New School Will Take Diggs Name

The board of school commissioners voted, at its last session, to name the new Southwest Elementary School the Josiah Diggs School.

The school, for which ground was broken last week, is to be located at West and Bonner streets and is expected to be ready for occupancy in September, 1952.

Mr. Diggs, a former theatre owner, was particularly known for his philanthropies.

His widow, Mrs. Sarah Fernandis Diggs, prominent club woman and one of the city's licensed real estate brokers, is a supervisor of girls of the girls dormitories, Truth Hall, of Morgan State College.

Awaits Sentence

$3,350 check be given to him. Mrs. Ford agreed because the "bishop" wanted to "bless" the money so she would have good luck in her home.

Out of this $3,350, the "bishop" was to pay $1,000 on or before settlement in 30 days, and was to use the rest to help Mrs. Ford purchase furniture and make her monthly payments on the house.

Money Never Seen Again

The $1,000 payment never was received by the broker who entered a confessed judgment for that amount against Mrs. Ford, and allowed the settlement to go through so she would not lose her $500 deposit.

When Mrs. Ford failed to get the money from Bishop Tucker, the case landed in court. She said he told her on one occasion when she demanded her money, "A shrimp like you ain't going to back up to me. I'll pass you in judgement!"

Bishop Tucker admitted receiving the check for $3,350, but declared that a $500 amount which Mrs. Ford said she gave him before they went to the broker's office, and the sheriff has taken away his furniture.

"That's right," echoed the "bishop". "It was in the paper about it."

Policewoman Violet Hill Whyte testified that while the court case was pending, the evangelist often visited her in her office, and pleaded for time to make good the money.

Car With Telephone

She said he told her he had a Cadillac car with a telephone in it, a luxury which required money, and that he was about to lose his

At one point, Mrs. Whute went on, Bishop Tucker said of Mrs. Ford, "That woman is crazy about me. She wants to marry me. I'm not going to marry anybody. There are a lot in the church who want to, but I'm not going to marry them!"

Mrs. Whyte said Bishop Tucker had a way of stroking her arm and saying, "Now, darling, you know I'm like this," and he would "go on and on" promising to make the money good.

Witnesses Support Leader

Mrs. Prettyman said it was on April 10 when Mrs. Ford stood during a church service, and donated the $600 to the church. She said that Mrs. Ford declared before 200 people that, "If Bishop needed it, he could get every nickel she had."

The next witness, Mrs. Margaret Anderson of the 1700 block Orleans St., said she was present when Mrs. Ford donated the money. She did not know if it was in the form of cash or a check. "But I saw her counting the money."

Questioned about the date of this meeting, Mrs. Anderson said it was April, then she said it has December, then she said "January, I think."

It was at this point that Mr. Rogers declared that the witness was looking at "Bishop" Tucker before she answered questions, so the "Bishop" turned the other way.

Mrs. Rose Anderson of the 400 block Aisquith St., hesitated when asked to give the date that the $600 was donated. At that the word "April" floated across the courtroom from the direction in which the other witnesses were sitting.

Mr. Rogers again was on his feet. Judge Niles asked Mrs. Prettyman to leave, and she left saying "Thank you very much. Boodbye."

Mrs. Beatrice Lewis the "bishop's" housekeeper, testified that she heard about the $600 donation. She said she also heard the woman and Bishop Tucker discuss marriage.

Paid $400 a Month

"I'm a bishop. I go from city to city setting up churches" testified the evangelist. He said he has been a widower for 11 years.

"The members pay $2 a Sunday. They pay me $400 a month. The church exists on donations," he went on. Getting down to the alleged marriage proposal he said:

"One night at the church I said 'I'm going to marry somebody' (now listen to me carefully). I said 'I'm going to marry somebody in the congregation' and Mrs. Ford stood."

Record Bared

Mr. Rogers took over the questioning.

Q. Out in Springfield, Ohio, 1928 contributing to the delinquency of a minor sodomy one year and $100. Was that you?"

A. That was not me.

Q. Your name is Paul Lawrence Tucker?

A. Yes.

Q. Let's go to Detroit. April 30 1938. $10 for fortune telling?

A. Yes, but it wasn't fortune telling!"

Liquor Sales Boom to Beat New Tax

There is a distinct possibility that the recent passage of the new Federal Excise Tax on wines and liquors will send John Q. Public to the stores two months early this year to purchase his holiday cheer.

The tax, which becomes effective November 1, will increase all spirits, depending on the proof, from 16c to 30c per fifth—the most popular size.

Assuming however, that the Office of Price Stabilization will allow the distiller, distributor and retailer to realize a profit on the new tax, and there is every indication it will do so, the increase to the consumer will be approximately from 40c to 51c per bottle.

Boom Expected

Maryland retailers, in anticipation of the biggest boom since the last excise tax was passed in 1944, are displaying "Beat the tax—buy now" signs on their windows and also in the interiors of their stores. Particular emphasis is being put on holiday packages.

Prominent retailers report that a sudden increase in business over the past weekend, indicates that the consumer, the key figure in the situation, and the person who stands to gain the most by buying now, is purchasing wines and liquors in larger quantities.

Drake Going to Bat for Injured Ace, John Bright

DES MOINES, Iowa—Drake University is going to bat for its injured halfback, Johnny Bright, who was violently attacked last Saturday in a game with the Oklahoma Aggies.

Bright, leading ground-gainer in the history of Drake, suffered a broken jaw in the first period when slugged by Aggie players.

Aggies Disconcerned

While Coach J. B. Whitworth of the Aggies admitted that Bright was injured when an illegal block was thrown on him, athletic officials at the Stillwater, Okla., college took no official recognition of the controversy.

"We look upon it as just another football incident," one has been quoted as saying.

Drake to Protest

The Drake University Athletic Council has announced that it will file a protest with officials of the Missouri Valley Conference, not later than Sunday.

Photographic proof of physical abuse on Bright will go along with the protest, which cites "at least three vicious, malicious and intentional attacks" on Bright.

The Drake Council will ask a thorough and complete investigation of all incidents that happened during the Drake-Aggies' game.

Deplored by Governor

Governor William S. Beardley of Iowa, in deploring the incident, told the press:

"I feel sportsmanship must have been at a low ebb when such an outstandingly fair player as Johnny Bright was subject to such physical abuse."

Bowling News

By G. W. STAINBACK

Well, here I am back again with the latest bowling news of the week.

The past week, The Frolic Club journeyed to Linden, N.J. and was defeated by the league leading Jersey Bombers. Strand was defeated by a young Sunoco Recreation led by J. Hinson, runner-up in all event championships in the NBA Tournament. The question now is when will these teams snap out of their slump and roll like their previous form of last year.

The surprise Chesson Girls entertain the Baltimore Girls No. 2 on October 28, in what promises to be a lively battle.

Circulators Lose

The highly-proud Circulators were defeated by the often-beaten Danny Tavern, whose blistering pace was more than Moaney could stand as he left hurriedly after the game.

Some of the former old timers are easing back into form and joining teams. Roy Hamilton has returned to join the star-laden McCulloh Delicatessen. W. Carter seems determined that he will not be denied as he has posted another high game of 157.

The mastery that the Woodpeckers once maintained over the women's league seems to be at an end, as a hard rolling Jolly Imp team, unbeaten in the past four week, has replaced them.

Windsors in High Gear

The Windsors led by John (Junky) Wood seem almost unbeatable in the minor league as they are defeating all competition. Teams seem to shudder at the thought of rolling against the Windsors. The Martin Local, with Monroe, have moved them a great battle.

Miller High Life is on the upward move led by two promising young bowlers, Ware and Jeffers. G. Murray is labeled the most dangerous young bowler to appear in the past year.

On Tuesday night, B. Lockett became the first woman to hit the charmed 500 mark with 508. W. Dorsey, after starting off with a bang, hit the skids the past week and we hope he will be able to get back in stride by Friday night.

Well, it seems as though every Friday a tie must be broken to decide first or second place. The Aetna and Pacesetters will battle for undisputed possession of first place. The Pacesetter has yet to roll according to its name but we are watching for them to explode. Miss Tudy of the Pacesetters is fast becoming a top-notch bowler in her first season in ten pins.

William Dixon seems to be using an alley brush these days as he is making even impossible shots on the alley.

So I'll see you next week.

'Miss Phila. Chapter' to Lead Lincolnites

"Miss Philadelphia Chapter" of the Morgan College alumni, her identity not yet known, will lead some 1500 rooters to Baltimore for the Morgan homecoming game, Oct. 27.

A bit slangy, to be sure, but you know dozens of them—average men who are typical good natured Americans. And with them, El Producto is a typical favorite.
Why? Superb quality and workmanship, for one thing—a uniformity that "tastes right every time"—mildness that lets you smoke all day long—real enjoyment with every puff.
