CONDUCT OWN BUSINESSES:

Turner Station Residents Have Busy Community

Twenty years ago, Turner Station was a swamp-infested settlement with less than seven hundred residents.

Today with three Federal housing projects, Day Village, a private project with five hundred homes and other housing developments, Turner Station is considered one of the most progressive communities in Baltimore County.

17,000 Population

The present population is 17,000 and Turner Station was selected for the location of the Sollers Point High School.

This is a twelve classroom structure with a cafeteria, health suite, a convertible gymnasium-auditorium and ultra modern lighting.

It accommodates students from Sparrows Point, Middle River, Edgemere and Turner Station. The school's principal is Charles W. Fletcher, and there are 730 pupils and 30 faculty members.

2 Elementary Schools

In addition to the million dollar high school, there are two elementary schools, the Turner Station Elementary School, principal Mrs. Frances Bruce; and the Fleming Elementary School where Mrs. Mary Harris is principal. The combined enrollment of the two elementary schools is twelve hundred pupils.

The local theater, the Anthony, is owned by Dr. Joseph Thomas. The two taverns here, Adams's Cocktail Lounge, owned by Irvin Adams, and the Ranch whose proprietress is Mrs. Catherine Edwards are all owned and operated by colored persons.

There are at least eight grocery stores, two sea food stores, a delicatessen, five and dime store, all operated by colored citizens.

2 Cab Companies

Turners' also has its beauticians, barbers and shoemakers. There is a service station here and two thriving taxicab companys.

The Turner Station branch of the YMCA, under the supervision of Rudolph Wheeler; the 12th District Democratic Club whose president is Charles Morris, and the Community Center Improvement Association under the leadership of Dr. Eugene Byrd have all contributed to the civic progress of this community.

Police Appointed

Increased vote registration, the curb in juvenile delinquency, and the appointment of colored police for the Turner Station area is the result of the co-ordinated efforts of these and other civic organizations.

Like any other progressive community, Turner also has its churches. New Shiloh Baptist Church whose pastor is the Rev. David Banks, New Life Presbyterian Church where the Rev. Harold Nixon is minister, St. Matthew's Methodist under the pastorate of the Rev. J. H. Carter and the First Apostolic Faith Gospel Tabernacle whose pastor is the Rev. G. Levant.

Services of the other denominations are held in the various project recreation halls throughout the community. The Catholic Mission here holds it's services in the Sellers Homes Recreation Hall. The local contingent of Jehovah's Witnesses holds it's services at the Turner Homes Recreation Hall.

Many Steelworkers

Turner Station is predominantly a community of steelworkers. Many of it's residents are employed by the Bethlehem Steel Company and work at the vast steel plant at Sparrows Point, Md.

At Turner Station however, occupational or professional status is ignored in the interest of community progress. The steelworker, the merchant, the teacher and the barber combine time and talent in an effort to raise the living standards of the community.

Lord Baltimore Faces Lawsuits

The Lord Baltimore Hotel, which three weeks ago opened its arms to the 17th annual convention of the Catholic War Veterans but closed most of its doors to colored CWV members, faces possibility of three lawsuits.

W. A. C. Hughes Jr., Baltimore attorney, filed on Wednesday that damage suits in behalf of Irving Cosby and Hymel T. Sibrie of Chicago and Mrs. Louise L. Vogelsang of New York may be filed against the hotel soon because the three were denied reserved room accommodations and dining service while here.

Mr. Cosby and Mrs. Sibrie were turned down when they arrived at the Lord Baltimore on June 18 to claim their room reservations. They also were denied service in the hotel cafeteria.

Tossed Out

Mrs. Vogelsang, who attended the CWV Ladies' Auxiliary convention which met simultaneously with the men's group, was tossed out of her hotel room after hotel officials claimed she had gotten in under false pretenses.

Mr. Hughes said that since there are no statutory laws covering such incidents, the suits would be based on old English common law which decrees that inn keepers are responsible for accommodations of guests.

The suits, claiming punitive damages as a result of embarrassment, inconvenience, etc., would name Mrs. Irene Shaw, reservation manager, as a defendant, Mr. Hughes said.

He was not certain whether Hotel Director H. N. Busick would be named also.

The AFRO Goes To See Chinatown

DEAR BOSS:

No slant - eyed damsels in flowered kimonos smiling at you from incense - filled rooms. No pigtailed tong - men following you stealthily through narrow alleys with daggers poised.

No dark rooms with bunk beds upon which recline thin smokers of the opium that brings peace.

The Chinatown of Fu Manchu and Limehouse nights are gone. All that was exotic and sinister about the small Oriental settlement in this city has faded away . . . the mystery ends.

Baltimore's Chinatown was always small, contained in two blocks downtown: the 200 block W. Mulberry St. and the 300 block Park Ave. Now it is even smaller, for American businesses have moved into the little shops where once, bearded Chinamen moved about on padded feet . . . selling tea, spices and art.

All that remains on Mulberry St. now, is an exporting house, a Chinese-American restaurant, two small noodle factories on Park: two more empty-looking exporting houses (one with a padlock on the door) and a curio shop.

Chinatown's New Spirit

The new spirit of the Chinese American is typified by the new Chinese Merchants' Association building on Park Ave. which is of red brick and suggests the Orient by its pagoda - shaped entrance way of gold and red.

I entered this building while on a stroll through the district. I walked upstairs and came upon a large classroom, where about 30 Chinese children from about six to 16 were studying. The teacher was a young Chinese man who led them in a sing - song recital of what seemed a reading lesson.

On one side, the older children sat laughing among themselves. A slim girl sang softly in imitation of Johnnie Ray. What I asked myself, could be more corny or American than that?

The boys were blue jeans and T-shirts, the girls' dresses, were "made in U.S." summer freaks.

The only thing oriental about the scene was the strange language used and the word alphabet chalked out on the board.

The teacher spoke in a yell. The kids repeated his words in yells equal to his. He saw me and came over grinning shyly. He spoke with an accent, so I assumed that he was not a second generation settler.

Old - Times Have Gone

No, he said, he did not know much about how Baltimore's Chinatown began or who the older residents were. "All the old ones have gone," he told me.

He referred me to a man who was in the exporting business around the corner. "He might know."

I entered this shop, heard loud voices in the rear along with the unmistakable sound of clicking dice and shuffled cards. Money jingled.

A small thin man hurried to the front. I told him what I wanted, showed him my press card and watched him. He seemed ready to keel over in fright. Probably thought my press card was a police badge.

They've Moved Away

He did tell me that local Chinese donated money to support the school I had just come from and that there was nothing "much happening down here anymore, people have moved away."

He kept one eye on me, the other on the men in the back. Through the blinds I saw them huddled around a table, smoking furiously, dealing cards and rolling dice at the same time.

The merchant wasn't very helpful, his mind was on gambling. He was relieved when I said "Thanks a lot" and left. Once outside, it came to me that Chinatown was disappearing altogether and it had given way to the ways of the west.

After all, what is more American than a fast game of craps?

YOUR MAN,
RALPH MATTHEWS JR.

Furnace Explodes, Janitor Burned

While stoking up an incinerator early Tuesday morning, a janitor was seared in the face and on the arms when an explosion occurred.

John Henderson who works at the Northway Apartments at 3700 N. Charles St. was treated for first and second degree burns at Henderson, who lives at 1209 Ashburton St., stated that the explosion occured after he poked the incinerator to stir up the fire.

Won Gregory Award

John T. Stokes Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Stokes Sr. of 2051 Wheeler Ave. in Baltimore, won the 1952 Gregory Award presented annually to the outstanding debater of the year by Kappa Sigma Debating Society. Torrid Heat Wave Which Killed 5, Leaves City

The mass of cool air from Canada has dispelled the torrid heat wave which seared the city last week and killed five persons.

Dead were:

Buxton Vaughn, 75 9,100 block Eutaw Place.

Harrison Watkins, 61, 2400 block Bentalou St.

Henderson Scott, 32, 1800 block E. Monument St.

Benjamin Stokes, 64, 1000 block McDonough St.

Elliott Chase, 1300 block Gilmor St.

Except for Vaughn, the above men died as a direct result of collapsing from heat prostration. Mr. Vaughn, however, was working in a third-floor apartment at 1533 Park Ave., when he fell from a rear window, last Friday morning.

Familiar Figure

A familiar figure in the Eutaw Place area for more than 25 years, Vaughn worked for Mrs. E. Kirsner, local realtor. He reportedly suffered from heart trouble, and according to Mrs. Kirsner, had a minor seizure severl hours before he died.

The woman declared she footbade Vaughn from working any more that day, when she learned of the man's attack. According to Mrs. Kirsner, "He wasn't doing any painting on Park Ave. He was just sitting there resting and must have fallen out of the window."

Another janitor who lived in the neighborhood, however, declared that he saw Vaughn go into the Park Ave. house with 'several buckets of paint."

Body Shipped to N.C.

Mr. Vaughn's death was attributed to a skull fracture. His body is being shipped to Littleton, N.C. for burial.

Both Mr. Watkins and Mr. Scott were pronounced dead at Provident Hospital after collapsing from heat prostration, last Friday night. Mr. Scott's body was shipped to Appomatox, Va., for burial, Monday.

Burial services for Mr. Stokes were conducted from the Elliott ment was in the Mt. Calvery cemetary.

Mr. Chase was buried Monday, from the Kelson Funeral Home. Interment was in the Baltimore National Cemetary.

FACES CHARGES OF RECKLESS DRIVING

James H. Bey of the 1800 block Madison Ave., was charged Tuesday with reckless driving and driving without a license.

The arrest occured when he struck a parked car on Madison Ave. near Whitelock St. The car owner is Joel W. Newton of 2317 Harlem Ave.

Turner Station's Oldest Resident

Here are four of the six-cab fleet owned by James and Charles Shelton, residents of Turner Station which is one of the most thriving county communities in the State. The owners are pictured beside the first and second cabs in the picture.

In Memoriam

DOWDY—In loving memory of our dear husband and brother, JOHN, who departed this life one year ago, July 2nd, 1951:

When one you care for has departed,
Sweet are the memories left behind.
There's something in a kindred mind
That always leaves a sense behind
Of true companionship, I know
The pain it was to see you go,
Yet memory softens everything
The grave its victory—death its sting.
I, who loved you, sadly miss you:
I, who held you very dear:
And in lonely hours of thinking
Often feel your presence near
Though God has taken you away
You are with me every day

WIFE AND SISTER.

FENWICK — In loving memory of my dear mother, ELLIE, who passed away 2 years ago, July 5, 1950:

You fought the pain so bravely,
Your head you did not bend,
I kept the watch with you, Dear Mother,
Yes, even to the end.
I watched and waited long in vain,
God grant another, we'll meet again.

Devoted daughter, AMELIA RICE.

LANGLEY — A birthday tribute to my dear daughter, THELMA A. LANGLEY, July 3 — who passed away, December 19, 1951:

Our days are filled with sorrow and tears
The day we loved so well,
But you are not with us today,
Our love for you to tell.
No presents now, just flowers, Dear
Upon your grave to lay;
In tears we pray to meet again,
In Heaven above—some day.

Loving and Devoted Mother, ALICE M. COLE.

LANGLEY — A birthday tribute to our dear sister, THELMA A. LANGLEY, born July 3, 1910:

This is your birthday, Thelma Dear,
Not as it used to be
The gladness of the day is gone.
You are not here to see
Your loved ones gathered lovely grave,
And our tears are at vain.
But Oh! how happy we would be
If we had you back again.

Loving sister and brother, ELINOR D. and MELVIN COLE.

IN MEMORIAM

MONSEGUE—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Lionel S., who passed away one year ago, July 7, 1951.

We do not think of you as dead
Though you walk with us no more,
As long the path of life we tread
You have but gone before,
You have taken your long journey
Into the land for the blest,
Away from the world of sorrow
To the home of eternal rest.

His devoted wife
