Districts' Largest Beneficiary of the Community Chest

Mrs. Ruth Tibbs is seated at her desk, in the lobby of Provident Hospital readying pledge cards to mail former contributors, and to receive contributions in the Community Chest Drive. The quota is $3,000 for the hospital.

Della Dobson, 7, who featured in the outstanding achievement in surgery at Provident Hospital, is shown adjusting picture on the new television set given the children's ward by a local ball club.

PROVIDENT HOSPITAL:

Community Chest Money at Work

(Ed's Note: This is the first of a series of articles to inform the public how their Community Chest dollars are spent.)

The Community Chest Campaign for Baltimore is under way. District Five, embracing the colored community has a quota of $30,000. The total quota for the 32 benefitting agencies is $2,137,465.

Provident Hospital is the largest beneficiary of this district, with the least means of meeting its quota of $3,000.

The Chest, realizing the tremendous increase in the costs over which the hospital has had to operate, granted it an increase of $45,000, in addition to the allotted $63,000 this year.

Chest Support Sizeable

Of every dollar spent by the hospital this year, 20 cents has come from the Community Chest, in addition to other monies allotted, $25,000 was given outright for deficits of previous years.

The general public may think $100,000 a lot of money. It is. But not for running a hospital. Regardless of ability to pay, each patient costs the hospital a minimum of 11.06 per day.

All Not Dollars, Cents

Of the 3,175 bed patients and free care served in 1949, there is a balance due, for services rendered, of 54,260.72.

All is not dollars and cents at Provident. There are lighter moments, when groups bring cheer to the wards in the forms of gifts and entertainment.

The children's ward has been especially lucky this year. It boasts a new television set, venetian blinds, oxygen tent and toys, all gifts from interested citizens.

Drama played its part in the children's ward in August, where little Della Dobson, 7, who accidentally shot herself with a pistol, was brought for treatment.

The bullet entered her right cheek and lodged behind her eye. Immediate surgery was needed. There was little hope for her sight or life.

Recovery Remarkable

Hospital doctors say her recovery was the greatest achievement of the year.

Not only did they save her life, but during the interim, they enabled Della's soldier father (from listed the aid of the Red Cross) here from Korea.

The doctors were unable to save the sight of Della's eye, but her spirits are not dampened one iota. The nurses say they have a time keeping her in the bed.

She scampers about the ward like any other 7-year-old spritely youngster.

Numerous groups have aided the wards throughout the hospital.

With this aid and the generosity of the Chest, the hospital still needs more support.

The Community Chest can do better by the hospital only if the public does better by the Community Chest.

'Cooling Off' Period Helps Quibbling Pair

A "cooling off" period, requested by an attorney for a young couple, following a dispute, paid dividends Friday morning, when wife withdrew assault charges against her husband.

On Monday, Mrs. Violet Smith, through her attorney, William H. Murphy, had insisted on prosecuting her husband, 22-year-old Charles Smith on charges of striking her the day before.

Roy S. Bond, representing the husband, asked Magistrate Thomas L. Fitzpatrick to postpone the case until Friday, so the couple could have a "cooling off" period in order to reconcile.

Mr. Murphy reported this morning (Friday) that the "cooling off" period had taken only a matter of hours, that "they were back together the same day (Monday)."

JOB FOR LITTLE PEOPLE:

Procedure for Peace Given by Fellowshiper

"Nobody can take the job of the peace of the world in one great big hunk. It has to be made first within yourself — it's going to be made in little places by little people."

So spoke Miss Marjorie Penney, director of the Philadelphia Fellowship House, as she lectured on "Fellowship House — U.S.A." at a program given by the Baltimore Interracial Fellowship House, Wednesday night.

Tracing the 10-year evolution of Fellowship House, Miss Penney recalled how the movement started in a North Philadelphia house with a typewriter, a table and $500 and has grown to an establishment operating on an annual budget of $30,000.

Teaching Fellowship

"Today 14 houses in various parts of the nation are teaching people how to live fellowship. We owe it to one another to promote the kind of relationship the world has never managed. We've only touched the edge of it. The rest is in the people.

"Prejudice in not a thing of the head—it's a thing of the heart."

Continuing, Miss Penney spoke of the Philadelphia Fellowship's great "Singing City" program in which a 500-voice choir sings brotherhood and of their vast work program in which people of many colors and creeds from all walks of life contribute time and energy to design a new kind of a community.

Bad Are Organized

In closing, Miss Penney maintained that:

"There's not a city in the country that doesn't have a handful of good and eager people, but the bad people are always organized. You cannot change them.

"Fellowship means to get to the big amorphous group before the bad people do."

The meeting was in charge of Melvin Ward, executive secretary of the Baltimore Fellowship House. Music was provided by the Fellowship Choir under the guidance of William Milner of the Peabody Institute.

'No Way Out' Film Filthy With Epithets

Censors Blame Its Previewers

Civic Leaders Failed to Bare Indignation

BOARD AMENABLE

Deleted All Scenes Odious to Reviewers

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON

Advised that the NAACP would be forced to protest the cut version of "No Way Out" in Baltimore unless the epithets were deletrd or the riot scenes restored, Mr. Monte, Fox Pictures representative here, said that he "would get to work on it immediately."

The Maryland State Board of Motion Picture Censors refused on Wednesday to recall the film "No Way Out" and make it more palatable.

The board's refusal came after the AFRO submitted a list of 21 different epithets which remained in the picture after the board had cut 535 feet of the film.

Sidney Traub, chairman, said that the board had held up the picture for a long time and thought it was time to release it.

He explained that "No Way Out" has been held no longer than any other film in recent days."

Defends Censors' Action

Moreover, he added, before taking action board members had gone to other cities, including New York, Detroit and Chicago, as to what had been cut in those places.

Mr. Traub quoted Paragraph 6 of the regulations, under which the Board of Motion Picture Censors operates, and said that this section does not force them to delete epithets simply because they are vile and reflect upon a whole race of people.

Leaders' Silence "Shocking"

Even after he called the epithets to the attention of the previewers, he said, they made no requests for further deletions.

Solely on its own responsibility, Mr. Traub declared, the board had called in the previewers and members of the board," he said, "were shocked when this happened."

Mr. Traub said that if similar epithets had been applied to Jews, he was certain that the Jewish community would have been up in arms and would have appeared early before the board of censorship to demand their deletion.

Leaders' Silence "Shocking" (cont.) had been attended by a representative group, including members of the local NAACP and the Urban League, and that none of them suggested any cuts in the epithets.

"Members of the board," he said,

Colts Sign College Ace

Art Fletcher to See Action Sunday

PROMISING END

All-Conference 4 Years at Washburn

By SAM LACY
AFRO Sports Editor

The Baltimore Colts, of the National Football League, on Thursday morning came up with their first colored player. Art Fletcher, 25-year-old end from Washburn College, of Topeka, Kans.

The 6-foot, 4-inch wingman, released only last week by the Los Angeles Rams, looms as a probable starter against the champion Philadelphia Eagles, when the Colts tangle with the Quakers at City Stadium Sunday afternoon. Kick off time is 2 p.m.

In the signing of Fletcher to a contract—terms of which was not disclosed the Colts stole a march on the other two professional clubs operating in this city. Neither the Baltimore Orioles, base team of the International League, nor the Baltimore Bullets, members of the National Basketball Association has ever shown a colored player for former.

The latter took two players, George Washington, of Morgan State College, and Lenny Rhodes, former Toledo University star, last

Seeks to Set Aside Baltimore Divorce

GUARDIAN FILES

Questions Validity of Wife's Residence

A questionable Baltimore divorce is behind the law suit of a two-year-old child, who is seeking to have the divorce of her parents set aside in order to establish her legitimacy.

The parents are Dr. and Mrs. Harry W. Mickey of Maplewood, N.J. Newark, N.J., jurists are awaiting briefs from lawyers before returning a decision on the complaint filed by their daughter.

The complaint was filed in behalf of the child, Sharon Marlise Mickey, by Mrs. Alverta Robinson of 5 Wallace St., Dr. Mickey's sister-in-law. Mrs. Robinson is listed as guardian of the child.

False Information Charged

The divorce should be nullified, according to the complainant, on the grounds that it was obtained as a result of false information and collusion between Dr. Mickey and his wife.

Both testified that Mrs. Mickey was a bonafied resident of Baltimore at the time of the divorce when she never was such, according to the complaint.

The wife's attorney in the Baltimore divorce was William I. Gosnell. Attorney for the husband was D. Lindsay Burnham, who later was suspended from the bar for two years.

He was charged with "improper conduct" in connection with the divorce proceedings of two out-of-town persons who said he advised them to testify to false local residences.

Circumstances leading up to the present suit were described in petitions as follows: On July 30, 1946, Mrs. Mickey filed suit for separate maintenance, asking $50 a week.

Later, however, the doctor and his wife resolved their differences and the suit was dismissed.

In 1947 Mrs. Mickey went to Baltimore where she filed suit for divorce, contending that her husband deserted her on April 4, 1945.

Got $7,000 Settlement

Following the divorce, Mrs. Mickey is said to have received a settlement from her husband of $7,000 and went to New York to live, re-

2,000 Women Jam AFRO Cooking School in 3 Days

Food Show for Females Only to Operate in East Baltimore Three Days Next Week

Over 2,000 women jammed Metropolitan Methodist Church three nights and one afternoon this week for the AFRO's 18th annual Cooking School and Food Show.

For the first time, men and children were not admitted to the big show. Also for the first time, the cooking school featured in two sections of the city.

Next week, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights with a matinee on Thursday, the school will operate in East Baltimore at Christ Methodist Church, Chase and Washington Sts. Doors open at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Jeter "Casualty"

Missing after the opening night was the sparkling personality of Mrs. Jennie Jeter, the AFRO's official cooking school demonstrator and well known home economist.

Mrs. Jeter opened the school on Tuesday night despite the fact that she was suffering from a tooth-ache. Immediately after the demonstrations of her tasty recipes and dishes, she was forced to return to Philadelphia for treatment.

Mrs. Jeter answers Baltimore housewives that she will be on hand for next week's school.

Miss Allen Takes Over

Stepping ably into the vacancy of demonstrator, however, was Miss Mary C. Allen of the home economics department at Dunbar High School. Miss Allen lectured and demonstrated Wednesday night and on Thursday for both the matinee and evening. Miss Audrey Hall assisted in the stage.

Community Chest Drive Under Way

Everybody benefits—everybody gives.

With this slogan, the Community Chest campaign got under way Tuesday. The city goal is $2,137,463; and the campaign will continue until Nov. 14.

Among the 32 beneficiary agencies of the Community Chest are Provident Hospital, the Urban League, the Boy and Girl Scouts, the YWCA and YMCA and other civic and welfare organizations.

This year, a new agency has been added. It is Associated Services, the AFRO's old "Red Cross" with a new name. It will need $45,000 to carry on its program.

Nab 18 of 22 Boy Escapees

Mass 'Break' Largest in Village's History

All but four of the 22 youths who escaped Monday night from the Village at Cheltenham, have been recaptured according to Lawson Veney, superintendent of the institution.

The mass escape was the largest in the history of the 73-year-old institution.

Mr. Veney said an investigation launched immediately after the break, failed to produce any evidence of laxity on the part of his staff.

Maladjusted Youths "Lam"

The unprecedented escape was made from the boy's sanitary cottage, the only locked cottage on the grounds. The building houses youths who are feeble-minded, unstable, unusually aggressive or homosexuals, Mr. Veney explained.

He continued:

"The break would probably have been made even if I had been in the cottage. The whole thing was apparently planned weeks ago by three boys.

"The ringleaders were one very aggressive boy, who should have been here, and two others, mentally defective, and the other 18 years and 10 months old.

Shouldered Way Out Door Open

"While the cottage mother was in the kitchen with some boys, the cottage father in an opposite end of the security building, one of these youths shouldered open a locked wire door of the cottage and the three went out Kaesong.

Mr. Veney said the other 17 boys followed the trio and dispersed in the darkness. The alarm was sounded as the cottage father and a cottageman blocked the flight of the other youths in the cottage.

Two of the escapees were picked up within two hours after the break, either on Route 301 which

Convention-Goer Slayed, Wife Says

John E. Young often left her and stayed away a year or two at a time but he usually finally showed up. But in August, 1948, he went to the Elks' Convention and though he returned to Baltimore he never returned to her, Mrs. Estella E. Young testified, this week.

She won a divorce on grounds of desertion.

The two were married on May 22, 1918, and according to Mrs. Young have lived together only during the intervals he was interested in someone else. She said that when he left the last time he had only been home a year, having left her in June, 1947, and returned in July, 1948.

Mrs. Mallory Divorced

A divorce granted to Mrs. Bertha F. Mallory, city school teacher of 2139 N. Fulton Ave., from Thomas J. Mallory Jr. Roy S. Bond was her attorney.

Married in 1928, she testified that he left her in 1933 after telling her that he did not want the responsibility of a family. They are parents of three children, two of whom are adults and a third, Pfc. Thomas J. Mallory Jr., now in the Air Force.

She said that for three years after the separation he contributed to the children's support through the Department's Arson Squad. This probation department. After that

Medics Must Register on Monday

Those medical doctors, dentists and veterinarians, under 50, who will be called to the colors when their title, are required to sign up in a special registration, Monday.

In Baltimore, these men will register at the Fifth Regiment Armory between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The Hoffman St. entrance will be open to the registrants.

In the counties, registration will take place at the local Selective Service boards, all of which are in the county seats, with the exception of Somerset county where registration will be held at Crisfield.

325 to Register

Col. Henry C. Stanwood, State director of Selective Service, said that about 325 men are expected to register. Registration facilities have been organized so that the process should take no longer than 15 minutes, he said.

Persons required to register are those who participated in the Army Specialized Training Program.

This theory was advanced Thursday, by R. J. Thomas, former secretary, and now auditor of the Balmew Community Service Center Inc., which owns the shopping center.

Mr. Thomas said:

Jimmy Hicks to Run for U.S. Senator

Jimmy Hicks, the candidate of the AFRO's newly-independent Independent Democratic Field Staff, defeated Tydings in gaining nomination for the Democratic Party candidacy. Mr. Hicks presents a clear-cut victory over the incumbent, better known as "Millard" because of his habit of "millardizing" his opponents.

Today is Friday, the 13th, considered a day of ill fortune by some people, but not by the Upside Down Party.

Its confident candidate for the U.S. Senate debunks such superstitions. Hicks ain't worried about walking under any ladder.

He says he is going to climb into the Senatorial ladder, and push Millard Tydings off.

The mirror in which Tydings sees himself returning to office was broken long ago.

Watch Out for Voters

And it won't do him any good to throw salt over his left shoulder. He had better be dodging the bullets which the voters will be throwing at him at the polls.
