Study Under Way Of Park Facilities

A general study of all public and private municipal facilities is being undertaken by the State Commission on Interracial Relations and the City Commission on Human Relations.

The Park Board was asked Friday to furnish detailed information about its facilities available for colored or for interracial events as a basis for this overall survey and analysis.

All major city departments, including the Department of Education, will receive similar requests, it was revealed by William C. Rogers, chairman of both the city and state commissions, and T. J. S. Waxter, secretary of the city commission.

Last Survey in 30's

The latest community-wide analysis was made in the mid-30's, and is no longer adequate as a guide to present and future plans, Mr. Waxter told the board.

Mr. Waxter is director of the city welfare department.

Assurance of the Park Board's cooperation was given by James C. Anderson, president, who repeated the board's policy of "going forward slowly by evolution rather than by revolution."

All parks and golf courses are "open" to both races, and athletic grounds are designated for white, for colored and for interracial events upon permit, Mr. Anderson pointed out.

Couple's 29-Year-Old Marriage Ends In Divorce

A 29-year-old marriage dissolved on Aug. 15, 1945 when Guy Johnson, 2231 Ruskin ave. and his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, 1401 Division st., decided to separate.

It became official this week when Johnson was granted an absolute divorce from his wife on the grounds of abandonment.

Mr. Johnson testified that the early separation came about because he and his wife "couldn't get along." The couple were married on Oct. 29, 1916.

Jacksons Big Different

It was a bit different between Mrs. Ethel P. Jackson, 1137 N. Carrollton ave., and her husband, George A. Jackson, 1124 N. Calhoun st.

Mrs. Jackson, a card puncher at the Social Security agency, said she came home from work on Nov. 10, 1950 and found her husband gone and all his belongings with him.

She said he called her two days later and told her he didn't wish to be married any longer. In gaining her divorce, Mrs. Jackson was also given the right to use her maiden name, Miss Ethel P. Diggs.

The Jacksons were married on Dec. 25, 1945.

A postal clerk, Benjamin C. Brooks, 2236 N. Monroe st., said there was so much constant bickering between him and his wife, Mrs. Anna M. Brooks, that they agreed to separate in November, 1942.

He Gets Kids

Mrs. Brooks, it was testifield, is now in the State Reformatory for Women and Brooks was given custody of a 10-year-old son, William C.

The couple were married on Dec. 29, 1940.

Mrs. Sarah McCoy, 206 W. Henrietta st., a cashier, won both a divorce from her husband and the right to use her maiden name of Miss Sarah Taylor.

She also gained custody of her son, James Benjamin, 3, from her husband James McCoy whose last address she said was 116 Michigan ave., Atlantic City, N.J.

Left Her 5 Times

Mrs. McCoy said her husband left her about five times before he walked out the last time in March, 1950, while they were living at 701 Hill st.

The last time he left, following an argument, her husband said he wasn't coming back and he never did.

The McCoys were married on Sept. 9, 1948.

Louis Rice, 1041 W. Lanvale st., a chauffeur, divorced his wife, Lois Rice, 513 N. Carrollton ave., but gave her custody of their three children and agreed to pay $15 a week toward their support.

The Rices were married on July 5 and separated on Sept. 5, 1947. Mr. Rice said they were staying with his wife's folks at the time and decided to get a place for themselves.

When he did get a place for his family, Mr. Rice said, his wife decided she wanted to remain with her folks, so they separated.

One Killed In Hanover St., Auto Accident; 4 Escape

One man was killed and four persons injured late Sunday, when a car driven by Robert Jones, 26, of the 1900 block Jefferson st., smashed into the rear of a trailer truck near the Hanover st. bridge.

Jones was killed instantly when the hood of his car jammed under the truck.

The four other passengers, one man and thee women, escaped with only slight injuries. The male passenger was identified as Johnnie D. Jones, 23, of the 1900 block Jefferson st.

Three Women Passengers

Jones identified the three women only as Fannie Mae, Mabel, and Annie Ruth.

According to his statement, the five were returning from Fort Meade after taking Pvt. Martin Douglass, 21, back to camp.

The automobile driven by Robert Jones belonged to Johnnie D. Jones. The two were not related.

Asleep At Wheel

Police stated that Robert "apparently" went to sleep at the wheel of the car. All were taken to University Hospital.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones, the victim is survived by three sisters Mrs. Willa Stewart, Mrs. Nannie Wylie, and Frances Jones; and a brother Wylie Jones.

The family was not informed of Robert's death until Monday morning when the survivors were released from the hospital.

Mr. Jones stated that he 'heard something on the radio about an accident on Hanover st., but didn't pay very much attention to the facts.'

Funeral services for Jones are set for Friday at the Wilson Funeral Home.

She's Absent, He's Angry, House Burns

Twenty-nine-year-old Rufus J. Brim went to visit his girl friend, Mrs. Florence Payne Robinson, in the 2100 block Herbert st. on August 5.

He arrived at the house between 10 and 11 p.m. Mrs. Robinson wasn't home. At 1 a.m. she wasn't home either, and Rufus "was angry."

He was so angry he set the house afire.

In Criminal Court Friday Rufus was wishing his temper hadn't got the best of him as Judge Herman M. Moser handed him a 2-year sentence in the penitentiary following the man's conviction on an arson charge.

Freed Of Larceny

Brim, who lives in the 2200 block N. Fulton ave., was acquitted of stealing a metal box containing insurance papers which police claimed he took after he set the fire.

The man's statement, given to police and Captain Harry Horton of the Fire Department Arson Squad, after his arrest explains the events which led up to the fire in the following manner.

Brim said he went to visit his girl friend between 10 and 11 p.m. on August 5. When he found the front door unlocked and no one home he went in to wait. At one a.m. there was still no one home.

He "Was Angry"

"I was angry with her because I was waiting for her and she did not come home," the statement quotes Brim.

So, he took an oil lamp off the kitchen table and poured the oil on some clothes he took off a line in the kitchen. Then he poured some oil on a wooden bench at the bottom stairway leading to the second floor.

Took Box, Too

After that, Brim took the life insurance papers out of a metal box on a mantel shelf and, on second thought, took the box, too.

He then set fire to the place with two matches and departed by way of a rear door.

His acquittal on the theft charge was the result of Brim's claiming that he rescued those items from the fire.

Governor Grants Paroles To 3

Two Baltimore men and one women have been granted paroles by Governor Theodore McKeldin, following a recommendation from the Department of Correction, and the Director of Parole and Probation.

The three are 17-year-old Walter Burman, Joseph Williams, and Miss Omiga Ford.

Burman was sentenced to ten years in the state reformatory in 1950 following a conviction on a second degree murder charge.

Williams was serving a five year sentenop in the House of Correction on a robbery charge.

Miss Ford was sentenced to the State Reformatory in January of this year on a vice charge.

Auxiliary Women Police Guard School Crossings

Forty-three auxiliary women turned up in snappy blue uniforms, peaked caps and white gloves at busy intersections near schools throughout the city Monday.

They were there to control traffic and guide school kids safely across streets, but mostly they just stopped traffic.

Motorists and pedestrians alike looked twice at the bluecoats in blueskirts, and most of the men thought they were worth the second look.

The auxiliary women police will report to their corners weekdays from 8:10 to 9:05 a.m., from 11:25 a.m. to 1:05 p.m., and from 2:55 to 3:35 p.m.

Traffic Training

During their course in traffic training, the women studied child psychology and other related subjects.

Working on an experimental basis, if the operation is judged successful two weeks from now, more women may be appointed to serve at street crossings.

Among the crossings where the women are stationed are:

School No. 116 at Aisquith and Orleans sts.; School No. 125 at Pennsylvania ave. and Dolphin st.; School No. 120 at Pennsylvania ave. and Robert st., and School No. 119 at Gilmor and Mosher sts.

Traffic-Stopper

Among the 43 auxiliary women police who went on duty at intersections near public schools Monday was Mrs. Regina Polston, who guided traffic at Pennsylvania ave. and Robert st.

Small Town—This Is Emporia

This comfortable residence is called home by Mrs. Lillian Simms, a restaurant owner.

Edward W. Wyatt High School, is planned for the John Rolfe Addition and will take the place of the Greensville County Training School.

The building will mark a milestone in the overall progress of the area.

One of the city's largest churches is the Royal Baptist Church, the Rev. Mr. Lucius Jones, pastor. The west concourse recently remodeled, seats horribly in 500.

A modern drug store is operated by Dr. J. P. Tyler, pharmacist, in Emporia, Va. He is formerly of Alexandria, Va. He has been in the business 22 years.

A home of utility and durability is that of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Knox. Mr. Knox is owner and manager of Virginia's "black belt."

Always Improving

Evidence abounds that colored people are building better and more homes, business opportunities, and are improving their lot in life in the area's manufacturing enterprises.

The stuccoed homes dot the city with structures which rival the best in the nation.

And not all the homes are owned by individuals but many are of economic advancement.

One of the more beautiful and well appointed restaurants in the state, operated by a colored woman, is Emporia's among the leading cities of Southern Virginia, commonly known as Virginia's "black belt."

This comfortable residence is called home by Mr. and Mrs. Moses Knox. Mr. Knox is the owner and manager of Virginia Simms, a restaurant.

And another home is the pride of Mrs. Lillian Simms, a realtor and operator.

Employment Opportunities

Dry cleaners and laundrymen are found in the city, and a large plant of the John Reynolds sisters is located in the Greensville county area. These plants employ a large number of people and form the economic foundation of the area's prosperity.

Edward W. Wyatt High School, is planned for the John Rolfe Addition and will take the place of the Greensville County Training School.

The building will mark a milestone in the overall progress of the area.

Source of town entertainment is the 50-year bowling alley, operated by white owners.

White window-blinds make distinctive the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rectors, prominent rectors.

A patient gets a checking up from Dr. C. W. Carter, left, who has been a practicing physician for 35 years. Miss Alfonia Cuffee avails the doctor's diagnosis.

Who Do You Like--Adlai Or 'Ike'?

AFRO's Presidential Game Offers Prizes Totalling $200

Adlai Stevenson

Use the ballot accompanying this story to express your choice. AFRO Political Editor, 628 N. Eutaw st., Baltimore 1, Md.

There will be fifty-eight other cash prizes: Two awards of $10 each, and 56 of $1 each.

What Do You Say?

Some AFRO readers will support Dwight D. Eisenhower, believing he is the man who can bring the party duty-ridden Democrats back to power.

Others will pull for Stevenson, because his running mate is a colored man.

What do you say? Is the next President Democrat? Republican? Who do you think best, and why?

Just say what you think and take a chance on the AFRO's Presidential Bag from $1 to $100.

Who will be the next President? Who will be Vice President?

Will it be Adlai Stevenson? Will it be Dwight D. Eisenhower? Will it be Sparkman? Will it be Nixon?

Will the next occupant of the White House be a Democrat or a Republican?

Will it be Adlai Stevenson? Will it be Dwight D. Eisenhower? Will it be Sparkman? Will it be Nixon?

Vice-President Alben W. Barkley, Democrat, is the nominee of the Democratic party, and Senator Richard M. Nixon, California, is the Republican party's candidate.

Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois is the nominee of the Democratic party, and Senator John Sparkman, of Alabama, is the party's candidate.

Vice-President Alben W. Barkley, Democrat, is the nominee of the Democratic party, and Senator Richard M. Nixon, California, is the Republican party's candidate.

Mrs. Bass is the first colored American woman to be appointed to a Federal post, the second highest office in the land.

Vice-President Nixon is 39.

A total of 39 separate awards will be made.

First prize is $100.
