Farmer's Attorneys Appeal To State Ct.

'Claim Law Used To Convict Mack Ingram Is 'Vague'

RALEIGH, N.C. — Lawyers for Mack Ingram, the 45-year-old Yancyville farmer who was convicted last month in the now infamous "assault by look," case, appealed the case before the State Supreme Court here Wednesday.

Ingram's attorneys, supplied by the NAACP, outlined two dozen exceptions as they filed their appeal. For one thing they claimed that Judge Frank Armstrong should have allowed their motion to quash the indictment on grounds that Caswell County had "arbitrarily and discriminatorily" excluded colored citizens from its juries.

Ingram was convicted a third time last month by an all-white jury. At his first trial the jury of eight white men and two colored men was hung when the two colored jurors held for acquittal.

Call Law Vague

Ingram's attorneys also attacked the State Law under which the semi-literate farmer was convicted. They called it "so vague, indefinite and uncertain that it denies due process of law."

The North Carolina law holds that an assailant need not do physical harm to commit an assault "if by threats and a display of force one causes another to apprehend danger . . . to abandon his course, or to alter it from what he would have done, that constitutes assault."

Ingram was convicted of assaulting Willa J. Boswell, now Mrs. Edward Webster, on her father's farm in 1951 by "leering" at the girl and running across a field to within 60 feet of her.

Girl Were Jeans

The girl was walking and carrying a hoe, dressed in blue jeans, a straw hat and wore a blue checkered shirt. Ingram has steadfastly maintained he thought she was a 'boy.'

The appeal filed Wednesday will be heard orally by the State Supreme Court next spring. If it fails here it will be carried on to the U.S. Supreme Court in Washington.

Following his last conviction, Ingram received a six-month suspended jail sentence and was placed on probation for five years.

The 'Best' WACs Are Rewarded

Hope Seen For New FEPC Bill

C. Mitchell Obtains Pledge From Taft

WASHINGTON

Prospects for early consideration of FEPC legislation in the 83rd Congress appears very bright, Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington bureau of the NAACP, said last week.

Mr. Mitchell's prediction was based on conversations with senators and representatives, including a pledge from Sen. Robert A. Taft, who will be chairman of the labor and public welfare committee in the Senate. FEPC legislation must come before this committee.

Senator Taft reportedly told the bureau director: 'I have in mind hearings on the Taft-Hartley law as soon as we get organized, but after that I know of nothing that will take priority over the FEPC."

Further Talks Planned

Further discussion of the FEPC hearings will take place with Senator Taft, Mr. Mitchell said, when the former returns to Washington.

In discussing the type of FEPC bill the NAACP supports, Mr. Mitchell emphasized that the association will press for legislation with enforcement powers, although "we are aware of the fact that Senator Taft has opposed enforcement in the past."

"While we have no reason to think that he has changed his personal views," Mr. Mitchell said, "we are certain that our type of FEPC has strong support on both sides of the aisle."

Mr. Mitchell pointed out that Sen. Irving Ives (R., N.Y.) sponsored the FEPC with enforcement powers in the 82nd Congress with Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D., Minn.). Both of these senators and many other friends of FEPC in the House and Senate will be in there pitching for us, he predicted.

South Carolina NAACP Head Defends Race Bloc Voting After Byrnes Attack

Leader Tells Gov. Pattern Was Learned From Whites Who Have Used It 80 Years

COLUMBIA, S.C.—J. M. Hinton, president of the South Carolina NAACP chapter of the NAACP, has taken sharp issue with Gov. James F. Byrnes for his recent attack upon colored bloc voting and his warning that political candidates who "deal" with the NAACP "must be defeated."

"Bloc voting was learned by colored citizens from whites, especially in the State of South Carolina," said Mr. Hinton in a bristling letter to the Governor.

"Whites have voted for more than 80 years in a bloc through the Democratic party, and always to divest the colored citizen of voting rights," Mr. Hinton said.

Urges Ike Supporters

Gov. Byrnes last week urged the South Carolinians for Eisenhower to form a bloc to defeat candidates "who are willing to deal" with the NAACP.

The increasing strength of the colored vote caused the leaders at the meeting considerable concern. One of the suggestions of Byrnes was that the state of South Carolina recognize the problems of the colored bloc vote of 70-75,000 and form an opposing white block "in self defense."

The South Carolina Governor said the problem of meeting the colored bloc was complicated by the fact that "two years hence, when this bloc casts 70-75,000 votes, there will be white politicians willing to enter into secret political trades "with colored leaders for this vote."

These politicians and such candidates must be watched," he warned, adding that "those who are willing to deal with the NAACP must be defeated."

"It is surprising to us," Mr. Hinton stated in his letter, "to know that we have become strong enough to be the balance of power in South Carolina, and to have you acknowledge same. Colored people have no ulterior motives, however among they may become. They only desire to be good citizens, but first class citizens.

"The NAACP is in South Carolina to stay, as it has been here more than 30 years. It has gone but one way, through the courts, and you, as a former associate justice of the United States Supreme Court, could not and should not object to this course.

"Colored voters were not threatened, or coerced in the election, they were instructed as you and others advised the whites, and who could object to this. We hope to continue to instruct them, and hope to hold them in line as you seek to hold the whites in line through persuasion.

"Men running for office have always conferred with voters and leaders and always will. You can give no good reason why leaders who seek office should not confer with colored leaders in the same vein you talked with the Republican candidate," declared Mr. Hinton, referring to Gov. Byrnes' support of General Eisenhower.

Say Discrimination Bars Full Freedom

DENVER, Colo. — Only the destruction of racial discrimination and the substitution of the American ideal can bring a full realization of freedom.

This was the keynote of both John Foster Dulles, designated secretary of State, and Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. (Republican), of Massachusetts, in speeches before the national assembly of the National Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., in session here.

Mr. Dulles in a tape recorded address, said in part:

Half - Hearted Efforts

"Christian people have too long seemed half-hearted in their determination to end un-christian discrimination. They have too much tried to shift the responsibility to Government."

The incoming secretary of State said that the new Administration of President - elect Eisenhower "can do much" to "end the conditions of peril and insecurity which now afflict the world."

He pointed out that "discriminations at home and abroad are not only a moral blot on our so-called Christian civilization, but they are a major international hazard."

Senator Lodge said: "The U.S. cannot defeat the idea of communism with dollars and bullets. It must do it by putting into practice the American ideal of equality and justice for all."

Descrimination must be dealt with on a moral basis, he said.

"We can do it by showing that we mean what we say when we talk to the world that no man's race and no man's creed and no man's color shall count against him."

This is important, the Senator added, with racial and religious strife prevalent in other lands.

NAIROBI, Kenya (ANP)—Nearly 300 natives were arrested last week in this British African colony by police seeking terrorist members of the anti-white Mau Mau cult pledged to drive the white man from the soil of East Africa.

Police and troops rounded up 65 Kikuyu tribesmen near Fort Hall after a native shot a poison arrow at a policeman. The arrow hit its mark, but did not pierce the skin, thus saving the policeman from almost certain death.

The native bowman and four others were held as suspected terrorists. Another 60 were released after screening.

Another 200 Kikuyus were arrested on a train in the Nyeri District when they were unable to show proper identity papers.

Cite Benefits From Christmas Seal Sale

Thousands of Baltimoreans in all sections of the city have benefited in 1952 from Christmas Seal funds, raised annually at Christmastime during the drive by the Maryland Tuberculosis Association for funds for its year-round tuberculosis control program.

Hundreds of tuberculosis patients in our city and state hospitals receive personal services and rehabilitation and occupational services through an expanding patient services program carried on by the Association.

They also benefit from the nation-wide program of medical research financed by the annual Christmas Seal Sale.

Countless other residents are told tuberculosis is prevented, detected, and treated by the expanded health education program conducted by the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, through the use of films, exhibits, literature, and talks on tuberculosis.

Conduct Chest X-Rays

But the most familiar to residents of Baltimore is the program of chest X-rays surveys conducted by the Baltimore City Health Department, with the assistance of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association.

According to Dr. Russell A. Nelson, president of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, 38 chest X-ray surveys will have been held this year in the industries, communities, schools, institutions, and business firms of Baltimore.

During these tuberculosis detection programs, an estimated 52,000 Baltimoreans will have received free chest X-rays. Of these, thirteen were public surveys held in various communities of the city.

The following community groups sponsored these community-wide tuberculosis detection programs: The Druid Hill YMCA; Poe Homes; Eastside Community Council; Chick Webb Center; Metropolitan ME Church, Young Adults; Northwest Community Council and PTA School No. 107.

Also, PTA School No. 142; PTA School No. 240, O'Donnell Heights; Eastern Community Council, Canton Area Council, Southeastern Community Council, Latrobe Homes, PTA School No. 33; and PTA School No. 112.

10,000 Get X-Ray

Over ten thousand (10,000) Baltimoreans were X-rayed during these surveys.

Surveys were also held at Eastern High School, Baltimore City College, Forest Park High School, Western High School, schools No. 452, and 451, and at Carver Vocational School.

A total of 9,109 students were X-rayed.

Over 4,000 students were X-rayed in surveys held at Johns Hopkins University, Morgan State College, Notre Dame College, and Loyola College.

Approximately 30,000 others were X-rayed during 17 such surveys held in industries, hospitals, and business firms throughout the city.

Great Advantage

Dr. Nelson pointed out that this detection program was emphasized because of the great advantage in finding tuberculosis in its early stage when chances of cure are best.

"Early detection of the many unknown cases of tuberculosis is one of the keys to the control of this disease, he said. "If every adult would get a chest X-ray annually, we would find more and more cases in the early stages and thus save many lives, much suffering, and considerable money."

"Christmas Seal funds support this program of early detection of tuberculosis," Dr. Nelson concluded.

$4,000 Approved For Councilor

BOSTON—Given final approval by the City Council, an order authorizing the payment of the $4,000 to former Councilor Laurence B. Hughes of Roxbury as reimbursement of legal expenses incurred in a long court fight to gain his seat on the municipal council, was on the desk of Mayor John B. Hynes for his signature.

Banks was forced to wage an expensive battle in the Superior and Supreme Courts that lasted more than 19 months before he ousted former Councilor Daniel F. Sullivan from the Ward 9 place in the City Council.

Less than five months of his terms remained to be served when Banks finally won and was seated in the council. Both Mayor Hynes and the council earlier accepted a legislative act making possible the
