THE proposed anti-shipping bill and a strong letter by Rev. A. H. Covey will be found on page 3 of this issue.

A HEALTHY BOOM has been started in Annapolis by a number of Eastern Shore Democrats for the nomination of Senator Harvey L. Cooper, of Caroline county, for Congress, in the First District, in opposition to Congressman J. Harry Covington.

TO-MORROW (Sunday) is the anniversary of the birth of George Washington, the father of our country. Let it be observed in a manner in keeping with the great service which he rendered to his country, the results of which services are our heritage to-day.

SENATOR JOHN WALTER SMITH demonstrated the fact that he has practically absolute control of the Maryland Legislature last week, when he forced the committee on elections, of which Senator Beck, of Kent, is chairman, to retract its former decision in favor of Ashburn and submit a report favorable to Harrison. Such action makes it absolutely certain that the Legislature will pass no kind of State-wide legislation that is not sanctioned by Senator Smith. There is a widespread demand for the repeal of the Haman Oyster Law. Will Senator Smith be found on the side of the people on the oyster question, or will he have the Eastern Shore tidewater Senators and Delegates vote for the repeal of the law to save their political prestige at home, and then go to Baltimore city and the Western Shore counties and get enough votes to prevent a repeal? Let's watch.

A GALLON A MONTH!

An adjourned meeting of the citizens of the county interested in the passage of some effective anti-shipping legislation was held in the court house on Tuesday afternoon. At the former meeting an absolute prohibition bill was drafted and endorsed by the meeting, but there were others at the meeting who believed such a bill too drastic, and expressed the fear that such a bill would not pass. The meeting on Tuesday was held to rescind the action of the former meeting and to draft some other form of bill. Rev. Cyrus Keen, Eastern Shore representative of the Anti-Saloon League, was present, and brought with him a bill similar to the bills which have been endorsed by other Eastern Shore counties. He laid the bill before the committee on resolutions, composed of Rev. T. N. Given, Tilghman Shafer, Herbert E. Perkins, J. Cordray Loud and I. R. Leaverton, and after explaining its provisions, the committee adopted it as its report to the meeting. This bill is similar in most respects to the Hazel bill of Delaware, except that it allows the shipment of a gallon of liquor to each individual in the county only once in every month, and no dealer or manufacturer can ship more than a gallon a month to any one person. This bill has the endorsement of the Anti-Saloon League. It is stated upon reliable authority that the leaders of the faction which controls the Senator and delegates from this county made a promise to the temperance people of the county during the last campaign that they would support the local option measures endorsed by the Anti-Saloon League, and as the bill adopted at the citizens' meeting on Tuesday is the kind of bill endorsed by the League, the delegates in the Legislature will use their influence to pass the bill. The bill adopted by the meeting has been very favorably and generally commented upon, and it will be signed by a large part of the tax-payers before it is sent to our representatives in Annapolis.

The Entertainment at Kennedyville.

The Entertainment given at Kennedyville last Saturday in behalf of the Presbyterian manse was a delightful and grand success. On account of the high, cold wind, and the slippery condition of the roads, some concerned thought it better to postpone it, but the better judgment of a few prevailed. It was a great and agreeable surprise indeed to find Weer's hall nearly filled before the time to commence. Those who attented were not sorry, for on all sides congratulatory remarks were heard, revealing the fact that every body was satisfied. And well they might be for it was a splendid treat for 25 cents. Every part was enjoyable. The players acted like professionals, and the music was far above the average. All did splendidly and ought to be publicly congratulated. And why should they not? The achievement of a citizen of our town is a triumph for the town itself. One of the numbers wich deserves special mention, and I mention it not to detract anything from the merit of other numbers, but because it created such a surprise; was the mail quartett. This was interesting at the outset because of its composition, namely Messrs. Howard Rasin, George R. Rasin, Ed. Wallis and Wm. Clews. The former three never before sang in a male quartette, and two of them never sang before in public or anywhere else; indeed they thought they could not sing. But the music produced by them Saturday night is abundant evidence that they have splendid voices which blended sweetly. Indeed better singing could not be desired. All who took part are greatly encouraged and intend at some future time to give the same entertainment at Galena, Still Pond, Chestertown and Millington. The way the Rev. Wm. Clews is working for the building of a manse is worthy of our admiration. The cause well becomes the people's support and the entertainment is abundant returns for the investmeut of twenty-five cents.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

On Monday Governor Goldsborough sent to the Senate a number of appointments, among them the re-appointment of Dr. M. Bates Stephens as State Superintendent of Education. The Governor must have read the editorial in the TRANSCRIPT suggesting Dr. Stephens' reappointment.

Delegate Shallcross introduced a bill in the House this week relating to shooting wild fowl.

Senator Beck has introduced in the Senate a bill relating to stallions.

The following bills have been introduced by Kent's delegates:

By Senator Beck—Compelling a public statement of abstracts of all insurance companies before April 1. Insurance loans. Authorizing the insurance commissioner, upon request of certain life insurance companies, to cause the net value of policies of the company, to be calculated upon a higher basis of reserve. Insurance and loans. Amending the laws of Kent county, relating to the election of a water board for Chestertown. Senators Beck, Collier and Campbell.

Mr. Shallcross—Regulating tonging for oysters in Kent, Queen Anne's, Talbot, Dorchester and Anne Arundel counties. To Chesapeake Bay and Tributaries.

Woman Suffrage in Maryland received its death blow for two years at least in the House of Delegates on Wednesday when the bill providing for the franchise was overwhelmingly defeated. Mr. Turner, of Kent, voted for the bill, while Mr. Shallcross did not vote.

Mr. Turner has introduced a bill in the House to empower the commissioners of Kent county to levy a sum not exceeding $720 for co-operative demonstration work. This is in reference to the Maryland Agricultural College Experiment Station work.

The fight on oyster culture is on. Our representatives should vote for the repeal of the Haman Oyster Law.

Governor Goldsborough has sent to the Senate the name of Mr. J. Hall Denny, of the Fourth Election District of Kent county, to be Election Supervisor in place of Mr. Samuel G. Caldwell, who was elected County Treasurer at the last general election. The other appointments are as follows: Justices of Peace—Frank Whelan, Jr., I. L. Dempsey, L. A. Pennington, T. C. Norris, W. A. Crew, V. W. Kendall, S. L. Wright, J. H. Bryan, T. E. Joyner, S. W. Kilbourn. Notaries—Joseph Mallalieu, J. E. Ireland, J. B. Burchinal, Emma E. DeCorse, D. W. Crosby. Supervisors of Election—Walter S. Trew and John C. Davis, Republicans, and J. Hall Denny, Democrat. School Commissioner—John P. Ahern.

Mr. Beck has introduced the bond issue bill for Chestertown in the Senate.

Mr. Shallcross has introduced a bill requiring a license of $25 for purse netting in the upper bay.

QUEEN ANNES IN SAME BOAT WITH KENT.

The County Commisioners Say the County is Nearly $63,000 in Debt.

Bearing out the charge made by the Progressive Democrats in the last primary campaign in Queen Annes the county commissioners announced Saturday that Queen Annes county is facing a financial deficit of nearly $63,000. In a special report of the county finances, compiled and audited by Madison B. Bordley, it is said this deficit has accumulated because of an effort to keep the county tax rate under $1.

Among the more prominent items of the debt are $20,000 borrowed from the general improvement bond fund and a balance of $4,111 due on the new Centreville Primary School. The School Commissioners also have demanded that they be paid one-third of the premium of $3,633.33 on the sale of county bonds, totaling $75,000 in value. The report states that the county is $25,872.50 in debt above its available assets for this year, the balance of the deficit being due to non-payments of bonds and other claims.

To ascertain the will of the people, the three commissioners, two of whom are of the Progressive Democratic faction, have ordered that a ballot be printed in the county newspapers and that taxpayers be requested to express their desire as to whether this indebtedness shall be canceled by a bond issue, by raising the tax rate to $1.75 for this year or by putting it at $1.35 for three years. Judging from the opinions so far expressed, the latter plan will be accepted.

Kent county had the same experience in 1910. Bad business methods and a waste of the taxpayers money caused a tax rate of $1.85 in Kent, while in Queen Annes, if the indebteness is liquidated in one year, the rate for that county will be as high as Kent's rate. And under the recent reassessment of proprety, what will the poor man's taxes be.

NUPTIAL EVENTS.

CHRISFIELD—PHILLIPS.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at Ingleside, Thursday, Feb. 12, when Miss Myrna Mabel, only daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Chrisfield, became the wife of Mr. Roy Wallace Phillips, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs Jesse Phillips, of near Barclay. The bride was becomingly attired in a blue traveling suit with stylish white hat and gloves. The groom wore the conventional black. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Emma Robinson, as maid of honor, and Mr. George Chrisfield, brother of the bride, acted as best man. Rev. Mr. Stump performed the ceremony, after which the bridal party were driven to Barclay, where they were met by a host of friends, and 'mid showers of rice, confetti and serpentine, they boarded the train for a short trip north. Upon their return they will reside near Barclay, where the groom is engaged in farming. Their many friends extend congratulations.

"THE TWENTIETH CENTURY RELIGION."

SECOND ARTICLE.

In this series of short letters I shall endeavor to show the foundation upon which the church of which we are members rests for its very existence, that is the Incarnation of God, the coming of Almighty God from Heaven to take upon Him man's nature, flesh and blood; His birth as a human Babe of a human mother, but without a human father. The Blessed Virgin Mary was His mother, Almighty God His Father.

It is surely necessary at this present time to express forcibly and in no unmistakable language the truth of this great mystery, and of the operations through which God has designed to convey its powers and its virtues to the souls of men. "And the Lord commanded the man (Adam), saying of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat; but of the tree of knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat; for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die." Please note here that God did not say this to the woman (Eve), for she was not made until after this command had been given. She did not know of the command until Adam told her, and we do not know when he did that; it may not have been until the Devil came to tempt Adam through her. Superficial readers of this history are want to lay all the blame upon Eve, forgetting that her sin, and she did sin, was as nothing in comparison to Adam's sin. We know that he knew of God's command. We do not know that Eve knew of it until the critical moment came. Perhaps, if she had known as much as Adam knew, this great sin would not have been committed, for women generally are far more true and obedient to God's commands than are men. I am sorry to have to say it, but it is true. Men and women should be as one in love and obedience to God. Men, who call themselves "lords of creation," should be ashamed to allow women, whom so many men look upon as weak and of inferior intelligence, excel them in faith, love, obedience and good works. The Devil came to Eve with that first great lie and told her that which God had said to Adam was not true, that if they ate of the fruit of that tree they would not surely die; but, said he, if you do eat of it "your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil." It was a great temptation. The Devil pointed to that tree and said as it were, "look at it, Eve, that fruit is good for food, and see how beautiful and pleasant it is to look at, and besides, it is greatly to be desired to make one wise." It was a great temptation! Do you think you could have resisted? Well, perhaps yes! perhaps no! Then Eve took of that fruit, she ate it, and in the kindness of her unselfish heart gave some to her husband and he did eat; he to whom God had said "thou shalt not eat." I confess great sympathy for our mother Eve; I can find little, if any for our father Adam, for he knew, and knew well, all about that tree and its fruit. Eve, let us think, knew very little, perhaps only what Adam had told her. Adam's sin was the greater, and it is through, and by him that the terrible consequences of that sin have come down through all the past ages to you and to me, to all of Adam's posterity, past, present and to come. A poison had now been introduced into the human race, into man's nature, to remain there until an antidote could be found. If into a great tank of water one single drop of virulent poison be introduced, the whole of that great volume of water becomes impregnated, contaminated with the poison, and it will remain so until some antidote, something that will neutralize that poison, shall be introduced. Do we not know that science shows us to-day that the microbes of disease, to be seen only by aid of the microscope, and hardly then, if introduced into our food or drink, will poison and make ill all who partake of that food or drink? Well, the poison of sin, by Adam's disobedience, entered into our human race, and has spread itself there through all the ages past—a permanent contamination to abide with us, until the one only antidote can be applied. Adam ate of the forbidden fruit and thereby received the poison of disobedience and sin into his own body to be handed down to you and me, and to all of Adam's race.

The fruit of the tree, what was that fruit? What authority have we for saying, or thinking, that it was an apple? We speak of Adam's Apple, but the word apple does not occur in the whole of the book of Genesis. I do not believe that it was an apple; it is more likely and reasonable, to think that it was the fruit of the grape vine or tree, for the grape is the fruit which above all others, is oftenest mentioned in the Bible.

Then "God called unto Adam, and said unto him, Hast thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded that thou shouldest not eat?" And Adam said, "The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree and I did eat". Oh! the coward! the meanness of it, to lay the blame of his own wrong doing upon some one else, upon his wife. There are men like that in these days, true sons of Adam, not only in his human nature, but also in his character and disposition; too cowardly to confess to their own wrong doings, and ever ready to shift the blame from their own shoulders to the back of another, even if that other be a weak, tender, tempted, misled woman. Eve tempted Adam; I believe she did it from the kindness of her heart, she wanted her husband to share with her that good and desirable fruit. Eve's was the lesser sin; these days it is oftener the man who tempts the woman, and he sins. What is the result? The man goes scot free; he does not fall in the social scale; he is "a good-fellow-well-met" everywhere, society sees no stain or smirch upon him. Oh no! but when called to account for his vile, sensual act, he simply laughs and chuckles and says the "woman tempted me" with her beauty, her sweetness, her innocence. But the woman! God help her! the finger of scorn is pointed at her, doors are closed in her face, silk and satin skirts are drawn aside when she passes because she is unclean, but it was the man, the strong, popular man, who soiled and befouled her, and he says, "Why, the woman tempted me". In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, she did no such thing—the man tempted her, and his is the greater sin.

Then God pronounced the sentence of punishment upon Adam and Eve, and upon Satan the tempter, who had come to Eve and spoke to her through the form of a serpent. And He said, "I will put emnity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; it (that is the seed of the woman, a woman's child) shall bruise thy head" (in which lay all of Satan's knowledge and power and lord-ship) "and thou shalt bruise his heel". The bruising of Satan's head meant a complete and perfect mastery over him, the head being the vital part;—the bruising of the heel of the seed, the child of the woman, meant a savage warfare against him—but the heel is not a vital part of the body, it may be hurt and grievously harmed, but it does not cause an end to the power and dominion of the woman's seed, her child. In plain words, "Satan, thou hast gained the victory now, here, over the man and woman, thou hast conquered, but the day shall come when thou thyself shall be overcome and conquered by one who shall be born of a woman." We will speak of this seed of the woman in the next article.
