Rep. Dawson 'Shaken Up' In Airplane

WASHINGTON

Rep. William L. Dawson has a bump on his left forehead and an eye that is swollen almost shut, and discolored as a result of an injury received in a plane crash Friday.

The Congressman went about his duties all the week in Washington and declared Wednesday that he was "in the pink" of condition.

Mr. Dawson said he received his injuries and "we badly shaken up" on an American Airlines plane when it ran into a 50-mile-an-hour gale about 30 minutes out of Chicago.

The plane had left Washington at 2:15 p.m. en route to the Windy City.

He said all of the passengers on the plane were badly shaken up and his injuries were not serious.

Judge Holds Pair's Fate

2 Men Tried In Death Of Third

The fate of two men who were involved in a free-for-all fight on February 24 in which another man was stabbed to death is expected to be heard Monday from Judge E. Paul Mason.

The men are William L. Black, 31, of the first block N. Fremont Ave. and Vernon Vaughn, 33, of the 1100 block W. Saratoga St. whose court trials for assault and murder were heard Tuesday.

The men were tried in the death of James Turner, 35, of the 2000 block Harlem Ave. Judge Mason reserved rendering a verdict at th end of the trial until he had more time to study the evidence of the case.

Fight Outside Bar

Turner died February 24 from stab wounds received during a battle royal outside a bar and grill in the 500 block N. Fremont Ave.

Black was indicted for murder and assault as a result of the fight and Vaughn was indicted for assault to murder.

Black admitted that he had been in a fight with Turner the night he was slain after the latter had pulled a knife on Black's girl friend the previous night.

Denies Stabbing Turner

His contention, however, was that Turner stabbed him in the shoulder during the melee. He denied stabbing the slain man.

Vaughn claimed his part in the fracas was that of peacemaker. A friend of Turner's, Vaughn said it was he who stabbed Black during the fight.

Several state witnesses testified that they saw Black striking at Turner with some sort of object during the fight outside the tavern.

They were Blanche Ferguson, of the 2100 block N. Saratoga; William Wheatley, of the 700 block W. Lexington St., and Mary Brooks, of the 1000 block Sarah Ann St.

Black was defended by Benjamin L. Weidron and Vaughn by G. Robert Levinson. Asst. State's Attorney Theodore Waters Jr. was the prosecutor.

Cab Driver Applicants Get Information

Prospective taxi drivers for the Fleetway Cab Company receive information about their future job fro mDavid L. Glenn, right, of the Urban League. The league completed arrangements with the cab company last week to hire colored drivers.

Fleetway Cab Company To Hire Colored Drivers

The Fleetway Cab Company this week became the second major taxi company in Baltimore to announce a new policy of hiring colored drivers.

The first of this group began work today. (Friday).

The Urban League said that the new policy climaxed a year of talks between the league and the manager of the company, Abraham Sudhalter.

The company expects to hire some 100 drivers, with more to be employed as the need arises. Idle cabs, caused by a shortage of manpower, were cited as the primary reason for the hiring of colored drivers.

Company To 'Stand Pat'

League officials said the company has promised that it will have a "stand pat" policy on the hiring of colored personnel—meaning that if any white drivers stage a walkout because of the colored drivers, the company will ignore such protests.

Fred Z. Nichols, director of industrial relations for the league, described the move by Fleetway as one which would strengthen the position of all colored cabbies.

Union Benefits

"The new move will allow drivers to transfer from one company to another, for any reason, without losing union benefits," Mr. Nichols said.

Belle Isle Cab Company became the first major taxi firm to hire colored drivers on March 14, 1951, as a subsidiary of the Yellow Cab Company, which now uses colored drivers through its system.

Falling Chimney Injures Woman

Hit by bricks from a chimney blown down by strong winds, Mrs. Annie Petty, of the 800 block Stricker St., is in critical condition at Provident Hospital where she was rushed after the mishap Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Petty, according to witnesses, was walking on the pavement near her home at about 5:30 when a weakened gave and the chimney topled over. An ambulance arrived after a 15-minute wait and Mrs. Petty, bleeding badly, was taken to the hospital.

CENSUS AFFECTED BY FEAR

One of the problems of census taking among primitive or superstitious peoples is the ancient fear that the counting of persons or goods may lead to disasters, the National Geographic Society notes.

One Dead, One Wounded Among Korean Casualties

The Defense Department's latest Korean casualty list reports one local soldier killed in action, and another wounded.

The dead soldier, missing since Sept.1950, is Pfc. Earl Holmes, 21, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Holmes of 233 N. Fulton St.

Pvt. Earl Watkins, the husband of Mrs. Bertha Watkins of 1709 Pressiman St., is reported as wounded in battle.

Killed in Aug. 1950

Pfc. Holmes was killed in action on Aug. 11, 1950, when his company, was attacked by enemy forces in the vicinity of Pohang in South Korea.

He was a member of Company I, of the 9th Infantry Regiment.

The Defense Department letter to Pfc. Holmes' family stated that "he fought a good fight for one of man's highest causes, the cause of freedom."

"We will fight much harder," the letter stated, "knowing him and many others like him who made the supreme sacrifice."

Enlisted in 1948

Pfc. Holmes a native of Baltimore, attended school No.119, and Booker T. Washington High School He enlisted and was inducted into the army at Fort Dix in Jan. 1948.

Mrs. Leona Jackson Wed To Harry S. Carpenter

with Lula Jones Garrett

A lovely picture in blue was Leona Williams Jackson, who became the bride of Harry S. Carpenter in a ceremony in Union Baptist Church, Saturday afternoon.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Cyrus Gaunthorey, the bride wore a ballerina-length frock of embroidered nylon, matching hat and slippers and filled her arms with a Colonial bouquet of garden flowers.

In an identical frock, except that the color was yellow, and the scooped neckline not filled in with net as was that of the bride, Beltye Bundara stood as attendant. Her accessories also matched her gown and her flowers, too, July 4 was a Colonial bouquet. Milton Dugger served as best man.

The Rev. Baxter Matthews read the ceremony. Sheldon Jackson was at the organ and Lillian Parrott was soloist.

Some 400 guests attended the reception which was held in the reception room of the church.

Later intimates gathered at a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gaunthorey to bid the couple Godspeed on their wedding trip westward. They are motoring to California, and upon their return will be at home in Catonsville.

Bettye Phillips is spearheading a committee of We Wives which is working to get $207 by August 1, to paint the Madison Avenue YWCA dining room. You can do your bit by making a contribution through Bettye, Mae Dyson, Vernice Reynolds, Princilla Lansey and Iris Mapp.

Get out your knitting needles, for more of the carriage trade will be pushing bunnies this season than you can shake a finger at.

The Harold Jennifers have a threesome in sight. The Russell W. Carpenters (Annett Hall of this town) welcomed a 6½pounds baby boy in their New Brunswick, N.J. home, on June 5. Wayne Gates Carpenter is the baby's name.

The Theodore Heights (Margaret) have been parents of a baby girl since Monday.

Guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar M. Ewing, this week, was Elder H. Russell, native Baltimorean now residing in Phoenix, Ariz.

He was enroute to East Sullivan, New Hampshire, where he will serve as counselor at Camp Apple Hill during July and August.

Camp Apple Hill is a recent experiment in interracial camping for boys and girls, age 5 to 12, and Mr. Russell is the first non-white member of the counseling staff.

During the regular school year, Mr. Russell is employed as counselor with the Child Study Service of the Phoenix Elementary schools, handling emotional and adjustment problems of children from kindergarten through the eight grade.

Mrs. Sara M. Addison has recently returned from her home town of Augusta, Ga., where she spent two weeks. While there she attended the annual alumni celebration of Paine College, and at which she was honored as the oldest graduate in attendance. Mrs. Addison was a member of the class of 1897.

Also in attendance was an old friend, Mrs. A. W. Stephens of San Diego, Calif., a member of the Class of 1902. Before returning to Baltimore, Mrs. Addison spent a week in Savannah.

Off to Newark, N.J., this week and next seven of Lambda Kappa Mu, which holds its annual convention there. In the delegation are Vivian Alleyne, who is to be a speaker, Fannie Glascoe, Nevie Harrison, Pearl Jackson, Ida Wroten and Mildred Brown, delegates.

Kitty Lane has been president of the Baltimore chapter of Gay Northeasterners since their meeting, Saturday.

Other officers inducted were: Dukye Woode, vice president; Elizabeth Jenkins, corresponding secretary; Helen Lee, recording secretary and Waltye Doles, treasurer.

At the session they also set up plans for entertaining the men in their lives at the shore home of Dr. and Mrs. I. B. Higgins on July 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Talmadge Hill gave their daughter, Miss Emily Myra, this year's graduate of Douglass High School, at an open house on Friday evening at their Morgan Park home.

Umbrella table decorations the spacious lawn where the guests assembled. Most popular of the outdoor refreshments served in was coquet, later hours of which they filed by a bountifully filled buffet to fortify themselves for post-supper dancing in the gaily decorated club room of the Hill home.

In keeping with the season the honoree and her brother, Talmadge, Jr., presented mock diplomas and caps, for bachelor of merriment degrees, to the guests.

Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Hill were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. Fred Berry of Lynchburg, who had come up for Freddie's graduation; Mrs. Myra Reeder, godmother of the honoree, joined by Miss Julia Wilson, both of Washington.

Guests included:

Yvonne M. Smith, Ann Fowlks, Lois Young, Anita Harris, Olga Thomas, Parthia Wood, Carolyn King, Anne Shervington, Sandra Koger, Marcia Chapman, Miriam Hughes, Marlene Greer, Mable Lake, Delores Kennedy, Marion Bass, Norma Patrick, Hazel Hudnall.
