Glamorize Food Dishes, Expert Tells Housewives

500 in E. Baltimore View Demonstration; Awarding of Prizes Highlights School

"Do unto your food as you would have it do unto you. Glamorize it. Mrs. Jennie Wren Jeter told East Baltimore AFRO cooking school, Thursday.

Nearly 150 women stood in the rear of the Sunday School room of Christ Methodist Church, while others stood in the hallway, as Mrs. Jeter, AFRO cooking expert, demonstrated.

"Make your food pretty," Mrs. Jeter suggested. "You owe it to yourself to be individuals. Make each meal a party. Take a minute to add a bit of color."

Gives Demonstration

Demonstrating her advice, the expert, creamed a bit of chicken; fixed a salad platter with shrimps, to which she added carrots and green peppers for color.

the topic "Cultural Purfuits of the College Women." Biographies of Harriet Tubman and Sojurner Truth were reviewed by Mrs. Eurilda Howell, assistant to the dean of women, and Miss Doris Scott, a junior. These two personalities were reviewed for the young ladies because they resided in residence halls baring the names of Truth and Tubman.

The women's assembly, the first of its kind at Morgan State College, was met with enthusiasm by all the young women, and they are eagerly looking forward to future assemblies.

On Monday night the freshmen students were entertained at a tea dance in the spacious reception hall of Tubman House by the dean of women and her staff.

Students enjoyed dancing to the favorite tunes and the refreshment table was decorated in an autumn color scheme with crystal and candle light. The freshman class enjoyed the evening immenely.

Among the faculty and staff members present were President Martin D. Jenkins, Dean Charles C. Keyy, Miss Theresa Kennedy, Mrs. Iner Aldrich, Miss Mary Brandon and Mrs. Thelma P. Bando. Hostesses for the tea were Mrs. Eurilda Howel, Mrs. Addie Donnell, Mrs. Diggs, and Miss Christine Goode.

JUST POLICE ACTION?

Wounded Soldier Says Korean War Terrible

NEW ORLEANS ANP)—General Sherman isn't the only one who said "war is hell." Sgt. Walter Gaines, 36, of the 24th Infantry Regiment, 25th Division in Korea thinks in the same terms. Formerly with the 356th Infantry Regiment during World War II, he saw action in the Mediterranean Theater of War. Discharged in 1945, he re-enlisted.

Before the Korean outbreak, he was in Japan, stationed at Camp Gifu. After the Reds got things going, Gaines was shipped to Korea on July 12, arriving there on July 13, and going into action on July 16. He was brigaded into the Third Battalion.

His company, sandwiched between the white units, was attacked that afternoon. Trudging the steep mountains was no easy task, said Gaines, and the heavy packs had to be discarded. Aside from his rifle, each man carried 80 clips of ammunition. Before reaching the summit of the mountain many of the clips had to be thrown away because of their weight.

Wounded 26th Day at Front

Ordered to take the mountain top was Company I. Gaines' outfit, consisting of about 190 men. Their first crucial test under fire was to rescue a white unit which had been almost wiped out.

On Aug. 7, Korean Reds attacked and Gaines became a casualty, wounded in the shoulder, and the thumb on the left hand almost blown off. His rifle was shot out of his hand. He escaped death by climbing up the mountain and remained there until dark.

The wounded Mississippian declared that he was under fire for days, and that his unit was forced to drink water from rice paddies which had been fertilized by human waste. The food rations were very poor said the veteran, and often the men went hungry, because the men handling the food were needed on the front lines.

Smouldering Cigaret Causes Dress Clearer to Be Fatally Burned

PHILADELPHIA

Suffering from second and third degree burns inflicted three days earlier in her home, Mrs. M.bel Williams, 28, of 1 Queen Lane, died on Monday evening in the Mt. Sinai Hospital.

Mrs. Williams, according to Deputy Coroner Alfred D. Feaney, had been cleaning a dress shortly before the freak accident in which she was burned.

He said she lit a cigarette, fell asleep and was severely injured when the mattress caught fire. A sister, Mrs. Rachel Warner, of 939 S. St., and a brother-in-law, Joseph Warner, identified her body.

GOP Offers No Opposition

While the Republicans have a nominee, John Booth, on the ballot, there has been no upsurge of GOP sentiment in the State which would explain the Democrat's renewed campaigning.

It is generally conceded, in fact, that Smathers has adopted the many victory over Pepper was in GOP platform, and that his pitch large measure due to the votes of Negroes who registered Democrats.

Although the Florida press and radio have imposed a virtual blackout on Kennedy's "Colorblind" candidacy, the "Black Dispatch" and other grapevine organs have reached the people with his program for "self-determination abroad and total equality at home."

4 Medics Rap AMA's Fight on Truman's Health Plan

Four prominent physicians in the Nation's Capital last week jointly denounced the American Medical Association's million-dollar campaign against President Truman's national health insurance program.

They called it "a cynical disregard for the health needs of colored Americans and a callous indifference toward constructive action in their behalf."

What Critics Say

The critics, Drs. W. Montague Cobb, Paul R. Cornely, Dorothy B. Ferebee and C. Herbert Marshall, ordered family sets out to buy health insurance.

advertising space in colored newspapers and magazines as part of its campaign. They declared further that:

"We feel it to be tragic that this October the AMA lowers doctors to the level of salesmen by a million dollar advertising and radio campaign, attacking President Truman's national health insurance program while its press agents claim they are trying to sell voluntary health insurance.

"For members of our group, that sales talk is just talk. When a colored family sets out to buy health

Fla. Democrats Fear Upset

Reopen Campaign for-General Election

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—(NNPA)—In a move believed in this one-party State to be unprecedented since Reconstruction Days, the Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate, Rep. George A. Smathers has reopened his campaign headquarters here in preparation for the Nov. 7 general election.

Smathers is the race-hate candidate who defeated Sen. Claude Pepper in a hot primary battle.

William W. Perry, in charge of the Smathers campaign, asserts that "we are not worried about the outcome of the race. We are merely want to 'get out the vote and conduct an educational campaign."

However, political observers here are inclined to attribute the Democratic nominee's reopening of headquarters to the "peace and equality" campaign being waged by the independent write - in candidate, Stetson Kennedy.

ANZIO BOUGAINVILLE NORMANDY OKINAWA
. . . democracy in death only?
Did we fight to maintain discrimination and Jim Crow?
THIS IS OUR STORY:
We are Negro veterans of World War II working at the U.S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington, D.C.
We fought at Pearl Harbor, Bougainville, Anzio, New Guinea, Okinawa, Normandy, the Bulge . . .
We returned to our homes in the nation's capital in 1946 expecting to enjoy some of the democracy for which we had fought.
We felt that things would be different, that we would not be Jim-crowed on the job, that we would get a chance to qualify for some of the better jobs at the Bureau.
We took an examination for apprenticeship to the plate printing craft to get a crack at $24-a-day jobs never before open to Negroes. We qualified, some of us high up on the list.
The Bureau of Engraving and Printing still wouldn't promote us. We appealed to the President's FEPC Board and in February, 1950, won a decision which entitled us to these jobs.
The decision has been ignored. There is not yet a single Negro among the 500 plate printers at the Bureau.
We have appealed time after time to President Truman to order the Treasury Department and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to respect the FEPC ruling.
He has not acted. We are still confined to the lowest paid jobs, solely because of race.
Now we are faced with the prospect of again being called up for military duty.
Do we have to risk our lives all over again just to maintain Jim Crow?
How long must we stand for this Denial of Democracy?
WE APPEAL to all decent Americans:
• TO CALL UPON PRESIDENT TRUMAN TO END THE "LYNCHING" OF HIS OWN FEPC.
• TO CALL UPON THE PRESIDENT TO ORDER THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT TO PROMOTE QUALIFIED NEGRO VETERANS TO APPRENTICE PLATE PRINTER JOBS.
• TO URGE YOUR CONGRESSMAN OR CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATE TO GET THE PRESIDENT TO ACT.
