WITH THE LADIES

Dr. Ethel Nixon Meaussey, nationally known psychiatrist, who died in Washington, Sunday, never knew that she was a victim of dreaded lukemia. Her family had been so advised more than a year ago, but had more than a year ago, but managed, with the discretion of her physicians, to keep the fact from her.

Mrs. Hazel Browne Williams garnered a degree of doctor of philosophy in guidance from New York University.

She received her M.S. in the field of English from the Univ-town, dashed through these parts, a week back after a sojourn in New York where they went to represent North Carolina on the cotillion national guard roster.

They were bent on being home for the Shriners' a-do on Williams, teacher and coach of the Washington high school, Raleigh, who was being honored as "Man of the Year."

Back in Baltimore from a similar fling at the cotillion was Elise Hunt (Dr. Raymond) whose New York stay had been extended by a flurry of parties. The Bernard Lewises of Mount Vernon and the William Tolberts of New York and Washington had dinner parties for her. So did Dr. and Mrs. Asia Lomax and Major and Mrs. William Maize whose dinners were augmented with bridge parties.

PARTY PRATTLE

Unusually lovely was the banquet marking Founder's Day of the Chi Delta Mu fraternity, in Baltimore, Saturday evening.

Brothers of the local Chapter entertained their wives and potential brothers in a candle lighted, flower-decked club room. And most delicious was the catered banquet and delightful was the dinner music which continued for dancing until the wee hours of morning.

Participants in the fun were:

Doctors and Mesdames George Adams, McDonald Bando, Gilbert Banfield, Bernard Christmas, Thomas W. Harris, James Hawkins;

Doctors and Mesdames George Lee, Edward McDaniels, Ralph Reckling, E. Walter Sherington, Charles E. Watts, Arthur West, Nelson Williams, Maceo Williams;

Doctors and Mesdames Charles T. Woodland, Ralph Young, Richard Hunt, Hugh Price Hughes, and Bruce Alleyne.

Dr. T. W. Harris was chairman of the Founder's Day committee. Members of his committee were Doctors McDonald Bando, Isaac Young and Charles T. Woodland.

Two At Downtown Get $50 Scholarships

DOWNINGTOWN, Pa. — Two students at Downingtown Industrial School have been chosen as recipients of $50 scholarships offered by Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Perris of Glenlock.

Dorothy Rucker of Buckingham, an 11th grade student, was selected because of the conscientious effort she has made to improve since she entered in September, 1951.

Edward W. Woodland, a young 9th grader from Philadelphia, was designated chiefly because he has resisted a tendency, particularly among the boys, to present ever-increasing disciplinary problems.

Miss Flora Chatman, daughter of Mrs. Eva Chatman of Washington, left Friday, by plane for Clovis, New Mexico, to be wed to A/3C Hiawatha Wages, son of Mrs. Frances Wages, also of Washington.
