States, was laid in May, 1949. The entire expansion program, including renovations to the old building, cost nearly $517,000.

Plans for developing the size of the Druid Hill Y were formulated in 1945 and as a result the Building for Youth program was launched. Within three years the goal was attained, but actual construction was delayed because of the war.

The guest speaker, Dr. Long, is a member of the executive committee of the International YMCA committee.

Others to Participate

Other speakers on the program will be the Rev. Harrison J. Bryant, of Bethel AME Church; Hamilton C. Davis, chairman of the Building for Youth Campaign; J. Theodore Wolfe, vice president, Baltimore Y board of directors; W. Gordon MacGregor, general secretary of the Baltimore YMCA; the Rev. Baxter L. Matthews, of Union Baptist Church;

John A. Fricker, chairman of the Y building committee; Gerald S. Wise, president of the Baltimore YMCA board of directors; and J. B. Callis, chairman of the Druid Hill Branch board of managers.

Dr. Miles W. Connor, president of Coppin Teachers College and long-time Y worker, will preside.

The police department has granted permission for Druid Hill Ave. to be roped off between Wilson and McMechen Sts. during the hours of the ceremony.

Car on 'Deathway' Strikes Woman, 90

A 90-year-old pedestrian was treated for head injuries, Sunday evening, after being struck by a car on the "deathway boulevard" at Druid Hill Ave. and Lanvale St.

The injured woman is Mrs. Maggie Hughes of the 1200 block McCulloh St., who was treated at Provident Hospital.

Investigating officers said she was crossing Druid Hill Ave. when she was struck by a car driven by James A. Nelson, 36, of the 1700 block Druid Hill Ave. The motorist was cited for a Traffic Court hearing on a reckless driving charge.

NAACP National Officer Here for Member Drive

"We stand on the threshold of victory against segregation and discrimination in America today, but a complacent attitude at this point would set the race back several years," said Gloster B. Current, NAACP director of branches.

Here to conduct the 1950 membership campaign at the local office, 402 Dolphin St., he made the statement Wednesday night, as the steering committee mapped out plans of strategy.

"The NAACP is needed more today than ever before," he continued, "because of world factors and the local and national victories, recently won."

Member Goal 10,000

The goal this year is 10,000 members and 500 new workers are needed to make up a crew of 1000. The first few days of activity will be spent by Mr. Current and the committee in recruiting these workers.

Each block will have a worker; each section, a captain; and the sections have their goals. These are Northwest, 3500; West, 2,500; East, 1,500; South, 1,000; Schools, 1,000; special gifts, 300; interracial groups, 200.

A new feature in this year's campaign will be the concentration on groups such as labor unions, housing projects, barbers and beauticians, sororities, fraternities, business enterprises, taverns, neighborhood clubs, redcaps, porters and stevedores.

The campaign will be held from Oct. 1 to 20. "With your dynamic leader, Mrs. Lillie M. Jackson," concluded Mr. Current, "and the militant Baltimore spirit, the 10,000 goal can be reached."

YWCA Worker Hurt in Crash; Pal Killed

Mrs. Ethel Freeman, On Vacation in Indiana, Suffers Severe Injuries

On vacation from the Madison Ave. YWCA, Mrs. Ethel Freeman, the health education director, suffered a serious auto accident in Indiana, Saturday, in which three persons were killed.

One of the persons killed instantly was her friend, Miss Irene Harris, YWCA national board secretary who was traveling with Mrs. Freeman from her hometown in Richmond, Ind., to spend the afternoon in Indianapolis.

The other two victims, a white married couple, who lived in Centreville, Ind. were passengers in the car which crashed into Mrs. Freeman's.

Suffers Head Injuries

Now a patient at Reid Memorial Hospital in Richmond, Mrs. Freeman suffered severe head injuries, a fractured left arm, fractured right knee, and multiple cuts and bruises of the body.

However, her husband, Dr. Hilliard Freeman, said that she is much improved and appeared in a cheerful condition on Thursday.

He said the accident occurred about 4:30 p.m. Saturday on Route 40 about three miles outside of Richmond, on a three-lane highway which was wet with rain.

Mrs. Freeman's car was in an outside lane when a car traveling in the opposite direction skidded across the highway, causing the accident.

Due to return to work on Wednesday, Mrs. Freeman was spending her vacation with her family in her hometown. Miss Harris had been attending a YWCA youth conference at Earlham College in Richmond.

MRS. ETHEL FREEMAN

Long-Time Friends

The two women had been friends since they did YWCA work together several years ago. This was the first time they had met in about a year.

Miss Harris was a native of Columbus, O. although at the time she was working out of Atlanta, Ga. Funeral services for her were held on Wednesday in her hometown.

Mrs. Freeman, a tennis player of national repute, was semi-finalist in the mixed doubles event along with William (Babe) Jones at the National Tennis Tournament held at Wilberforce State College, Aug. 21-27.

Recent Tennis Winner.

During the recent Baltimore Open Tennis Tournament she won the women's singles in "love" sets. Listed among the first ten of the country's colored women players, she also won last year's Baltimore tourney, and is a three-time finalist in Pennsylvania tournaments.

Her husband, a graduate of the Howard University Dental School, is attached to the Bureau of Dental Health in Richmond.

Junior Herd Head Stabbed

Former Majorette Held by Police

WOUND NOT LETHAL

Ill Feeling Held Cause of Dispute

The director and organizer of the Junior Herd, an Elk drum and bugle corps unit, was stabbed in the chest on Tuesday night. A 19-year-old former majorette of the corps is accused of the cutting.

The director, 68-year-old Arthur L. Johnson of the 1300 block Mariana Ave. was confined overnight at Provident Hospital for observation and then released.

Arraigned before Magistrate Thomas L. Fitzpatrick in Northwestern police court, Wednesday, the alleged assailant, Miss Delores Jackson of the 1200 block Madison Ave., was released under $500 bail for a hearing on Sept. 19, pending Mr. Johnson's recovery.

Irked Over Reprimand

A member of the Sampson Brooks Lodge in the 1200 block Madison Ave., Mr. Johnson is the father of Mrs. Edith Gail, insurance worker; Mrs. Thelma Lawrence, local school teacher, and Dr. Arthur Johnson of Day Village.

The stabbing occurred in a neighborhood drugstore, where Miss Jackson helps out sometimes, although she is not employed there.

Members of the Johnson family said she was there on Tuesday, when the director called for his nightly papers.

Knife Recalled

Mr. Johnson rebuked Miss Jackson for not saving his papers and a dispute followed, during which he was stabbed.

The druggist said that the weapon, a pen knife, was the store property.

Reports are that there had been ill feeling between the two since the days when Miss Jackson marched under the direction of Mr. Johnson.

Matron Admits Brood Too Big to Care For

"As if my eight children weren't enough, she had to go off and leave her baby with me."

Thus spoke Mrs. Viola Kerson of 825 Aisquith St., after a young white woman failed to return for the 11-month-old girl she had asked Mrs. Kerson to care for "for a few hours" on Monday.

When the mother failed to show up for the child after six hours, Mrs. Kerson notified Northeastern District police, who took the child to Harriet Lane Home where it is being cared for.

Inducement Great

Mrs. Kerson, mother of eight children, said the woman came to her home about 1:20 p.m. on Labor Day and asked if she would keep the child for three hours at 75 cents an hour.

Mrs. Kerson continued:

"I told her that's a lot of money, that most people pay only 50 cents an hour, but she said 'since it's a holiday I'm willing to pay more.'

"Then I asked her for the baby's milk and diapers and she promised to return 'in a few minutes' with these items.

Felt Funny About Deal

"I felt kinda funny about the whole thing, but 75 cents an hour is good pay. When the woman failed to show up at 7:30 p.m. I called the police. They came and talked to me but didn't take the baby away until 10 p.m.," Mrs. Kerson added.

Police investigators traced the woman to a rooming house in the

Reds Slaughtered in 2-Day Barrage; Trapped Unit's Casualties Heavy

WITH THE 25TH DIVISION ON THE MASAN FRONT—Three batteries of the colored field artillery battalion (possibly the 159th: ed.), aided by one battery of a white artillery unit, were officially credited Wednesday with killing 650 of the enemy in a two-day period, when 3,000 North Koreans broke through our lines in action which began Sept. 1.

A white infantry regiment had been sent to the rescue. It met heavy enemy resistance and called for artillery support on a large scale.

The enemy unaware, massed for the attack. The Infantry asked for TOT barrage, meaning all possible artillery support on one position at a specified time.

Shells Hit From Three Directions

Though miles away from each other, the artillery units figured the time of the flight of their shells to the target, and at a co-ordinated signal all guns were fired at the same time so that the shells arrived on the target simultaneously for "shock action."

The lack of warning caught the enemy massed together. The slaughter resulted. The infantry moved in, took the position and found 250 of the enemy dead.

The batteries continued the co-ordinated fire on the re-

GI Reported Killed Felt 'Number Up'

A young Baltimore soldier who vowed he would not die with his hands tied behind his back, was reported killed in action in Korea this week.

Another local GI was reported missing; and a third wounded in the latest Department of Defense casualty list.

Pfc. Clayton J. W. Byrd of 1010 N. Dallas St. was reported killed in action one week after he had written his mother that he expected to die at the front but "it won't be with my hands tied behind my back."

Would Not Surrender

His relatives said this meant that Private Byrd would not surrender to the North Koreans under any circumstances, since it is reported that they frequently murdered captured American soldiers after tying their hands.

The soldier reported missing is Pfc. Robert J. McCain, son of Mrs. Carrie McCain of 425 Roundview Rd., Cherry Hill.

Baptists Re-elect Dr. D. V. Jemison

PHILADELPHIA

Dr. D. V. Jemison, aging president, and all other officers of the National Baptist Convention were re-elected here Thursday afternoon.

The election, by acclamation, followed adoption of a motion by the Rev. L. K. Pinkston of Atlanta. Also returned to office was Miss Nannie H. Burroughs as president of the Women's Auxiliary.

Jemison supporters quickly squelched the only rift in their otherwise smoothly working machine. The Rev. John Williams of Norfolk, Va., had offered a resolution calling for the election of Dr. Jemison as president-emeritus on a salary.

Working in committee, friends of the Baptist leader prevented the resolution from reaching the convention floor.

Only two offices remain to be filled. These are the newly-created posts of regional vice presidents. The positions were created during the 1949 convention in California. Election of these two officers was expected Friday.

Rev. M. Pinkston's motion also served to quell an expected rebellion over the Rev. T. T. Lovelace of Chicago as secretary of the Home Mission Board.

A strong move was under way to replace him with the Rev. V. A. Edwards of Nashville.

Infantry Regiments Integrated

ON THE MASAN FRONT WITH 25TH DIVISION (Sept. 6)—Small numbers of colored infantrymen are now being integrated into the previously all-white regiment—for the first time in the division. They are being integrated without reservation. On the other hand, white men recently assigned to the colored regiment (24th Inf. Regt., ed.) are all non-coms and being used solely to train South Koreans assigned to the regiment.

24th Regiment Commander Wounded

WITH THE 25TH DIVISION (Sept. 6)—The commanding officer of the all-colored Regiment (24th) was hit today by rifle fire when the regimental command post was fired on. (EDITOR'S NOTE: The 24th's CO is Col. Arthur Champeney, who on assuming command recently told his battle-weary men that "colored soldiers have a poor reputation as fighting men.")

2nd Battalion's Losses Heavy

WITH THE 25TH DIVISION (Sept. 6)—There is little information on the (24th) Regiment's 2nd Battalion, which was surrounded. Large numbers are still unaccounted for. Casualties are heavy. Hope is that many of the missing are stragglers. The foxhole roll call is very disappointing.

Schools Again Employ Shifts

Incompleted Buildings Advanced as Reason

Because of incompleted buildings, a large number of the approximately 40,000 children who answered the school bells on Wednesday will again face part-time and stagger-system classes.

Dr. Elmer A. Henderson, recovered from a severe illness, has returned to his desk after being out for several months last term.

Harold Fowlkes, former principal of School No. 456, has been named assistant supervisor of vocational education and will have his office in the Madison Ave. administration building.

Dr. Butler Dental Clinician

Dr. Lucius Butler will have charge of the dental work at Schools Nos. 112 and 113. Plans are in the making for dental clinics in various sections of the city for school children under 16 years of age.

There are 2,280 new pupils enrolled at Douglass High School. They will operate this year on a stagger-system. The first 11 class-

165th Truck Co. Departs

Kin See Loved Ones Off in Murky Dawn

Silhouetted against a dusty grey September morn, 18 vehicles bearing men of the 165th transportation Truck Company rolled from the outfit's home headquarters at Lafayette Market and Lanvale St., Thursday, headed for Fort Eustis, Va.

A ghostly silence covered the armory, as the wheels of the last six-by-six carrying members of the last component of the 231st Truck Battalion, rolled down Linden Ave. Brides, fiancees, sweethearts and mothers still waved as the police-escorted convoy merged and faded into the breaking dawn.

Bleak Weather, Bleak Hearts

It was a brisk morning and these women who were sending sons, husbands, brothers and cousins, to answer the call to duty, were wearing topcoats. Many had the collar turned up.

At 5:30 a.m., as the men lined up in the make-shift drill hall at the armory, for the final roll call before leaving, these women huddled in the doorway and listened until the last man was accounted for and the soldiers grabbed their equipment and headed for the trucks.

There were no tears. Wives kissed their husbands tenderly—mothers touched sons. Indeed with barracks bags — sisters reminded: "Don't forget to write"—an overnight bride repeatedly kissed a corporal, her husband of a few hours.

Whites Only Doing Job at City Hall

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third and final in a series of articles pointing up the number of city jobs for which colored persons are not hired.)

At Baltimore's City Hall building, colored persons, with rare exception, are employed only as elevator operators and messengers.

The other jobs, from the Mayor's variety of secretaries to the lowest paid clerks, are held by whites.

Running the Mayor's office alone is costing the taxpayers of Baltimore $82,923 this year. The breakdown follows:

The Mayor is paid $15,000 a year; his executive secretary, $4,950; director of public relations, $8,000; a secretary, $4,000; special assistants attached to the Labor Bureau, $7,000 combined;

A clerk, $3,000; veterans' counselor, $4,000; special assistant for legislation, $3,300; complaint clerk, $3,300; investigator, $3,300; two secretary - stenographers, $5,800 combined; two senior stenographers, $4,800; assistant secretary, $3,200;

Administrative assistant, $3,750; clipping clerk, $1,000; and messenger, $2,025.

Commission Nets 107 G's

The lily-white City Service Commission also is located at City Hall. Its staff consists of a personnel which consumes in salaries $102,010 of the commission's total budget of $107,010.

The staff includes:

A chief examiner, paid $7,500; an assistant secretary, $3,620; an examiner, $5,160; senior administrative officer, $3,650;

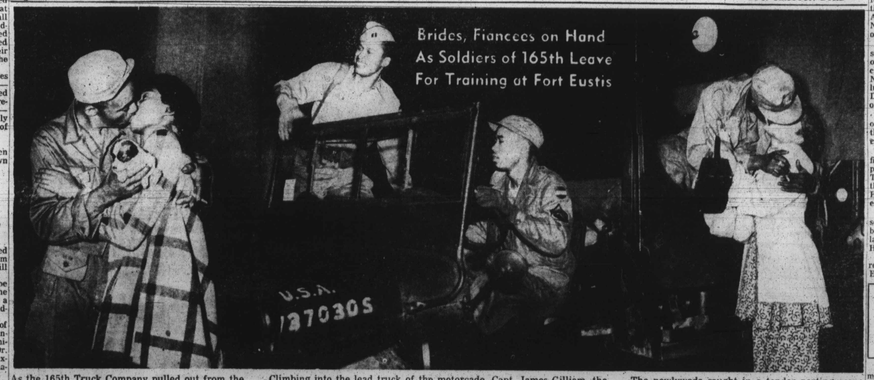
Brides, Fiancees on Hand As Soldiers of 165th Leave For Training at Fort Eustis



As the 165th Truck Company pulled out from the Richmond Market Armory at dawn, Thursday, Sgt. Clarence (Mike) Ingram planted a farewell kiss on his fiancee, Miss Delores Barnes. The disinterested pup is "Korea."

Climbing into the lead truck of the motorcade, Capt. James Gilliam, the CO, gives the signal for the troops to pull off. They were headed for Ft. Eustis, Va. The truck driver with sleep in his eyes is Sgt. Warren Tilley. Other units of the 231st Truck Battalion, Maryland National Guard, went on duty last week at Camp Edwards, Mass.

The newlyweds caught in a tender parting scene are Cpl. and Mrs. Walter Reddick. The couple was married Wednesday night, only seven hours before the soldier left for service. Bride is the former Miss Hattie Augins of Towson.
