Killian-White Slayer May Enter Self-Defense Plea

LOS ANGELES (ANP) — Roy E. Parker, the man who fatally shot Al Killian, ex-Duke Ellington trumpeter, and his common-law wife, Vivian White, may use self-defense as his reason for shooting when his trial comes up.

He told a coroner's jury at the inquest last week that Killian had threatened him in an argument over $15 which the musician owed him.

On the other hand rumors were rampant that the woman was the cause of the tragic affair. It was said that she had duped the 76-year-old janitor - custodian out of money to help the trumpeter buy an automobile.

Parker worked at the Silver Thorn apartment house where the shooting occurred. Killian had lived there for the past six years, going away on tour with a band. At the time of his death he had returned from an engagement with Charlie Barnet's band.

Parker is reported to have served 15 years after being convicted for first degree murder in 1927. He was paroled from San Quentin in 1942.

FUGITIVE FOR 14 YEARS FREED IN CALIFORNIA

LOS ANGELES (ANP) — Eugene Backstron, known also as Nathan Scott, who escaped from a Mississippi prison in 1936 while serving a life sentence for armed robbery, was freed last week by Federal Judge James Carter. His $2,00 bond was held pending an appeal by Mississippi.

Romantic Splendor of the Far East

Yvonne De Carlo, exotic temptress, and Richard Greene in a scene from "The Desert Hawk," now playing the Harlem.

It Happens in 'Sunset Boulevard'

In a fit of uncontrollable temper, Gloria Swanson slaps William Holden in this scene from "Sunset Boulevard," now playing the Regent.

'First Run' Films of the Week in Review

GLORIA SWANSON IN 'SUNSET BOULEVARD'

"Sunset Boulevard," now playing the Regent, is the incredibly fascinating story of an aging silent movie queen, a young, disillusioned screen writer with whom she falls in love, and a girl who also loves the writer.

Gloria Swanson and William Holden join the all-time greats in their performa ces in the film. Erich von Stroheim and Nancy Olson head the supporting cast.

Although the picture is in no sense biographical, it does, indeed, represent a screen comeback for Miss Swanson. Her last silent film, "Sadie Thompson," was made in 1928, and she has not been seen on celuloid since 1941.

All in all, it's a gripping story and bids fair to earn for the leading stars their second Academy Awards.

'THRILL' BILL ON SCREEN AT ROYAL

Romantic, adventuresome and awe-inspiring sum up the performances in the Technicolor epic currently at the Royal and co-Rogues of Sherwood Forest," starring John Derek and Diana Lynn.

It's the story of how the son of Robin Hood leads his merry men through glorious new adventures. George Macready and Alan Hale head the strong supporting cast.

The second feature, "Mark of the Gorilla," stars Johnny Weissmuller as Jungle Jim, with Trudy Marshall co-starred. It tells of how the gorilla men kidnap a jungle princess as Africa blazes with fight for secret loot.

HARLEM FILM LOADED WITH TECHNICOLOR SPICE

The exotic glamour of the ancient East once again returns to the screen at the Harlem with ravishing Yvonne De Carlo and talwart Richard Greene starring in "The Desert Hawk."

The story has to do with an Arabian Robin Hood who, to protect, the poor against the tax collectors of the wicked Prince Murad, leaves the blacksmith shop in Teheran to become The Desert Hawk, scourage of his enemies.

GAMBY'S is setting a fast pace for fall-piz which is causing Brooks production manager, no end of headaches. Grabbing for the finest to present to his stroll patronage, we find him coming up with that line of chic and charming dancing damsels, the Beige Beauties. The gals were in town early to work out some unique routines with the lady of the exotic dances, LaKeeta, featured in the "Dance of the Serpent."

George Graft, em cee, and funny man Rastus Murray will be joins the cast supported by Reuben Woods ork. Wee Bea Boone, held over while "Skippy" Williams, velvet - toned chantousse, her guitar and combo moved into the AVENUE for an indefinite stay. This little gal of recording fame is the first game attraction booked her since the present management took charge.

Vi Burnside, the terrific saxfemme with her all-gal combo, are back at the COMEDY better than ever. Vi, from the hills of Penna., has been featured with all the top girl bands, considered the equal of many a man star, and still other. can't touch her. Not only is this an entertaining group but a fine-looking bunch of well-dressed chicks.

Florence Harris, formerly of the Club Orleans and winner of the original popular barmaid contest, is now located at the Madison Tavern, formerly operated by Uncle Joe Knight over Madison St. way. A tip to Sam of the Bridge: Trek over to the COZY CORNER and get a lookie at the remodeled TV set. The former 10-incher has been converted into a 19.

The 511 is more than holding its own with Bill Ross at the head of one of the hottest little bands in town. Dancing and singing ain't what it use to be so we find excanary Helen Lynn behind the bar at ED'S and ex-chorine and stager Bea Lemmons at the PRESTON. Still a popular twosome.

Believe it or not but Roy Jones, of that famous rendezvous over Ellsworth St. way, has decided to mix the Charles-Louis fite and give a lookaie while serving that terrific crowd expected to be on hand to witness it via tee vee. The Charming Georgia peach, Ruby Logan, is back in town after spending the summer at Spring Lake, N.J., and Riley is busy trying to make her say "I will and stay here permanently. Sam Taylor and his Be - Boppers were only out of the KNOTTY PINE for one nite to fill an east side engagement. They are back at the old stand in all their glory. George still shines as manager with Little Bea's smile beaming from behind the bar.

— Bus Green at Astoria

Bus Green and his Townsmen currently appearing at the ASTORIA a real hep combo on the swing-eroo side that should put the spot back into the running with other places giving out with music. King Draper and his "talk of the town" combo doing a bang up job that JONES' Lounge for Theeplus and the gang that has always found this an ideal place to hobnob. I'm reported that all of the help with the exception of Chuck Richards and Wayman La Rue, the skating pro, felt the axe at the Starlite last week.

Isadore Samueison, of Samuelson's uptown pawnshop, handing out some good advice along with good cash to his friends re. politic and war scare spending. He says: "It may be a long war and it may be short. Best to take it easy." Well Toots, meaning the Carter gal at SHAFFER'S Rainbow, how does it feel to have added another milestone. The Rainbow Lounge offers top music by the Bill Swindell quintet.

A number to remember 948. That's the famous Calhoun St. bistro now being remodeled and will soon be dropped into the public's lap. During alterations biz goes on uninterrupted with Roy Greir, sensational pianist, doing a nightly turn. Buzzing the stroll and looking in on the Craft revusical were Elaine Johnson, red hot mama; baritone Willie Jones and Toni, queen of quivers.

2 Brooding Women Harm Themselves

DETROIT — Two women, whom police said were despondent over domestic affairs, committed acts Saturday which detectives charged were efforts to end their lives.

Miss Mary Minus, 24, of 709 E. Fort St., jumped from a car that was driven by Florice McKnight, 32, of 205 E. Fuelid St. She was rushed to the Receiving Hospital from Clinton and Hastings Sts., where she is held for mental observation.

Geraldine Harris, 23, of 1357 E. Alexandrine St. was burned in the mouth by lysol. Police said she was despondent over her marriage. The officers said Mrs. Harris did not swallow any of the lysol.

Watching Street Fight Not Good for Health Spectator, 27, Finds

RICHMOND

Merely being a spectator at street fight can be dangerous, John Chapman, 27, of 406 N. Fifth St., found Friday. He was watching a fight between two unidentified men when accidentally cut on the left arm.

The antagonists escaped before arrival of police. Chapman was treated at St. Michael' Hospital.

Concords and Discords

By W. LLEWELLYN WILSON

This thing called bebop is attracting more and more attention of the serious-minded musician.

For many years, classically - trained musicians have been inclined to look continuely upon the effort and the effusions of the younger musicians who are exponents of bebop.

But, it is high time that the modern musician should be looking with favorable consideration upon the musical efforts of the young musicians who are developing this new type of music which will eventually become the new type of modern musical expression.

Shows Slow Progress

Music, as in other arts, always makes genuine progress slowly. Tradition, which is also stultifying, takes much time to take on new things held back by what has been.

All through the period of history, musicians always have been slow to take on new patterns.

They laughed at Bach, Beethoven, Brahms and DeBussey when they essayed new forms. At present, they are laughing at Schostokatovich and Ouo.

Deserve A Chance

So, we should give these young fellows, exponents of bebop, a chance to express their feelings rhythmically, melodically and harmonically.

It wouldn't be surprising to see these boys and their epic music of the present taking their places in the fore-ranks in the world of good music.
