Prizewinners at AFRO Cooking School

Glamorize Food Dishes, Expert Tells Housewives

500 in E. Baltimore View Demonstration; Awarding of Prizes Highlights School

"Do unto your food as you would have it do unto you. Glamorize it Mrs. Jennie Wren Jeter told East Baltimore AFRO cooking school, Thursday.

Nearly 150 women stood in the rear of the Sunday School room of Christ Methodist Church, while others stood in the hallway, as Mrs. Jeter, AFRO cooking expert, demonstrated.

"Make your food pretty," Mrs. Jeter suggested. "You owe it to yourself to be individuals. Make each meal a party. Take a minute to add a bit of color."

Gives Demonstration

Demonstrating her advice, the expert, creamed a bit of chicken, fixed a salad platter with shrimps, to—which she added carrots and green peppers for color.

Highlight of the session was the awarding of prizes. A delta pearl necklace, was won by Mrs. Pearl Brown of 106 Montgomery St., a gift from S. and N. Katz, jewelers.

The grand prize, a Real Host gas range was won by Mrs. Lelia Harcum of 1021 Rutland Ave., a widow, who says she will take the stove to her niece, Mrs. Maggie Peay of St. George's Ave., and share it there.

Shore Matron Recalls AFRO Peddling Days

MRS. MARY LONG

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — Mrs. Mary Perkins Long of 1710 Leeds Ave., who was an AFRO newsboy over a half century ago, is now a past daughter ruler of Pride of Atlantic Lodge No. 121 of Elks here. She also is a member of Asbury Methodist Church here.

Mrs. Long recalls that in the early days of the AFRO publication she went from door to door selling the newspaper. She also remembers those who were closely associated with the paper in those days, among them, the Rev. Mr. Alexander and M.R. Daly.

Guild Plans Game Dinner

At their initial meeting of the season, members of the Baltimore Urban League Guild made plans for a chicken dinner to be Morgan - Wilberforce football game on Nov. 4.

The dinner will be held at the Madison Ave. YWCA, from 4 to 7 p.m. Mrs. Mae Downs, president, presided during the meeting.

Committees to arrange for the dinner and hostesses were selected. The Guild also made plans to participate in the One - Day Conference to be held at the YWCA next month.

Furman Templeton, new executive secretary of the Urban League, gave a talk. Mrs. Elizabeth Shipley gave the financial report.

Mrs. Blanche McRae is secretary.

the topic "Cultural Pursuits of the College Women." Biographies of Harriet Tubman and Sojourner Truth were reviewed by Mrs. Eurilla Howell, assistant to the dean of women, and Miss Doris Scott, a junior. These two personalities were reviewed for the young ladies because they resided in residence halls baring the names of Truth and Tubman.

The women's assembly, the first of its kind at Morgan State College, was met with enthusiasm by all the young women, and they are eagerly looking forward to future assemblies.

On Monday night the freshmen students were entertained at a tea dance in the spacious reception hall of Tyson House by the dean of Women and her staff.

Students enjoyed dancing to the favorite tunes and the refreshment table was decorated in an autumn color scheme with crystal and candle light. The freshman class enjoyed the evening immensely.

Among the faculty and staff members present were President Martin D. Jenkins, Dean Charles C. Keyy, Miss Theresa Kennedy, Mrs. Inez Aldrich, Miss Mary Brandon and Mrs. Thelma P. Bando. Hostesses for the tea were Mrs. Eurilla Howel, Mrs. Addie Dorsett, Mrs. Diggs, and Miss Christine Goode.

MRS. ARRINGTON HEARD

The first fall meeting of Stitch and Chatter Club was held a Llewellyn Walker's Caroline St. home to query Alice Arrington about her trip to Europe and to see her embroidered work which she collected and designed while on the tour.

Those present were Grace Hunt, Corrine Procope, Frances Hill, Hilda Higgins, Nellie Sorrell, Walter Dolen, Jeanette Christmas, Melissa Purdue, Mrs. Arrington and the hostess.

CORNELIAS HEAR ARTISTS

The Cornelia Chapter of the Child Study Association of Baltimore, with some of their friends, enjoyed an abbreviated concert by Mrs. Ethel Redmond Eventoff, screen singer, her husband Joseph Eventoff, musician; and their talented son, Morris, pianist.

Mr. Eventoff rendered selections on the mandolin, one of which, was a composition of his own. Mrs. Eventoff delighted at the piano, and Mrs. Eventoff entranced the group with Polinnian songs.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Frances Hill with Mrs. Catherine Wilson as co-hostess.

Club members present were:

Mesdames Emma Brown, Grace Burkett, Blanche Hughes,

Mesdames Dotie Hughes, Katherin Jackson, Lucille Jackson;

Notables Greet Dr. Daniel During His Inauguration

PETERSBURG, Va.—During one of the most colorful celebrations ever held on this staid college campus, Dr. Robert P. Daniel, president of Virginia State College was crowned thousands of his friends, coworkers and colleagues who came to see him inaugurated as president of the college.

Dr. Daniel displayed that fine personality that is characteristic of him. On hand to wish him well were such notables as:

Dr. Harold Trigg, president of St. Augustine College; H. L. Lipton, president Johnson C. Smith University; C. C. Spaulding, North Carolina Mutual Insurance Co.; P. B. Young, editor Journal and Guide; Dr. Mordecai Johnson, Howard University president; Alonzo Moron, president Hampton Institute;

Dr. Mary M. Bethune, Dr. James Cobb, president Fayetteville State Teachers College; Dr. Ambrose Caliver, Columbia University; F. L. Atkins, State Teachers College, Winston-Salem and Albert W. Dent, Dillard University.

Fifth President of School

Under a cleablue sky, visitors roamed about the beautiful State campus viewing some of the buildings. Alumni who said they had not been on the campus for years, came here to witness the inauguration of the school's fifth president.

They marveled at the progress the school had made and promised their support to the present administration.

Dr. Daniel and his wife have captivated State College and Petersburg. Women faculty members say that Mrs. Daniel is charming and gracious and puts her whole being into the life of the college community.

The Daniels have won the support and respect of the alumni faculty and student body.

Discrimination Banned on Auto Insurance Policies by N.J. AAA

TRENTON — William Green, president of the AAA of New Jersey, acting upon the recommendation of the NAACP, recently issued a directive to all branch offices that no longer will discriminations be made in the issuing of automobile insurance policies.

The order stated "where a risk is approved by the underwriting department and the applicant will accept a named driver's endorsement, policy is to be issued with Class 1 rates.

This directive is to be followed regardless of race, color or creed, except where the named driver is under 25 years of age or the automobile is used for business purposes.

The little girls, thumb and all, are Joan and Joyce Ann, born July 13, 1948.

4 Medics Rap AMA's Fight on Truman's Health Plan

Four prominent physicians in the Nation's Capital last week jointly denounced the American Medical Association's million-dollar campaign against President Truman's national health insurance program.

They called it, "a cynical disregard for the health needs of colored Americans and a callous indifference toward constructive action in their behalf."

What Critics Say

The critics, Drs. W. Montague Cobb, Paul R. Cornely, Dorothy B. Ferebee and C. Herbert Marshall, noted that the AMA has bought advertising space in colored newspapers and magazines as part of its campaign. They declared further that:

"We feel it to be tragic that this October the AMA lowers doctors to the level of salesmen by a million dollar advertising and radio campaign, attacking President Truman's national health insurance program while its press agents claim they are trying to sell voluntary health insurance.

"For members of our group, that sales talk is just talk. When a colored family sets out to buy health insurance,

JUST POLICE ACTION?

Wounded Soldier Says Korean War Terrible

NEW ORLEANS. ANP)—General Sherman isn't the only one who said "war is hell." Sgt. Walter Gaines, 26, of the 24th Infantry Regiment, 25th Division in Korea thinks in the same terms. Formerly with the 506th Infantry Regiment during World War II, he saw action in the Mediterranean Theater of War. Discharged in 1945, he re-enlisted.

Before the Korean outbreak, he was in Japan, stationed at Camp Gifu. After the fighting began, Gaines was shipped to Korea on July 12, arriving there on July 13, and going into action on July 16. He was brigaded into the Third Battalion.

His company, sandwiched between two other units, was attacked that afternoon. Trudging the steep mountains was no easy task, said Gaines, and the heavy packs had to be discarded. Aside from his rifle, each man carried 80 clips of ammunition. Before nearing the summit of the mountain many of the clips had to be thrown away because of their weight.

Wounded 25th Day at Front

Ordered to take the mountain top was Company I, Gaines' outfit, consisting of about 190 men. Their first crucial test under fire was to rescue a white unit which had been almost wiped out.

On Aug. 7, Korean Reds attacked and Gaines became a casualty, wounded in the shoulder, and the bullet took the belt hand almost blown off. His rifle was shot out of his hand. He escaped death by climbing up the mountain and remained there until dark.

The wounded Mississippian declared that he was shipped to Korea on July 12, arriving there on July 13, and going into action on July 16. He was brigaded into the Third Battalion.

Fla. Democrats Fear Upset

Reopen Campaign for General Election

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—(NNPA)—In a move believed in this one-party State to be unprecedented since Reconstruction Days, the Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate, Rep. George A. Smathers has reopened his campaign headquarters here in preparation for the Nov. 7 general election.

Smathers is the race-hate candidate who defeated Sen. Claud Pepper in a hot primary battle.

William W. Perry, in charge of the Smathers campaign, asserts that "we are not worried about the outcome of the election" but merely want to "get out the vote and conduct an educational campaign."

However, political observers here are inclined to attribute the Democratic nominee's reopening of headquarters to the "peace and equality" campaign being waged by the independent write - in candidate, Stetson Kennedy.

GOP Offers No Opposition

While the Republicans have a nominee, John Booth, on the ballot, there has been no upsurge of GOP sentiment in the State which would explain the Democrat's renewed campaigning.

It is generally conceded, in fact, that Smathers can adopt the primary victory over Pepper was in GOP platform, and that his pre large measure due to the votes of Republicans who registered Democrats.

Although the Florida press and radio have imposed a virtual blackout on Kennedy's "Color-blind" candidacy, the "Black Dispatch" and other grapevine organs have reached the people with his programs for self-determination abroad and total equality at home.

Smouldering Cigaret Causes Dress Clearer to Be Fatally Burned

PHILADELPHIA

Suffering from second and third degree burns inflicted three days earlier in her home, Mrs. M. bel Williams, 28, of 328 Queen Lane, died on Monday evening in the Mt. Sinai Hospital.

Mrs. Williams, according to Deputy Corner Alfred T. Dabney, had been cleaning a dress shortly before the freak accident in which she was burned.

He said she lit a cigarette, fell asleep and was severely injured when the mattress caught fire. A sister, Mrs. Rachel Warner and a boy 3, the victim's brother-in-law, Joseph Warner, identified her body.

ANZIO BOUGAINVILLE NORMANDY OKINAWA

. . . democracy in death only?

Did we fight to maintain discrimination and Jim Crow?

THIS IS OUR STORY:

We are Negro veterans of World War II working at the U.S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington, D.C.

We fought at Pearl Harbor, Bougainville, Anzio, New Guinea, Okinawa, Normandy, the Bulge . . . We returned to our homes in the nation's capital in 1946 expecting to enjoy some of the democracy for which we had fought.

We felt that things would be different, that we would not be Jim-crowed on the job, that we would get a chance to qualify for some of the better jobs at the Bureau.

We took an examination for apprenticeship to the plate printing craft to get a crack at $24-a-day jobs never before open to Negroes. We qualified, some of us high up on the list.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing still wouldn't promote us. We appealed to the President's FEPC Board and in February, 1950, won a decision which entitled us to these jobs.

The decision has been ignored. There is not yet a single Negro among the 500 plate printers at the Bureau.

We have appealed time after time to President Truman to order the Treasury Department and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to respect the FEPC ruling.

He has not acted. We are still confined to the lowest paid jobs, solely because of race.

Now we are faced with the prospect of again being overlaid up for military duty.

Do we have to risk our lives all over again just to maintain Jim Crow?

How long must we stand for this Denial of Democracy?

WE APPEAL to all decent Americans:

• TO CALL UPON PRESIDENT TRUMAN TO END THE "LYNCHING" OF HIS OWN FEPC.

• TO CALL UPON THE PRESIDENT TO ORDER THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT TO PROMOTE QUALIFIED NEGRO VETERANS TO APPRENTICE PLATE PRINTER JOBS.

• TO URGE YOUR CONGRESSMAN OR CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATE TO GET THE PRESIDENT TO ACT.
