The Social Value Of Telephone Service

One of the many uses of the telephone in the home is its convenience for arranging social affairs, and keeping in touch with one's friends.

Various little affairs for which no invitations are written are going on in your circle all the time. The guests are bidden over the telephone. Not to have telephone service in your home means that you are often left out.

You can have this handy means of sending and receiving invitations in your home for a few cents a day.
