Eastside Leader Protests Three Liquor Licenses

The Eastside Community Committee, through William Taylor, co-ordinator is opposing three new applications for liquor licenses in East Baltimore.

Seeking beer and wine licenses are Samuel Freedman and Harold Calvin for an establishment at 208 E. Preston st. and William W. Zeniero for a store at 1306 Greenmount ave. The third applicant is Vernor L. Miller, seeking a beer, wine and liquor license at 2132 Harford ave.

In a letter to members of the Liquor Board, Mr. Taylor declared: "Recent surveys throughout the nation have shown that excessive liquor drinking by low income groups in blighted areas has resulted in an increasing amount of crime particularly in the age bracket between 21 and 49.

"Considering this important fact with the great number of stores and restaurants selling alcoholic beverages it is the opinion of our executive board that the Liquor Board must exercise sound discretion and put a stop to the practice of issuing new licenses especially in our changing neighborhood.

Wants Broadway Closed

"...You should know that we are bitterly and vehemently opposed to any type of application seeking location or relocation in the North Broadway areas from the Johns Hopkins Hospital to North avenue-Washington. street changing neighborhood in the North avenue Washington street area."

The civic leader also pointed out that Judge James K. Cullen former Liquor Board chairman once said: "People come to the board daily, up in arms about certain bars in their neighborhood, but when it comes time for renewal of a license everybody fails to appear toprotest against it.

"Although a bar may have beenestablished over a period of years but violates a law—people within 200 feet of it have the rightto protest against it. If 51 percent of the property owners appear before the Board to request that the license be taken away at renewal time, which is one of the best times to close a bar, their wishes are usually granted."

In closing the lengthy letter Mr. Taylor recounted the "pressure" that local residents and property owners are putting on mittee.

Jailed In Federal Case

Vernon F. (Vernon X) Story, follower of Islam of the Moslem faith who was given a day for failing to register under the Universal Military Training Act is shown at Federal Court with his attorney, Harry A. Cole. Mr. Story, an employee of the Library of Congress in Washington, testified that he was working with an orchestra in Europe when the 1948 law was passed and that he had never heard about the registration requirement.

Father, 2 Daughters File $12,000 Suit

Injured with his two young daughter when their truck collided with a physician's car on July 23, 1951, Rockwell Jones of Earleigh Heights, Md. filed a $12,000 damage suit in Superior Court last week.

Defendant in the case is Dr. Marvin M. Graham of the 5800 block Greenspring ave.

Compensation Sought

Mr. Jones complained that while he was driving the truck along Route 50 near St. Margarets, Md. the physician's car struck the left side of the truck.

Represented by Albert L. Sklar, Mr. Jones asks $10,000 compensation for himself and $2,000 each for the girls, Mary Elizabeth and Rose Marie Jones.

Scholastic Press Contest Planned

Plan are being completed for the eleventh annual convention of the Maryland Scholastic Press association and the Maryland Scholastic Press Advisers association to be held for the first time at the Johns Hopkins university Saturday, April 18, from 8:45 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Junior and senior high school advisers, editors, business managers, artists, and staffers throughout the state of Maryland and the District of Columbia will assemble for the event. All newspapers, yearbooks and handbook to be judged must be entered before March 20.

Writing contestants must register before April 8 with Mrs. Lucille N. Moler, Montgomery Blair High school, Silver Springs, Md., who is receiving both individual and publication registrations. Mrs. Moler is president of the advisers group. James C. Leonhart, director of publications at the Baltimore City College is executive secretary.

Contests will be held in news, features, editorial, sports, and speech report writing and in make-up and copy reading. Clinics will be held for every subject covered in the contests and also in radio and television programming.

Woman Jailed In Hubby Stabbing

The domestic problems of a Northeast Baltimore housewife and her mate reached the breaking point late Sunday, with one party headed for jail, and the other in the direction of Johns Hopkins for treatment.

Charged with stabbing her husband with intent to kill, Elsie McCoy of the first block N. Caroline st., was ordered held in bail of $2,000 at Northeastern Monday.

Her husband, Henry McCoy, who was ordered held in bail of $100 for disturbing the peace is recovering from a knife wound in the left shoulder.

According to wintesses, the McCoys became involved in a heated argument over "home problems" when Mrs. McCoy stabbed her husband with a butcher knife.

Mr. McCoy, they stated, before walking to Johns Hopkins for treatment, hit his mate with a skillet while she was in the process of preparing the Sunday dinner.

Don't blame your car for STALLING until you try this GAS

Esso Extra Gasoline now contains an added ingredient that helps prevent "carburetor icing" ... one of the commonest causes of stalling. If your car stalls while the engine is warming up, wouldn't it pay you to try Esso Extra before you spend money on repairs that might not correct the trouble? Ask your Esso Dealer for full information.

If your car stalls in damp, cool weather (30° to 55°) during the first fifteen minutes of driving, the chances are the cause is carburetor icing. This is not the fault of your car. Mechanical adjustments can't cure it.

Esso Extra now contains built-in anti-freeze that virtually eliminates carburetor icing and the bothersome stalling it causes. It's especially good in cars with automatic transmissions, where restarting after stalling is more troublesome. In addition, Esso Extra gives you a great all-around combination of qualities ... quick starting, fast warm-up, high anti-knock, power, and long mileage ... everything you need for Happy Motoring from the instant you touch the starter. Is it any wonder more motorists use Esso Extra than any other premium gasoline in the area served by Esso Dealers?

DEMOCRACY AT WORK

"The House I Live In"

By JAMES L. HICKS

The image I live-in is a nine million dollar structure stretching from-the middle-class to the low-income brackets middle class, a ten acre park with 3,000 trees, and 2,000 families living in one and each brick in my home stands as a monument to the ideal that men of all races can live together in peace and harmony.

The place I live in is not some nothing up, TH family project and the name on our mail box trace our racial origins back to far away countries with strange sounding names, and family to be just like ours. Our neighbors are people who have chosen to live side our house all races and creeds melt into one big happy family.

The house I live in is "Queensview, U.S.A." Queensview is a nine million dollar cooperative housing development in Long Island City, New York, overlooking Manhattan's towers across the eastern banks of the East River.

All 2,200 Of Us Own It

My family of 2,200 is proud of Queensview because we own it. We put our money together and bought it—we put our heads together and managed it — we put our lives together and live in it.

Queensview—the house I live in, is the shape of things to come. It is the answer of a group of determined people to solve their housing problem. A little more than two years ago some 200 of our families were living in a Brooklyn tenement. Today, another hundred of our families was living in the Bronx—in sub-standard housing.

Still another 200 families were living in Brooklyn and Queens in housing that was unsanitary, unsafe and that was unsatisfactory in any one of the million ways that make living in certain parts of a big city uncomfortable.

The poor housing conditions we faced in our old homes were no secret to anyone. Everyone recognized the problem for what it was, a problem that politicians long number tried.

Some of Them Did Decide to Try, however, to solve the problem. It was a big and difficult problem. This group was headed by Lewis H. Pink, director-chief executive of the United Blue Cross Hospitals and Mr. Jacob Sarnoff, a top executive with the General Electric Company.

Mr. Pink and Mr. Sarnoff, both public spirited citizens, had seen what had happened to housing after great strikes in improving the housing conditions of the low-income classes and the people in the high-income brackets. They had seen what had happened to the people in the middle-income groups.

They needed housing too. They couldn't get into the low-income brackets and they couldn't afford the income. And the majority didn't have the capital to go out and build homes of their own.

Took A Real Gamble

Mr. Pink and Mr. Sarnoff either had the capital or could get it. They had the ability to organize a housing group. They decided to put up the money to build a home for low-income people a chance to build a home for themselves.

It was a gamble in which they had much to lose and little to gain. For if Queensview fails they stand to lose their investment (and it was a big investment succeeding), the best they stand to gain is to get their money back. No profit.

Mr. Pink and Mr. Sarnoff decided to lend a hand to group of middle income low pay people. They decided to put up the money to build a home for themselves.

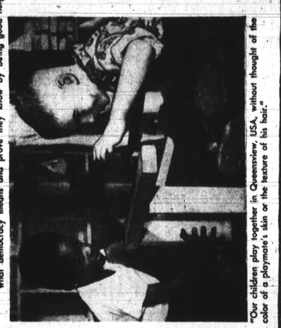
"Queensview USA does high in the city ... Its apartments are lived in by people of many races who know what democracy means and prove it by being good neighbors to each other."



"Our children play together in Queensview, USA, without thought of the color of a playmate's skin or the texture of his hair."
