Catholic Services Held for Mother of 13 Children

Father Alex J. Leedie, S.V.D., of Trenton, N.J., a friend of the family of Mrs. Maria Blair Hackett, came down to conduct her funeral services, Tuesday, at St. Peter Claver Catholic Church, Baltimore. Shown also are some of her 13 children leaving the services, and in the inset, another daughter, Gloria.

In Baltimore Churches

The Rev. M. B. Simpson of St. 22, Stevenson AME Church of Middle River, conducted the 3 o'clock services at Union Bethel AME Church Randallstown, Md. on last Sunday.

Mrs. Emma Swann will preach the annual Women's Day service at the Mt. Pleasant AME Church, Owing Mill, Md., Sunday, October 1.

The Gospel Choir of the Douglas Memorial Community Church will observe its 14th anniversary on Oct. 15 with a musical hour. Samuel Hopkins will be guest speaker at Sunday's meeting of Bahai community of Baltimore at 511 Park Ave. The meeting will be at 8 p.m. Hopkins's topic will be "The United Nations Fills a Need."

Pageant Presented

Tonight, the Myra Grand Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star will present a pageant at the Sharp St. Methodist Church entitled, "The Slave Maid of Israel."

The capital improvement fund at the St. James Episcopal Church now totals $2,346.50.

The St. James Children's Confirmation Class will meet on Tuesday, September 19.

Last Sunday, members of the Blind Association of Baltimore presented an afternoon program at the Douglas Memorial Community Church. Women of Christian Service were sponsors of the affair, which included musical selections by Arthur Warner and Mrs. Anna Mae Hunter, both pianists.

Miss Mareda Gaither, a student at the Juilliard School of Music in New York City, will be presented in recital on Sunday at 5 p.m. at Douglas Memorial Church.

Area Council Hears Bishop Urge Rise in Congregations

"Watch your congregations closer than your collections" was the advice of Bishop Alexander P. Shaw to delegates to the Baltimore Area Council of the Methodist Church which met this week at the Eastern Methodist Church, Eden and E. Hoffman Sts.

As keynote speaker, Tuesday, the resident bishop called for 10 percent increase in church membership, stating that a church's first consideration is the people whom it serves.

In listing some 12 major areas for improvement, the bishop further advised the delegates "to create and maintain a friendly and co-operative atmosphere in your churches."

Division Condemned

Quite often, he said, ministers attempt to control their congregations by arrying the so-called "common" people against the educated or professional people.

Condemning this division, the bishop said: "In Christ, there is no difference. No good. No bad."

He also encouraged the ministers to devise means by which they could help their memberships and communities. Ministers, he said, should be on the lookout for jobs for their members.

The bishop's address was in accord with the council theme, "Working Together With God."

4 Conferences Represented

Ministerial and lay delegates from the four annual conferences of the area—the Delaware, East Tennessee, North Carolina and Washington conferences — attended the three-day session.

The Leaders' Council, composed of the bishop, district superintendent, college presidents, directors of Christian education, conference lay leaders, Women's Society presidents and Youth Fellowship presidents planned council procedure Tuesday.

Dr. Edgar A. Love, head of the department of colored work of the Board of Missions, New York, delivered the inspiration address. The host minister was the Rev. B. M. Hargrove.

Other Speakers Listed

Other speakers were:

The Rev. R. M. Williams of Asbury Church, Washington, Daniel L. Rideout, superintendent of the Dover District, Delaware Conference, Richard H. Johnson, superintendent of the Washington District Washington Conference, and W. C. L. Scarborough of Saint Paul Church, Winston-Salem, N.C.

Discussion leaders were: the Revs. E. H. Crampton, Philadelphia, L. S. Moore, Philadelphia, M. W. Boyd, president of Morristown College, Morristown, Tenn., and Mrs. Gertrude Monroe, Washington.

Dairy calves between 4 and 6 months of age should have a concentrate mixture and hay in addition to pasture.

Final Rites Held for Rev. Robinson

RICHMOND

Funeral services for the Rev. Charles W. Robinson, pioneer business man and religious leader who became an ordained minister in 1944, were conducted Sunday at First African Baptist Church, the Rev. Y.B. Williams, pastor, officiating.

The pastor delivered the principal eulogy from the theme, "Citizenship in Heaven," while the pastor, characterized the deceased as a "conscientious worker," recalling his having led a drive at one time which added 1000 members to the church school.

Other speakers included the Rev. J. L. Loving, Edward Orange and Robert Pervall. Active pallbearers were members of the Ushers' Union of Richmond and Williams Lodge of Elks and honorary, Astoria Beneficial Club, Deacons' Conference and Deaconess Board of the church.

The letter from the church was read by Alonzo Person, a deacon.

Mr. Robinson, formerly proprietor of a laundry here, delivered his trial sermon July 12, 1944 in First Baptist, where he held membership for a long number of years. He was ordained by the church on recommendation of a committee composed of five ministers.

United Alliances Body Begun at St. Augustine

ST. AUGUSTINE Fla. — A St. Augustine chapter of United Alliances of which Dr. C. Leroy Hacker of Daytona Beach is the founder-president was set in motion on last Thursday night at a meeting in the auditorium of the Excelsior High School.

Dr. Hacker is fresh back from Drew University in New Jersey where he won his doctorate and began an intensive drive to stress United Alliances an organization aimed at counteracting communist influence in the South.

Two Added to Staff for Provident Nurses School

Two new staff members have been added to the Provident Hospital School of Nursing.

They are Miss Jennie Jergensen, director of education; and Miss Bertha T. Austin, clinical instructor.

Miss Jennie Jergensen, a native of Norway, but directly from the staff of University of Maryland, is acting-director of education. She received her early training at the Abington Hospital in Pennsylvania. She has studied at Temple University in Pa.

After graduation, she was placed on the staff there and served as supervisior of the men's ward, in surgical and medical. In 1941 she entered the Army, in administrative work, mostly surgical.

Served in Iceland

She served in Iceland for two years in this capacity, also as dietician. The hospital accommodated 3,000 patients.

In Europe she trained Corpmen (WACS ever here) for nurse duty in and out of the hospital. When she returned to this country in 1948, she went to Mississippi, and served as supervisior and assistant to the chief nurse for prisoners of war.

She has also served at hospitals in Georgia and other states, and at the University Hospital here.

Complete Co-operation

When asked for a statement concerning her coming to Provident, Miss Jergensen said, "I have been received just like another person. The co-operation has been 100 per cent. I really feel I am wanted. I only hope I can do a good enough job to justify the treatment I have received.

"I also hope this move on the part of the Board at Provident will have some effect on the Board of white hospitals, and open their doors to colored nurses. I sincerely feel this move is going to make a difference in the city."

The person who promised to serve as director of nursing education this year, notified the Board several days after her scheduled time to arrive that she was unable to accept the post. Miss Jergensen came to the rescue.

Well Trained Institute

Miss Austin comes from Jersey City, N.J. She is a graduate of New York's Harlem Hospital.

She served at the Jersey City Medical Center for a year, before accepting a post on the staff of Bellevieu Hospital, N.Y., which lasted three and one half years.

Her early education was obtained in the elementary and high schools of Jersey, her college work at the Jersey City State College.

Miss Austin listed her hobbies as tennis and modern dancing for her own entertainment.

Provident expects a new addition to the laboratory and is still in need of a nursing arts instructor.

It may be of interest to readers, that Miss Jergensen is not the first white member of the Provident staff, the lab head, who has been there two years is White; as are the pathologist and several consultants.

New Staff Members at Provident Hospital

Miss Jennie Jergenson, left, a native of Norway, is the new acting director of education at Baltimore's Provident Hospital Nursing School. She was formerly on the staff of the University of Maryland Nursing School. At right is Miss Bertha Austin, new clinical instructor at Provident, who is a graduate of Harlem Hospital. A native of Jersey City, she formerly worked at Bellevue Hospital in N.Y.

Martinsville Tale Reversed

Mother of 2 Attacked by White Resident

SUSPECT HELD

Dragged Matron Away From 3 Tots in Car

MARTINSVILLE, Va. — A 21-year-old white resident of this town, Friday, was charged with criminally assaulting a 29-year-old colored woman who lives in the nearby town of Bassett, after he had dragged her from her automobile in which three small children were also passengers.

The defendant is Vernon Frith, a part-time service station employee in West Martinsville, who was ordered held without bond for a hearing by Commonwealth Attorney C. J. Randolph of Henry County, after being identified by the matron in the office of the sheriff at Figsboro.

The complainant, mother of two children, told Sheriff Morton Prillman and deputies that she was attacked in the northern part of the county at around 2 p.m. on Friday.

Man Commandeered Car

She said that she and her own children, a boy, 5, and a girl, 3, with a 5-year-old girl of a neighbor, stopped in her automobile at a combination store and service station because the car was not running properly.

She said a white man, whom she later identified as Frith, appeared and told her that the place was closed, but volunteered to help her get the car started, since the battery had failed.

Frith, it was said, had followed the young woman in a taxicab owned by the Virginia Cab Company of Martinsville. He was said to have left the cab a short distance from where her car had stalled.

He helped her push the car off, she went on, and then insisted upon driving her to another service station at Oak Level on Route 220, 12 miles north of Martinsville.

There, the matron continued, the car was refueled and the man insisted that he should drive her and the children to Henry, her destination.

She added that when she protested that he was going in the opposite direction to the town, he told her that she would get there "eventually."

He parked the car on a side road leading from State Hy. 609, the woman said, and dragged her into some woods, where the attack took place.

Through a subterfuge, the woman told officers, she managed to escape from him and ran through the woods to the highway, walking several miles toward the town of Figsboro, before being picked up by a passerby.

There, she called the sheriff's office and reported the attack about 3:40 p.m. on Friday.

Fake Holdup Story Told

It was reported by a deputy sheriff that Frith walked into the sheriff's office about 40 minutes after the telephone call and said he wanted to "tell about a little trouble." he had with a colored woman."

According to officers, Frith said he was forced to drive down a side road when the woman stuck a pistol in his side. He denied that he had forced her to submit to his demands.

Frith, the officers said, was under the influence of liquor at the time and refused to talk further about the incident. They added, however, that they found no trace of a pistol at the scene of the crime or in the woman's automobile.

Children Start Walking Home

Police stated that the three children, who had been left in the car when the victim of the attack was forced to leave it, left the vehicle and walked two miles in the direction of their home before they were picked up.

The matron received medical treatment in Martinsville before being allowed to return to her home in Bassett, where she and her husband operate a small store.

No date has as yet been set for Frith's preliminary hearing, pending completion of the investigation. The cab driver was released without charge but is expected to be called as a prosecution witness.
