Two More German War Babies Thrill At First Glimpse Of New World—America

Babies Arrive

moving from New York to Richmond.

She had secured tickets for their passage on Eastern Airlines three weeks earlier but had not confirmed the actual flight on which they were to leave and early Wednesday morning airline officials were unable to find space on any planes out of LaGuardia or Idlewild to Richmond.

Due Here Tuesday

Scheduled to arrive in New York at 10:30 Tuesday morning, the two children who flew the ocean in the custody of Scandinavian airline hostesses, did not arrive here until 2:30 a.m. Wednesday morning and were not cleared through customs until about an hour later.

An unexpected turn of events made them feel somewhat at home momentarily, however, for at the tirport they were thrown into the company of a white German mother from Philadelphia, who is married to a colored soldier now serving in Korea and who was at the airport to claim her two German babies which she had not seen in four and a half years.

The attractive German mother was Mrs. Maria Roane, wife of Sgt. Thomas Roane of 5811 Sansom st., Philadelphia.

Met Her Daughters

Mrs. Roane was at the airport to greet her two sons, Dieter and Herbert.

Elise and William, the two children being adopted by Mrs. Evans, walked off the plane into the arms of Mrs. Tomlin and Mrs. Thompson. William was smiling and babbling in German which neither of the American women understood, but Mrs. Roane the German mother, greeted him in German and his face lit up like a light bulb.

Elise, however, apparently did not like her first impression of America and in typical feminine fashion she promptly began to cry all over the airport despite the motherly attention given her by Mrs. Thompson.

German Stopped Tears

The only time Elise would stop crying was when Mrs. Roane would put her arms around her and speak to her in German.

This could not continue all night, however, and Elise and William were finally bundled into this reporter's car and headed for Manhattan with Mrs. Roane and her two sons following behind in the Roane's car.

Elise continued to cry all down the Grand Central parkway until Mrs. Roane pulled her car alongside the writer's car and one of Mrs. Roane's sons rolled his window down and yelled one word to Elise in German.

No More Tears

No one in this reporter's car knew what he said, but apparently Elise did for she straightened up from then on and did not shed a single tear from there into Harlem.

As for William, he was a perfect little gentleman.

First German war babies for whom the AFRO arranged new homes in America were four-year-old Edward and four-year-old Sonia, who were adopted last month by Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Cardwell of Washington.

Parents Meet War Babies

RICHMOND

Two tired German children arrived in Richmond Tuesday night to begin life as American citizens. After arriving in New York by Scandinavian Airlines in a flight across the Atlantic, they were flown to Richmond.

Elsie, an auburned haired girl of four, slept all the way to Richmond, but William, a blue-eyed five-year old boy, was the "life of the flight" the AFRO was told by the blonde stewardess.

"Beautiful Children"

She seemed quite impressed with the youngsters. "They are beautiful children," she said.

Mrs. Celeste Evans Richmond school teacher who with her husband, Willie, adopted the children, was on hand to greet the plane.

Her daughter, Dorothy, also a school teacher, accompanied her mother.

AFRO There

In addition the official greeting family included Rufus Wells, Richmond AFRO editor, and Floyd Cephas, AFRO circulation distrubutor, and a relative of Mrs. Evans.

Mrs. Evans entered the plane and brought the girl down the ramp. Her daughter escorted the boy and a car hurriedly spirited them away.

Florence Hill Marks Birthday

outstanding professional golfer, pauses between rounds to refresh with ice-cold Coca-Cola.

One of the most important elements of a good golf game is timing. A champion knows instinctively when to put on the pressure, and when to relax and ease up.

The same thing is true in everyday living. There are times for pressure, and times for relaxation. One of the best ways to take the pressure off . . . is to enjoy the pause that refreshes with delicious, ice-cold Coca-Cola. Make sure you have an ample supply of Coke—always on hand at home. By the case—by the carton—buy Coca-Cola for refreshment.

COOKING FUN

Winter Calavo avocados are at their best this time of year. The number of ways they may be used in salads is endless.

Add cubes of avocado to a tossed green salad after you've mixed the other ingredients with the dressing. Then give one more quick toss and you've added a gourmet touch to the salad. Or, cut a Calavo into slices and serve with grapefruit sections or orange slices.

It looks pretty and the flavor combination is perfect. Now for a heartier salad that fits in so well with Lenten menus, try this pink and green "Salmon Avocado Salad." It goes together quickly and easily. Crisp celery adds crunchiness and the dressing is a mayonnaise base spiked with lemon juice and pickle relish.

Salmon Avocado Salad

1 cup cooked or canned salmon
1 large Calavo
1 cup sliced celery
1/3 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons pickle relish
Salad greens

Remove skin and bones, and flake slamon. Cut Calavo into halves and remove seed and skin. Dice fruit over salmon. Add celery. Blend mayonnaise, lemon juice and pickle relish, and blend lightly with salmon mixture. Serve on crisp salad greens.

Serves 5.

Party Day Plans

To celebrate St. Patrick's Day plan a little party for the youngsters. Make bright green salads by molding canned fruit cocktail in lime-flavored gelatin. Serve with chopped ripe olive and egg sandwiches and tall glasses of apricot whole fruit nectar. For decoration fasten green paper shamrocks onto the glasses of nectar.

Firmly chopped raisins and walnuts mixed with thick sour cream make a delicious filling between layers of devil's food cake. It's so rich and good no frosting is needed.

After 25 Years A-T Bursar Out

GREENSBORO, N.C.—N. C. Webster, bursar at A. and T. College for 29 years, was dismissed from his position Monday on charges of "irregularities in his office" following a meeting of the executive committee of the college's trustee board.

Following the meeting, which began at 2:30 p.m., the committee issued the following official statement to reporters:

"The executive committee of A. and T. College met Monday afternoon, Feb. 23, and dismissed N. C. Webster, bursar at the college. The action was taken due to irregularities in the bursar's office reported by the state auditor. The state auditor is now making the annual audit of the college."

Board members attending the meeting, held in Dudley Hall on the campus, were Judge Charles A. Hines, Greensboro, chairman; Robert H. Frazier, also of Greensboro, and H. A. Scott of Haw River.

Succeeded By Marylander

They heard a preliminary report given by Henry L. Bridges, state auditor, who has had a crew of auditors working at the college for the past two weeks.

Mr. Webster, was appointed bursar at A. and T. June 26, 1923, was named faculty athletic manager in 1925 and elevated to the chairmanship of the college's athletic committee in 1930, all three of which positions he held up to the time of his dismissal.

Also included in the committee's announcement was the fact of appointment of L. A. Rose, head of the college's commercial department and a native of Crisfield, Md., who came to the college in 1928. He took over the office immediately.

Serve Oranges Each Day As Appetizer, Salad, Dessert

There's nothing quite so refreshing and nutritious as sliced oranges in ambrosia or fruit cup especially when oranges are in season and at their juicitest.

Health authorities have found that protopectins — the newly realised health factor found in large quantities in oranges — are as essential to normal digestive functions as proteins, carbohydrates, fats, vitamins and minerals are to other body functions.

The General Electric Consumers Institute recommends serving fresh citrus fruits at least once a day. You can buy a large supply at once and store them in your refrigerator.

Refrigeration will help retain Vitamin C and will keep the fruit juicy and properly chilled for serving.

Here's the easy way to peel and section oranges:

Slice off both ends of orange, being sure to cut deep enough to remove most of the white material. Sit orange on one end, and slice away remaining peel. A serrated-edge knife makes it easier to cut peeling.

Hold peeled orange over bowl to save all juice. Cut down both sides of each sectional membrane, removing each section as it is loosened. Seedless oranges are easiest to section and look more attractive.
