Says Wife Took Sisters' Advice and Deserted Him

Wallace Jennings of 442 Pitman Street won a divorce from Mrs. Hattie Jennings on grounds of desertion, this week.

The husband said that his wife stopped speaking to him for two days, after which she left. He told the court that her sister had been advising her to leave since they could not get along together.

The court divided their five children, giving him custody of 4 and the mother of the baby, with $7 per week from the father for support.

Non-Working Mate Shed

Mrs. Portia Long, 312 E. Lanvale St. shed Norris Long, this week, because, she said, he failed to keep his promise to get a job and settle down.

The couple was married in 1942 and lived together until 1946. Her maiden name, Cole, was restored.

Mrs. Long was represented by Thomas Knox, attorney.

Voluntarily Apart

Roy S. Bond was attorney for Herman Nelson of 2426 Reisterstown Road, who won a divorce from Mrs. Louise Nelson of Washington.

According to the husband, they voluntarily separated in 1942, two years after their marriage.

A divorce went to Vernon Newton of 2323 W. North Avenue on a similar charge. He testified that he and Mrs. Edna Newton of 513 McMechen St. ended their marriage in 1946. They were married in 1943. The husband was represented by Brown, Allen and Watts.

Seven File Petitions

Petitions for divorces were filed by the following seven complainants;

Mrs. Lula H. Boulware vs. William Boulware, J. Howard Payne, attorney; Mrs. Ozora Morris vs. John Morris, Ernest L. Perkins, attorney; Milton Howard vs. Mrs. Pauline Howard, Calvin Douglass, attorney; and Mrs. Salethia Davidson vs. Harvey Davidson, Josiah Henry, attorney.

Mrs. Estelle Tucker vs. James Tucker; Bennie Thomas vs. Mrs. Lucie Thomas; and Mrs. Eleanor reen vs. Robert Green.

The three latter cases were filed by Roy S. Bond, attorney.

Pupils Enjoy Many Hobbies in School

Mrs. Helena Jefferson's 4B class of School No. 110-110A celebrated Constitution Day with a program that highlighted the views of some of the great men who helped to form the Constitution.

The 6A class of Mrs. Winifred Sheppard is working to develop individual hobbies. Match folders, animal pictures, news items, flower pictures, circus and automobile pictures are claiming the interest of the pupils.

Several boys are working on bookcases for use in the classroom.

Enjoy Hobbies

Enjoying the newly acquired hobbies are Naomi Thomas, Verdie Ruth, Adolph, Jones, Geraldine Pratt, Sarah Baxter, Etheline Pearson, Vivian Garnett, Yvonne Green, Carolyn Hicks, Laura Scott, Clarence Merrill, Peggy Wilson, Roland and Wendell Clark.

The sixth grade classes have worked out a semester plan for improving reading. Teachers in charge are Mrs. Edna Henderson, Mrs. Sheppard, Miss Shirley Watkins, George Bush, and Thomas M. Boone.

Woman Collapses in Home of Friend

After she told a friend she wasn't "feeling well," a 35-year-old woman collapsed and was pronounced dead at Maryland General Hospital.

According to police reports, Mrs. Rebecca Carmichael, 1000 block Madison Ave., had been visiting Virgil Dry, 68, who lives in the same block. When police arrived they found the woman lying unconscious on the bed.

Mrs. Carmichael's body was claimed by a son, John Carmichael, 1900 block Bolton St.

Hard World

A small boy came home from his first day at school.

"Ain't going' tomorra," he sputtered.

"And why not?" asked his mother.

"Well, I can't read and I can't write and they won't let me talk, so what's the use!"
