PROGRESSIVE JAM SESSION:

Swing's First Lady To Chirp At Coliseum Bopcert

There will be no music stands or score sheets on the stage at the Coliseum Wednesday when Norman Granz's "Jazz at the Philharmonic" swings into the spotlight for its annual concert here.

"Jazz at the Philharmonic" currently on its 13th nationwide tour, consists of a troupe of the finest jazz musicians in the land, as versatile and as talented that they are equipped to give sixty in four segments. The first spotfour concerts in as many days without any rehearsal, any planned selection of tunes, and without ever glancing at a note of music.

Their music is created on the spot, composed in accordance with their moods and with their innate feeling for harmony, rhythms and melodic line.

Four Seaments

The core of the presented concerts will include two outstanding tenor saxists Lester Young and Flip Phillips plus trumpeters Charlie Shavers and Roy Eldridge. The group plays in ensemble and each member displays his individual talent in a series of solos.

The second unit is always a JATP HIGHLIGHT. Ella Fitzgerald, "The First Lady of Swing," takes the stand and gives her fans a generous helping of all the songs she has made popular throughout the years.

Ella's accompaniment is provided by bassist Ray Brown and Hank Jones at the keyboard. Her offerings are always varied and include love ballads, blues, novelty tunes and "scat" numbers of which her legion of followers never seem to get enough.

Canadian Discovery

Third on the program is a trio headed by Granz's Canadian pianos discovery, Oscar Peterson, who has been hailed by the music critics as the keyboard "find" of the decade. Peterson is supported by Ray Brown on bass and guitarist Barney Kessel, and the combo should provide some

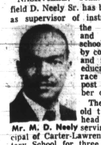
Neely Named Head Of Nashville Schools

Previous Supervisors For Many Years Have Been White

By W. A. REED JR.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Mansfield D. Neely Sr. has been named as supervisor of instruction for the elementary and secondary schools attended primarily by colored pupils and is the first educator of his race to hold this post for a number of years.



Mr. M. D. Neely serving as principal of Carter-Lawrence Elementary School for three years, but for 15 years prior to that time he had built an enviable record as teacher, organizer and administrator.

His new duties will include the interviewing of all applicants for teaching positions in the Nashville school system and the classification of the same.

In addition, Mr. Neely will assist in the improvement and equality of instruction in elementary and secondary schools.

Began As Newsboy

Mr. Neely began his career in Nashville with a paper route when a lad in the public schools. He later acquired a district managership of newspapers and from the proceeds of this job sent himself to college.

Insurance Executive

He was graduated from Tennessee State University in 1933 with a major in Sociology and a minor in education, and was principal of King's School in Cleveland (East), Tenn., for three years.

In 1936 Mr. Neely organized and managed a branch office in Springfield, Ill., for the Supreme Liberty Life Insurance Co. In 1939 he resumed his teaching chores at the King's School and in 1940 returned to Nashville.

He was the first person of his race in Nashville to be a co-ordination in diversified occupations and held that post until 1949 when he was named as principal of Carter-Lawrence school in south Nashville.

Mr. Neely and his wife, the former Miss Allie M. Tunstall of Nashville, have two sons and a daughter, 6. The senior son, Mansfield Jr., 19, is a sophomore at Tennessee State University while the younger, Robert A., is in second year at St. Emma's Military Academy at Rockcastle, Va.

'Narcotics Dance' Musicians Nabbed

NEW ORLEANS—(ANP)—Two musicians and a dancer in the band were among 64 "hepcats" arrested here last week at a narcotics dance attended by white teen-agers in the downtown business section, arresting officers being dressed like hepcats themselves.

Band members arrested were identified by police as Henry Williams, 22, booked for possession of dexedrine, a barbiturate, and John Gerard, 48, and Freddie Vicks, 31, both booked for investigation on charges of narcotics violations.

'Hopped Up, Acting Crazy'

The teen-age dancers were said by police to have been "hopped up and acting crazy." Marihuana cigarettes and more than 100 barbiturate tablets littered the floor. The tablets were being passed around and were found under one table.

The youths, all white, continued dancing while the raid was going on, crushing "goofballs" under foot. Officers had to substitute tablets from windows. A girl was seized flushing tablets down a toilet.

Arresting officers said six teenagers had been putting benzedrine and dexedrine tablets in their beer and were "knocked out of their minds."

Scorn Airmen In Cheyenne

Police, Bus Officers Enforce Segregation

CHEYENNE, Wy. — A reign of police terror, which Army officials at the nearby Francis E. Warren Air base condone and even assist, was bared here last week by one of the aviation trainees in a letter to the AFRO.

So great has been the terror, it was disclosed, that one of the city jurists, Judge Loyd Cowdin, forced the city police from his bench for making indiscriminate arrests and publicly apologizing to two women who had been brought before him on "vagrancy" charges.

The judge further announced that 28 other colored people arrested in various parts of the city on similar charges and forced to post collateral of from $10 to $100, could get their money refunded if they made a public appearance before him.

Caused By Segregation

The background for this situation, according to the airman who reported to the AFRO, is the tightening of segregation bonds throughout the city.

There are only five places in Cheyenne where a colored person could eat or buy a drink, the airman said, and the post commander recently ordered three of them "off limits" for military personnel.

The airman added that the excuse that recreational facilities were available for colored personnel on the post was invalid, because the service clubs frequented by most of the enlisted men had recently burned down.

Facilities Refused

There are only two places in Cheyenne for colored airmen to go, the cadet protests, declaring that other restaurants, bars and hotels frankly inform such service men that their business is not wanted and that they will not be served.

Since the air base is responsible for the prosperity of Cheyenne, the airman believes, the officials at the base should persuade the Chamber of Commerce to open all restaurants, bars and hotels to colored personnel.

Representations have been made to Thurgood Marshall, NAACP special counsel about this problem, and also to James C. Evans, civilian defense aide, for steps to be taken to allow the colored airmen to enjoy the same privileges as the white ones in Cheyenne.

Howard U. Offers 4-Year Housing Course

National Real Estate Group Backs Training Of Specialists

CLEVELAND, O. — (ANP) — Howard University in Washington will become the first institution to offer a complete four-year course in housing, according to information received by the National Association of Real Estate Brokers.

The university's housing curriculum will be under the direction of Gustav Ausenne Jr., professor of business administration, Walter H. 'Chief' Aiken, Atlanta builder and president of the national realty group, made the announcement last week during addresses before the Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton and Cincinnati affiliates of the NAREB.

Aiken visited the four Ohio groups while laying plans for the NAREB national convention to be held in Cleveland, Oct. 15-17. The NAREB is the only country-wide organization of colored realty men and women.

Winter Confab Result

Last Feb., the association made "housing education for colored students" a major campaign during its mid-winter conference in Cincinnati. The NAREB housing education committee, headed by J. B. Murchison, Washington, D.C. broker, made plans to buttonhole the country's leading colored colleges in an effort to "prepare young colored specialists to meet the greatest economic and social crisis facing one-tenth of a nation."

Other members of the committee are Ripley Meade, Jr., Chicago; J. C. Calhoun, Atlanta; Mrs. Lelia Francis, Dayton, Ohio; Davis Morales, Philadelphia; Henry V. Morrison, Detroit; M. H. Bonner, and L. I. Alexander, both of Jacksonville, Fla.

Meanwhile, the committee reports that initial contact has been made with several other top Southern colleges, with Atlanta University expected to be the next to offer specialized training.

Job Discrimination Routs White N. Carolina Medics

RALEIGH, N.C. — North Carolina's hospitals for colored mental patients have been losing doctors by the wholesale since one of them took time out to read about salaries paid in other states and spread the news to the others.

Curiously enough, the victims of this racial discrimination are not colored but white doctors who man the state's institutions for colored patients. It hits them because they work in colored hospitals, where salaries are from $700 to $1,500 lower because of the race of the patients.

The largest mental hospital in the state—Dix Hill at Goldsboro, with 2,900 patients—pays its superintendent $7,900 a year (formerly $7,700), while the superintendent at Raleigh's Dix Hill (white) is paid $9,000 a year at the second largest institution.

'Los Money' For Colored

Commenting on the situation that has cost the state three psychiatrists within recent days, one of them a veteran, Dr. David Young, general superintendent of the state's hospital system, said he found the salary differential policy in effect when he began work for the state in 1945.

Pay checks at the Goldsboro hospital were smaller then and, since that time the salaries at the hospital have been tied to what they used to be, the discrimination being kept in force by holding the line as budget requests were drawn and appropriations made.

"We have not had as much money to spend down there (at the 2,000-patient colored hospital), Dr. Young said, adding that patients at Goldsboro and their families have home have been "a complaining group." They raise less of a fuss than do whites when they find themselves or relatives in overcrowded wards, he said.

Woman Who Took White Baby Faces Kidnaping Rap

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Mrs. Willie M. Barnett, 1617 Luther st., this city, Monday, was held in $1,000 bail at a hearing in City Recorder's Court for trial in the Superior Court on a charge of kidnaping a 16-month-old baby.

She is charged with abducting the daughter of Mr. and Mr. Clyde T. Allison, white, of 215 Shuman ave., shortly after noon on the preceding Saturday and was arrested for the crime on Sunday.

Picks Up Tot, Leaves

Police say that Mrs. Barnett told them she was visiting friends next door to the Allisons. She said she entered their apartment and found the father asleep and the mother in the kitchen, so she picked up the child and left.

The mother of several children in South Carolina, Mrs. Barnett gave police no motive for having taken the baby, they report. She had moved the child into her home at home.

Employment Up 95.4 Says Labor Dept.

Increase Noted In Opportunities For Professional, Non-Farm Jobs

By LOUIS LAUTIER (For NNPA)

The United States Employment Service at the recent annual conference of the National Urban League in Cleveland reported progress in its attack on racial discrimination in employment and promised to continue to give it "best efforts" to a continuing campaign to bring about job equality.

The report made by A. W. Motley, assistant director of the Bureau of Employment Security, is particularly gratifying because the USES has, at times lagged behind other Federal agencies in attacking this problem.

One of the steps it has taken was the removal from manual instructions for local employment offices of all references to "non-whites" on application forms, employers orders and clearance records. This means that a colored job applicant gets consideration for any job vacancy for which he is qualified.

Followed Exclusion Policy

Under the discarded procedure, if an employer requisitioned a white worker, the USES followed the practice of filling that requisition without considering qualified colored workers.

Under the new procedure, Mr. Motley explained, the interviewer in the local office does not know the color of a job applicant he is considering for referral to an employer. He picks out the best qualified worker and calls him in for an interview.

If the applicant is colored and the employer hires only whites, he calls the employer and tells him about the colored applicant's qualifications and urges the employer to interview the colored worker. This procedure, Mr. Motley said, has resulted in the employment of many workers who otherwise would not have been given jobs.

Mrs. Norford Praised

Mrs. Thomasina Norford, a consultant on minority groups in the USES, deserves to share the credit for giving the colored job applicant a better chance of getting a job commensurate with his skills, ability and experience.

Mr. Motley said she has been very active in effecting the fullest possible co-operation between the employment services in developing job opportunities for colored and other minority workers.

Passenger Wins 1st Round In N. C. Bus Jim-Crow Suit

RICHMOND, Va. — (ANP)— Attorneys for John D. Williams, who is suing the Carolina Coach Company for $30,000, won the first round in the suit last week when Judge Sterling Hutchenson in Federal District court overruled a motion for dismissal of the suit.

Testimony of three witnesses disclosed that Williams was arrested in Rocky Mount, N.C., Sept. 4, 1950 for refusing to move out of his seat on a Carolina Coach company bus for another seat in the rear of the bus where colored passengers were supposed to sit.

When arrested, Williams was an interstate passenger on his way from North Carolina to Norfolk. The U.S. Supreme Court and the Interstate Commerce commission have ruled that segregation in interstate travel is in restraint of trade and therefore unconstitutional.

Cherokees Charge N.C. School Bias

SYLVA, N.C. — Another form of discrimination reared its ugly head in this mountain town when white parents questioned the right of Cherokee Indian children to attend the state-operated school.

At a meeting of the Jackson County Board of Education, representatives of the Cherokees accused Qualla area residents with attempting discrimination.

W. Vernon Cope, Jackson County school superintendent, denied the charges.

The charges involved discontinuance of two state school bus routes in and near the Cherokee reservation. By taking the school busses, Indian youngsters had been able to attend the state school.

The government operates a school on the reservation for Indians but an official pointed out that some prefer state schools to the federal one.

Did Not Want Indians

Fred Ferguson, spokesman for the whites, told the Board that his people did not want Indian pupils in the state school and felt that they should go to the one on the reservation.

Asst Superintendent Cope: "Indian children are admitted to the Qualla district school. An Indian bus goes by the Cherokee school ride the bus."

The problem's outcome hinges on a ruling by the State's Attorney as to whether the state buses can operate on the reservation.

NAACP Leader Asks S. C. Library To Admit All

COLUMBIA, S.C. — The state NAACP has asked Richland County officials to open its jim-crow library to all races.

How To Take Care Of Your Heart

Do you suffer with heart disease? Here are some general rules for heart patients, as suggested by a new pamphlet "How To Live With Heart Trouble," published by the American Heart Association.

The rules are also recommended for persons with normal hearts who want to keep them that way:

1. Avoid overfatigue. Stop before you get too tired.
2. Reduce if you are overweight.
3. Get a good balanced diet, light on calories and fats.
4. Eat small meals, four or five light ones a day, instead of three large ones. And no heavy meals at any time.
5. Try to avoid colds.
6. Get eight hours sleep at night.
7. Exercise and activity are good, in moderation and according to your specific condition and doctor's advice.
8. Argue and worry as little as possible.
9. Relax, and take rest periods or naps during the day.
10. Go easy on coffee and tobacco.
11. Walk, don't run upstairs.
12. Look for other sports and hobbies that are fun if old ones are taboo. Many heart patients have found that at last they could relax and take time to discover a new world about them.
