Johnson Held Guilty In Grocer's Slaying

One defendant was found guilty of petty larceny while the other was convicted of manslaughter Thursday after being tried on alleged charges of murder before Judge Herman M. Moser in Criminal Court.

The court withheld sentencing Brice Atkinson, of the 1400 block N. Fulton and Bruce H. Johnson, 23, of the 1300 block N. Calhoun St. pending a probation report on them.

The pair was charged with the death of Robert Banks, 65, who was shot four times on April 19 in his clam bar in the 1300 block of Riggs Ave. An autopsy report showed the elderly man was shot in both shoulders, the abdomen and the chest.

Neither M. F. Freedman, counsel for Johnson, nor E. Levan, who represented Atkinson, allowed their clients to take the stand. One witness who saw the shooting and at least two witnesses to events leading up the shooting did testify, plus two police officers.

The first witness was James Perry, 26, of the 1300 block N. Calhoun. Perry testified that the day of the shooting he met Atkinson and Johnson and the latter's twin brother, Barton.

Had Some Drinks

After some drinking, Perry testified the group went to Banks's clam bar for some clams. While there the elderly man was heard to complain that someone had taken his money and he wanted to get it back.

After a search failed to locate the reportedly missing money, Perry said he saw Banks reach down and pull a pistol out of a black bag.

He said Atkinson ran out of the place followed by Barton Johnson and Banks fired one shot down an alley at the pair.

When Banks returned to the place, Perry said he tussled with Bruce who had remained in the place. Perry said he then fled himself and heard more shots as he ran down the street. He testified that he saw Bruce grab the gun out of the old man's pocket before he left.

Next to take the stand was Barton Johnson, twin brother of Bruce. His testimony was similar to that of Perry with one exception. He said that before Banks began to complain about his money he saw Atkinson's hand "kinda slide around the counter and go into his pocket."

Statement Ruled Out

Judge Moser later discounted the above statement when he reduced a charge of robbery against Atkinson to petty larceny.

One man who actually saw the shooting could not identify who did it. Douglass Jones of the 1000 block N. Fulton said that he was standing outside Banks' store when he saw the man run out and fire down the alley at two fleeing men.

Jones said when Banks returned to his store he asked him to notify the police. A few minutes Jones said he saw "two or three men rush out of the store.

"I saw a fellow backing out from Mr. Banks shooting," he testified, "but I can't identify him."

Lt. Burton Deniline of the Northwest Police read a statement in which Atkinson admitted he had attempted to short change Banks and this explained why the man complained about getting his money.

A robbery motive was followed when Sgt. George H. Dutzler of the Northwestern Police testified that $9.63 in currency was found in a currency box in the store and $58 in currency in a bag behind the counter.

A statement was also read which was given by Bruce Johnson in which the latter admitted shooting Banks. Given to State Attorney Sodaro, Johnson admitted he struggled with Banks when the man wouldn't permit him to leave the store before the police arrived.

According to Johnson's statement he grabbed the man at the door in an attempt to leave and as they struggled the gun went off. Johnson's statement admits he later shot Banks three times while he was "dazed and my finger was tight around the gun."

Fake Insanity Fails To Save 2

Two 19-year-old youths, both former inmates of Crownsville, drew 10-year sentences Wednesday for robbery after Judge John A. Tucker decided their continual abnormal action in court and in jail was simple "faking."

Samuel Harold of the 900 block N. Eutaw St. received a sentence of not more than 10 years in the Maryland State Reformatory and Vernon Nance, of the 1000 block N. Eutaw was sentenced to 10 years—straight in the Maryland State Penitentiary.

The two teen-agers were convicted of robbing and beating Bill Joyner of the 1700 block Eager St. on March 9. At the time Joyner was on his way home from his work.

The man was grabbed in the 1100 block of N. Eden and dragged into an alley where $14.70 was taken from him and he was beaten with fists.

Police On Spot

Harold and Nance fled from the alley right into the hands of the police who had been attracted by Joyner's screams.

On March 17, at another pre-arraignment, Nance began acting so strangely in court he was committed to Crownsville. It was then learned he was an escapee from the state institution.

Two days later Harold began acting crazy in the jail and he was sent to Crownsville. Once at the institution, however, repeated there was nothing wrong with either youth.

Acted Up Again

On May 5 at their second arraignment the pair began to conjure once again and it was then Judge Tucker admonished them and said he knew they were faking.

Ordering them to be held for trial, the court appointed Y. L. Perkins to act as counsel for the two "actors."

Claims Wife Sips Milk, Gun Powder

Mrs. Delores Stewart, 1300 block Whatcoat St., didn't show up in Northwestern Police Court on Wednesday to testify against her husband on charges of striking her, but her mate did some talk-ing of his own.

Paul Stewart, 24, told Magistrate E. Everett Lane that she had trouble with his wife after she drank a concoction of gun powder and milk.

Beware Explosion

Astonished by the receipe, the magistrate warned Stewart that "If you take a real good swing at your wife she's liable to explode."

He then dismissed Stewart because Mrs. Stewart wasn't there to prosecute.

Eleven Hurt In Week-End Car Accidents; Six In One Collision

Eleven persons received injuries, none of them serious, in autoinshaps in Northwest Baltimore over the week-end.

Six persons were hurt in one collision of two cars at Howard and Biddle Sts. about 2:45 p.m. Sunday. They were:

Mrs. Bessie Williams, 38, 600 block W. Franklin St., an injured ankle; Beulah Green, 11, 900 block Park Ave., nose and hand injuries; Valaria Bennett, 9, 1500 block W. Lanvale, chin lacerations; S. Edmon Williams, 37, Philadelphia, Pa., injured right eye — Garey McCain, 40, 37 Lloyd St., arm, leg and hand injuries, and James M. Linton, 33, 323 W. 28th St., arm and leg injuries.

All were treated at Provident Hospital, except Mrs. Williams, who was taken to Mercy Hospital.

Reckless Driving Blamed

Police said an auto driven by Williams was eastbound on Biddle St. when it collided with one driven by Linton going south on Howard St. Both men were charged with reckless driving.

Others Hurt

Two cars collided about 1:30 a.m. Sunday at Druid Hill and Lafayette Aves., injuring Booker T. Fletcher, 45, 2000 block Guilford Ave., and Clarence Guilfogl, 36, 3400 Eaton Ave.

Fletcher suffered possible fracture of the right arm and Guilford was cut about the forehead.

Fletcher, driver of one of the vehicles, and George E. Hollman, 36, 3600 block Charles Ave., driver of the other, were charged with reckless driving after both claimed having a signal light in their favor.

Car, Truck Collide

Mrs. Louise Saunders, 32, and Mrs. Louise Dorsey, 60, both of Ellicott City, suffered slight injuries when the car in which they were riding collided with a pick-up truck driven by Herman J. Gipson, 55, 300 block Bruce St.

Gipson was charged with failure to obey a boulevard right of way.

The accident occurred about 7:30 p.m., Sunday.

Saturday Mishap

A cab driven by Matthew H. Cherry, 39, 300 block George St., stopped at the intersection of Arlington and Lafayette Aves during Saturday night's rain, and was smacked from behind by an auto driven by Linwood Pegues, 24, 2300 block Lauretta Ave.

Mrs. Mary Demeindes, 33, 1608 Argyle Ave., suffered back injuries in the mishap.

4-Year-Old Youth Hurt By Automobile

A 4-year-old boy, Calvin Graves of the 400 block W. Biddle St., suffered a fractured left leg and head injuries Tuesday when he was struck by a cab on Biddle St. near McCulloh St.

The auto, driven by Albert Gregory, 50, 600 block W. Franklin St., was westbound on Biddle St. when it struck the child about 68 feet west of McCulloh St. The mishap occurred about 6:45 p.m.

Gregory was charged with speeding and reckless driving.

Brothers Reunited After Overseas Duty With Army

Two S. Baltimore brothers who joined the Army together two years ago, were reunited this week for the first time since their return from Korea.

The two servicemen, Pfc. Eugene Moore, and Pvt. James Moore, are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Moore of 653 W. Barrie St.

The brothers enlisted for a period of three years Army service. Stanley recently completed a 13 months' tour of duty in Korea with a medical detachment and Elmer 15 months with an Infantry division.

Private First Class Elmer Moore is a former student of Douglass High School. His brother attended Harvey Johnson.

Stanley is now stationed at Fort Belvoir, Va., with the 75th Army Band and Elmer at Fort Benning, Ga., with the Second Infantry Division.

Road Commission Silent To Heavy Truckers' Beef

The Maryland State Road Commission remained silent for this week on charges by the heavy trucking industry that a road test failed to prove that heavy loads are breaking up highways.

Members of the American Trucking Association, made the public complaint on last Wednesday after tests were conducted on Route 31 near La Plata, Md.

According to the commission, they have not had a chance to study a report made by a highway research board that carried out the test.

Charges Publicized

In publicizing their charges, the truckers claim that poor quality in the foundation of the La Plata road, was responsible for pavement damage rather than heavy trucks.

While awaiting comment on the charges, truckers in the Baltimore area were unanimous in agreing that they were not totally responsible for the highway damage.

The general opinion was shared in the statement of one who said, "So what? As truckers we pay the highest rate of taxes and as a result, the State should be able to maintain the highways."

Overloading Claimed

One other trucker from the Pennsylvania Ave., district, confined his opinion to operators who are frequently caught overloading. "My trucks" he stated, "rarely venture out more than 50 miles from town, therefore I am fairly free from criticism."

Another spokesman pointed out that for one truck alone he had to pay $600 per year in taxes, and $200 more for licenses. He also agreed that the state was making enough through taxes alone to maintain highways.

According to John V. Lawrence, managing director of the American Trucking Association, the test on U.S. 301 was abused by people eager to support charges that trucks generally damage the highways.

He maintained that the findings point out that engineers in charge of the test withheld full maintenance in order to make the road crack. The test was "frankly a breakdown test" he stated, and "were conducted accordingly."

Seven No Lucky Number For Jones

Isiah Jones, 26, of 30 block S. Baltimore St. has been jailed six times since 1944 for burglary but never has he received a sentence of over 2 years.

Judge Clark decided to increase the time on Jones' latest trip to the clink. He gave him a 3-year sentence in the House of Correction Wednesday.

Jones was found guilty of breaking in a store at 16 N. Wolfe St. around 4 a.m. on May 7. Nothing was found missing but this could be because police, answering a call that the store was being burglarized, caught Jones in an alley nearby.

Found 2 Locks

Officer Aaron Humphrey of the Northeastern Police Station testified that two locks which had been broken from the doors of the store were found in the alley with Jones, and the owner of the place, James Campbell found a screwdriver not belonging to him when he entered the place the following day.

Jones denied everything. Asked to explain how he happened to be out at such an hour and in the alley, he stated that he had been to a party at his sister's and was using the alley as a shortcut to return home.

The defendant's police record shows that he was convicted of burglary twice in 1944 and once in 1946, 1949 and 1950.
