Korean War Hero Faces Prison Term

'Ax Lovie's' Trial Set For Jan. 26

Woman Admits She Cut Up Body Of Elderly Man

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. — "Ax Lovie" goes on trial for first degree murder Jan. 26 for the bizarre torso slaying of 73-year-old Sonny Marshall last October in Mercer County Criminal Court at Princeton.

The woman, Arizona Love, admitted in a statement to police the slaying of the retired railroad brakeman after taking a lie detector test.

"He owed me $56 and wanted me to move out of his house, so I just got mad and killed him," the strapping 200-pound, six-foot housekeeper was quoted as saying following her arrest.

The woman had worked for Marshall for eight years before they became involved in the fatal argument.

Found In City Dump

The dismembered torso of the man was found on a city dump several days after his death and police could not identify it until neighbors of Marshall told of seeing "unnecessary" smoke come from the man's home. A search of the house revealed bones in the basement furnace and blood-stained clothing.

In her statement to the police Mrs. Love admitted she hit the elderly man over the head with a poker during a fight. She said a fire was in the furnace at the time and when she discovered the man was dead she decided to dispose of the body.

The woman in her statement said she took a Boy Scout ax and cut off the man's arms at the shoulders. She put the arms in the fire and then cut off the legs at the knees, placing the latter also in the furnace.

Cut Body In Half

Mrs. Love stated she then cut the body in half across the stomach and, after the arms and legs had burned she put the hips in the furnace.

The woman, according to police, said she couldn't put the torso in the furnace because it was too big. She later covered it up in a sack and left it in a city dump where it was later discovered.

Since her arrest Mrs. Love has been held here in jail without bail.

Gets Award For Research

Psychologist, Economist Share Research Award

WASHINGTON

Dr. James A. Bayton, a psychologist who directs some of the special surveys in the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, shared with Agricultural Economist Shelby A. Robert Jr. an award presented them by the Washington chapter of the American Marketing Association.

Bayton and Robert were among 40 research groups in 10 government agencies to submit reports on projects for consideration of the marketing body. Six of these won awards.

Their report covered research work on consumer preferences for selected frozen concentrated apple juices and on how consumers would react to the juice when it was placed on sale.

This piece of research was urgently needed by apple growers of the Pacific Northwest who were seeking a new market outlet for their cull apples.

Dr. Bayton works part-time with the department while serving as professor of psychology at Howard university.

Marine Robs Poultry Store

Even Prosecutor Pleads For Youth

By JOSEPH A. OWENS

HARTFORD, Conn.—A Korean War hero who braved heavy enemy fire to rescue a wounded companion may be sentenced to Connecticut State Prison because he stole $67.

Marine private William C. Bozeman of 22½ Bellevue Square stood in court this week and heard Superior Court Judge Edward J. Daley say, "Other men come back from Korea, too, many in boxes. They don't disgrace the uniform they wear."

Judge Daley made this remark after a Marine officer appeared in court to read Bozeman's official service record and request clemency for the war hero.

Wears Bronze Star

Bozeman was awarded the Bronze Star for valor he displayed when he crawled through enemy fire to go to the assistance of a wounded Marine. The 21-year-old, good looking youth was also the recipient of the Purple Heart and a Presidential unit citation.

Judge Daley during the hearing turned a deaf ear to State's Attorney Albert S. Bill's recommendation that Bozeman be given a two months suspended sentence.

For unexplained reasons Pvt. Bozeman broke into the Bill's Windsor street Poultry Market, stealing $48 the first time and $19 the second. Both breaks occurred on Sept. 14 when he was home on furlough and working part-time at the poultry market for spending money.

Attorney Milton D. Newman told the court that Bozeman is unable to explain why he stole the money. Many Hartford residents have verified the youth's honesty.

The Marine asked Judge Daley for a break. "Please don't send me to prison, because if you do I will be dishonorably discharged and I want to make the Marines my career," he pleaded.

Deferred For Month

The judge then announced that he would defer making judgment for one month. He said he was troubled over the fact that Bozeman twice entered the market illegally.

Already the Marine private has spent 46 days in the jail while awaiting his appearance in court. Many, including prosecutor Bill, believe that the heroic youth had been punished enough.

Sentiment in Hartford is for Bozeman to be given a clean bill when he appears before Superior Court again in January.

"I Hate Sympathy"

"I hate sympathy," says Mrs. Dorothy Mae Stevens, 25, of Chicago, as she does her ironing following her recovery from being frozen stiff during 12-degree below zero weather last winter. When found after a night-long exposure, her body temperature had dropped to 64 degrees. Despite amputation of hands and feet, Mrs. Stevens does housework and visits hospitals to cheer the handicapped.

Migrant Farm Worker Accused In Shooting

Mystery Blast Rocks Home Of N. C. Widow, 45

STATESVILLE, N.C. — A hole was blasted in the ground near the front steps and the windows and doors shattered at the home of Mrs. Odie Corry, 45, by a mysterious blast last Tuesday.

The widow told police that she was asleep at the rear of the house when the explosion occurred. She was not injured, but the thunderous blast was heard over a large part of the city.

"Someone tried to blow up my house," she told the officers, but she was unable to give a reason for it. Her home is five blocks from the nearest white residential section and is near the industrial area.

Also in the house at the time of the explosion were John Moore and his wife, son-in-law and daughter, of Mrs. Corry. They also were asleep at the time.

Officers have been unable to find any trace of the culprit or culprits. Police Capt. T. G. Kyles surmised that the explosive apparently had been thrown at the front of the house from the street and was aimed at the front window.

Man Prefers Ala. Pen; Stumps Judge

CLEVELAND, Ohio — "You are the first colored person I ever heard of who preferred a Southern prison to a Northern one," an astonished Common Pleas Judge Merrick told Certifyou Armstrong, 28, last Saturday.

Armstrong, charged with a $3 unarmed robbery here, had just told the judge that he wanted to return to Alabama's Kilby Prison to finish a robbery term which has 97 years and eight months to go. He said he escaped June 26, 1950.

"Are you sure you want to do this?" the judge asked.

"Yes," replied Armstrong. "They treated me all right."

"There must be something wrong with you," the judge said as he entered a plea of not guilty to the robbery charge and put the man under $2,500 bond.

Admits Killing Football Star

Youth, 17, Pleads Guilty To Murder

DETROIT—A 17-year-old youth charged with the slaying of an 18-year-old football star last September 27, pleaded guilty to second degree murder last week through his attorney before Recorder's Judge O. Z. Ide.

He is Charles Goodloe. Facing 20 years in Jackson, Michigan prison Goodloe was scheduled to be sentenced Jan. 19.

He admitted the slaying of James Molten, Northeastern High School football star. The slaying was the aftermath of an argument between the two youths in a Hastings street cafe, following a football game in which Northeastern was defeated.

During the altercation Molten is alleged to have slapped Goodloe over some remarks he made about the team.

Goodloe left the cafe, went home and armed himself, and shot Molten down on the sidewalk almost in the shadow of Molten's home.

Man Who Started 250G Race Track Fire Indicted

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — A 24-year-old former exercise boy at Douglas Park race track, charged with starting the $250,000 fire there last October, has been indicted by the grand jury on three charges of arson.

Willie Taylor was accused of trying to burn two homes as well as setting the fire that destroyed a big barn and 68 thoroughbred horses.

The indictment lists the two homes as those of Mrs. Amy Beasley, Taylor's former landlady, and Stella Eccleston, his "girl friend."

Taylor submitted setting the race-track fire while under the influence of whisky and marijuana last month after taking a lie-detector test.

Indict Officer In N.Y. Killing

BROOKLYN, N.Y. — A Kings County Grand Jury last week indicted suspended Patrolman Stanley Davis for first degree manslaughter in the death of Arthur Battle who succumbed three weeks ago to wounds received six months previously.

Battle was shot when Davis, off duty and accompanied by two other patrolmen, searched the man's house although they had no search warrant. Both the suspended officer and his alleged victim are colored.

Davis went to the house, it was revealed after the shooting, when the young officer learned that Battle might know something about a missing gun which had been taken from Davis several days earlier during an altercation in a local bar.

As the patrolmen attempted to question Battle they said he attacked them with a paring knife. In the fight which followed the man was fatally shot. His wife has filed a $500,000 suit for damages as result of the shooting.

Shortly before he died, Battle was absolved of felonious assault charges the officers had lodged against him following a bedside hearing in Kings County Hospital before Magistrate Clarence Wilson.

Gandhi Policy Creeping Into South Africa

HAMPTON, Va.—"The passive resistance movement in South Africa follows the general principles of Gandhi's program of resistance in India."

This was the observation made by Dr. and Mrs. Ray Phillips, missionary teachers in Johannesburg, who recently spoke at Hampton Institute.

Many of the Africans seek arrest in an effort to make a protest against the harsh regulations imposed upon the Africans and Indians by the British, they said.

They predicted that when the movement spreads to the industrial workers, the effects of the passive campaign will be felt in the economic life of the country.

Sawmill Worker Is Suffocated

SUFFOLK, Va. — A sawmill worker, Richard R. Davis, 55, was smothered to death last Saturday when a fire destroyed his one-room shack on Route 32 about three-miles south of here.

Davis' body was found shortly after midnight by firemen who were called to the scene. The coroner said the man died by suffocation before the flames reached him.

The fire was believed to have been caused by an overheated stove.

State Dept. Clears Minister In Passport Dispute

Suggest State College Close

Report Low Morale At Delaware State

DOVER, Del.—The student and faculty morale at Delaware State College is so low and the high cost per student to the taxpayer is so abnormally high that there have been suggestions that the school be closed, it was revealed last week at the State Senate Budget Committee hearings.

A ten - member committee, headed by Sen. Ernest R. Benge, conducted the hearings which lasted three days. The members did not seem inclined, however, towards the idea of completely abandoning the institution.

It was brought out, though, that the taxpayers are spending between $1,500 and $3,300 annually on each enrollee at the college which today is not even accredited.

In addition, Dr. Maurice E. Thomasson, acting president of the institution, has asked to be relieved of his duties in order to devote his time to teaching.

Dr. Thomasson told the senate committee that one of the problems at the institution is the "indecision" about the school's future and accounted this as a reason for the low faculty and student morale.

Rabbi's Method Of Fighting Prejudice Gains Attention Of Nation's Leaders

'Talk It Out,' New York Spiritual Leader Tells Audiences, 'Prejudice Must Be Aired Like Tube'

CHICAGO — Rabbi Henry Enoch Kagan, spiritual leader of Sinai Temple in Mount Vernon, N.Y. has a worthy system for reducing racial and religious prejudices—talk it out, he says.

Dr. Kagan, who is here on a speaking tour, says he discovered his theory in his study, where hundreds of persons brought their marital problems.

"We talked out their personal hates," he explained. "Then I realized that personal hates of workers can be talked in the factories, offices, in the communities and in society."

System Attracts Attention

His new system is attracting the attention of industrialists, labor leaders, businessmen, educators, laymen and churchmen of all races and creeds throughout the nation.

"As an inner tube cannot be repaired until all the old air is expelled first, prejudice, too, must be aired out before it can be repaired," Dr. Kagan says.

"Prejudice is so filled with emotion that nothing new is allowed into the mind until some thing old comes out."

Has Successful Book

While working with teen-agers in Episcopal and Methodist summer camps, Dr. Kagan was able to carry on an unusual experiment in reducing prejudice and evaluating results. These have recently been published in a successful book, "Changing the Attitude of Christian Toward Jew."

Attitude tests were given and Dr. Kagan found that frank discussion had changed attitudes significantly. He discovered the following:

1. Information does not reduce prejudice.

2. If you fail to get a prejudiced person to face up to the fact that his prejudices exist, you do not reduce prejudice.

3. You can go on and on describing the virtues of a minority group and plead their rights to equal treatment, but this also does not change the attitude of the majority toward them.

Soldier Writes Wife; Dies In Plane Crash

By MOSES ROUNDTREE

GOLDSBORO, N.C. — Safely back in the U.S. from a year's service in Korea, where he had been wounded last July 16, Pfc. John Henry King sat down in Seattle, Wash. on Jan. 6, and wrote his wife, Mrs. Julia King, of Goldsboro, the good news.

He was flying that night to Fort Jackson, S.C., where he would be mustered out and return to his wife and 15-months-old child.

King never reached Fort Jackson. The last man to be taken aboard the ill-fated Military Air Transport plane, he perished that night with 39 other Korean veterans when the plane crashed against a mountain crag near Logan, Utah.

Received Letter Jan. 12

In an exclusive interview, Mrs. King showed this reporter the letter her husband had written on the eve of his projected flight home. The letter was received Jan. 12, the day the wrecked plane was found, after a week's search.

Sitting quietly in their little home at 607 Canal st., the pretty young widow choked-up a little as she regarded 15-month-old Henry Alton, playing unconcernedly on the bed, and thought of the reunion that never was to be.

PVT. JOHN H. KING

"Well, Julia darling," the happy infantryman wrote, "I am in the States now and tonight I will be on my way to Fort Jackson. They say we will fly there. I hope we will. If so, I will call you as soon as I get there. I hope to be home to you by Jan. 10...

"I am so glad to be back in the States again. It has been one year and one day since I was in Seattle. I am glad to be here. Well, I don't have much to say to you now, but I will say more next time, when I hope to see you soon.

"With all my love,

Your husband,

John Henry King."

After writing the letter, King evidently re-checked about the plane flight, because he added, "Leaving tonight by plane. With a goodnight kiss."

Was Wounded In July

Mrs. King last talked with her husband when he was in the hospital, after being wounded in July. He called to say his leg wound was healing and to inquire how his wife was doing, since the birth of his mother, who lived with them.

The mother, Mrs. Patsy King, died while her son was in the hospital, and he could not come home for the funeral.

The Kings were married Feb. 17, 1951, and the father saw his son before being sent overseas.

Before entering the Army, King was employed by Hamilton Funeral Home here. Previously he attended Dillard High School. King expected to be a mortician and work with his wife after he got out of the hospital that he was taking Army training in that line.

Mrs. King attended Cyntral High School.

Rev. Robinson Beats Smear

Prominent Pastor May Keep Passport

NEW YORK—The Rev. James H. Robinson, founder - pastor of the Church of the Master, last week beat a Red smear campaign leveled against him as the State Department quietly withdrew its nationally disputed request for the minister's passport.

The popular minister was cleared by the State Department in a letter which told him to "disregard" its original request since his case did not fall within the scope of passport regulations designed to keep persons from traveling outside the country whose travel is considered "not in the national interest."

The State Department acted after numerous organizations and individuals had wired, written and telephoned State Department representatives protesting the request made last month for Dr. Robinson's passport.

To Hold Mass Meeting

Meanwhile, a mass meeting, scheduled for January 25 at St. Mark's Methodist Church, to protest the State Department's request will still go on. Speakers include the Rev. Mr. Robinson, NAACP Executive Secretary Walter White, Rep. A. Clayton Powell Jr., Councilman Earl Brown and others.

The letter clearing Rev. Robinson was from Mrs. Ruth Shipley, director of the State Department's passport office. It follows:

"In reply to your letters of Dec. 8, 1952 and Dec. 22, 1952, you are informed that the Department has given very careful consideration to the material which you have submitted as well as other material submitted on your behalf and has concluded that your case does not fall within the scope of Section 51.135 of the Passport Regulations. Accordingly, you may disregard the request contained in the Department's letter of Dec. 1, 1952, that you forward your passport to the Department.

Things Moved Rapidly

Rev. Robinson expressed his "happiness and relief" over the State Department's action and said he thought things moved as rapidly as they did because "too many people and organizations went to bat for me."

The prominent Presbyterian minister was originally accused of having once been connected with several organizations later branded as "subversive." Some of the accusations referred to incidents as far back as 1941 and one meeting questioned was held in the White House.

Rev. Robinson revealed that the original accusations against him apparently came from a self-appointed vigilante group in Indiana which reported to the State Department that his name had appeared in the "Daily Worker," some 40 times over a period of 15 years.

Ike's Administration Can Set Pattern Of Non-Discrimination In Employment

By LOUIS LAUTIER

WASHINGTON — (NNPA) — The Eisenhower Administration, which took over the reigns of Government Tuesday, can do much within two areas to set a pattern of non-discrimination in employment for the United States at large.

One of these areas is Government employment itself. The other is the area of employment by contractors having contracts with the Federal Government.

In neither of these areas is there any serious objection to the policy of non-discrimination. Undoubtedly, the Government has the right to employ persons without regard to race, color, religion, or national origin.

Can Affect Businesses

Likewise, the Government has the right to impose upon individuals and firms with which it does business the condition that race or religious discrimination shall not be practiced in their employment of persons to work upon Government contracts.

The Government's policy of non - discrimination in Federal employment is not new. The Fifth Amendment forbids the Government to exercise any discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion.

This policy, however, has never been adhered to. The first concerted effort to put it into effect came after President Roosevelt issued his executive order of June 25, 1941, creating the President's Committee on Fair Employment Practice.

Clause In Contracts

This order required all Government contracting agencies to write into defense contracts a clause obligating the contractor not to discriminate against any worker because of race, creed, color, or national origin.

Mr. Roosevelt's executive order of May 27, 1943, amending his earlier order, extended this requirement to "all contracting agencies" and also required all subcontracts to include a similar clause.

But Mr. Roosevelt's two executive orders, and Mr. Truman's executive order of Dec. 20, 1945, continuing the FEPC, failed to eliminate discriminatory practices by Government contractors, as well as Federal agencies, although the wartime FEPC did much to reduce discrimination during the five years it operated.

Civil Service FEP

President Truman on July 20, 1948, issued an executive order creating the Fair Employment Board in the Civil Service Commission. This order, still in effect, requires the head of each Federal agency to appraise personnel actions of his agency to insure that in all such actions fair employment policies are "fully observed" and to receive and determine complaints of discrimination.

Neither the non-discrimination clause in Government contracts nor the Fair Employment Board has been effective.

The contract clause has not been effective because it is not self-executing and none of the agencies polices the contracts it awards to determine whether the clause is being complied with.

The Fair Employment Board has not been effective because it chose to operate behind a veil of secrecy and because it never attempted to enforce vigorously the provisions of Mr. Truman's executive order.

Ohio Housing Projects Drop Racial Ban

TOLEDO, Ohio — Segregation has banned last week in Toledo's six low-rent public housing projects under a new policy announced by the Toledo Metropolitan Housing Authority.

Under the former policy, three projects with 733 units, on the east side of the city's Maumee River, were reserved for white occupancy with three on the west side of the river, earmarked for Negroes.

The new policy was announced by A. G. Spieker, chairman of TMHA's board of directors, who said that integration in public housing projects had been successful in other cities.

He also cited that four Toledo's veterans' housing projects have all been occupied by colored and white families since shortly after the war.

McClinton Nunn, administrative head of TMHA, is the only person who is not white serving as executive director of a public housing project in a major U.S. city.

Haiti To Build New Homes For Workers

PORT-au-PRINCE — (ANP)— A new "workers city" was inaugurated here Thursday when work was started on a project comprising 274 homes for Haitian families in the lower income brackets.

The contract for the homes which will be built of concrete blocks and will cost $1,800,000 was won by two white Americans, Bunker Fletcher Langton and Engineer Marhoefer Jr. They are financing as well as constructing the new venture. The government will pay for it in three years.

The project will include 14 stores, a church, two schools and a sports center including a swimming pool, football field, volley ball court and tennis facilities. There will be two and three bedroom homes with baths, living room, kitchen and gallery.

McDonald Beals Rap

Numbers Count Is Dismissed

WASHINGTON

Dapper, silver-thatched Earl H. McDonald, 43 - year - old sportsman, who police say has been in the digits business for 12 years, walked out of District Court, Tuesday, cleared of his latest rap.

McDonald, whose address is given in the 3800 block, 10th st., nw., figured in the famous 'transom peeping" case of 1947 that went all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

In that case, the high court ruled that McDonald's rights were invaded because the police trespassed in peeping through a transom to obtain evidence.

Insufficient Evidence

In this week's case, Arthur McLaughlin, assistant district attorney, moved to dismiss the case on the grounds of insufficient evidence.

During December, Judge Edward Tamm ruled that the numbers slips and adding machine tapes were seized illegally by police in a July raid on McDonald's home.

Therefore, Judge Tamm suppressed the material as evidence. The jurist commented that there was no showing that the police had made a sufficient enough observation to obtain a search warant.

Seized $13,000

During the July raid the police seized $13,000 from McDonald's residence, which was later impounded by an income tax lien.

At the time of the raid, McDonald was vacationing in Atlantic City. He surrendered to the police after his return. He listed his occupation, at the time of arrest, as a "credit-adjuster."

McDonald was also arrested during the early part of 1951, however, the evidence obtained in that raid was also termed "illegal."

Cases against five other persons, who were indicted with McDonald in the latest case, were dismissed. They were listed as:

Joseph F. Washington, 56, of the 1200 block, Morse st., ne.; Barbara M. Terry, 52, of the 1600 block, Third st., nw.; Leslie Hayes, 31, of the 1200 block, Quincy st., nw.; John H. Hatcher, 38, of the 1100 block, First st., nw.; and Walter S. Collins, 38, of the unit block, C st., nw. of the NAACP.

Germany's Brown Babys 'Doing Fine'

BONN, Germany (ANP)—Seventy-six brown-skinned children enrolled in Munich schools were reported last week as getting along "very well" with their playmates, teachers and local citizens in the surrounding areas.

The only difficulties—and they are rare—have been made by parents, the Munich Suddeutsche Zeitung reports.

The youngsters most of them fourfolding, are the children of America soldiers and German girls. Some of them are in children's homes and some have foster parents.

One already has become a German movie star.

Teachers said the tan, coffee-hued youngsters were accepted very quickly by their playmates and often are favorites in their groups. Most of them know no English, and in Munich, speak German with a broad Bavarian accent.

Ray Guild Appointed Assistant Attorney

BOSTON—Among the 17 lawyers appointed as assistant attorneys-general by the newly elected Attorney-General Geroge Fingold was Ray W. Guild of Cambridge, former president of the Boston Branch of the NAACP and a member of the advisory board of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

St. Louis Minister Candidate For Election

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—(ANP)—The Rev. Joseph W. Nicholson, rector of All Saints Episcopal church, last week announced he will be a candidate in the spring election for a position on the board of education here.

Rev. Nicholson formerly served as a pastor of churches in Chicago and Birmingham, Ala. He came to St. Louis three years ago.

KKK Threats Stir Union

RICHMOND, Va.—The Trappers and Fishermen's Union has appealed to the Justice Department and Governor John S. Battle of Virginia to protect its leader and his family against KKK threats.

The KKK recently ordered George Dunham to move out of Richmond county under threats of burning his store and doing bodily harm to his wife and five teen-age children.

The trouble arose after Mrs. Anne Dunham, the stricking fishman's wife, had successfully thwarted efforts of a boat captain to hire scab labor for the coming Menhaden season.

Liberia To Entertain Premier Of Gold Coast

MONROVIA (ANP) — For the first time in its history, Liberia will entertain an African Premier when Dr. Kwame Nkrumah, Prime Minister of the Gold Coast, will be an official guest of this country next week.

Nkrumah, responding to an invitation issued some time ago by President William V. S. Tubman of Liberia, will bring a suite of officials with him. In his party will be three African ministers of the Gold Coast government.
