13 Tan Stars In 49 Stage Shows

Picture In TV Worse; 31 Listed Out Of 6,620

NEW YORK—The discrimination against colored performers in all of the entertainment media is pointed out in the current issue of Equity magazine by Frederick O'Neal, stage and screen star.

O'Neal points out that from September 1, 1951 to March 15, 1952, Broadway has had 49 plays employing 682 performers (not including understudies).

"Of the 682 actors employed," Mr. O'Neal points out, only 13 of them were colored.

Three In Top Roles

"Of the 13 used, only three could be considered by any great stretch of the imagination, to be employed in supporting roles. The others were all bit parts, extras or supers.

"Only seven of the 49 plays employed any colored at all.

"Most of the 13 employed, (4), are to be found in "The Shrike," "Fancy Meeting You," "Remains to Be Seen," and the Olivier company (aliens), each employed two colored actors, as supers or in bit roles.

None As Directors

"Of the 13, only those in "The Shrike" are still working.

"As of March 15, there were no colored directors, stage managers, authors, composers, choreography musical directors, publicity men, advance agents, casting agents or company managers whose services were utilized in the legitimate theatre.

"Nor were there any colored stagehands, theatrical photographers, ticket agents, theatre party agents employed in the Broadway area, despite the fact that there are qualified persons to fill most or all of the above positions.

"True, the recent productions of "Shuffle Along" and "Four Saints" employed colored stage managers, choreographers and a musical conductor, but this was after March 5 of this year."

Hits Concert Field

Turning to the concert field, Mr. O'Neale made the observation that:

"There are no colored producers, one theatrical attorney, one scenic designer, and one in content management."

The picture in Television is even worse. "If there is any doubt, take a look at these figures," he points out:

Thirty-One In TV

"There are approximately 662 hours of telecasting during a given week.

"If we allow 10 performers to each hour of telecasting (and the figures would be higher), we get a total of 6620 performers being used, of which approximately 3 are colored.

"These figures include filmed programs of which the Amos 'n' Andy as well as the Beulah show are a part."

Eckstine Sings In Zoot Suit

BOSTON — The lavish movie, "Skirts Ahoy," opened its Boston showings here at Loew's State after the Orpheum Theater featuring Esther Williams, Joan Evans, Vivian Blaine, Barry Sullivan, Keenan Brasselle and Billy Eckstine.

Billy, dressed in an exaggerated white zoot suit, sings the song, that thousands of fans are now humming, "Come Closer."

Featured in the ballroom sequence is a squad of colored Waves, who step smartly in a Naval drill to the music of a Navy band.

Some are featured in the first time along with the Lieutenants as they pass in review, while others are seen on the dance floors at the weekly hops.

Juanita Hall Aids Air Fund

NEW YORK—Juanita Hall celebrated her return to the cast of "South Pacific" in the role of Bloody Mary on Sunday night.

She appeared in a cocktail benefit on the Astor Roof for the Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund.

In addition to singing a number of spirituals, she sang a suite written for her by Langston Hughes and Dave Martin.

Bituminous Industry Invaluable

During World War II the bituminous coal industry supplied the country with half of its total fuel and energy requirements.

On the AVENUE

By E. B. REA

YOU CAN BLAME it on the heat!

AVENUE SPORTS FANS, who crowd Memorial Stadium when a team comes in with tan-baseball players, stay away from other games for the adverse reason—no colored players.

THERE'S DOUBLE TALK along the Main Stroll: The forthcoming Ray Robinson-Joey Maxim light heavyweight title fight on Monday night, and the Archie Moore-Clarence Henry shindig here on June 26.

THEY'RE BURNING, TOO, because neither will be available on either television or radio. This, too, hurts the night club trade.

IT WON'T BE TOO hot for the gang to mosey down to Carr's Beach on Sunday to hear Buddy Johnson and his sister, Ella, dish out red hot rhythm and toot sweet songs for beaucherites.

BUDDY WILL BE without the services of vocalist Arthur Prysock, who has been featured with the band for the past eight years, but the maestro told this writer: "I'm still bringing something surprisingly hot."

THE AVENUE'S TALKING about the "easy" sentences given members of the so-called "Red Light Gang" who maliciously assaulted a police officer—how murderers get three to five years, and numbers backers draw seven years.

'TIS STILL BEING talked that work will soon begin on resurfacing Pennsylvania Avenue. Numbers of people continue to park beyond the bus stop limit only to find that the "T-Squad" has left them a nice little greeting bearing the title "Summons."

A MORGAN COLLEGE senior came to the aid of Harley's Submarine Sandwich Shop, down Mechen St. way, which is under indictment by a community league. A magistrate ruled that several persons arrested outside of the establishment were not guilty of disorderly conduct.

THE NUT of the situation is: The place is patronized by members of all races, but colored patrons are the only ones being molested. Could it be pressure?

THE AVENUE'S STILL talking about the happy times to be had at the Casino since the inaugration of the new music policy, following the observance of the spot's 12th anniversary. Askew Gatewood and J. Rodger Ross are keeping the club humming during the illness of the third partner, Victorine Adams.

CREDIT "FRUITS" and the pleasant service staff at the Villa for bringing the Wendell Wilson oasis back to its former glory and meeting place of most of the old, regular good fellows gang.

LITTLE JOLLY SPOT, down West West St. way, has changed hands. Jacob Levy is the new owner. Dave Bailey, who formerly oversaw activities at the Spot, has given up the gay life for a permanent job in the shipyards.

DR. LESTER ROBINSON, of the drug store family, 2100 block, boasts ownership of a fairly good "bang tail" which made a fairly good showing on a Boston track a few days back. Dr. Leon B. Robinson, veteran druggist, ill for several months, reported gradually improving.

"LYDIA BAILEY," the film about historic Haiti, now showing at the Regent, is a "Must" for all ages. For the school kids, it teaches more than any history book. For the grown-ups, it should make them proud of the splendid roles and superb acting of its colored stars.

WHILE ON THEATRICALS, "Quo Vadis," showing at the Lenox, uptown, and the Eden, East Baltimore, is a spectacle that shouldn't be missed.

ON THE OTHER SIDE of the picture, "Birth of a Nation" is one film that should be given to the arson-minded inmates of Spring Grove Hospital, who like to see things burn.

THIS WRITER saw a preview of the film. His reaction: It's a type of picture that couldn't be run on television, according to the policy of TV networks. It's the type of propaganda that shouldn't be run on any theatre screen. It's so utterly misrepresenting. The title should be corrected to "Shame of a Nation."

LITTLE NEWSYTEMS — Bobbie Boyd, the shake dancer, may soon desert Baltimore for Portland, Oregon. The new show at the Melody Club is a mixture of fun and melody. Ike Dixon will carry his musical bar shows right on through the summer in a cool atmosphere. Happy Jack still a wow at Club 511, while Joe Mazer's Olde Mill still draws a select crowd.

MOST AVENUE OPERATORS are "agin" closing lower Avenue "on the spot" spots. Say the undesirable trade will be turned loose on them. One pointed out the evil wrought in breaking up the "red light" districts. Says it ran the prostitutes into many of the respectable neighborhoods.

WEEKLY CONCERTS by the Municipal bands are bringing various neighborhoods some relaxing music as well as comfortable outdoor entertainment. You owe it to the directors Harrison M. Dodd and Charles E. Gwynn, and the Bureau of Music, under Earl Forman, who brings these features free—to attend and applaud them.

HERE'S GRAMP, AGAIN! The Percy Simmses, of Flushing, L.I., New York (she the former La-Ruth Rea), welcomed a mighty mite of a girl on Thursday in a Flushing hospital. She weighed in at three pounds and three ounces, exactly ten ounces more than her mother, who registered two pounds and nine ounces.

THE HEAT'S ON so, that's as far as we got On and Off The Avenue This Week.

John Kirby, Musician, Dies Of Heart Attack

John Kirby, 43-year-old bassist, died suddenly of a heart attack in Los Angeles, Calif., on Saturday, June 14.

Details as to funeral and burial were not available at press time on Friday.

Kirby was born in Baltimore on December 31, 1908, the only son of the late Fred and Mrs. Dolly Kirby.

JOHN KIRBY

John's father died when he was four years of age, his mother when he was 12.

Did Odd Jobs

His livelihood included such jobs as washing cars and cutting lawns, and at the age of 16 he was doing odd jobs for the president of Johns Hopkins University.

He later got a job washing dishes on a dining car of the Pennsylvania Railroad. In two weeks he was promoted to bus boy and later to waiter.

He saved his money and bought a tuba and joined the Bill Brown Orchestra in New York. After he switched to string bass he joined Fletcher Henderson in 1929.

Played With Webb

He left Henderson in 1934 and joined the late Chick Webb's band at Harlem's Savoy Ballroom, but two years later he was back with Henderson at Chicago's Grand Terrace.

After a couple of months in the Windy City John returned to New York and formed his own group.

In April, 1937, the band opened at the Onyx Club on West Fifty-second Street, after which he went to the Pump Room in Chicago.

His sextet broke up during World War II, but he had a reunion at a Carnegie Hall, N.Y., jazz concert in 1950.

At one time he recorded for Columbia, Decca, RCA Victor, and other companies.

Married Maxine Sullivan

Kirby became famous for his Columbia Broadcasting System's sustaining feature, "Flow Gently, Sweet Rhythm," which eventually led the way to the band's new commercial.

He was at one time married to Maxine Sullivan who sang with his combo.

Among his most famous compositions were "Effervescent Blues" and "Dawn on the Desert," as well as swing arrangements of Schubert's "Serenade" and Chopin's "Minute Waltz."
