Adlai's Sister Tells Why She Likes Stevenson

Would Not Deny Equal Rights To Women—Mrs. E. L. Ives

WASHINGTON (ANP)—If elected President of the United States, Gov. Adlai Stevenson will appoint the best qualified people to high government posts, proclaimed his sister, Mrs. Ernest L. Ives.

In a press conference held at the Women's Democratic Club last week, Mrs. Ives declared that Adlai would recognize ability in making appointments regardless of race, sex, age or creed. He would be the last person in the world to deny equal rights to women or minorities, she stated.

Mrs. Ives who has been accompanying her brother on his campaign tour appeared perfectly relaxed as she faced the "guns" fired at her by the Washington press. Wearing a navy blue ribbon knit two-piece dress, navy velvet half-hat, navy pumps and gloves topped by a mink stole, the Illinois matron displayed a sense of humor equalled only by her famous brother.

Liked Mixed Crowd

On her dress was pinned a rhinestone donkey standing on five letters, "Adlai." "That's the way it is," she said as she displayed the donkey so that it would be in clear view of photographers. "Adlai supporting the donkey."

Just prior to the press conference, Mrs. Ives visited the District Stevenson - Sparkman club where she was presented an honorary membership by the chairman, Commissioner Joseph Donohue.

Met District Women

She was also shown the colorful program used at the inaugural ball in 1893, when her grandfather became vice-president. Here Mrs. Ives met with some of the ranking District Democrats including Mrs. F. Joseph Donohue, wife of the commissioner; Mrs. Melvin D. Hildreth, wife of the District Democratic National committeeman; Also Mrs. Katie Louchein, alternate Democratic National Committeewoman from the District and such colored Democratic leaders as Mrs. Sallie Collins, member of the staff of the Stevenson-Sparkman club and Mrs. Alice A. Dunnigan, advisor to the club.

Episcopalians Warned Of Mixed Marriages

Canon Law Of Catholics Hit By Bishops

BOSTON, Mass. (ANP) — Protestant Episcopalians last week were cautioned against agreeing to a Roman Catholic law requiring children of "mixed marriage" to be brought up as Catholics. A mixed marriage is defined by Catholic laws as one contracted between a member of the Catholic Church and a non-Catholic.

The warning was issued by the House of Bishops. The House of Bishops, however, Episcopal Church law calls on Episcopalians as a matter of duty to refuse to enter into any such pre-marital agreement.

However, the attention of all Episcopalians was directed to a resolution adopted by the House of Bishops and the House of Deputies at the last general convention three years ago.

This resolution warned "against contracting marriages with Roman Catholics under the conditions imposed by modern Roman Canon law; especially as these conditions involve a promise to have the children brought up in a religious system which they cannot themselves accept."

The "mixed marriage" resolution was previously presented to the House of Deputies who placed it on the calendar for consideration during the last four days of their 57th general convention.

The amendment, which was not passed, read:

"It shall be the duty of a member of this church intending to marry a member of another religious bodyor, not affiliated with this church, to refrain from entering into any pre-marital agreement as a condition or such marriage that the children of such intended marriage shall be brought up in any religious body other than this church."
