3 Assistants in $14,000 Holdup Each Get 2 Years

Charged with acting as accessories in a $14,00 holdup last block N. Bentalou St., said to be spring, three young men were sen-the one who "put the finger" on tenced to two years in the Reform-the Pulaski St. house that was story each Wednesday, by Chief robbed.

Judge W. Conwell Smith.

In the group are Clarence Young Jr., 25, of the 500 block Baker St., and in whose cellar the safe with nation officers he helped carry the nome $14,205 allegedly was stored after the holdup.

James E. Wise, 23, of the 1700 block McCulloh St., who told pro-Nathaniel Wilson and Louis Shields, each of whom drew 15-year terms.

The third man connect with the holdup scene was Elwood Bishop, the safe was broken open, and the money counted and divided.

Pre-trial probation reports to Judge Smith revealed that although Wise was not on the scene of the holdup, he was given $1,000 as his "cut" for pointing out the house to the holdup men.

The reports showed further that Curtis received $250 of the loot and Young $67, most of which he gave back the next day.

Holdup Men Get 15 Years

Sentenced in June to two of three who staged the holdup were 15. It was pointed out, however, that all three came from good homes and had good background records.

The armed holdup was staged in the 500 block Pulaski St. on April 1 when two men entered the window of a police headquarters while being questioned after his arrest.

The group was rounded up by Sgt. James R. Butler and Patrolman Lloyd Johnson, detectives. They found under his bed $300 of the $1,000 Wise had received.

Probation Not Recommended

None of the reports recommended probation to Judge Smith for any of the three charged with being accessories.

City Council to Hear Debate on Rent Control

The City Council will here debate on a resolution asking for the extension of rent controls on Oct. 25 at 7:30 p.m.

Backed by Mayor D'Alesandro, the resolution would extend controls in Baltimore beyond Dec. 31 and to June 30 of next year. The hearing will be held in the Council chambers at City Hall before the committee on legislation.

Persons in the house were held at gunpoint while the safe was removed.

Cement Scarcity Hits Small Builders in Baltimore Area

If you wanted to do smoe building around the house and asked your regular dealer for a bag of cement this week, it is very likely you did not get it.

Robert S. Green, 3232 Frederick Ave., said that he sells regular cement at $1.20 a bag and will have some on hand Thursday or Friday.

Lehigh Portland, Court Square Building, said that he sells cement only in carload lots and it is scarce because the Government and State Roads Commission are taking most of it.

Expect Replenished Stocks

ABC Building Supply, 1740 E. Fayette St., told the AFRO he sells mortar cement at $1.10 a bag and regular cement at $1.25 a bag and would probably get regular cement in Friday or Saturday.

Pen Mar, 1320 N. Monroe St., has cement at $1.10 a bag when he can get it. He said it is scarce because of all the building that is going on.

United Clay and Supply, 1122 N. Charles St., sells cement at $1.10 a bag. He said it was $1.05. He has an order in and does not know when he can get it.

formance. Fifty baskets of food was won at each session by holders of winning ticket numbers. Admission was free.

In the food bags were bread, cottage cheese, tea bags, soup, salt, baked beans, oat meal, pancake flour and cleansing flakes.

9 Booths Have Displays

Decked about the walls of the church were nine booths, two of which were sponsored by the AFRO. Others were booths sponsored by S. AND N. Katz Store, Sealtest products, Aunt Jemima products, Green Spring's Dairy, Jumbo Ice Cream, Becker's Potato Chips and Old Home Bread.

Presiding was J. Nelson Fortune, AFRO advertising man, who complained as he has in former years, that despite the baskets given away, and the food prepared, nobody ever gives him anything to eat at the cooking school.

Mr. Fortune was assisted by Elson Higginbotham, also of the AFRO's advertising department.

Varied Menues Prepared

On Wednesday night, Miss Allen emphasized vegetable cookery and how to cook vegetables in order to retain their natural flavor and color. She also displayed variations in biscuit dough and made a fruit roll.

Her Wednesday menu was topped with stuffed spareribs cooked in the presto pressure cooker and "pigs in the blanket," a hot dog with grated sheese topping stuffed in biscuit dough.

For the matinee, Miss Allen showed the enthusastic housewives how to make "tea time" and party time" most attractive with party sandwiches.

Swiss Steak Broiled

On Thursday night, she cooked Swiss steak in the pressure cooker made a strawberry short cake with Aunt Jemima biscuit flour and fixed creamed ham in patty shells.

Mrs. Jeter prepared "pigs in the blanket" also, in addition to a meat loaf and an ice cream dessert flavored with nuts and marshmallow.

Lucky numbers brought prizes of Presto pressure cookers, a lamp, electric clock gift certificates, AFRO subscriptions, jewelry, passes to the Regent and Met Theatres, pints of Jumbo Ice Cream, Old Home Bread and samples from food prepared on the stage.

The grand prize, a Real Host gas range, was presented by the AFRO Thursday night.

Bride of Year Gets Top Prize at Cooking School

Front-row sitter Mrs. Saloma S. Carter of 518 N. Monroe St., captured the AFRO's grand prize of a Real Host gas range, Thursday night, as the AFRO's Cooking School closed out in Northwest Baltimore.

"I am so thrilled!" exclaimed Mrs. Carter who is a bride of one year. She said her husband, William T. Carter, "was just as thrilled as I was."

Mrs. Carter attended all three nights and the matinee of the Cooking School at Metropolitan Methodist Church.

For fear she would miss any of the activities, she brought her lunch to the matinee Thursday, but had time enough to go home for dinner when the afternoon session was concluded earlier than she expected.

Brought Pillow for Comfort

Mrs. Carter was back at the church over an hour before the last evenings's activities started however, and there on her regular front row seat was the pillow she had left there for comfort.

The housewife and grand prize winner also won a food basket at the school. She attended the school last year and won two baskets.

The stove certainly is a worthwhile prize, Mrs. Carter pointed out as she explained that the one she had been using was not new when she married. The range was manufactured by Harry C. Weis-Kittel Co. Inc., 4601-5001 Pulaski Highway.

111-Year-Old Woman Gets Cake

Familiar winner Thursday night, however, was Mrs. Annie Ross, of 808 Druid Hill Ave., who won a strawberry shortcake baked on the stage, for being the oldest woman present. Mrs. Ross is 111.

Other prize winners Thursday night included:

bers of the police department.

Scenes of Violence Cut

After that preview, he explained, the board deleted all scenes on preparations for the race riot and of the riot itself, leaving in only the part showing casualties arriving at the hospital.

It also eliminated such epithets as "black louse," "stinking n—r," "kill a coon," "poor little n—r boy," "want to beat a n—r," and you don't get medals for being a n—r lover."

Remaining Epithets Noted

The list of 21 filthy epithets that still remain in the picture are as follows:

1. Clean up n—r town
2. Dirty n—r.
3. 'At n—r.
4. N—r town
5. N—r doctor murdered John son.
6. Send Kid to N—r town.
7. N—r doctor jabbed a needle in the back
8. N—r doctor
9. Dirty stinky dinge.
10. Butter up the jigs.
11. Black N—r.
12. N—r town
13. Boogies
14. Sambo
15. Sambo
16. Sambo
17. Little Black Sambo
18. Little Black Sambo
19. N—r
20. Not nice to say N8r
21. Sambo, this is it

Mr. Traub said that if the delegation which saw the preview had objected to these epithets at the time they would have been eliminated.

Previous to the showing, Miss Ella Johnson, left, and Mrs. Hilda E. Purvey, both of Baltimore, sisters of Dots Johnson, who is featured in "No Way Out," are shown at the preview of the movie presented Wednesday morning at the Regent Theatre, where the picture is scheduled for an early showing.

Star's Sisters at Preview of 'No Way Out'

'No Way Out' Hailed As Powerful Drama

"No Way Out" was acclaimed as a powerful vehicle against race hatred by a group of previewers who saw the film, Wednesday morning, at the Regent Theatre where it is due for an early showing.

The story is that of a colored physician on a county hospital staff who is plagued by an ignorant white race-hating criminal whom the doctor treats in the hospital prison ward.

The hoodlum accuses the physican of murdering his brother, who shot also in a hold up, dies while undergoing treatment. His fanatic hatred of the doctor provides the incentive for a race riot.

Starring in the despicable character role is Richard Widmark, while the physician is played by Sidney Poitier.

Other members of the cast are Linda Darnell, Stephen McNally, Mildred Joanne Smith, Ruby Dee, Ossie Davis, and Dots Johnson, the latter a Baltimorean.

Mr. Johnson's sisters, Mrs. Hilda Purvey of 2026 Clifton Ave., were among the preview guests.

They haled the movie as a stirring drama but expressed regret that the riot scene, worn by the colored citizens, has been toned down for showing in Maryland.

"Let it show that the colored race is finally fighting back," Mrs. Purvey suggested.

Other comments on the film by some of the previewers follow:

Mrs. Lloyal Randolph: "The most marvelous message picture I have ever seen."

Dr. R. C. Campbell: "A very gripping story which shows that hatred is a disease that destroys human beings."

Earl Koger: "The best film I've ever seen depicting the evils of race hatred. A very stirring picture."

Mrs. Carl Murphy: "A powerful story with superb acting. It should awaken the conscience of all and help better interrelationship."

William Rawlings: "There is a possibility of better race relations and human understanding if the maturity and social intelligence of the greater part of the audiences who see this picture are sufficient by high."

Mrs. Virginia B. Gunn: "A marvelous presentation of the facts that many of our people face."

Cecil G. Coleman: "Until America is ready to accept strong motives for racial co-operation, democracy will remain stagnant. 'No Way Out' provides such a motive."

Dr. Bernard Harris: "Almost too true. A very stirring picture. It points to a way out."

Mildred Dawes reviewed the story, its purpose and its message. Miss Vivian Garnett was theatre hostess for the preview.

The guests included:

Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Moseley, Ruby Miles, Cecil Coleman, Mrs. Veola Coleman, Miss Etia John son, Miss Theresa Stith, Ike Dixon, Albert Hall, Mrs. Blanche Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Spaulding, Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Brown;

Mrs. Ruth Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Murphy, Chuck Richardson, E. B. Rea, Mrs. L. C. Nickens, Mrs. Mary Stokes, William Rawlings, William Alexander, Dr. E. Henderson, Mrs. Virginia Gunn, Mrs. Ida Smith, Mrs. Sarah Williams, Mr. and Mrs. J. Logan Jenkins;

Regina McCoy, William McCadden, Mrs. Mary Hawkins, Mrs. Mamie Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Koger, Mrs. Lloyal Randolph, Mrs. Anna H. Jones, Dr. R. G. Evelyn, Milton Davage, Mrs. Mary Williams, Charles R. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. James Purvey, Ralph Hall, Dr. Bernard Harris;

Miss Ruth Jenkins, Mrs. Lottie Johnson, Mrs. Victorine Williams, Henry Phillips, and Dr. James A. White.

Uncut Version of 'No Way Out' Had Meaning, NAACP Explains

"When our NAACP representatives first viewed the uncut film, 'No Way Out,' in August at the office of the Motion Picture Board of Censors, they took no opposition to the epithets contained in it, feeling that they were significant to the theme of the picture," Mrs. Lillie Jackson declared in a statement to the AFRO, Friday.

Continuing the local NAACP president said:

"One of the most important scenes in the picture is that in which colored veterans of World War II, having learned of the preparation of the white Beaver Canal gang to raid and destroy the colored community, organized and beat the white hoodlums to the punch.

"Instead of the colored persons being attacked and driven out of their homes, the white hoodlums were annihilated, almost to a man. Instead of the hospital wards being filled with the intended colored victims, they overflowed with the white mobsters, as a result of the colored veterans' organized defense.

"Thus, as the picture unfolds, the epithets and threats are shown to be the stimulating cause of the victorious battle by the colored veterans, and justify the intense defense put up by our boys," Mrs. Jackson said.

At no time has the Motion Picture Board advised the NAACP that the pre- and post-riot scenes would be taken out, the AFRO was told.

"The NAACP," Mrs. Jackson declared, "feels first of all that the deleted scenes should be restored so that the real impact of the picture may be maintained. The picture in its entirety was shown in Washington. Why should it be cut in Baltimore?

"However, if the board insists on eliminating those scenes showing the pre-riot preparation and the significant statement indicating the victory of the intended victims over the mobsters, then the NAACP's position is that the epithets should be removed because they will have no meaning."

The NAACP has wired the board asking that the scenes be restored.

Inauguration Set for St. John's Prexy

Dr. Richard D. Weigle will be inaugurated Oct. 28 as the 18th president of St. John's College in Annapolis.

Main speaker at the ceremonies under the Liberty Tree, the traditional gathering spot on the 254-year-old campus, will be John W. Owens, retired newspaper editor.

Dr. Weigle was executive officer in the State Department's Office of Far Eastern Affairs. He taught for two years at the Yale-in-China School in Changsha, Hunan, and was attached to the headquarters of General Joe Stillwell's Chinese Army in India.

FLASH

A 40-year-old man was shot in the arm this afternoon (Friday) by a Northwestern district officer who allegedly caught him burglarizing an apartment.

At Provident Hospital is James P. Hawkins of the 1800 block N. Caroline St. who was felled by Officer Julius Robinson. The shooting occurred on the third floor of a house in the 1600 block Madison Ave.
