New York Scientist Named 'Young Woman Of The Year'

NEW YORK—Dr. Jane Cooke Wright, 33, of Harlem Hospital, here is among the ten Young Women of the Year who received 1952 merit awards from Mademoiselle magazine, Friday.

For the tenth year in succession these awards were presented to ten young women who—with one exception—are in their twenties and early thirties and "who have already distinguished themselves in their fields and are expected to achieve even greater honors."

In making the awards, Mrs. Betsy Talbot Blackwell, Mademoiselle's editor-in-chief, cited Dr. Wright "for her outstanding contribution to medical science with her evaluations of the efficacy of drugs in cancer treatment—evaluations that are now being translated, abstracted and quoted all over the world."

Smith Graduate

Dr. Wright took her B.A. at Smith and her M.D. at New York Medical School. While interning at Bellevue Hospital she was rated by her supervisor as "by all odds the most promising intern I ever had working with me."

She is married to David P. Jones Jr., an attorney, and they have two children. In accepting the award Dr. Wright announced: "My plans for the future are to continue seeking a cure for cancer, to be a good mother to my children, and a good wife to my husband."

Outside of family activities and her cancer research at Harlem Hospital, Dr. Wright is engaged in part-time private practice in internal medicine. She is a member of the executive board of the Ethical Culture Schools and a member of the Manhattan Council of the State Commission against Discrimination.

The exception to the age category of the winners is twelve-year-old Ni Gusti Raka of the "Dancers of Bali" who received an award as "the symbol of a noteworthy cultural exchange between the East and West."

Three Students Get Barnard Scholarships

NEW YORK (ANP) — Scholarships have been awarded to three outstanding members of the freshman class at Barnard college, women's undergraduate division of Columbia university.

One, Miss Cherie A. Gaines of Jamaica, N.Y., comes to Barnard on a Barnard-in-New York-Club scholarship and a scholarship from the National Service and Fund for colored students.

She was the winner in New York of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations contest, and plans now to major in international relations.

Miss Gaines attended Hunter college high school, where she was school representative for the New York Times, and both secretary and treasurer of the international relations and physics clubs.

Staff Member's Daughter

Miss Dorothea Caines of the Bronx has been awarded a Barnard staff scholarship. She is the first daughter of a member of the college's buildings and grounds staff to come to Barnard.

An alto, Miss Caines is a former member of the All-City High School chorus, where she was the only representative of Walton high school to receive an honor accepted as a member of the Columbia university chorus.

Psychology Major

Miss Mary Macrae of Lincoln university, Pa., has received a Barnard resident scholarship. Her father, James B. Macrae, is the dean of students at Lincoln university, and received his master's degree from Teachers college of Columbia university.

Miss Macrae attended the Westtown school in Westtown, Pa., where she was a member of the yearbook and library staffs, the National Junior Honor society, and was active in dramatics. At Barnard, she plans to major in psychology.

Among 100 Best Cooks

Miss Yvonne Whyte, 15-year-old homemaker of New Bedford, Mass., was among 100 finalists out of some thousands from all over the country who vied in the Pillsbury recipe contest, last week. An honor student in her junior high school class, and president of the New Bedford, Mass., YWCA Girls Club, the gifted cook is seen receiving a $100 check from Walter Prowse of Pillsbury Mills. An all-paid expense trip to New York, week-end stay at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel plus entertainment topped off by the gift of a General Electric range, mixer and Cosco table and chair were among her prizes.

Miss Hughley Becomes Bride

JAMAICA, L.I., N.Y. — Miss Lena V. Hughley, city teacher, and Wesley Sessoms were married in unity Baptist Church, here, recently.

The Rev. James R. Moore officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, William C. Hughley, wore a gown of white satin, trimmed in mother-of-pearl and rhinestones, a white satin headpiece with finger - tip veil, carried a prayer book trimmed with orchids.

Her maid of honor, Miss Jacqueline Johnston, of Camden, wore a white green nylon net, with nylon net shoulder length veil and carried rust-colored chrysanthemums.

Brother Is Best Man

Clarence D. Sessoms, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Bridesmaids included Miss Sara M. Henry, who wore shrimp colored nylon net and carried a muff of yellow chrysanthemums; and Miss Peggy Hayes, who was gowned in gold net and carried rust chrysanthemums.

Ushers were James Frasier and Warren Peterson. Patricia Ann Johnston of Camden was flower girl and James Hunter of Jamaica was ring bearer.

A reception followed the ceremony, and was held in the home of the bride.

Gallivanting in the USA

By Lulu Jones Garrett

PERFORATORS:

Judge and Mrs. Duke Slater of Chicago were in Washington, last week, having come to holiday with Mrs. Clifford Smith. The whole Philadelphia club of X's entrained to the Nation's Capital for a week end with that city's chapter: Irma Bullock, Marian Cowan, Julia Fickling, Grace Gladden, Vi Curtis Hinton, Beth Reeves, Jacqueline Robinson, Havens Russell and Irene Thomas. The Philadelphians are Beryl Hastie (wife of the Judge) Louise Cain, Rose Brogden, Edith Lightfoot, Angel Long, Irma Thomas, Minnie Wallace and Nevada Ward.

And a student on the campus of Wilberforce University is "Miss ROTC" lovely Mary E. Rivers, a Washington, D.C. girl. The attractive Miss Rivers, who is a senior and major in biology at the Ohio institution will reign over the functions of the R.O.T.C. throughout the remainder of the school year. In February she will be crowned queen at the Coronation Ball and in May will review the annual ROTC inspection. Selected with Miss Rivers as her court were Verna Lightner, a junior from Duquesne, Pa., honorary major; and Miss Alice Peshman, a junior from Baltimore, Md., honorary adjutant. The newly-elected queen is the daughter of Mrs. Pearl Christian of Washington. Miss Rivers is a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority and expects to work as a laboratory technician following her graduation in June.

Mrs. Letitia Johnson Kirtley of Bluefield, West Virginia, has assumed her duties as Delta's first professional employee. She is now located in the office of the Grand Secretary, Reber S. Cann. Cincinnati, Angel Long, Irma Thomas, Minnie Wallace and Nevada Ward.

NAACP, Travel Guide To Aid Of Morgan Grad In TV Wedding

NEW YORK (ANP)—The first colored bride and bridegroom to be married over CBS television on the Bride and Groom show, emceed by John Nelson, Miss Shirley Amelia Robinson of the Bronx and Ernest Brown of Freehold, N.J. put officials in a dither.

Floored by the fact of a colored couple winning and not too sure of their full acceptance or that they would be accorded full courtesy, CBS bid'wig called on the NAACP for aid. The NAACP tagged Billy Butler, director of Travel Guide, who arranged an itinerary for the honeymooners with Coast, set for Thursday afternoon in the Cameo Room of Philly's Chris Perry Lodge.

PARTY PRATTLE

Last Sunday the Long' Island home of Lucille C. Norman was the scene of a gala Bon Voyage reception for the charming French U.N. Representative, Mme. Jane Vialle, formerly a French senator, who was in New York City attending the United Nations General Assembly.

Mme. Vialle left Monday via air for Paris.

Other honored guests were Dr. Robert Ajavon, French U.N. representative for Togoland who is now practising in Paris. Mme. C. Leblanc of Paris, and Major Cornelius J. T. Anderson of St. Vincent, B.W.I. who was guest of Mrs. Alma Vessel John. Mrs. Charlie Rosenberg Foster of Chicago, author.

Among the many guests were: Jewel Smith, concert artist who sang French and Christmas songs especially for Mme. Vialle: Mr. and Mrs. L. Carl Cartwright, Dr. and Mrs. Sheldon. Mrs. Marian Williams, Mrs. James S. Watson, Miss Barbara Watson, Mr. and Mrs. John Gibson.

Dr. Lucie Brown, Miss Benhunter Robinson, Mrs. Catherine Segundos, Miss B. Hyslop, Dr. James Robb, Mr. and Mrs. John, and Henry Jackson. Many beautiful gifts and flowers were presented to Mme. Vialle. Mme. Vialle and her hostess, Mrs. Norman recalled pleasant memories of last summer when the latter visited the continent and was similarly feted in Paris by Mme. Vialle.

An outstanding event which will draw many East Coast socialities, civic and business leaders is the Joseph Baker Associates' 18th annual Christmas party set for Thursday in the Cameo Room of Philly's Chris Perry Lodge.

Girls Work 8 Hours, Ride 100 Miles, Bear Expenses Weekly

FORT DIX, N.J.—Looking forward to Friday night dances is an old custom among soldiers stationed at Fort Dix, but it wouldn't be possible if it weren't for the charity and initiative of hundreds of junior hostesses from Philadelphia who make it "their duty" every week to entertain the boys in khaki.

"I wouldn't call it a sacrifice on our part," said Miss Edith Jackson, of 143 W. Sharpnack st., Germantown. "We enjoy coming here as much as the boys enjoy having us come."

Then the music began again, the lights dimmed and Miss Jackson swung out to meet a tall, shy fellow from Alabama who had asked for the next dance. Three, six, 30 couples glided under the rainbow lights and whispered their polite "hellos" and more confidential "where are you from?" and "inanas."

Shake Off Strangeness

"It's like this every Friday night," said Miss Josephine Nardone, director of service club No. 2. "They meet, shake off the strangeness and the girls spend the next two hours dancing. You'd never know they had already worked an eight-hour day and face a 30-mile bus ride home at the end of the night.

At 8:30 every Friday night—dance at Fort Dix—hundreds of junior hostesses swarm off charter busses from Philadelphia, Trenton, Camden, and several other smaller communities near Fort Dix and pile into the four service clubs on post to spend the next hours-and-a-half hours "doing by request."

Most of the hostesses, all of them 18 years of age or older and unmarried, come from the area covered by the Philadelphia USO. There are also many independent groups not directly affiliated with the USO who, under auspices of the special service section of Fort Dix, visit the post each week.

"We help to organize and schedule the times, dates, and places for all groups, but it's the girls themselves, through their own efforts, who really do the work and make this part of special services what it is," said 1st. Lt. Isadore Feinstein, entertainment officer.

Average 60

"I'd say we average 600 hostesses on Friday night," the Lieutenant added, "though we have nearly 3,000 listed in our files and at our large bi-monthly dances in the sports arena, we can usually expect over 1,000 girls."

Administratively, it takes an average of 250 letters weekly to keep the operating schedule filled, for, besides the dances, many hostesses come throughout the week to entertain the basic trainees with square dancing, special parties, variety shows, quiz programs, and other services requested by particular companies or devised by the special services section.

Every group is governed by several mothers or civic-minded matrons who act as chaperons in each of the various activities. Each month the senior hostess receives from special services a list of activities for the next month and they in turn submit a schedule of what their group can do to fulfill the request.

"We get from 75 to 90 per cent of our requests filled," Lt. Feinstein said, "and when you realize that nearly half of the time the girls pay for their own transportation, the percentage is pretty remarkable."

Affiliated Groups

Groups that are affiliated with the Philadelphia USO, such as the YWCA, Jewish Welfare board, National Catholic Community services, Salvation Arrdy, Red Cross, and the USO camp shows, are represented on camp every week —sometimes two or three nights a week.

"Hi, there, soldier! Care for something to eat?" Miss Jackson and the tall, shy soldier from Alabama were back now. The lights had brightened and couples were edging toward the refreshment tables for punch and cookies.

"There're still some soldiers who do not have partners," Miss Nardone said, "but each week a few more girls come and we hope to see the number increase.

The boys don't know that most of the time the refreshments are paid for by the girls," she added, "it is their secret to keep." Then she laughed and said: "Judging by the general commotion, there aren't many secrets they want to keep."
