She Signs Petition for General 'Ike'

The distinction of being the first Baltimorean to affix her signature to the petition asking General Dwight D. Eisenhower to run for President went to Mrs. Lucy Williams of 619 Gilbert St. She is shown here at Charles and Lexington Sts. with Miss Mae Hughes on Monday. Forty-seven others followed her lead and signed the petition.

Hot Meals For 27 Due to 'Kind' Cops

Wanting to spread holiday cheer, Northwestern district police saw to it that at least 27 men, some homeless, had a good hot meal Thanksgiving.

Shortly after 3:30 Wednesday morning, police swooped down on the Greyhound Bus Terminal, Howard and Centre Sts., and arrested the men, members of both races, on loitering charges.

Before making the arrests police asked each of the men, some of whom were sleeping, whether he had a bus ticket. One man actually had a ticket but was described by a depot employee as an "habitual who used the ticket as a dodge."

Blames Weather

The manager of the bus depot, G. J. Sills, described the condition as "seasonal", explaining the men get cold and don't have any place else to go.

"At times", complained Mr. Sills, "there are so many bums in the depot that bona fide passengers can't find seats. Benches in the waiting room can seat more than 200 people", the manager concluded.

After listening to assorted excuses of reasons why the men were in the bus terminal, Magistrate John L. Berry fined all except two of the men, including the man with the ticket, $5 and costs.

Because they couldn't pay their fines, the men went to jail.

'Hi Ho, Hi Ho, It's Off to Jail I Go'

What to do on a holiday may worry some people, but David Canada had it all figured out—he wanted to get a shave, haircut and to spend Thanksgiving in jail.

At least that is what he told police at Northwestern District station on the morning of Turkey Day. He walked in, requested a cell and a haircut.

The 46-year-old man explained to officers that he had no job, no home and because of this wanted to be put away until he could get "cleaned up" and some letters written.

Police obliged him by putting him down as a vagrant and then brought him to court. Magistrate John L. Berry listened to his story and reacted just as kindly as the officers had.

He gave Canada a 15-day jail term for which the man thanked him graciously.

Before Canada was led back to a cell, he was informed by Capt. Millard Horton, that turkey was on the station house menu. The man smiled.

Scouts to Hear Taylor Speak

A. J. Taylor, assistant director of interracial service for Boy Scouts of America, will be guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Monumental Scout district Dec. 4. at Bethel AME Church.

Mr. Taylor will be in Baltimore for eight days during which time he will speak to numerous units, including the Chesapeake Scout district on Dec. 6.

J. N. Fortune, Chairman

J. Nelson Fortune, advertising manager of the Baltimore AFRO, is chairman of the Monumental Scout district. Rufus Hackett, local insurance executive, is the Chesapeake district chairman.

The annual Monumental dinner meeting is sheduled for 7:45 p.m. It will feature installation of officers and the presentation of awards for training recognition. William Rand, scout executive, heads the Monumental district.

VIRGEL S. CARTER ABOARD NAVY SHIP

Virgel S. Carter, boilerman third class, USN, son of Mrs. Helen R. Carter of 792 W. Franklin St., Balto., left New Orleans last week aboard the destroyer USS Robert L. Wilson.

After spending the Armistice day week-end in that interesting old city, the ship, with a crew of 320, returned to Pensacola, Fla., where they operate with the aircraft carrier USS Monterey.

In the past year the Wilson, whose home port is Norfolk, Va., has had duty in the Caribbean, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, Key West, and Pensacola, Fla.

Jack, a Dog, Visits School, Wins Honors

Well now, this dog named Jack strolled into School No. 136 the other day and walked away with just about every prize in the pet show.

Pupils in third and fourth grade classes at the Howard and 24th Sts. school voted the care-free German Shepherd, the "largest, smartest and oldest" pet entered in the contest.

Jack took all this acclaim in stride. This wasn't his first time as a canine celebrity.

AFRO 'Cover' Dog

Just before Halloween, Jack made the front page of the AFRO with his clever modeling of a Woman's broad-brimmed hat. He's strictly a glamor-boy type dog.

But he had keen competition in the pet show. Danny Boy, a young up-and-coming half Spitz, half Lord knows-what, pupny had strong support among the classmembers.

Biscuit, a calm collected little kitten meowed her way into the hearts of many observers. There were two turtles and a white pigeon.

Convinced Judges

But Jack bested them in the finals. With a wag of his tail and a confident grin, he convinced judges that he was the dog of the hour.

The children sponsoring the show are members of Mrs. Catherine Banks's class. Judges were Elaine Huff, Victoria Gordon and Catherine Dent.

Pupils attending were:

Donald Flowers, Barbara and John Huff, Mary and Helen Neal, Robert and James Harrington, Jesse and Charles Barr, Marva Garrett, Irma Hastie, Barbara Platt, Edgar Snead, Mary Brown, Regina Jackson;

Norman Reed, George Cheyney, George Randall, Clarice Howard, Shirley Elliott, Shirley McKinley, Mary Curtis, John Terry, Frederick Fisher, Myron McCoy, Patricia Claibourne, Mildred Fields, John Wells, Peggy Melvin, Anna Samuel Moore, and Brenda Stewart, Joan Claibourne; Owens.

Funeral Saturday for Mrs. Foster

Funeral services for Mrs. Katie C. Foster of 132 N. Aisquith St. will be held at her home at 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 24.

She died Tuesday morning after a short illness. Burial will be in Arbutus Memorial Park.

Survivors include four children, Mrs. Ethel Pinder, Mrs. Virgie Aaron, Miss Anita V. Foster and William Foster, all of Baltimore.
