Tenn. State Host To Nat. Tourney

High School Champs To Open Play In New Gym On Thursday

By EARL S. CLANTON III

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Tomorrow's college basketball "stars will be first to play on the floor of the nation's newest health and physical education building.

Tennessee State university will be host to 16 State high school champions who are set to battle for the National High School Athletic Association's top trophy in its new million and one-half buck building, March 26-28.

Teen-age hardwood artists from Oak Grove, Ruston, La.; Lincoln, Kansas City, Mo.; Campbell Street, Daytona Beach, Fla.; Maggie Walker, Richmond, Va.; St. Elizabeth, Chicago, Beach, Savannah, Ga., high schools will represent their states according to Frank (Fay) Young, NHAA tournament commissioner.

Alabama, North Carolina, Mississippi and West Virginia representatives are still undecided. Of the last mentioned all were represented in last year's game except West Virginia.

The seven-section tournament starts its first game at 10 a.m., Thursday as the pairings are to be completed during the business meeting, of NHAA state representatives Wednesday afternoon, NHAA president, C. P. Smiley, Booker T. Washington high school, Montgomery, Ala.; reported.

Chicago's St. Elizabeth five will be spurred by their two victories on the tourney's coveted Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, three-leg trophy to make this prize a permanent possession if the Chicago quint can cop this year's games.

Many Rich Prizes

Cushing, Oklahoma five and Central of Louisville each have one leg on the trophy. Central will bring the trophy to Nashville, having had it in their keep for one year.

Also the teams will be competing for rich prizes in the tournament's nine-year history.

First, second, third, fourth and most valuable player awards were posted by Universal Life Insurance company to the tune of $300.

Host To Give Prizes

Host, Tennessee State, if slated to give the winning high school coach's a plaque and gold basketballs to each member of the all-tournament team selected by the officials.

Following the tradition each visiting team will be supplied with TSU co-eds as queens, given a basketball variety show in the University Auditorium by the players guild, and coaches are to be feted at a special pre-tourney breakfast.

Coaches, team captains and co-ed queens are to be introduced during the varity show.

President W. S. Davis will extend an official welcome to the coaches during the pre-tourney breakfast.

Approx. 350-400 Seating Capacity, Organ—Choir Loft — Large Sunday School Rooms — 2 Large Kitchens For Suppers, Etc. Separate Complete Toilet Facilities, Pastor's Study Room, Steam Oil Heat, Large Adjoining Lot For Lawn Fetes — 190' On Reisterstown Rd. And 100' On Elgin Ave. Vacant. CLOUDS HANG OVER MIAMI:

Bums Deny Rift Over Too Many Tan Players

MIAMI, Fla.—Is the presence of so many tan players on the Brooklyn Dodgers' team causing widespread dissension in the Bums' camp?

Charges and counter charges have brought denials from both colored and white players, Manager Chuck Dressen and Walter O'Malley, president of the club.

The rhubarb has reached such proportions that O'Malley sent Buzzy Bavarik, the club's vice president, over here from Vero Beach to see what the 'storm' was all about.

All Deny Reports

All concerned deny that there is anything like a racial issue over the Dodgers' Jackie Robinson, Junior Gilliam, Roy Campanella and Joe Black.

The rhubarb seems to be centered around Dressen shifting Robinson from second base to third, thereby replacing the veteran Billy Cox, in order to make room for Gilliam at second, Robinson's old stand.

Reporters on the spot have intimated that dissatisfaction has prevailed since Dressen made the move, giving rise to racial slurs.

'Ain't Mad At Nobody'

Both Robinson and Cox deny that any animosity has arisen between them over the infield manipulation.

However, Cox is alleged to have admitted that he refused to pose for pictures with Robinson. "Because he was tired of being asked to have his picture taken with players competing for his job."

Cox also denied having said that he was mad at Robinson. "Why should I be mad at him?" he asked.

Robbie Says 'Misquoted'

Robinson, likewise, said he had been misquoted. "I never said Billy was mad at me. I said I know he's upset but I hope not at me. I'm just doing what Charlie (Dressen) tells me to do."

The four colored stars — all forced to stay at a separate hotel from the white players—are believed to be innocent victims.

All the front office executives and Manager Dressen have promised to get to the bottom of the affair, and if there is anything to it, they will "deal promptly with the situation."

The tan division would have carried five players, but the Dodgers sent Jim Pendleton to Boston.

Rev. Earl Harrison Granted New Trial

Appeal 'Remote Possibility' Pastor's Attorneys Jubilant

B-U-L-L-E-T-I-N

"There is a remote possibility that the ruling of the Municipal Court of Appeal will be appealed to the U.S. Court of Appeals," said A. A. Beard, assistant corporation counsel, said Monday.

The attorney for the Rev. Earl L. Harrison, Monday, enthusiastically praised the decision of the Municipal Court of Appeals in the celebrated paternity case.

The Appeals Court, Friday, ordered the Juvenile Court to rehear the case which involved the paternity of a child born to an unwed member of the pastor's church, Shiloh Baptist.

"We are delighted that the Rev. Mr. Harrison has been vindicated," Belford V. Lawson, one of the pastor's lawyers, comment.

Jurisdiction Settled

"We are also happy that the question of the jurisdiction of the Juvenile Court has been settled," Mr. Lawson said.

"Finally," the attorney added, "from a legal standpoint, we were concerned with the inadmissibility of compromise testimony as evidence in a trial.

"The Court of Appeals supported our contention that Judge James K. Cullen, the judge complaining witness, should not have been permitted to testify about an offer of compromise.

"We are looking forward to a new hearing and feel confident that our client will be cleared," the attorney stated.

Clear Cut Victory

Mrs. Marjorie Mackenzie, who wrote the appeals brief, asserted: "The Appeals Court made was a clearcut victory for us."

Foster Wood, another attorney, said: "The opinion of the Municipal Court of Appeals supported my contention that evidence in the original trial was improperly admitted.

"I was confident that the Appeals Court would reverse the lower court's decision. I am also confident that my client's innocence will become a finding of fact after the new trial," he added.

New Law Made

Mr. Lawson, in discussing the Appeals Court decision, said he felt that new law had been made in the Harrison case.

The attorney said that the Court of Appeals had clearly stated that the Juvenile Court's prime function was that of looking out for the maintenance and support of a child once paternity had been established.

Edward A. Beard, assistant corporation counsel, who argued the case before the Appeals Court, said:

"The issue on which the case was decided was a close one. I was never certain that we would win the case, however I felt that I took an honest position but admitted during the argument that the compromise testimony might be questionable."

Mr. Beard said that it would depend upon the Rev. Mr. Harrison and Miss Olivia Holmes, complaining witness, whether the case would be re-tried.

"There might be some sort of settlement," the assistant corporation counsel said. Our interest is in support of the child and if the two persons involved can work it out, we will be perfectly happy."

In reversing a decision of Judge Nadine Gallagher of Municipal Court, who had ruled that there were no errors in the original trial, Judge Andrew Hood wrote a five-and-a-half page opinion.

Judge Thomas Quinn and Nathan Cayton, who heard the argument for appeal on Feb. 16, concurred.

Case Heard By Jury

The Rev. Mr. Harrison, pastor of Shiloh Baptist church, was found guilty by a Juvenile Court jury on Aug. 5, 1952, of the paternity of a child born to an unwed member of his church, Miss Olivia Holmes.

In ordering a new trial, the Appeals Court ruled that the testimony of Luther Holmes, brother of the defendant, concerning an offer of compromise was not admissible.

Holmes, according to the record, testified during the trial that the Rev. Mr. Harrison, although denying paternity, offered to pay $1,000 to settle the matter.

Not An Admission

Judge Hood wrote in his opinion:

"The brother (Luther Holmes) testified he had been acquainted with the Rev. Mr. Harrison for a number of years and that after the birth of his sister's child he had a lengthy conversation with (the Rev. Mr. Harrison).

"That (the Rev. Mr. Harrison) denied the paternity of the child and referred to various letters he had received from complaining witnesses' attorney; and that (Rev. Mr. Harrison) had never made love to the complaining girl and would be willing to pay $1,000 to settle the matter." The opinion continued:

"An offer to settle or compromise is not admissible against the party making it. One is permitted to make an effort to buy his peace without having such effort used against him as an admission of liability.

"Here (the pastor) denied paternity of the child but offered to pay $1,000 to settle the matter. This, we think, was clearly an offer of compromise and not an admission of liability; the appeals court jurist wrote.

Disagrees With Trial Court

He added:

"The trial court in its memorandum denying a new trial appeared of the opinion that the offer was admissible because it was not made tieher to the complaining witness or to her representative.

"We cannot agree with that reasoning," the opinion stated. "The offer in the instant case was not made to the (complaining witness) but neither was it made to an utter stranger.

"It was made to the brother of the complaining witness, who certainly had a personal interest in the matter and would reasonably be expected to report the offer to his sister.

New Trial Necessitated

"We see no practical or material difference between making tre offer directly to complaining witness and making it to her through her brother," the opinion asserted.

After reviewing the legal arguments on the rule of admissibility of compromise offers as testimony, the opinion stated: "The instant case necessitates the ordering of a new trial."

As for the question raised by the defense attorneys concerning conversation between a jurror and Miss Holmes, the Appeals Court wrote:

"We think the trial court was justified in finding that such conservation was innocent in nature and not prejudicial to the defendant."

According to a court transcript, Miss Alice Sullivan, a juror, testified that the matron of the nursery, Mrs. Clarce Bowes, asked her to summon Miss Holmes because the child was fretting.

The opinion added, however: ". . . Any communication during the course of a trial between a juror and a party, witness or attorney is a tort."

Irvin Breaks Slump; Bangs 400-Foot Homer

Big Stick Accounts For Five Runs As Giants Shutout Seals, 12-0

By SAM LACY
AFRO Sports Editor

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—Sal Maglie and Dave Koslo collaborated to pitch the New York Giants to a handy, 12-0, shutout over the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific coast league here, Saturday.

Main power of the one-sided Giant victory was supplied by Monte Irvin who, in his one, was breaking out of a mild slump which saw him go two for 13.

Monte's big stick accounted for five runs batted in, three of them on a towering 400-foot drive into the centerfield bullpen with Dark and Lockman aboard in the third.

Sent Two Runners Home

He added to the damage an inning later by slashing a single through the middle to register Finch Hitter Marv Blaylock and Spencer with two more Giant tallies.

Don Mueller also contributed a homer to the winning cause, a blow that carried well into the rightfield seats with one on in the fourth. Sol Yvars added another 3-run smash in the ninth.

Hank Thompson, going the distance, gave up one lone hit in five tries, a single to center in the big third.

Two Washed Out

They took one look at the elements and immediately climbed back aboard to continue into Frisco. The following night they didn't even bother to leave their hotel for the scheduled arclight tilt across the Bay at Oakland.

On Wednesday, as the Giant varsity was losing its fourth game of six played with the Indians at Fresno, Ray Noble enhanced his popularity in a negative sort of way, by bailing a two-run, 400-foot homer in the top of the ninth to lead the "B" Club to a 4-3 victory over UCLA.

Hemmed in for two days by the weather, the New Yorkers' tan contingent put the time to assorted use.

Irvin and Ruben Gomez spent much of it catching up on sleep. Noble, as usual, took in every available show, and he and Thompson also renewed some of the many friendships they have in the section.

Thompson and Irvin also devoted a portion of the time to their continuous gin rummy game.

'I'll Regain The Title'
So says Jersey Joe Walcott, on April 10. Joe's manager listens. Jersey Joe will tell how he plans to do it on Bill's radio show Friday at 9 p.m. (WCBM).

LOUIS WARNED JERSEY JOE:

Walcott's Fight Plans: 'Not To Get Careless'

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — "I won't get careless this time. Rocky Marciano was so easy to hit with either a left or right hand, I didn't think there was anything to it.

"I didn't think it was necessary to knock him out to win. I just figured I would go right along time though, Old Jersey Joe will not get careless."

Walcott's manager, Felix Bocchicchio, is greatly improved. So much so, that he can get out of bed and sit around the house. He is not known, however, if he will be able to get to the training camp here.

Walcott and Bocchicchio are on the phone every day for about fifteen minutes talking over the plan of the battle.

'No Race Hate,' Yet Fla. Team Bars 3 Tan Players

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla.—The Jacksonville Beach Seabirds will keep their team lily-white.

This was decided at a citizens' protest meeting held here last week.

The protestors included city government officials, Chamber of Commerce, American Legion and other organizations.

Officials Support Protest

Fred Schilling, business manager of the Sea-Birds of the Class D Florida State League, said the club would not use colored players following the protest.

E. M. Shelley, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is reported as saying, "We have no hatred is involved in it. It's just that patrons of the team felt they would rather have an all-white team."

Catern To Southerners

Shelley said the Beach catered to southern tourists who might object, unlike further downstate where the Florida International League has a number of colored players, to cater to northern people.

Mayor E. D. Sams said he had to support the protest "because of the pressure brought on me by the citizens."

Red Treadway, manager, said the Sea-Birds had planned to try out three colored players along with the 25 white players.

Treadway said the three were Clyde Solden, Rutledge Pearson and Eugene White, all of Jacksonville, who played records with the Chicago Giants of the American Negro League.

Cecil Scott, Social Worker, Dies Suddenly

CHICAGO—Cecil Scott, 46, director of the Lower North Community Settlement House here, former AFRO correspondent and former industrial secretary of the Baltimore Urban League, died suddenly, early Saturday night, after he was stricken while reading in bed.

His funeral was to have been held Tuesday in Chicago, with interment in Colorado Springs, Colo., his mother's home.

A member of the Baltimore Frontiers Club, Mr. Scott was a jovial person, the news of whose death brings
