WORTON ITEMS.

INDIGNATION MEETING AT WORTON.

On Friday, May 26th, last, quite a number of the farmers who carry their milk to the milk station at Worton were turned away on account of their milk not being the proper temperature, which, according to orders from headquarters, should have been not over 60°. The farmers resented this, and on Monday, June 1, an indignation meeting was held in Worton Hall to discuss the matter.

The farmers readily responded to the call, and quite a crowd attended. Mr. Harry Taylor called the meeting to order and Mr. Cornelius was elected chairman with Mr. Norris secretary. The patrons were called on to voice their sentiments. Quite a protest went up. It was then decided to adopt resolutions, and a set was drawn up and voted on. They were unanimously passed.

While the discussion was up, Mr. Hendershott, who is Mr. Hauptfuhier's representative, came in. The questions were then put to him and he readily answered them, telling them how Mr. Wallis, the efficient milk agent, had but carried out the instructions which were given him. The resolutions were then read and criticized.

Mr. Hendershott explained in a very thorough way the method of testing milk with chemicals to ascertain the quality of milk and the milk business in general, which was very instructive. He also explained how there had always been rules about the temperature of the milk at the station, even though they had never been carried out.

It was decided that there be four tests per month at the station, Mr. Hendershott to make one of them personally. At the same time he is here making tests, he will hold a meeting with the farmers and all questions will be discussed. It was also decided that the maximum temperature be 70°.

This meeting was a great deal of benefit, both to patrons of the milk station and the owner. We hope there will be no more trouble in the future.
