Doom 'Creeper' To Die By Noose For Terror Reign

White To Hang; Terrorized, Attached Women In Gilmor Homes For Several Months

The sands of time ran out Thursday for 21-year-old Leroy Junior White as he heard Judge Herman M. Moser sentence him to die by hanging for attacking and robbing a young housewife in the Gilmor homes last April.

White, called "The Creeper" by women who had been terrorized in the Northwest Baltimore housing project for several months, took the sentence calmly as the court branded him a "burglarious beast."

His sentence marked the second time within six months that Judge Moser has sentenced a colored defendant to hang for attacking colored women.

Women Terrorized

In pronouncing the sentence Judge Moser pointed out that "there are certain sections where too frequently there are reports about females who have been terrorized and ravished.

"Those who commit these offenses have adopted the ways of the jungle and have discarded the rules governing a civilized community," he said.

White was found guilty on June 3 of criminal attack, burglary and disturbing the peace. His sentence was postponed until Judge Moser had time to read a psychiatric report on the young man.

Is Preoccupied

The medical report of Dr. Harold M. Boslow said that White "is intensely preoccupied with sexual matters and would quite likely become involved in sexual attacks on women."

The report stated that the short, stocky former stevedore is on the borderline defective group mentally and "it is felt that he would not hesitate to distort any situation to suit his needs."

Weighing 155 pounds and standing 5 feet 5 inches in height, White was arrested on May 22 after a housewife in the Gilmor Homes reported to police that a man had climbed into her window.

Lived in Project

Himself a resident of the housing project at 1642 Delanor Court, White was questioned about the April 20 attack on 21-year-old marion and police later found a pair of pants which the young mother had said her attacker had taken at White's home.

The pants were the property of the young woman's husband who was absent when "The Creeper" entered her home around 2:30 a. m. and attacked her on her living room floor while her 20-month-old baby slept in another room.

The young victim was the chief prosecution witness at White's trial which was successfully handled by State's Attorney Henry C. Blair. White's attorney, appointed by the Court, was Ernest L. Perkins.

Compliments Counsel

Judge Moser complimented Mr. Perkins for his presentation of the case and at Blair's request on Thursday morning before he pronounced sentence.

The defense contended mainly that the young woman was a willing victim when White entered her home. White himself said this when he gave a statement to police at the Northwestern District station following his arrest.

The young victim, however, denied this from the witness stand and said White told her he would kill her if she resisted his advances.

Took Money and Pants

Following the attack, White took the trousers, $30 in currency and a radio from the house. The radio he left outside the apartment in the 1600 block of Palmer Court.

When he was on the witness stand White testified that he had known the young victim for two months but she stated she had never seen him before the fatal night of April 28 when he entered her home.

The drunken man entered his victim's home by way of an open bathroom window and surprised the young mother as she lay asleep in her bedroom with her baby.

Had Many Complaints

Prior to White's arrest, many complaints, most of them by women, were made to police about a "Creeper" who had been seen peeping into windows in the housing project.

A number of burglaries had also been reported in the area during the early months of this year.

Following White's capture, police credited project management, headed by Warren Weaver, with playing "a major role" in solving the series of crimes which had been plaguing the area.

Lived With Mother

White lived in the project with his mother, stepfather and sister. Another sister lives in the 100 block of N. Exeter St. The latter was the only defense witness who appeared at the trial.

White was born in Lewisburg, N.C.where his father is still believed to be living. The convicted man attended Carver Vocational School in Baltimore going as far as the seventh grade. While in school, however, he failed to pass four times.

For reasons which he never explained he was 4F in the draft.

Moser Had Another

About six months ago, Judge Moser sentenced another colored man, Jeremiah Driver, to hang for criminally attacking two colored women in East Baltimore.

Driver, now in the Maryland State Penitentiary, was convicted of dragging his victims off the streets and attacking them.

On Korean Front

Pvt. James W. Kellum of Cordova, Md., arrived in Korea on June 14, and went to the front line around July 1. He is the son of Henry Kellum of Cordova. Pvt. Kellum completed basic training at Camp Roberts, Calif.

Judge's Statement On 'The Creeper'

The following statement was read in Criminal Court, Thursday morning, by Judge Herman M. Moser before he sentenced Leroy Junior White to die by hanging for criminally attacking a young housewife:

LEROY JUNIOR WHITE

This 21-year-old defendant was convicted of burglary in the nighttime, and during the commission of this offense attacking a respectable married woman, who, prior to his entrance into her home, was peacefully sleeping.

He has been previously convicted of burglary and other offenses. The medical report of Dr. Harold M. Boslow, among other things, says the following: "He is intensely preoccupied with sexual matters and would quite likely become involved in sexual attacks on women. This patient is a responsible agent."

Too Many Reports

There are certain sections of this city where too frequently there are reports about females, who, while going about their legitimate business on the streets of this city, or who, while in the security of their own homes, have been terrorized and ravished.

Those who commit these offenses have adopted the ways of the jungle and have discarded the rules governing a civilized community.

Must Be Secure

They must, when caught, be dealt with harshly and with the utmost severity. Perhaps the example of their end may deter others. Whether it does or not, all streets and all homes of this city must and shall be made safe for decent citizens.

The Legislature has, as a matter of state policy, made capital punishment the utmost penalty for the crime of rape.

There could not be imagined a more serious example of this offense than that of a respectable woman asleep in her own home, surrounded by the trappings of an urban community, being attacked by this burglarious beast.

Planes May 'Bomb' City In Exercises

Baltimore will be subjected to simulated air attacks beginning Saturday and continuing until July 27, the state civil defense director announced Tuesday.

This is part of an international—continental air defense operation to be known as exercise "Sagebrush."

The maneuver is to cover the entirety of Canada and the United States. Its objective is to coordinate air defense forces of the participating nations, and to evaluate new equipment and the efficiency of manpower utilization.

According to Col. David G. Marshall, state civil defense director, the air activity generated by the exercise should give months of practice to air observation posts throughout the state.

Together with other state observation units, Baltimore's air observation posts went on 24-hour duty last Monday.

Its Monticello filtration center is to operate jointly with fighter-interceptor Air Force and Army anti-aircraft command units in defending the city.

Leading Many Aircraft

Exercise "Sagebrush" is to include regular and reserve fighter squadrons and bomber forces of both the United States and Canada. These aircraft will operate under the most realistic conditions possible.
