LOCAL MATTERS

Lucky Number 10.—The large guiding coaster sled at Medders & Co.'s Xmas show was drawn by Master William Goodman, Kennedyville, in lucky number ten. We wish Willian a good coast on the hills, when the snow comes.

Despondent, Attempts Suicide.—Mr. Henry Bullin, aged 72, a highly respected farmer of this county, attempted suicide Saturday morning, at his home near Rock Hall. Mr. Bullin conducts a small farm of about ten acres. Mr. Bullin said his reason for the attempt was despondency caused by domestic troubles. A deep wound, two inches long, was inflicted in his neck; the sight of blood caused him to cry for help.

Betterton Gunner Fined $100.—A hundred-dollar fine was imposed on a citizen of Betterton by Justice Suplee at the Central Police Station, Baltimore, for unintentional violation of the ducking law last Saturday. L. Wethered Barroll, Esq., represented the defendant and paid the fine. The defendant did not appear in the proceedings. This is the test case referred to last Saturday by the TRANSCRIPT of the law passed by the last Legislature which permitted the shooting of ducks from power boats.

Young Lady in Bad Accident.—Miss Effie Bishop, sister of Register of Wills Wm. T. Bishop, was struck by a carriage near her home at Carmichael and painfully injured one day this week. One wheel passed over her face and crushing her glasses, caused severe lacerations. The rear wheel ran across her mouth and knocked out two teeth. Miss Bishop was passing along the road from her home to Carmichael, where she was to attend a Christmas play. Dr. Rowland Ford, of Queenstown, is attending her.

Barrett Smith Held Up.—Mr. Barrett Smith, a well-known farmer residing on the farm of Mr. D. B. Stewart, the fruit dealer, near town, was held up Friday night, near the American Strawboard mill, at about eight o'clock. Mr. Smith was on his way home from Chestertown when it occurred, and says that three negroes rushed out in the road and grabbed his horse by the bit, while anothor attempted to get into the carriage. Mr. Smith whipped up his horse the team passing over one man. Mr. Smith snapped his pistol a couple of times, but it did not go off.

Grange Officers Elected.—Still Pond grang elected officers last week as follows: Master, Rev. S. S. Hepburn, overseer, Albert Jervis; lecturer, Mrs. Caddie Williams; steward, Owen Robinson; asst. steward, Miss Mary Williams; treas., Harvey Moore; secretary, A. L. Harris; gate keeper, Leonard Price; chaplain, Mrs. Sarah Crew; flora, Miss Bertha Price; ceres, Mrs. Harvey Moore; commander, Mrs. John Schofield; lady asst., Mrs. J. H. Kelley; asst. lecturer, Mrs. Ollie Medders; 1st asst. correspondent, Mrs. Evelyn Harris. The newly-elected officers were entertained yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Harris at 2.30 P. M., and will be installed to-day.

A Narrow Escape.—Mr. H. Stockton Startt, of the stock dealing firm of J. Walter Skirven & Co., had a narrow escape from probable fatal injury at his home near Fancy School house on Wednesday morning. Mr. St[illegible] climbed the ladder to the top of the water tank to see how much water there was in the tank. The platform of the tank was slippery and Mr. Startt's foot slipped, causing him to fall head first. Fortunately within a few feet of the ground Mr. Startt's foot caught in a rung of the ladder, breaking the fall and preventing his head striking the ground. A dangerously narrow escape it was from a broken neck. As a result of the fall Mr. Startt was considerably bruised about the limbs.

BRIEF ITEMS OF INTEREST

The egg market took a boost this week, and the price has been 35 cents a dozen in local market.

The public schools of the county will reopen on Monday, as will also the college.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Ayers have removed to Chestertown from Rock Hall. They sold their home in Rock Hall, last weak to Mr. and Mrs. Urie, of that place, for $1000.

Mr. H. P. Skipper is arranging to start a manufacturing plant on his farm across the river. He has plenty of sand and with cement can turn out a good cement block, brick, window sills, posts and other articles.

Rural Route Carrier Thomas Willis, has purchased from J. Waters Russell, the building lot on High street between the home of Mr. Leonard Needles and the double dwelling and will erect a new home thereon.

There is an epidemic of scarlet fever in Centreville, 27 cases having been reported. All social functions for children are forbidden and the public schools are closed. The situation is now under control, however.

The blacksmith shop of J. W. Richard & Son in Church Hill was destroyed by fire early Saturday morning, causing a loss of $1000. Mr. Richard was formerly keeper of Chester bridge here and has many friends in Kent who regret to hear of his loss.

Messrs. Legg, Joiner, Lewin Howard, and Russell Wheatley have been among the busiest men in town this week. They have worked day and night forwarding dispatches to the daily papers, and they performed their duties faithful and well.

Our merchants in the town and county report a very prosperous Christmas trade. One pleasing feature of the trade is that it was not all done in two or three days, but the buying was distributed over a period of two weeks. May 1914 be a record year for all of them.

The entertainment given by the Johns Hopkins Glee and Mandolin Club in Firemen's Hall on Monday evening was largely attended, and was an enjoyable occasion. The singing and whistling were somewhat off color, but the instrumental music was grand. Come again, boys.

Sacred Heart Church and Sunday school enjoyed its annual Christmas treat on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Johnson, prescription clerk in Mr. M. A. Toulson's drug store represented Old Kris splendidly and good things were distributed in profusion to all present.

High class Vaudeville at the Lyceum Theatre next week. Fernani Duo, extra clever artists, rendering selections of best known operas in Italian, Spanish, French and English, Monday Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, January 5, 6, 7. In addition to regular program of latest and best motion pictures.

Don't forget to read the new year greetings of our merchants. They showed their appreciation of your patronage and their interest in your welfare. And be sure to read the special sale advs. of J. M. Bloustein, Rock Hall's new merchant, A. Cohen, Sandy Bottom's big store man, and of the Hub, Millington's big double stores.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Cordray Loud have rented Mr. A. M. Culp's store room on Cross street, formerly occupied by the United Bargain store, where they will conduct an ice cream parlor and restaurant. The Patriotic Order Sons of America has rented the third story, being compelled to remove from [illegible] fraternal where they have been for several months, because [illegible] fact that the C. & P. We are in receipt of beautiful calendars from W. S. & A. M. Co[illegible] subject being "Washington [illegible] His Election." This is the fourth in the series of beautiful "Washington" calendars presented by this progressive lumber, mill work and contracting firm. We are also indebted to Plumber C. Sutton for an attractive calendar, to J. D. Bacchus, one of our coal merchants; the Standard Company, J. A. O. Tucker, the progressive Baltimore real estate man.

Friends and relatives here and in Clayton were very much exercised on Saturday and Sunday about the sudden disappearance of Mr. James Allen, from his home in Clayton. Mr. Allen went to Philadelphia with a relative to make some purchases. On the return trip Mr. Allen laid his head on the back of the car seat and went sound asleep. When he awoke he was at Greensboro, on the Easton road. He went on to Trappe to the home of station agent Wm. P. Milby and phoned to his wife at Clayton, but she failed to receive the message. Naturally Mrs. Allen became alarmed at the prolonged absence of her husband, and instituted a search. Mr. George W. McWhorter, Mrs. Allen's brotner, went to Clayton to assist in the search, but it proved that Mr. Allen was not lost, he had only fallen "asleep at the switch" and went farther than he intended.
