THE KENNEDYVILLE MANSE.

The well is dug; we now await
All those who will participate—
And all who've promised to advance
A helping hand to build the Manse.

We need fence posts, and sand, and stone;
The first on Simond's land is grown;
And Jarrell will the sand advance,
If you will haul to build the Manse.

The stone you'll find by looking round
If you have time, on your own ground.
Now brethren, now, now is your chance
To haul above to build the Manse.

And now good brother, show you're game;
Let's know your mind and heart's not lame.
And with a purpose true advance,
And help us build our longed for Manse.

Fatal Auto Acident at Crumptom.

Struck by an automobile driven by Mr. David Clements, of Crumpton, Coursey Hemmons, the 10-year old son of Mr. Thomas Hemmons, of the Crumpton Lane Farm, near that town, was instantly killed about 9 o'clock Friday morning. A coroner's jury, summoned by Justice A. C. Sheppard a half hour later, rendered a verdict of unavoidable accident and exonerated Mr. Clements of blame in the matter. Dr. A. E. Landers was physician to the coroner. Shortly before nine o'clock Friday morning, Mr. Clements, accompanied by J. E. Hendrix and Spencer Merrick, started out in his machine. He was running about ten miles an hour, when he saw three children playing in the road ahead, on their way to school. Just before the machine reached the scene, the little boy attempted to cross the road ahead of the machine. The lad started so quickly that Mr. Clements was given no opportunity to control his machine, and one of the lamps struck the boy in the head. He was knocked to the ground and instantly killed. The other children were in no danger, as they remained along the roadside. The accident occurred opposite the home of L. S. Chew, in Crumpton.

Mr. Clements immediately notified Justice Sheppard and asked that an investigation be made, in order that he might establish his innocence and remove any impression that the accident might have been due to careless driving. The dead boy was a bright and interesting little fellow and had just been brought to Crumpton a few minutes before in the very machine that killed him. His father resides on one of Mr. Clements' farms, and the latter had always been greatly attached to the lad. Two years ago Mr. Hemmons lost a younger child. The little tot was playing with fire, when its clothing ignited. It died from the effects of the burns. This is the first fatal automobile accident in Queen Annes county since the advent of the horseless vehicle.

To Accept Bequest.

A committe from the Board of Visitors and Governors of Washington College notified Mr. Barroll, the trustee of the estate of the late Senator Garrett Foxwell, Saturday that they would recommend the acceptance of the bequest mentioned in the will, to the board at its meeting. The acceptance of the bequest is just exactly what everyone expected would happen, notwithstanding the effort of those who sought to belittle the magnanimity of the late Senator Foxwell, as well as to attempt to discredit Mr. Barroll, who drew the will. This splendid bequest to Washington College stamps the donor, the late Senator Foxwell, as one of the most generous minded and public spirited men that ever lived in Kent county. He has conferred a benefaction upon Washington College and the boys of kent county, such as will endure for ages, and notwithstanding the attempted impuning of his motives, as well as the relation of Mr. Barroll, the late Senator's closest friend in Kent, to the making of the will the name of Garrett Foxwell will live forever in the hearts of those who appreciate the nobility of character and the generosity of the splendid man who made it possible for deserving young men in this county to enjoy the blessings of education. It now remains for those who sought to belittle such noble and high-minded intentions on the part of the benefactor, to tell the people why the bequest was so gratefully accepted, and to endeavor to relieve the noble spirit which prompted such a magnanimous act, of the slime of politics with which the late Senator's political enemies sought to cover it.

Choral Society Concert.

The concert given by the Chestertown Choral Club of 50 voices in the Lyceum Theatre on Thursday evening was attended by an audience of 250 people from all parts of Kent and nearby Queen Annes. It was one of the finest concerts ever given in the town, and the audience was one of the most appreciated ever assembled in the hall. The choruses rendered were by the best composers and were rendered in a manner that would have done credit to professionals. Mr. Wm. Walter Chapman, the director, deserves the highest commendation for the splendid manner in which the voices were trained. Mr. Chapman worked unsparingly for the success of the affair, and the excellence with which the entire program was rendered is a fitting tribute to the ability of Mr. Chapman as a musical director. He had complete control of his chorus, and as he always does, he got the very best they had to give. Chestertown should feel very proud of an organization like the Chestertown Choral Club. Very few towns in the State can produce better singers, and the efforts of the young people to give high class entertainments should be encouraged by a large audience whenever they appear in public.

The orchestra and piano accompainments were of the highest order, and the piano duett by Mrs. Wm. Walter Chapman and Miss Mabel Toulson, and the violin solos by Mr. T. Kemp Bordley, could not be excelled. The club will sing "Lord Jesus Christ Our Saviour," and "Gloria in Excelsis" at the baccalaureate service in the M. E. Church tomorrow morning. In the fall the Oratorio of Queen Esther will be given. The program in full on Thursday evening was as follows:

NUPTIAL EVENTS.

WESTCOTT—HURTT.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Scott Hurtt, of "Woodland Hall," to Mr. Simon Wickes Westcott, of Chestertown, was solemnized at Shrewsbury P. E. Church Saturday evening, June 6th, the rector, Mr. Stauffer, officiating, and was a notable social event in this county. The church was a bower of pink peonies and Dorothy Perkins' roses, while candles shed a soft radiance over the church chancel and altar. The nuptial music was rendered by Miss Mary Janvier. The bridal party was preceded by two ribbon boys, cousins of the bride, Julian W. Hurtt, of Kent county, and George W. Henson, the 2nd, of Tennessee. The ushers were: Messrs. Edmon Hurtt, Joseph P. Westcott, Jesse Ireland, Hynson Rogers, Thomas Massey and C. G. H. Mulford, who were followed by the bridesmaids, Miss Genevieve Hall, of Church Hill; Miss Estalena Derringer, of Chestertown; Mrs. Morton Dukehart, of Baltimore; Mrs. Hoyt Moore, of North Carolina. Two little children, Therese Scott, daughter of Dr. Edward A. Scott, and Morton Dukehart, Jr., acted as flower girl and ring bearer. The maid of honor, Miss Anita Hurtt, sister of the bride, immediatly preceded the bride, who entered with her uncle, Dr. Harry Hurtt, of Washington, D. C., and was met at the altar by the groom with his best man, Mr. Godfrey Westcott, of South America.

The bridesmaids were attired alike in pink chiffon veiled with shadow lace and wore white butterflies with aigretters in their hair. They carried arm bouquets of Killarny roses tied with streamers of pink tulle. The maid of honor wore green brocade chiffon with tunic of lace and carried bridesmaid roses. The small flower girl wore a dainty lingerie frock with pink sash and ribbon and carried a basket of roses tied with pink tulle. The ring bearer and ribbon boys wore white linen suits. The bride's gown was of white satin with full court train and bodice of real lace and chiffon; her veil, which was worn by her mother when a bride, was fastened to her hair in cap effect with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Immediately following the ceremony a large reception was held at "Woodland Hall," the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. James W. Hurtt, where in addition to the bridal party the guests were received by the mother and grandmother of the bride, after which a sumptuous collation was served to the assembled throng. Three tables, tastefully arranged in the hall, were filled with beautiful and costly wedding presents.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Sophie Scott Hurtt and the late Julian Hurtt, and granddaughter of the late Cornelius J. Scott, of Kent county. The groom is of the well-known families of Westcott and Wickes. In this marriage two of the oldest familes of the Eastern Shore of Maryland are united. An interesting circumstance connected with the marriage is that an ancestor of the bride gave the ground upon which this old historic church, in which the wedding took place, stands, and another ancestor, Rachel Blay, was married in this old edifice over 200 years ago.

Among the guests from out of the county were: Dr. and Mrs. Harry Hurtt, Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Woodside and sons, West Chester, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Woodland Derringer, Spangler, Pa.; Mrs. Edward Comegys and Mr. and Mrs. Morton Dukehart and sons, Baltimore; Mrs. Walter A. Henson and son, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Miss Caroline Scott, Van Buren, Arkansas; Miss Blanche Hurtt, Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Burgess, Centreville; Mrs. Hugh Moore, North Carolina; Mr. and Mrs. James D. Davis, Jr., Middletown, Del.; Mr. Godfrey Westcott, South America; Mrs. Duncan, Penna.; Messrs. Blockridge and Schaeffer, of Baltimore.

After the reception the young couple left for a northern tour, and upon their return will reside in Chestertown.

The Poultry Show.

Arrangements for the coming poultry show to be held in connection with the Kent and Queen Anne's Fair, July 28-31, are progressing finely, and the exhibit of all kinds of poultry promises to be the largest and most representative ever seen on the Eastern Shore. Already requests are coming in from various parts of the Eastern Shore for premium lists and entry blanks, which will be sent out next week. It is expected that fully 300 birds will be shown from Kent county alone. People all over the Shore are taking great interest in the exhibit, and it is fully expected that the first poultry show will be the starting point of an effective Poultry Association which will seek to develop the industry of the entire Eastern Shore section. All you have to do is to fill out the entry blanks and return them to the secretary on or before July 11th, and then on Monday, July 27th, put your birds in a box and send them to the big tent, where they will be properly cooped, fed, cared for and returned to you after the fair. You pay 25 cents a bird for entrance fee, and stand a chance of getting one or more of the 100 or more valuable special prizes. Get ready and do everything you can to get somebody else ready.
