WITH THT LADIES

When the Lincoln ladies (Auxiliary to the general alumni of the Pennsylvania university) stepped on the campus at the recent commencement, they had for presentation a check for $15,000 towards funds for the proposed guest house. Mrs. Dick Lockett of Atlantic City, national president, made the presentation.

Mrs. Alice G. Hunter of Washington was named chairman of the influential new areas committee of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, last week. She succeeds John Precope, administrator of Provident Hospital, Baltimore.

Off to Los Angeles, Calif., this week, will go the former Augusta Braxton Baker of Baltimore (now Mrs. Gordon Alexander of St. Albans, L.I., N.Y.) to garner the first E. P. Dutton John Marrae award ($1,000) for advanced study in the field of work with children. She's on the staff of the Counter Cullen branch of the New York Public Library.

Garnett Katherine Kene of NYC was the lone co-ed among the graduates of the school of engineering and architecture at Howard University, last week.

Another first: Arthur Allen George (son of the dean of the school of theology, Johnson C. Smith college) first to receive a master's degree in labor economics at the New School for Social Research, has been accepted at NYU for work on doctorate in social studies.

Cute Jewette Reynolds of Tuskegee, Ala. took nearly half of the student body votes to be elected "Miss Fisk 1954" at the Tennessee university, recently. And why not!

She has a thumb in practically every pie on the campus, including being a soprano in the famed Fisk Jubilee Singers, president of the Dormitory Council, member of the Student Council, soloist in the Fisk Choir, member of the Stagecrafters, columnist on the campus paper, etc, etc. etc.

When Mrs. Virginia Monteiro retired recently after teaching for 50 years in the Norfolk, Va. area. Her co - workers at the Ruffner junior high school gave a testimonial luncheon for her.

Come Monday, New York State Secretary of Labor Bertha Diggs will be cited by the Philadelphia chapter of the National Council of Women.

PEREGRINATORS

It took fast hunting for Mrs. Fred B. Bobo of Milwaukee, Wis. to see the graduation of two sons, taking medical degrees from Meharry at Nashville, Tenn. and Howard in Washington, last week. But she made it.

And a leisurely trip from the Virgin Islands brought Mrs. Bernice McIntosh to Washington for the commencement of her son-in-law and daughter, the Roland Middletons from Howard.

In the East, last week, was Mrs. Samuel Fuhr of Okmulgee, Okla. and children, Sandra and William, who are enroute to join Mr. Fuhr, a Point-4 agriculturist in Iran. Off to Germany, next month will go Anne Washington of St. Albans, L.I., N.Y., for a visit with her father, Herman Washington, now living in Frankfort.

Mrs. Minnie Turner of Durham, N.C., in Baltimore, last week, guested with Beth Johnson, en route to visit relatives in Washington.

Up from Calif. was Zephyr Moore Ramsey, Pasadena, attorney, for H.U. commencement. House guests with Helen Jackson in the Capital, Mrs. Laurie G. Parker, Baltimore, and Mrs. Maggie Stephen, New Jersey, are back from Savannah, Ga., where they joined 82 retired teachers being honored by the school department of that city.

CUPIDDOODLING

Dr. James M. Vaughan, 63-year-old widower, and Mrs. Alyce R. Mayo, 22 years his junior, took a quick jaunt from their Camden, N.J. homes, to be married in Baltimore, last week. The Rev. Reginald Daniels of the Madison Street Presbyterian church was officiant.

Centreville, Md. was the Greta Green for Vernon Wright and Sophia Coates of Dover. The Petersburg's (Va.) Mary Greene and Cpl. Bernard Thomas (he's son of the George Preston) changed vows in the Nation's Capital, last week.

Mrs. Carrie Hale Coppage of Memphis and Nashville, made public this week her marriage to Dr. J. W. Ross, prominent Memphis physician.

As a bridal gift Dr. Ross has presented Mrs. Ross with a nylon-interior, two - toned blue Fleetwood, Cadillac sedan. After June 10th, Dr. and Mrs. Ross will be at home in Peoria where he has been a practicing physician for more than fifteen years.

Formerly At Tuskegee

Mrs. Ross was nurse-in-charge of the Infantile Paralysis Unit at Tuskegee in 1948. For two years she was staff nurse at the West Tennessee Hospital.

An interesting educational career included nurse training at the Miller E. Hale Hospital in Nashville, study at Tennessee State University and the University Hospital in Oklahoma City.

Mrs. Ross is an honorary member of Sigma Gamma Rho, a member of the Modernistic Club in Nashville and the Social "B" and Newcomers Clubs, both of Memphis. She is a member of the First Baptist Church of Memphis and the First Baptist Church East Nashville, Nashville, Tennessee.

Marie Stone Bourne, that beauteous Texan, who is being sued for a divorce by her mate, Dr. Ulysses Bourne, of Frederick, Md., will have enough consolation to stem any tears that may flow . . . freedom, $10,000 and a seven-apartment - plus business unit-building according to the latest bulletin via the petite cover cloud.

In our cards-and-flowers department: Dr. Louis A. Johnson, Baltimore physician, is booked in Freedmen's hospital, Washington. Baltimore's first-line caterer, J. Logan Jenkins Jr. who has been ailing for a week or so, took a sudden turn, Wednesday, is in Johns Hopkins hospital.

The Lloyd Robinsons (Patricia Murphy of Baltimore) of Abelieley, Mass. have named their new daughter Robin Lydia. The new lady arrived on May 23rd, weighed 5 lbs. 7 oz. Is the first grandchild of Howard Murphy and Mrs. Maurice Dolo of Baltimore.

Fort Jay's 'WAC Of Month' Bride Of Lieutenant James

ROXBURY, Mass. — In one of the loveliest weddings of the current season, Miss Norma Warwick, daughter of Mrs. Mildred G. Warwick and the late Norman H. Warwick became the bride of Lt. Lindburg A. James, U.S.Army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon James of Los Angeles, Calif., at the Ebenezer Baptist Church, here, recently.

The Rev. William S. Ravenell, pastor, officiated.

Wears Blue Tulle

Given in marriage by her cousin, Harold L. Vaughan, the bride wore a gown of ice blue tulle over a matching satin with a finger tip veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gardenias.

Her attendants were Miss Mary Davis of Thomson, Ga., maid of honor, who wore yellow net over taffeta; Miss Juanita Riley and Mrs. Alex White of the Bronx, N.Y., bridesmaids, in gowns of orchid net over taffeta.

Simon James, brother of the bridegroom of Los Angeles, served as best man, while ushers were David Jeffries and Benjamin Logan.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Warwick wore rose net over taffeta with an orchid corsage and Mrs. James wore old rose lace with an orchid corsage.

Former WAC

The bride was, while a member of the Women's Army Corp, the "WAC of the Month" at Fort Jay, N.Y., where she served. The bridegroom attended Los Angeles City College prior to his entry into the U.S. Army.

After a honeymoon at Oak Bluffs, they will make their home in Los Angeles.

Same Method Works On All Hair Types

By JAMES L. HICKS

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Using colored models as her subjects, one of the nation's top hair stylists Tuesday demonstrated that fashionable coiffures do not require specific types of hair.

The demonstrator was "Ingerid" recognized as the nation's leading hair stylist. She put on her demonstration at the 42nd annual conference of the New York State Beauticians Association during its twelve-day meeting at the Theresa Hotel. An average of 25 beauticians from all points in the state, attended sessions daily.

Mrs. Maude Gadsen is founder and national president of the Association.

One of Ingerid's subjects was Mrs. Ella Oliver whose hair and other features closely resemble those of a white woman. Ingerid produced a long-handled razor and proceeded to expertly give Mrs. Oliver a "cap cut" which she described as the kind of hair cut that makes a woman of "29 look like a girl of 16."

Section Hair

Lecturing the women as she demonstrated, Ingerid then told them that they should always "section" the hair before cutting, that it should be divided into five sections with three sections in back and two in front.

The next step after sectioning the hair, she said, is to put a finger wave in the back and then cut along the bottom line of the wave. After that the crown is cut.

She told the women that the hair is shorter behind the ears and longer near the center in the back of the head into halves, she said, beginning at the left ear the hair should be cut four inches long. Then moving slightly to the right it should be cut 4½ inches. And at the center or dividing line it should be cut five inches.

She warned that after crossing the center line the order was reversed so that when one started to cut towards the right ear she should cut first 5five inches then 4½, then 4.

Information Plentiful

She further warned the women that national magazines now carry all kinds of technical information on how to cut hair and that women customers read this closely making it necessary for beauticians to know exactly what they are doing in order to satisfy them.

Ingerid then operated on another woman with hair more closely resembling that of colored people as a whole. She had no difficulty.

The women were told to offer "self assurance" to their customers in preventing new hair styles 'ingerid'told them to pick a "pace setter" and give her a new hair style. She said once the "pace setter" began to wear the new hairdo other women "will fall in line like sheep."

Her talk was the highlight of the busy conference which included beauty forums, a jewelry artists, dances, breakfasts, cocktail parties, sightseeing trips

Mrs. Clementine Hunter 'Primitive' Discovery

NEW YORK — From laundress to nationally famous artist is the story of Mrs. Clementine Hunter, of Louisiana, who took up painting at 66.

Mrs. Hunter, who lives in the country near Natchitoches, first discovered her artistic talent through her designs for patchwork quilts, depicting scenes from life in the South — river baptism, cotton picking, picnics under the trees. Sunday processions to church, and birthday parties.

Last fall, Mrs. Hunter had her first one-man show at the Saint Gaudy Gallery, St. Louis Mo. Prior to that time, a few examples of her work had been displayed in many of the scenes of country a large show of primitive paintings in the Arts and Crafts Club Gallery in New Orleans. There was also a display of her work at Melrose Plantation, where she was then employed as laundress, during a meeting of colored schoolteachers.

Mrs. Hunter is shown in a Look Magazine article this month, surrounded by her paintings and quilts. She uses as her personal outdoor art gallery the wall of cabin near her home. Recently, a New York art dealer expressed interest in her work and there are plans afoot in the Metropolitan market.

Of the painters of the self-taught "primitive" school, in which Mrs. Hunter's paintings are included, Look says that "they work as though nobody had ever before put color to canvas . . . They put in their paintings, but they paint them from memory."

HARLEM NURSES JOIN NAACP YOUTH COUNCIL

NEW YORK — Because they felt they "should contribute something more than plain gratitude," 100 student nurses at Harlem Hospital joined the Manhattan NAACP youth council, Herbert Wright, youth secretary of the Planned Parenthood Educational committee of the National Congress of Colored Parents and Teachers, member of the Washington League of Women Voters, member of the District of Columbia Conference of Christians and Jews and of the board of trustees of the Community Chest. Mrs. Hunter was cited by the Veterans of Foreign Wars last June for her work in community service.

Fathers Urged To Demonstrate Love For Their Children

UNION CITY, N.J.—Dr. Robert P. Odenwald, Washington psychiatrist, this week, took a slap at the father who becomes a "stranger to his children" because of over-emphasis on making money.

Writing on "Fathers Are V.I.P.'s" in the Catholic magazine Sign, Dr. Odenwald said: "The child's relationship is not to mother or father as separate entities; it is to the totality of their relationship as parents. The child should be brought up to a feeling of being an individual part of a unity which is his strength and guide."

The psychiatrist, who is director of the Child Center at Catholic University, added, "it is important for a child to identify himself early with the father" and that a father must give his children assurance of his love.

Wed In Tenn. KC Alumni

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Miss Novella Scruggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Scruggs of Madisonville, Tenn., and Paul Caldwell of this city were married recently at the home of the bride. The former Miss Scruggs was graduated from Knoxville College on June 3. Mr. Caldwell is a former Knoxville College student.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Jack Gaines and the wedding music was furnished by Mrs. Agnes Stevens of Sweetwater, Tenn., and by Miss Jamesena Greenwood of Knoxville. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballet length gown of white organdy and lace.

Mrs. Nellie Donahue, of Detroit, Mich., sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of peach organdy fashioned similar to the bride's and carried a bouquet of spring flowers. Miss Donahue, gowned in pastel shades of organdy identical to that with the dress of the maid of honor were: Mrs. Della Oliver, Misses Mary Ella Lester, Mary Lucille Lester and Ola Brown, all of Knoxville; Mrs. Alberta Upton Pickney, of Loudon, Tenn. and Miss Magnolia Henderson, Madisonville, sister of the bride.
