Bison-Bear Game Saturday to Be Coaches' Battle

Morgan Seeks Third Win Against Howard

Bears Encounter Last Hurdle Before Classic With W.Va.

Emerging triumphantly in two previous outings this season, Morgan Bears will aspire to extend Howard University's losing streak, Saturday, Oct. 13, at 2 p.m., on the Bisons' Field.

Once considered a nemesis for Coach Eddie Hurt's power - laden team, Howard likely will serve only as the last hurdle for the Bears who are priming for West Virginia State in the National Classic, Oct. 20, at Griffith Stadium.

Coach's Battle of Wits

However, the consensus is that Coach Hurt, aware of the injuries which still plague the Bisons' veterans, and their two shellackings, had better not look too far past the locals.

Despite a consecutive 39 - 7 blasting by West Virginia, and a 28 - 6 pummeling by Virginia Union last week end, scores of previous games are discounted when Coach Eddie Jackson faces the Baltimore mentor who despises a defeat.

Hurt has copped four of six contests in his rivalry with Jackson. He split even in two tilts with the Hilltop mentor who then was at J. C. Smith. When Jackson came to Howard, he rescheduled Morgan in 1946, then promptly declawed the Bears, 14-6.

Since then it has been a knock-down and drag-out affair. Morgan swept the next three contests in a row, upending the Bisons 13-2 in 1947; 34-0 in 1948; and 32-6, in 1950.

Carter To Play

More so than ever before, Hurt is catching the Bisons short in reserves and top - flight performers. As if that wasn't enough, several of the regulars have been hit by injuries, and according to Jackson, will see limited service on Saturday.

Big John Carter, 235-pound veteran tackle who was held out of the Union game completely, may be used sparingly. The Catskill, N.Y. giant is still bothered by a recurring leg injury.

Bob Morgan, 210 - pound guard from Cleveland, is slated for limited service, also Bert Berry, an elusive back, a transferee from Winston-Salem Teachers College.

The defensive performance of such freshmen as John Johnson, 190, D.C.; Harold Mason, 210, Philadelphia; Charles (Bruiser) Kinard, 208, D.C.; and Charles Johnson, 215, have been notable, but eagerness has never excelled veteran experience.

Pope Bolsters Line

The return of Richard Pope, 210, of South Bend, Ind., at tackle, will the problem somewhat at tackle. Pat Pope has been slow jumping into condition, and may see limited action.

The Bisons, however, should be stronger defensively with the return of Don Jones, 165-pound pass snaring star. He should be reaching top form in the Bears' contest after a slow start against Union.

The locals' offensive likely will be centered around Harold Davidson, 170, quarterback from Yonkers, N.Y.; Andy Chambers, 165; and Edward (Skippy) Stevenson, 180, D.C.; Sammy Hoston, 180, Ansonia, Conn.; and Don Esty, 190, Kittanning, Pa.

Bisons' Probable Starters

On the line, Howard's starters may include Cleve Lewter and Bernard Crost at ends; Charles Hoard and Carter at tackles; Morgan and Robert Pennell at guard; and Clarence Pendleton at center.

Morgan had to buckle down to get by veteran laden Lincoln University, 7-2, last week at Oxford, Pa., but still showed a pair of backs who could break a ball game wide open.

Triplett Bears Watching

John Triplett, 185, halfback from Atlantic City, Pa., spearheaded the attack, and sent the Bears' lone touchdown. Taking up the slack when Morgan's offensive bogged down was slipper John (Bobby) Hurtz, a speedy back from Bayonne, N.J.

Although he weighs only 165, the stocky 5-foot, 8-inch back, who starred in several workouts at Howard University before registering in 1950, sent through the line because of his blinding speed.

Locust a Standout

Two others who will figure prominently in Morgan's bid to stretch its win streak to 21 straight games without a defeat are Irvin Locust, 170, an end from Baltimore; and Roosevelt Brown, 220-pound tackle from Charlottesville, Va., who is making a bid for All-CIAA honors.

Other standout Morgan linemen who may play a good role in Saturday's outing are William Bishop, 200-pound tackle from Baltimore; Thomas Hasty, 210, Pittsburgh tackle; Timothy Holley, 200-pound sophomore guard from Neptune, N.J., and Douglass Anthony, 195, Baltimore, Md., guard.

Slated to start for Howard is Milton Jordan, 210, 6-foot, 3-inch standout from Armstrong, in Washington. Jordan transferred from Bluefield in 1950, and in his first year out has landed a regular's berth.

Union Crowns a Homecoming Queen as Team Wins

Miss Elaine Hasbrok, senior at Virginia Union University from Syracuse, N.Y., is crowned "Miss Homecoming" last Saturday as Union beat Howard University, 26 to 6. Left to right are Miss Claudelia Sweat, who won second place, the Rev. A. R. James, who did the crowning, Miss Hasbrok and Miss Mary S. Price, third place winner. The other two girls are from Richmond.

Ready for Double Duty

Clarence (Penny) Pendleton, 170-pound Howard University center, is set for double duty when the Bisons face Morgan's Bears, Saturday, Oct. 13, at 2 p.m., in Howard's Stadium. A good pivot man, Pendleton will back up the line on defense.

15 Candidates Vie for Miss Dominion

Interest in the "Old Dominion Classic" to be staged here at City Stadium November 3 reached a high peak this week with the name ing of 15 lovely girls as candidates for "Miss Old Dominion."

The winning girl will be crowned at the half of the Shaw-Union game, and will also award the new 1951 Kaiser Special Sedan automobile which will be given away free to the holder of the lucky ticket.

The candidates for "Miss Old Dominion" being sponsored by local business concerns. Tickets for the classic will be sold by these firms. Each ticket sold is a vote for the "Miss Old Dominion" candidate sponsored by that business.

Contestants for the position of honor are Virginia Union, Armstrong, and Maggie Walker High School students. A partial list of the girls include: Evelyn Barnes, Frances and Francella Tole, Claudelia Sweatt, Jacqueline Sweatt, Paylia Dabney, Barbara Gilles, Marian Davis, Delores Banks, Ethel Tyler, Edith Hatchett, Catherine Burnett and Dorothy May Goodman.

Sponsoring firms include Archie's Record Shop, Slaught's, ABC Cleaners, Dr. Harrington's North Avenue Pharmacy, Vaughan Auto Sales and Service "Puss" Owens Esso Servicenter, Glass Record Shop, Harris Hotel, Quality Printing Company, Eggleston's Hotel, Manhattan For Hire Cab Company, Charles Harris Service Station, Vaughan's Restaurant, Clement's Service Station, Peerless Beauty Products Company, Mickey Motor Sales, and W. M. Crump Furniture Repair. Several organizations were also expected to sponsor "Miss Old Dominion" contestants.

The winner will be awarded a set of luggage and a free trip to Washington for herself and chaperon.

The Old Dominion Classic is being presented this year for the third successive time. Each year, Virginia Union's "Panthers" have served as the host team.

A 30-minute half-time show will be presented featuring music, 10 lovely models on parade, and fireworks. The presentation of the car to the lucky winner will be the highlight of the half-time show.

DOWN THE FAIRWAY

By AL TAYLOR

With scheduled matches completed the way has been paved for the renewal of famous feuds and foursomes over the week end.

The most spectacular of these completed matches pitted Howard Wheeler, better known as the national champ (he having won the title six times in the last 15 years) played his best game against Joe Terry, Ed Davis and Earl Dales and lost.

Champ Evens Count

The Champ's 72 on Saturday was not good enough to beat the tough trio. On Sunday, however, he evened the count by shooting a two under par 69. The going promises to be rougher when they meet in the final match next week.

Clarence Boyce and Frank Gaskins, Quaker City partners with this season, took on two newcomer Earl Lee and James Hughes. They added a 2 up and 1 to increase their winning streak.

Score Sub Par 68

A number of Fairview teams are planning to play the picturesque Sinking Springs Golf Course at Reading, Pa., next Sunday.

William Bishop, Quaker City Golf Club's No. 1 amateur, took the low gross honors last Friday at the Federal Cooperative Association's second annual tourney at Honesburg Country Club.

He came in with a sub-par round of 68.

Eagles Lose Two Key Two Linemen

DURHAM, N.C. — Uncle Sam lowered the boom on Herman H. Biddick's North Carolina College football team here last week as the Eagles lost Bill Hollingsworth, defensive end, and stand-out kick-off Specialist and Leonard Shabding, a sturdy guard who was a prominent candidate for all-conference honors.

The loss of the two key players on the eve of the Eagles' clash with the Virginia State Trojans in Durham October 13 spurred the Eagles to speed up plans to try some promising fresh players.

Youth vs. Age in Westport Special

The youngster and the oldster will be battling each other tomorrow (Saturday) night at the Westport Stadium for the leadership in NABCAR's Late Model — Short Track division point standings in a 200-lap race for souped up pleasure cars of 1948-50 and 51 manufacture.

The youngster is Ronnie Kohler, 24-year-old pilot and the oldster is Pappy Hough, 51-year-old bedfoot. Both hail from Paterson, N.J. and running one-two in the battle for the late model title of 1951. Kohler has been racing for just a couple of years, while Hough is a 25-year veteran.

But despite their difference in age and experience, the pair have been waging a merry battle in late model contest at the major eastern tracks.

The gates will open at 7 a.m. at which time, time trials for the late model cars will be conducted. Then come twin, ten-lap heats and a 25-lapper for the stock car chauffeurs and finally the 200-lap race for the big boys.

TO MONTE IRVIN

Monte Irvin's on the ball,
That's in more ways than one.
He really socks it back and forth,
He's lightning on the run.
A Hero, if there ever was,
Who caught the public's eye;
A credit to our greatest sport,
A real Giant-gantic guy.

'PLACE IN THE SUN' A STORY OF YOUTH

By E. B. REA

"A Place In the Sun," now showing at the Regent is unequaled as a story of youth.

Seldom has the motion picture screen captured so magnificently the fire and fever of young America, as enacted by Montgomery Clift, Elizabeth Taylor and Sheila Winters.

The story is an exciting, intensely moving romantic drama that deals with three young people and their desperate struggle to find love and fulfillment.

Their triumphs, their failures, their anguish and their joys are compassionately told in such a lifelike manner that it will take any movie-goer to dramatic heights.

The supporting film, "Rhubarb," co-stars Ray Milland and Jan Sterling.

PEOPLE AGAINST O'HARA' SHOWING AT THE HARLEM

Spencer Tracy and Pat O'Brien are co-starred in "The People Against O'Hara," a fast courtroom drama, now at the Harlem.

The two stars are appearing together in the same film for the first time, although they had had an off-screen association of thirty years.

Tracy as you like him—in the role of the two-fisted criminal lawyer who cracked crim wide open against the forces that prey on youth. O'Brien plays a tough detective.

The story tells of a criminal lawyer who is convinced of the innocence of his client but finds the odds so great until he attempts to bribe a witness.

'KING SOLOMON'S MINES' NOW AT NEW ALBERT

The hazards and excitement of a African safari is being told at the New Albert in "King Solomon's Mines."

Outstanding stars in this thriller are Deborah Kerr, Richard Carlson and Stewart Granger, plus a supporting cast of more than 1,372 natives.

Highlights of the film include death charge of a rogue elephant; battle-to-the death of two giant reptiles; night attack by blood-thirsty jungle prowlers and near death in a mysterious cave.

'HIS KIND OF WOMAN' HELD OVER AT THE MET

"His Kind of Woman," co-starring Robert Mitchum and Jane Russell is being held-over at the Met.

The pair meet in a swanky resort in Mexico, where Mitchum goes to earn a small fortune promised him for mysterious services.

Miss Russell, a singer, is seen renewing her acquaintance with Mitchum.

Adventure and mystery comprise the twin themes of the picture which is a romantic drama.
