EDITORS.

EVERY gunner in Kent county should heartily support the State Wide Game Bill now pending in the Legislature. The law seeks to remedy many of the abuses complained of by the sportsmen and contains provisions that will do much towards preserving and increasing game in the counties. Write to your representatives to work for its passage.

EVERY farmer in this county who desires to see the Maryland Agricultural College placed upon a high standard of efficiency and its scope broadened, should write letters to the delegates in the Legislature to use his influence to secure the necessary appropriation. There is no reason why Maryland should not have as finely an equipped agricultural college as any State in the Union, but it will never get it unless the farmers of the State demand it.

FOUR farmers and three business men were in our offiee on Wednesday diecussing the merits of the articles now appearing in the TRANSCRIPT on the farm. Every one of them was agreed that the articles are doing a great deal of good, and are just the kind of reading the farmers need for the winter season. They expressed the hope that they will continue to appear in the TRANSCRIPT. The helpful articles by Dr. H. B. Martin, and the poultry notes are being very favorably commented upon, and it makes us feel that the paper is doing a valuable service to the people of the county.

COUNTY UNIT PLAN A POLITICAL CLUB.

The County Unit plan of electing United States Senators or any other officials is against the people. It deprives the people of their rights, and places the election of candidates in the hands of political manipulators just as the old convention plan used to do. The 17th amendment to the Federal Constitution provides for the election of United States Senators by popular vote i. e., by giving a voter's vote in Baltimore city just as much power as a county voter's vote has. If the County Unit plan prevails there will be just as much "red tape" attached to the seating of the successful candidate as there was to seating Senator Blair Lee, who was elected under the County Unit plan. Under the popular vote plan, the successful candidate takes his seat in the United States Senate as soon as his commission is received without any foolishness. It is very natural that the friends of Senator Smith should want to deprive the people of their rights. The Worcester county election contest is a fitting illustration of the interest Senator Smith has in the people, and every friend of the Senator's on the election committee at Annapolis is assiduously striving to impress the people of the State of Maryland with Senator Smith's loyalty to the people. If the people of Kent county want United States Senators elected as the 17th Amendment to the Federal Constitution intends that they shall be, let them address a communication to our representatives at Annapolis and demand that they vote for the bill now in the Legislature, providing for a mass vote as against a County Unit vote. The friends of Senator Smith in Kent county are in favor of the County Unit plan because it deprives the people of their constitutional rights, just as the people of Worcester county were deprived of their right of franchise by the old convention system.

THE MILLINGTON POSTOFFICE.

So far as we are aware, every appointment as postmaster which the President has made in Maryland has been confirmed by the Senate, except that of W. Finley Collins at Millington. This one appointment Senator Smith is holding up, and by doing so he is acknowledging to the people of Kent county and the State of Maryland as well, that he considers the postoffices of the State as a part of political spoils, and when an appointment is made that is not politically advantageous to him, he sets his teeth against the President and stabs him in the back with one hand and pats him on the back with the other and says—"I am in thorough accord with the President." Smith's attitude towards the Millington appointment shows clearly that he prefers to keep a Republican in office rather than allow a good Democrat appointed by the President to assume the duties of the office; and yet Senator Smith would hold up his hands in holy horror should the President and the friends of Mr. W. Finley Collins openly and publicly oppose his re-election to the United States Senate. The refusal of Senator Smith to confirm Mr. Collins, after he has been appointed a second time by the President, is an open challenge to the President, it seems to us, for Senator Smith has no reason on earth to oppose Mr. Collins' appointment except for factional political reasons, and Senator Smith knows that the President would not have appointed Mr. Collins a second time to the Millington postoffice unless he intends that Mr. Collins shall be postmaster at Millington. The question, therefore, is: Is Smith for or against the President, and does Smith intend to serve notice upon the President that he cannot make a postoffice appointment in Kent county that is politically unfriendly to Smith? It looks very much like the President has accepted Senator Smith's challenge, and in our judgment Mr. Collins will be postmaster at Millington.

FIRST PRESIDENT OF CHESTER BRIDGE.

It has been erroneously stated that the first president of the Chester River Bridge Company was the late Judge E. F. Chambers. This is an error. The first President of Chester River Bridge Company was William Barroll. A number of Acts of the Legislature had been passed for nearly twenty years naming various Commissioners and giving them power to build this bridge. In 1819 the Legislature named a Commission for this purpose. A corporation was organized and William Barroll, then a leading lawyer of Chestertown, and one of its most prominent citizens, was elected President of the corporation. Below we give a copy of a certificate of the stock first issued by the Bridge Company, a number of which certificates are in the hands of Hope H. Barroll, Esq., a great-grandson of William Barroll:

Chester River Bridge.

No. 14. CHESTER RIVER BRIDGE.

Be it Known, That William Barroll is entitled to one share in the Capital Stock of the Chester River Bridge Company, on which Five Dollars have been paid; transferable on the books of the said Company only personally or by Attorney.

Chester-Town, 6th January, 1820. W. BARROLL, President.

THE Baltimore Sun is against the repeal of the Haman Oyster Law, because oyster culture is in the interest of the few. It is in favor of the "County Unit" plan in senatorial elections because it also is in the interest of the few. That is such a funny position for a paper to assume, whose motto is "Light For All."

THE SCHOOL BILLS introduced this week in the House by Delegates Shallcross and Turner calling for the expenditure of $54,000 of the tax-payers money for the erection of school buildings at Millington, Rock Hall, Kennedyville, Betterton and Chestertown, are very different from the bills introduced in the Senate two years ago by Mr. Beck. It will be remembered that Mr. Beck introduced this bill and passed it through the Senate without including the referendum clause, and Messrs. Harris and Miller refused to pass the bill in the House unless it continued he referendum. Mr. Beck refused to agree to this proposition and he killed the chance of the people to get these new school buildings for at least two years. Evidently the Senator from Kent learned a lesson from the experience of two years ago, for we understand that he informed one of the leaders in the movement to secure a new building in one of the towns that the bill must contain the referendum. Should these bills be enacted into law, they will be referred to a vote of the people, and those clauses providing for a vote should stipulate that only bona fide tax-payers of the county shall be allowed to vote, as we claim that no male citizen 21 years of age and over has any legal or moral right to vote upon the question of the expenditure of the people's money unless he himself be a bona fide tax-payer.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

Delegate Shallcross on Monday introduced in the House a bill to bond Kent county for $48,000 with which to erect school buildings in Chestertown, Rock Hall, Millington and Betterton. This bill differs from the bill introduced in the Senate two years ago by Mr. Beck, in that it provides for referring the question to a vote of the tax-payers.

Delegate Turner also introduced a bill to bond Kent county for $6,000 with which to erect a school building at Kennedyville, and also to provide for the introduction of a course in agriculture. This bill will also contain a clause referring the question to the people.

Mr. Beck's bill relating to the method of drawing jurors in Kent county has passed the Senate.

By a vote of 14 to 13 the oyster culture question was postponed until next Wednesday. Mr. Beck voted against postponement.

There is a probability that Senator Ogden's bill providing for the initiative and referendum will pass both Houses of the Legislature and become a law.

By a vote of 14 to 9 the Senate passed Senator Beck's bill repealing the law authorizing the courts to exercise discretion when imposing sentence upon prisoners convicted of first degree murder, and make the sentence either life imprisonment or death.

Mr. Turner has introduced a bill in the House to appropriate $10,000 for the purchase of hog cholera serum for use of the State Live Stock Sanitary Board.

The school house bills for Kent county were reported favorably in the House, as was also Mr. Turner's bill authorizing the commissioners of Kent county to levy $720 for co-operation in demonstration work.

Mr. Beck has introduced a bill appropriating $24,000 to refund the School Commissioners of Kent county for money paid in error on account of tongers licenses.

On two test votes taken in the House on the repeal of the Haman Oyster Law the first vote was 67 to 34 for the repeal of the law, the second was 66 to 34 for the repeal. Messrs. Turner and Shallcross were among those who voted to repeal the law.

Feed the Birds.

Dr. B. Holly Smith, the president of the Maryland State Game and Fish Protective Association, fears that the present cold weather and snow may result disastrously to the birds of the State—that the snow may make it impossible for them to find food and cause them to starve.

He asks farmers to co-operate in preventing this and says that the association will be glad to reimburse any farmer who scatters screenings or other food in neighborhoods which he knows are frequented by such birds

GRANGE IS AN IMPORTANT BODY.

Messrs. Wm. G. Smyth, James T. Anthony and S. S. Hepbron; as a Committee, Tell of its Influence.

At the last meeting of the Pomona Grange of Kent county a committee was appointed to prepare for publication a paper showing some good for rural communities, that has been brought about mainly through Grange influence.

The Grange is the only nation wide organization among farmers that has out lived a generation. It has grown to its present strong condition, both numerically and financially, through all manner of opposition; farmers themselves, have fought it both actively and passively; without interfering with any political party it has had wonderful influence in bringing about legislative enactments, which have redounded to the benefit of the farmers. It stands for the uplift of country life, in all its varied phases.

In this brief paper, we can do no more than touch upon some of the good it has furthered. Thousands of farm homes have been made happier and better through its teaching and influence. Many have been inspired to seek after higher or better things. Slumbering minds have been awakened, silent tongues have been unloosed and the farmer has intelligently and boldly, at last spoken out.

Through Grange influence mainly Agricultural Colleges and Experimental Stations have been established in almost every State in the union.

It has so dignified agriculture and magnified its importance that a Secretary of Agriculture now sits among the Great Heads of the nation.

Through direct influence of the Grange the Interstate Commerce Commission was established. It was the same influence that has brought about a more just system of taxation, where personal property as well as real estate, has to bear its due proportion of the expenses of government.

The Grange successfully fought the driven well and sliding gate patents, thus saving enormous sums of money in royalties which were being extorted from farmers and others using them.

It was the Grange that prevented the extension of patents on sewing machines saving to the people fully fifty per cent. on the cost of each machine, amounting in the aggregate to millions of dollars to the most needy portion of our people.

The Grange gave us rural free delivery of our mail, bringing to our very doors, one of the greatest conveniences and putting the country man on a par with his city brother.

We are more largely indebted to the Grange for the Parcel Post than to any other organization. It got behind that movement and made it a reality. We are saving now many hard earned dollars which we had to pay to express companies. The farmer as a producer is now brought much closer to the consumer and has an opportunity to get better prices for what he sells.

When we realize what the Grange has done for the betterment of the farmer and what it is capable of doing for his further advancement, we fail to see why any farmer should hold himself aloof from it. We have put forth this simple statement that the great outside world may see that a proper organization among farmers can accomplish things. Every wide-awake farmer should be working for his good. A great and good cause is calling for the best type of farseeing and thinking men in our midst. Opportunities are now being presented to the farmer as never before; we should endeavor to seize them. Here is an organization firmly established and well officered. The single-handed fighters will always go down before the well banded, many-handed opponent. His only hope is to meet him with a stronger force. We are banded together for the preservation of our homes, our altars and firesides. We are laboring to make country life more attractive for the uplift of ourselves and for the good of our children. Join us is this great fight.

Wednesday morning was reported to be the coldest morning of the winter. The telephone man in Galena reported a temperature of 2 degrees above zero early in the morning, while on some very much exposed places the mercury touched the zero mark. The lowest recorded in Chestertown was 8 degrees above. There was no boat on Tuesday or Thursday.

NUPTIAL EVENTS.

JERVIS—NICHOLSON.

St. James M. P. Church was the scene of one of the prettiest weddings for some time on Saturday at noon, when Miss Julia Nicholson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Nicholson, of Fancy farm, near town, became the bride of Mr. Albert Jervis, a prominent young farmer of near Still Pond. The church presented a beautiful scene for the happy event, in the evergreen trimmings and myriads of lighted candles, and was filled with relatives and friends to witness the ceremony, which was impressively performed by the pastor, Rev. H. B. Jester. Promptly at the appointed hour, to the strains of the wedding march, skillfully rendered by Mrs. Lewin U. Skirven, the wedding party entered the church and proceeded to the chancel, where they were joined in the bonds of holy wedlock. The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. A. Earle Nicholson, by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a rich gown of white crepe meteor entrain, trimmed in Princess lace and pearls, with tulle veil caught up with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a large bouquet of bride roses. Her bridesmaids were Misses Nellie and Florence Nicholson, cousins. The former wore a beautiful costume of pink crepe de chene, trimmed in lace, with a cap of tulle, and carried white sweet peas, while the latter wore a beautiful gown of blue crepe de chene, trimmed in lace, with tulle cap, and carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas. The groom, his best man, Mr. Colyn Noland, and the ushers, Messrs. Charles Nicholson, John H. Hessey, P. M. Brooks and Romie Morris, wore the conventional black, with buttoniers of white roses. Immediately following the ceremony a luncheon was served to the bridal party and immediate families at the home of the bride's parents, after which Mr. and Mrs. Jervis were driven to Chestertown in a gaily decorated automobile, where amidst a shower of rice and best wishes from friends who had gathered at the station to wish them bon voyage, they left on the afternoon train for a short honeymoon trip to Washington and other points of interest. The presents were numerous and costly. They will reside on the groom's farm near Still Pond.

BOUCHELLE—BURNS.

Mr. Byron Bouchelle, a prominent merchant of Chesapeake City, and Democratic candidate for State Senator in Cecil county in the last election, was married on Thursday evening at 7 o'clock to Miss Elizabeth Burns at the home of the bride's father in Havre de Grace. The groom is a relative of Mr. J. E. Ferguson, of Chestertown, and is well-known here.

STAFFORD—SMITH.

Miss Nettie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barrett C. Smith, on the Stewart farm, and Mr. Olin B. Stafford, a prominent young insurance man of this town, were married of Tuesday evening in Chester, Pa. They will reside in Salisbury.

GRANT—APSLEY.

Miss Fannie Apsley and Mr. John D. Grant, both of Piney Neck, were married by Rev. Robert Kirby at the M. E. parsonage on Thursday evening, Feb. 12.

High School Debate.

The Literary Society of Chestertown High School held its monthly meeting Friday afternoon in Assembly Hall.

A debate on the subject, "Resolved that it is more beneficial for the boy to stay on the farm than take a position in the city" was decided in the affirmative.

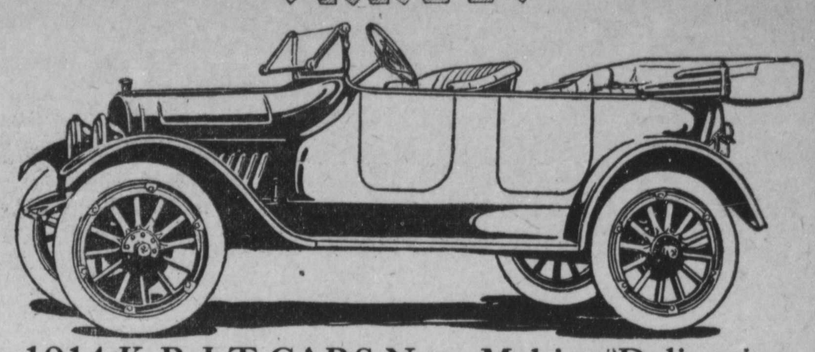

The affirmative was taken by Miss Linda Sheats and Mr. Ralph Usilton; the negative by Miss Martha Skipper and Mr. Richard Collins.

The following program was rendered: Song, "The Watch by the Rhine"; report of the recording secretary; any new or unfinished business; declamation, Gladys Hatcherson and Richard Groves; reading of the Echo, Blanche Huhn and Harry Morris; impromptu question, "Your Opinion of Woman's Suffrage"; debate; music, Elsie Whitely and Louis Armstrong; critic, Miss Walters; judges, Miss Smith, Chaplain Willis and Miss Anne Duncan.

The following officers were elected: President Chaplain Willis; vice president, Willie Newton; rec. secretary, Florence Hill; cor. secretary Floyd Brown; executive committee, Prof. Creasy, Miss Helen Russell and Miss Gooding.

Monday morning's papers stated that the snow storm predicted for Sunday had been pushed out to sea. Something out there must haye given it a kick and sent it back to land, for Chestertown and Kent county got it good and hard on Monday.
