A Famous Old Abbey.

Melrose abbey is in Roxburghshire, Scotland, in a beautiful situation between the Eildons and the Tweed. David I. of Scotland founded an abbey at Melrose in 1136. It was several times torn down and rebuilt. The present famous ruins are what is left of the abbey built largely by the gift of Robert Bruce in the fourteenth century. They are the property of the dukes of Buccleugh and are carefully preserved. The abbey was a cruciform building in the decorated and perpendicular styles, with pronounced French influence. Much of the nave remains, with the two transepts, the chancel and the choir, two west piers of the tower and the sculptured roof of the east end. Sir Walter Scott has immortalized the east window in "The Lay of the Last Minstrel." The heart of Robert Bruce is buried at the high altar. Sir William Douglas, "The Knight of Liddesdale;" James, the second earl of Douglas, and Alexander II., king of Scotland, are also buried in the abbey.—New York Times.

Didn't Discharge Him.

In the financial district they tell a story of a bank that was in difficulties several years ago and how the clearing house happened to learn of the situation. One of the big national banks was clearing for a certain other bank that was in trouble and every day the president of the clearing house bank would certify $2,000,000 worth of checks for the other. Finally the paying teller called the attention to the fact that he was taking a mighty long chance, but the president paid no attention to the hint. Then the teller informed the clearing house of the situation, and the president was called to book. "Did my paying teller tell you you that?" demanded the president. "He did," replied the chairman of the clearing house committee. "I shall discharge him at once," declared the president, bristling up with indignation. "You do and we'll close your bank tomorrow," calmly replied the chairman. Needless to say, the teller was not discharged.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Falstaff and Yarmouth.

Yarmouth has a claim upon all Englishmen quite independently of its associations with the breakfast bloater. For it was the home of Shakespeare's Falstaff, who appears to have been a man of exemplary piety. The Falstaffs were an old Yarmouth family.

"A Falstolfe or Falstaff," writes John Richard Green, "was a bailiff of Yarmouth in 1281. Another is among the first of its representatives in parliament, and from that the members of that family filled the highest municipal offices. John Falstolfe, a man of considerable account in the town, purchased lands at the close of the fourteenth century in Caistor, and became the father of Sir. John Falstolfe, who, after a distinguished military career, was luckless enough to give his name to Shakespeare's famous character. In Yarmouth, however, he was better known as a benefactor to the great Church of St. Nicholas."—St. Nicholas.

Europe's Richest City.

The richest city in Europe is Basel, the great Swiss railway center, Zurich in a neighboring canton, coming second. This is proportionate to the number of inhabitants. Basel's richest citizen boasts a fortune of £500,000, another has £300,000, while no fewer than sixteen residents pay income tax on a round million dollars. Eighty-two are "French millionaires," possessing fortunes of a million francs. The average wage earning capacities of the various professions form an interesting contrast. Basel's doctors—the place is flooded with medical men—are the worst paid, averaging only £240 a year; druggists are good for more, and lawyers the same. Professors, on the other hand, earn something like £500 a year and bank directors anywhere from £1,000 to £1,200.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Statue of Brick.

Perhaps no other nation in the world save the inventive Germans would have thought of building a statue of brick. In the little city of Vegesack, near Bremen and in the district of the German clay fields, the citizens have erected such a statue to one of their number who won fame as an African explorer. The monument is of brick, thirty feet in height, including the pedestal. The architect molded the figures of a man and camel out of a solid mass of clay, which was burned in a great kiln and then sawed into brick sized blocks.

A Herculean Task.

The bridegroom was intensely serious.

"My dear," he said to his little wife (they are always little), "you have a hard task before you. Now that we are wed, you will have to prove to my four sisters that you are worthy of me."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Marriage In Java.

In Java when a man marries he goes to his wife's house, where the women sit in council upon all matters of importance and dictate the affairs of the home.

Child's Day In Belgium.

St. Nicholas day, which is Dec. 6, is the day on which the Belgian child expects a new toy. It is the Belgian child's Christmas.

Charity.

Charity does not demand of us that we should never see the faults of others, but she does ask us to avoid discovering them when there is no need.

Children have more need of models than of critics.—Joubert.

Kennedyville Items.

On Saturday last about mid-night some one set fire to the stack yard of Mr. Thomas VanDyke, of near Locust Grove. This was surely an act of vandalism, for Mr. VanDyke and son, Robert, are both as yet unable to be up more than a few minutes at a time, they having both been quite ill with typhoid fever. And thus to take advantage of one in a time of illness when he cannot defend himself makes the crime worse, if possible. We hope the miscreant may be caught and punished.

The Fourth Quarterly Conference of Kennedyville Methodist Protestant Church was held on Monday last at the home of Dr. James W. Urie. Rev. Frank S. Cain has been invited to return for another year. The election of delegates will take place on Feb. 28th, 10.30 A. M., when the members will express their wishes for the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Redmile visited her parents in Wilmington and his mother in Philadelphia last week, and heard Billy Sunday preach, as did also Mr. W. Thos. Jones.

The Methodist Protestant Church people are preparing to give an entertainment early in March, notice of which will be given later.

Mrs. Pennington is visiting her son, Leonard, and family.

Mr. William Clendaniel, who has been confined to the house for a few days, we are glad to say is out again.

Mr. Charles Clendaniel is visiting in Worcester county for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Warren, of Still Pond, spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. James S. Webb.

Miss Nellie Jones was given a surprise on Saturday evening, quite a large crowd present and all enjoyed themselves very much.

The young people met at the home of the Misses Grantling last week.

The Ladies' Aid of the M. P. Church will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Redmile on Friday next, 26th.

Miss Elizabeth Hague, of Still Pond, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Mabel Hague.

Miss Williams, who has been spending some time with Miss Mary Archibald, returned to her home near Centreville, Wednesday last.

Miss Lambert, of Chestertown, spent several days with the Misses Grantling and Miss Mable Hague.

Mr. Robt. Johnson is spending the week-end with his grandmother, Mrs. H. A. Bennett, of near Milford, Del., and will also visit Worcester county before his return.

Service in the Methodist Protestant Church Sunday, Feb. 21st, as follows: Sunday school, 9.30 A. M.; Preaching, 10.30 A. M. and 7.45 P. M. by Rev. Frank S. Cain, pastor; Christian Endeavor, 7.15 P. M.

Millington Items.

Miss Claire Ahern returned home last Monday, after spending several weeks with her sister, Mrs. D. B. Ford, of Chestertown. She was accompanied home by her niece, Kathryn Ford.

Mr. Lucian Massey moved this week from the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Kate Benson, to Miss Helen Rasin's house.

Mr. Clyde Robinson, of Bridgeville, Del., spent last Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson.

Mrs. Henry Hurtt, of Baltimore, was entertained this week by her sister-in-law, Miss Fannie Hurtt.

Miss Marguerite Ahern returned home last Sunday, after a ten days' stay with Chestertown friends.

Mrs. Sadie Bennett, of Lancaster, Pa., visited Mrs. J. B. W. Aydelotte, this week.

Services at Asbury M. E. Church tomorrow, Sunday, Feb. 21st, will be as follows: 10.30 A. M., preaching by the pastor, Rev. G. P. Smith; 2.30 P. M., Sunday school, subject: "The Death of Eli and His Sons;" 7.30 P. M., preaching by the pastor.

Mrs. F. C. Numbers spent last Saturday with Miss Mary Hackett, of Wilmington, Del.

Mrs. Disharoon, of Salisbury, Md., spent the past two weeks with her son, Mr. H. L. Disharoon.

Miss Etta Peters, of Massey, was the guest this week of Miss Mary Vansant.

Mr. William Burris, of near town, spent the week-end with his daughter, Mrs. George Bartlett, of Wilmington, Del.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanson Horsey and little son, Hanson, Jr., of Galena, spent this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lockerman.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of Asbury M. E. Church met on Thursday afternoon of last week at the home of Mrs. Ella White.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Ahern and daughter, Miss Ruby, visited friends in Wilmington, Del., and Philadelphia, Pa., last week.

Misses Beatrice and Cecilia Hollins entertained a number of their little friends on Wednesday from 4 to 6 P. M. in honor of their 10th birthday.

First Aid by Telephone

In case of sickness or accident a telephone in the home is always ready at hand to summon first aid, to consult the doctor, to order medical supplies, to receive inquiries from friends, to relieve anxiety.

Besides its emergency value it has a hundred other uses. Can you afford to be without telephone service in your home?

BIG BEN

ON THOSE NIGHT-LIKE MORNINGS

When you are going full-sleep-a-head at six twenty-five and must make the stop at six thirty—sharp—for a safe oversleep block signal—a five minute ring that means a quick stop, or ten jerks at the brakes—for plenty of time to "coal up" at the breakfast table and pull out for downtown on schedule—Big Ben.

Seven inches of honest clock value—well-wrought and well-balanced. His bell is jolly, deep-toned and clear. His bold, black hands and numerals show plainly in the dim six thirty light. Let us show you.
