LEGAL FALLACIES.

Ancient Superstitions That Tenaciously Cling to Life.

On the subject of "Some Popular Legal Superstitions" Case and Comment says that there are many misconceptions of legal doctrines, usually tenaciously held and sometimes rashly acted upon to the client's undoing, some of which are so grotesquely distorted that it is difficult to trace them to their origin. One of the most widely spread but fortunately harmless of these is that in order that a will disinheriting an heir may be valid he must be "cut off with a shilling." This notion is erroneous, but Blackstone finds a foundation for it in the civil law and says:

"The Romans were also wont to set aside testaments as being inofficiosa, deficient in natural duty, if they disinherited or totally passed by (without assigning a true, sufficient reason) any of the children of the testator. But if the child had any legacy, though ever so small, it was proof that the testator had not lost his memory or reason, which otherwise the law presumed, but was then presumed to have acted thus from substantial cause. Hence probably has arisen that groundless vulgar error of the necessity of leaving an heir a shilling, or some other express legacy, in order to disinherit him effectually."

Another erroneous idea, quite generally entertained, is that a signature is not binding unless written in ink.

Still another curious notion entertained in some localities is that an eyewitness may not testify to any occurrence seen by him "through glass." This is probably attributable to the fact that the imperfections of ancient window glass might deceive the onlooker as to what actually took place. The writer recalls an instance adduced by his instructor in physics while lecturing on the refraction of light of a windowpane in his house through which passersby on the opposite side of the square appeared, on coming opposite to a church, to leap over the steeple. A condition of this sort brought out on cross examination might affect the weight, though not the admissibility, of the evidence.

PERIL OF RUST.

A Constant Menace to Structures of Iron and Steel.

Among the many questions which the architect and builder are called upon to consider, none perhaps is more important than that relating to the corrosion of iron and steel. This tendency to decay is peculiar to these materials, since none of the ordinary metals exhibits it to any comparable degree, and it is so strong that an unprotected piece is soon reduced to a shapeless mass of rust. It is one thing to design and erect a mighty skyscraper, but an entirely different matter to protect it from those influences which, if allowed to do their work, would ruin the greatest structure in a short time.

It seems strange, in a way, that unless iron is well protected it is far less resistant to natural agencies than wood or other building materials. It is being used more and more in the fabrication of large buildings and other structures of a permanent type, and the length of their life, to say nothing of the safety of the people employed in and around them, depends on the success with which corrosion can be prevented.

Painters are constantly employed on such structures as the Brooklyn or Forth bridges scraping away rust spots and repainting. When serious rusting is once started it is very hard to check, and as it would inevitably lead to the destruction of the framework a collapse would be certain to occur sooner or later, probably with an appalling loss of life.—Engineering Magazine.

Curious Bread.

The bread that was served out during the siege of Genoa was a curious mixture. Marbot, who had to eat it or go without it, says it was "a horrible compound of damaged flour, sawdust, starch, hair powder, oatmeal, linseed, rancid nuts and other nasty substances, to which a little solidity was given by the admixture of a small portion of cocoa. Each loaf, moreover, was held together by little bits of wood, without which it would have fallen to powder. General Thiebault in his journal of the siege compares this bread to peat mingled with oil."—Argonaut.

Valley of Death.

The Valley of Death is in the island of Java. It is a crater of an extinct volcano, half a mile wide, filled with carbonic acid gas, which continually emanates from fissures in the bottom of the valley. The gas being invisible and entirely irrespirable, every living thing that descends is instantly suffocated. The ground about the crater is covered with bones.

Canal Locks.

Although the ancients knew the value of canals, they failed to hit on the simple device of the lock, which was not discovered till the fourteenth century. To this day the dispute has never been settled as to which country, Italy or Holland, is entitled to the credit of the invention.

A Polite Threat.

"Why do you always ask that regular customer if the razor hurts him?" asked one barber.

"Just as a gentle reminder," replied the other, "that if he forgets the tip it's liable to hurt him next time."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

One ungrateful man does an injury to all who are suffering.—Syrus.

IN THE CHURCHES.

An effort is being made to make tomorrow, Sunday "Billy Sunday" day in the M. E. Church. Sunday's hymns will be sung, while Rev. A. H. Covey will make one of his fine addresses.

Chestertown M. E. Church, Rev. Louis E. Barrett, D. D., pastor. Services next Sunday, March 21, as follows: 10.30 A. M., the pastor will preach a short sermon, followed by Sacramental services and Reception of Probationers; 2.15 P. M., Sabbath School and Pastor's Bible class; 7 P. M., a special service will be held, led by Mrs. Merrick Clements. Billy Sunday's Song Book will be used and the testimony of several ladies and gentlemen who have heard the noted Evangelist, will be given, followed by closing words by the pastor. All invited—come early and secure a good seat.

It is problematical whether Dr. L. E. Barrett will return to Chestertown. The Official Board has invited him to return during all four of the quarterly conferences of the year. It remains with the Bishop whether he returns or not. Dr. Barrett is one of the best orators that has ever filled a Chestertown pulpit and has the friendship and confidence of the entire community, which is unanimous in wishing him to return.

A very important meeting of the members of the Worton Presbyterian Church will take place on Sunday evening, March 21st. All who are interested in the life and continuation of this church are earnestly requested to be present. The absence of members from this meeting will be interpreted as an admission that they do not care whether the church lives or dies, that they desire to see the church close. Reports from the treasurer and financial secretary will be read.

It is hoped that all who have obligated themselves to support the Worton and Kennedyville Presbyterian Churches will fill such obligation in time for such to be embodied in the annual report which takes place the end of this month. Last year the pastor wrote a statement to each individual concerned; this year he is unable to do so. Will all therefore, kindly accept this notice as personal.

Mr. Clews will preach next Sunday on "Some Hindrances to Christian Living."
