Mr. Golden Warren and Miss Susie Hall were quietly married in Baltimore Wednesday. Congratulations.

Mr. Wm. Bushman, of Brooklyn is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walter.

Mrs. K. P. Megee and Miss Nellie Price have returned home after spending the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Letherbury, Middletown.

Warwick Items.

The Sewing Circle met at the parsonage on Wednesday afternoon with an unusually good attendance in spite of the copious April showers. A special invitation was accepted by the circle from Mrs. King given in honor of Rev. Hill and family.

Rev. Mr. Dupuy, the newly appointed pastor of Warwick, arrived and took possession of the parsonage Friday.

Miss Eva Holden and Miss Eddie Saven have returned from Chester Hospital, both very much improved.

While sawing wood at his home Mr. George Goldsborough met with the misfortune of having part of his hand cut off.

The Ladies' Aid held its last meeting of the conference year at the parsonage on Friday evening, at which time the election of officers for the ensuing year was held with following result: President, Mrs. L. P. King, Sr.; vice-president, Mrs. John R. Price; secretary, Miss Mamie Merritt; treasurer, Mrs. R. B. Merritt, Jr.; collector, Mrs. Will Vinyard.

The Easter visitors were: Mr. Jess Vinyard at Mr. Will Vinyard's, Rev. Mr. Strayer at Mrs. S. E Gunkel's, Mr. Gervis Hill at the parsonage and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Johnston and daughter at Mrs. A. R. Merritt's.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Wilson spent one day this week with Judge and Mrs. R. B. Merritt.

Judge Merritt attended court in Elkton on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss Mamie Merritt is a Wilmington visitor.

A large congregation assembled Sunday night at the M. P. Church to hear Rev. Mr. Hill's farewell address.

Mr. Hill and family left on Thursday for their new home in Centreville, Md.

Mrs. Josephine Wilson is spending sometime with her daughter Mrs. R. B. Merritt, Sr.

Mr. George Hill spent the last week of his stay at Warwick with Mr. Hazel Price.

Miss Agnes Merritt has been a visitor at Mrs. Hill's.

With best wishes for the success of your already interesting paper, I submit these my last items from Warwick, as I am moving away.

LATE SENATOR GARRETT FOXWELL.

OUR DEATH RECORD.

GARRETT FOXWELL

Former Senator Garrett Foxwell, one of the most prominent men in this county, died at his home on Washington avenue, at 2 o'clock last Saturday morning, of a complication of diseases, in the 71st year of his age. Senator Foxwell had been in failing health for several years, but being a man of indomitable will power and strong constitution, he fought bravely against the ravages of the disease which finally conquered a strong man. Garrett Foxwell was the son of the late Tilghman and Ann Jemima Foxwell, and was born near Odessa, Del., September 24th, 1843. For years his family was prominent in the business, civic and social life of Delaware, throughout which State the deceased was widely known. When quite a small boy his family removed to Smyrna, Del., where he availed himself of the advantages of the High School education. In 1868 Senator Foxwell moved to Kent county on the small farm near Black's owned by the late William Welch. In 1870 he removed to the large farm also owned by Mr. Welch, but which was subsequently sold to Mr. Thomas W. Eliason. For more than 40 years Mr. Foxwell and his wife, who was before marriage, Miss Kate Hudson, lived on this fine estate, enjoying the confidence of his neighbors, the esteem of their host of friends, and the affection of those who have experienced the reality of the generous disposition which has characterized their relations with their fellowmen throughout a long and honorable agricultural career. Failing health compelled Mr. Foxwell to relinquish the duties of farming, and in the fall of 1911 he and his wife removed to their newly purchased home on Washington avenue. Mr. Foxwell was identified with the business, political and social life of the county in a most conspicuous manner. He was a man of large influence making and keeping friends because of his sterling integrity. He soon rose to prominence in the Democratic party, to the principles of which he was devoted throughout his honorable career. In 1894 he was appointed Treasurer of the county by the Board of County Commissioners for a term of two years.

In 1903 he was elected to the State Senate over one of the most popular Republicans who ever lived in the county, and he served the people of the county and State with the same fidelity and honor which characterized all his acts in life. He was a warm personal and political friend of former Governor Edwin Warfield, the late Senator Isador Raynor, in whose election to the U. S. Senate Senator Foxwell took a most conspicuous part. In the primaries of 1911 Senator Foxwell was a candidate for renomination to the Senate against William W. Beck, and after one of the hardest fought battles in the history of the party, he was returned defeated by an official count by five votes. Failing health kept Senator Foxwell from active participation in the primary contest, and on the day of the primaries he was confined to his bed. Had he been able to have been actively engaged in the contest, he would have been an easy winner. After his defeat for the Senate Senator Foxwell removed to Chestertown, but he never lost his love for and influence in the Second District, where he was for years the recognized leader of his party. Mr. Foxwell was one of the county's most popular men. Men of all shades of opinion admired him, and hundreds loved him for the beauty and sincerity of his friendship. And when he came to be borne to his last resting place, one of the largest assemblages of friends ever seen at a funeral gathered at his home on Tuesday afternoon to pay their respects to the honored dead. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Dr. W. R. Graham, who paid a most beautiful tribute to the worth of a good man. Appropriate hymns "Rock of Ages" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee," were impressively sung by a quartette choir, and followed by a large concourse of relatives and friends in teams and afoot, the remains were laid to rest in the family lot in Chestertown. The floral tributes were exquisite, among them being handsome designs from the Third National Bank, of which the deceased was an organizer and one of its most active directors since its organization as the Second National Bank, and another from the Chestertown Transcript Publishing Company, of which Board of Directors he was president at the time of his death, and in the success of which he was actively interested for years. The pall-bearers were Register of Wills Jesse R. Copper, former County Treasurer Walter H. Hadaway, John M. Comegys, William Medders, B. S. Sutton and J. Herman Ireland, of Baltimore. Untertaker W. H. Krusen, in charge. He leaves a widow, who before marriage was Miss Kate Hudson; one sister, Mrs. Lydia Galt, of Wilmington, Del.; an adopted daughter, Mrs. W. Frank Smith, of Fairlee.

We most cheerfully give place to the following beautiful tribute from a friend:

DEAR SIRS:—Will you permit me to pay an humble tribute of respect to the memory of the late Senator Foxwell, as a man and as a friend?

Without unduly intruding into his home life, suffice it to say that he was ever a devoted and loving husband and father.

Garrett Foxwell touched the life of the people of Kent county in many ways. He came here from Delaware nearly 50 years ago—a young man in his prime—and shortly afterwards assumed leadership as an agriculturist on the largest and most productive farm in the county. This position of prominence, as a progressive and successful farmer, he retained until his failing health compelled him, two years ago, to retire to his home in Chestertown.

He was one of the charter members of the "Second National Bank," which was organized in 1890. Not only was he one of those who organized the bank, but he was one of the most active and tireless of its board of directors in seeing that it was placed upon a broad and deep foundation, and that it should become a useful aid in developing into the important factor it shortly became in the financial life of Kent. No one single director contributed more to the success of the Second National Bank (and its successor, the Third National,) than did Garrett Foxwell. His interest in its welfare remained unabated until the last day of his life.

In public affairs he was always deeply interested, and in the Democratic party "GARRETT FOXWELL" was a name which was a tower of strengh, not only in the Kennedyville district, in which he spent his life, but throughout the county. It was always recognized that his leadership, assistance and large personal following were the most potent elements of strength, whether the contest was in the primary or in the election. His help was always sought and welcomed. He was recognized as a powerful factor when in 1894 he was elected Treasurer of Kent county. In 1903, when factional feeling ran high, after his party had been for ten years repeatedly defeated in the preceding elections, he was triumphantly elected to the State Senate over one of the most popular Republicans who ever lived in Kent. He proved a faithful, honest and incorruptible senator—a credit to his county and State. At the close of his term Senator John Gill, of Baltimore city, said of him—"No man in the Senate was more respected and loved than was Senator Foxwell. Every one recognized in him a man of sterling integrity, honest and earnest to do his duty. While he was a strict party man, he was always willing and eager to help any meritorious measure. His earnest and successful fight for the Educational Bill was to his lasting credit. Every senator felt affection and esteem for him."

As a friend, Garrett Foxwell was loyal, true, generous, with a heart as great as his body. His many helpful deeds never became known through him. His aid was quietly and unostentatiously tendered. It has been frequently commented upon that those who were his friends of thirty years ago were in his last days as devotedly attached to him as they were when he was a young man. There was that in him which drew young men to him, and in his latter days, youths, who were juniors by half a century, were his companions and friendly associates.

A Man so constituted—a Nature so lovable—a Heart so tender—a Life so lived—make us each believe when, on Passover morning, he saw his Pilot face to face that he had "safely crossed the bar." Already has this kindly, gentle, noble man heard the words—"Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

I am proud to say, "He was my friend."

HOPE H. BARROLL.

RESOLUTONS OF RESPECT.

Resolutions of respect to the memory of the late Garrett Foxwell, passed by the directors of the Third National Bank of Chestertown, Md.

WHEREAS, It hath, in his infinite wisdom, pleased Almighty God to call to its eternal reward the soul of Garrett Foxwell, our late friend and fellow director.

Resolved, That while we bow with submission to the Divine Decree, it is the sense of the Board of Directors of the Third National Bank of Chestertown, Md., that it should suitably and properly record in its minutes the high estimation and regard in which each member of this board always held and valued the aid and assistance, which he so freely rendered to this and its predecessor, the Second National Bank, from the time of its organization in 1890 until his last meeting with us on March 25th, 1914. To Garrett Foxwell, as much as any man, was due that success with which the bank met from its inception until the present time. It is his due that this be said.

The same integrity, fidelity to duty and high sense of honor which we all around the table of this Board recognized in him, were manifested in his private and public life. Our grief we cannot record, our sorrow we cannot express, but our debt of gratitude we can and do acknowledge when we attest that in his life and every act we believe that of Garrett Foxwell it may truly be said—"Here was a man."

By order of the Board,
W. B. COPPER, Cashier.

S. R. BOYER LUSBY.

Mr. S. R. Boyer Lusby, one of our most highly esteemed and well-known residents, died at the home of Mr. Charles L. Dodd on Tuesday night, of congestion of the lungs, aged 64 years. Mr. Lusby had not been in good health for some time, but on Tuesday he was up and about and felt better until late in the afternoon when he became worse, and died rather suddenly. The deceased was the son of the late Charles and Araminta Lusby, and was the last of that branch of one of the county's most honored and prominent families. For many years he was associated in the harness making business with the late John F. Howard, who married his sister, but since the death of Mr. Howard he had worked at his trade whenever his health would permit. Mr. Lusby never married. He was popular with the people of the community generally, but with the younger folks especially because of his genial disposition and ready wit. He was an ardent Democrat, identified with the Anti-Organization wing of the party, and was always active for the success of his party friends. Funeral services were held from the residence of Mr. Dodd yesterday afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by Rev. Dr. W. R. Graham. Interment was made in Chester cemetery. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. J. Frank Leaverton, Wm. H. McKee, Wm. T. H. Whitely, Robert G. Nicholson, Thomas L. Meeks, and Dr. H. L. Dodd. Undertaker Charles L. Dodd had charge of the funeral arrangements.

MR. WILLIAM ROSE.

Mr. William Rose, a former well-known and highly esteemed resident of this town, employed by the late Joseph Turner, died at the home of his son, Mr. William Rose, in Santa Fe, New Mexico, on April 6th, in his 68th year. Death resulted from congestion of the lungs, from which he suffered for three weeks. For the past year Mr. Rose had been the manager of a large store in Santa Fe, in which position he continued until the hour of his being taken ill. In his old age Mr. Rose made good in every sense of the word, and throughout his life he was devoted to his associations in Kent, and they were among his most cherished memories. Mr. Rose is well remembered by the many friends he left in Chestertown and they will be grieved to learn of his death. He and his family were great favorites especially while they lived in Kent, and they have many friends and relatives in Talbot, Queen Anne's and Kent counties.

AQUILLA FOGWELL.

Aquilla Fogwell, 60 years old, who made his home with his son-in-law, George E. Ruhl, 1722 West Pratt street, Baltimore, was found dead on a couch at 9 o'clock Monday morning with gas flowing from an open jet. From the condition of the body, Mr. Fogwell had been dead for 48 hours. Mr. Fogwell was found by his son-in-law, who climbed in the side window of the house after finding the front door bolted. He and his wife had been visiting relatives in the city for several days and Mr. Ruhl went to the house Monday morning to prepare for work. He noticed a strong odor of gas and on investigating found the body of his father-in-law. Mr. Fogwell is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Lewis Beamont, Mrs. Ruhl and Mrs. John H. Hartung. He was a former resident of this county, and was related to the Fogwell family here.

MR. SAMUEL J. BUSICK.

(Received too late for last week's issue.)

Mr. Samuel J. Busick, formerly of Still Pond, died at his home on north Calhoun street, Baltimore, on Wednesday morning, aged 70 years. He leaves three sons and two daughters. Remains were brought to Still Pond on Saturday morning's train and interment took place in Still Pond cemetery. Rev. F. X. Moore officiating. Undertaker W. H. Krusen in charge. The bearers were W. T. Stanley, Edgar Pennington, Dr. J. W. Urie, Harry Casey, Geo. R. Parrett, E. M. Bonwell, Jr.

J. PALMER GOLDSBOROUGH.

J. Palmer Goldsborough, game warden for Queen Annes county, and a former resident of Chestertown, died at his home in Centreville, on Monday from nervous prostration brought on, it is said, by the death of a sister. He had been in a semi-conscious state for ten days. He leaves four brothers and two sisters. Mr. Goldsborough was well-known here.

MILDRED E. CECIL.

Mildred E., aged 7 years, 4 months and four days, beloved daughter of Oscar C. and Edna M. Cecil, died at the home of her parents, 2138 Walbrook avenue, Baltimore, on Friday last. Funeral was held on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment private in Woodlawn cemetery.

FINE ANNIVERSARY.

The 46th anniversary of the Juvenile Home Missionary Society and the celebration of Eastertide was held in Christ M. P. Church last Sunday evening. The exercises were among the best ever given by the school, and the singing of the Easter carols was fine. The program was as follows:

Orchestra selection.
Easter Carol.
Responsive reading and prayer led by Prof. Wm. Frazier Russell.
Easter Carol.
Address of the president of the society, Mr. Waters Russell Wheatley.
Singing.
Symbolism—"Life Morning," a beautiful scene representing the coming of the women to the open tomb on Easter morning, splendidly rendered by Misses Josephine Wheatley, Harriett Reed and Flossie Kent; Misses Edith Fallowfield and Hope Sappington, representing Mary Magdelene and the other Mary; Miss Mary Jones as the angel, and Miss Olive Kent.

The reports of the classes for the night and also for the year were called. The collection was one of the largest in the history of the Sunday school, and was as follows:

CLASS.	DAY.	YEAR.
W. W. Hubbard	$30.00	$54.35
C. N. Satterfield	13.30	23.26
W. A. Wheatley	12.00	42.77
Miss Bessie Wheatley	16.00	23.99
Miss Maud Duyer	20.80	28.28
W. J. Vannort	53.15	68.35
Miss Mary Davis	5.30	17.49
Miss Nettie Russell	7.40	37.09
Miss Clara Usilton	50.81	89.33
Robert Huey	19.37	34.33
Mrs. S. R. Matthews	9.10	16.87
Miss Mayme Thompson	2.65	10.63
Mrs. William Waddell	12.00	17.15
Infant Class	30.00	46.32
Miss Fannie Baker	13.35	18.18
J. F. Wheatley	1.32	7.74
Miss Hope Sappington	2.88	7.13
Mrs. C. N. Satterfield	5.05	15.74
Totals	$304.98	$558.55

Mrs. Wm. J. Vannort's class won the banner for the night, with Miss Clara Usilton's class a close second. Miss Usilton's class won first prize for the year with Mrs. Vannort's class second. The banner for the night was presented by Prof. C. T. Ryan in a splendid speech, while Dr. Graham awarded prizes to the four highest classes for the year as follows:

Miss Clara Usilton	$89.33
Mrs. Wm. J. Vannort	68.35
Mr. Wilbur W. Hubbard	54.35
Infant Class	46.32

The superintendent of the school, Mr. Fred G. Usilton, awarded the following prizes offered by a friend of the school: The scholar making the largest attendance for the year—Mr. Barber Bartley, who did not miss a Sunday. The teacher making the largest attendance—Miss Clara Usilton, who missed only two Sundays. The class winning the attendance banner the greatest number of times during the year—Infant Class. The anniversary was a splendid success, and the committee on arrangements did excellent work in presenting such an impressive and beautiful symbolism. The electric lighting effect furnished gratis by the genial manager, Mr. Fred H. Russell, added charm and beauty to a most appreciative Easter symbol.

THE RELIEF BAZAAR

Held in Fireman's Hall This Week a Financial Success and a Delightful Social Affair.

The big bazaar held in Firemen's Hall Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings for the benefit of the Old People's Home and Emergency Hospital was a financial success and a delightful social affair. Mrs. J. Hydie Thompson and her assistant, Mrs. J. E. Ferguson, selected most excellent committees as their assistants, and every feature of the bazaar was a success as only the women of the town know how to make such functions. The entertainments under the direction of Miss Mayme Thompson, on Tuesday evening, Wednesday afternoon and evening were largely attended and greatly enjoyed, and the skill and taste displayed in the arrangement of the various booths transformed the hall into a scene of rare beauty. These were the booths:

Apron—Large white umbrella, profusely adorned with pink roses.

Cake—A summer house with lattice work effect, made of green and white crepe paper, the interior of the booth being lighted with green shaded candles.

Country store, with its thatched roof and filled to overflowing with everything found in a first-class country store, even to a pair of live chickens.

Fancy—A most artistic pergolier, made by Mr. Wood, manager of American Strawboard Mill, of large columns, and beautifully decorated with 430 beautiful red roses, made in one evening by Miss Wood, daughter of the manager. Miss Wood has manifested great interest in the success of the bazaar, and has rendered valuable service.

Candy, the sweet booth—An attractive arrangement effectively decorated with red and white crepe paper.

The lemonade, grab bag, ice cream and flower booths were in charge of young ladies who worked manfully to sell their wares. All of these booths were filled to overflowing with articles of value donated by friends at home and abroad, who are deeply interested in the establishment of a hospital and home for the aged in Chestertown. Every article was disposed of at a profit, and the various committees are happy over the success of the money drawer.

The supper on Thursday evening in charge of Mrs. Harry L. Boyd, chairman, was a most appropriate closing to a successful affair, and was beautifully managed and sumptuously served. There was a deluge of donations—70 chickens, 65 dozen eggs, hundreds of rolls and biscuits, 9 country hams, 18 gallons of oysters, 15 pounds of coffee, pickles and jelly by the jar, etc., and not one was turned away hungry.

We regret that we are unable to give a more accurate account of the bazaar this week. Next week we shall endeavor to give a list of the contributors outside the town and county, in order that they may receive recognition for their generosity. The Relief Society extends its thanks to every one who contributed, either in labor or money or provisions, to the success of the bazaar, especially to Mrs. J. Hydie Thompson, the chairman, and her assistant, Mrs. J. E. Ferguson, who worked faithfully and loyally for the success of the bazaar.

IN THE CHURCHES.

Rev. Dr. Henry B. Martin preached an able sermon to the Masonic order and a fine audience in Emmanuel P. E. Church on Friday evening. The Choral Society under the direction of Mr. Wm. Walter Chapman, rendered excellent music.
